IS YOUR PICNIC BASKET HEATED? It's a bit chilly for a picnic, although this cheery sign is still inviting passers-by to stop for a bite among the snow-flocked forest. Winter is upon us, of course, and seems to be back to normal after several years of unseasonably warm Decembers and Januarys. But life goes on, with school in session and the Wisp at full tilt. No one could claim that life in Garrett County is uninteresting, at least weather-wise. Drive carefully, shovel prudently, and stay warm.

Blaze Damages Two-Story House In Friendsville

A wood stove is believed to be the cause of a fire that seriously damaged a two-story, single-family house in the Friendsville area last Thursday morning.

Volunteer firefighters from Friendsville, Accident, Deep Creek, Markleysburg, and Addison were summoned at 9:22 a.m. to respond to the home of Robert Friend, 64, located at 1786 Trap Run Road. Friend discovered the fire in a living room wall behind a wood stove and called 911 before exiting the wood-frame structure without injury.

County road workers assisted firefighters by clearing snow from the farm lane leading to the house and putting down cinders. According to Terry Spear of the Friendsville VFD, heavy smoke and flames were showing when the first unit arrived on the scene. Some 35 volunteers worked about 30 minutes to bring the blaze under control, but personnel remained on the scene until about 1 p.m. The house sustained major damage, and Friend moved in with relatives.

According to a report from Deputy Chief Fire Marshal Mark Bilger, the house is owned by Jerry Friend. The loss/damages are estimated to be $30,000.

Also responding to the scene was the county air cascade unit and the Northern Rescue Squad.

Suspended Term Handed To Man For Drug Plea

A Bloomington man who pleaded guilty to cocaine and marijuana possession was handed a pair of six-month suspended sentences during a recent Garrett County District Court hearing, with Judge Ralph Burnett presiding.

David Crockett Jr., 22, had initially been arrested in October by sheriff's deputies called to quell a noise disturbance coming from his Maryland Highway residence. Deputies noted a strong odor of burnt marijuana emanating from the front room of his apartment as they were speaking to him, and observed a quantity of marijuana and rolling papers lying in plain view.

The cocaine possession charge stemmed from an ensuing search of the apartment, during which two soda cans that had been fashioned into homemade smoking devices bearing burnt cocaine residue were found, along with a partially burnt marijuana cigarette.

Crockett faced additional charges of marijuana pos-

Public Hearing Set To Discuss Rural Legacy Plan In Accident

A proposal to establish a "rural legacy area" near Accident will the topic of discussion at a public information meeting, hosted by the Garrett County commissioners and planning commission, on Jan. 16 at 7 p.m. in the Accident Town Hall.

The purpose of the meeting will be for interested persons to learn about the Rural Legacy Program, and for the organizers to solicit participation in the program from landowners in the greater Accident area.

The Rural Legacy Program is a land preservation program that encourages owners of agricultural, forest, and natural resource land to sell conservation easements on their properties to permanently preserve and protect their properties from development. The program provides funding to purchase the conservation easements from willing sellers on private lands in exchange for permanently preserving the land from any more development.

All interested citizens are encouraged to attend the meeting.

"Santa" Stouffer Delivers Gifts To 693 Families

Lou Stouffer, Terra Alta, W.Va., known in the area as "the real" Santa Claus, delivered several thousand gifts to 693 families in need this year, and traveled between 4,000 and 5,000 miles in the process. He called on over 800 families last year, but did not have as many gifts available this year.

"I always have trouble getting things for teenagers," Stoulfer said. "There must have been 200 of them this year who didn't get anything from me."

Stouffer has portrayed St. Nicholas for some 20 years now, and is already collecting items for next year's holiday. New and/or good used items may be left at St. Mark's Lutheran Church in Oakland, or persons may telephone Stouffer at 304-789-6743 to arrange for pick-up.

Stouffer added that some persons left bags this year that contained mostly useless items. "I got four bags of stuff one day, and out of all of that I found one item that was suitable as a gift," he said. In fact, Stouffer has spent hundreds of dollars of his own money at the Preston County landfill disposing of donated items — everything from clothing to couches — that were useless.

"But I really want to thank all of those people who donated gifts and money this year," Stouffer said. "Without all of that help, there is no way I could do what I do. I really appreciate it, and I know a lot of children who do too."

Court Reports To Include School Bus Violations

The Garrett County District Court report of The Republican will now include dispositions of hearings involving persons cited for illegally passing school buses. Beginning with the Tuesday, Jan. 2, traffic court, hearings involving a guilty disposition to a violation of Maryland Motor Vehicle Law statute 21-706 will be published as part of the report.

The addition of this information comes after requests from officials with the Garrett County Sheriff's Office, and with the concurrence of the Garrett County Board of Education. "This is a very welcome development," commented Art Refosco, BOE director of transportation. "We're constantly looking for ways to inform the public about the importance of observing

Jennings Head Start Moves To Grantsville

The Jennings Head Start program will resume operation tomorrow morning in Grantsville at the Maranatha Assembly of God while air-quality testing continues at the Jennings Community Center. The Garrett County Community Action Committee has made arrangements for the 25 young participants to continue their program at the Grantsville church building through the end of this month, according to Pam Nelson, GCCAC's vice president for community services and family development.

The 32-year-old Jennings building has been closed since Dec. 18 because of complaints by staff members and children of various health-related concerns, including headaches, coughing, and other respiratory-related problems. Initial testing by the county's health department and Naylor's Contracting service have found no problems that could be contributing to the illnesses.

GCCAC director Duane Yoder has said that although he feels comfortable about the safety of the building, he will not resume the program at the Jennings location until the testing by Jenkins Environmental Inc. of Baltimore is complete. Those tests could take as much as a month or more.

Auto Body Shop Manager Faces Theft Charges

An Oakland man faces a number of theft charges stemming from allegations that he defrauded Loch Lynn Auto Body of over $7,000 in income and materials while employed as the shop manager.

Jamie Matthew Hauser, 25, was arrested Friday by the Garrett Bureau of Investigation on three counts of felony theft, one count of felony theft scheme, and four counts of misdemeanor theft. He stands accused of stealing $7,209.32 in cash, auto parts, auto paint, and tires from the East Oak Street business.

Hauser was employed as the shop's manager from June to November, accord-

County Road Crews Keeping Up With Winter

The winter weather on the Garrett County mountaintop is keeping the county roads department busy, according to Fred Police, roads superintendent, who gave his monthly update to the commissioners Tuesday. Commissioner chairman Fred Holliday said the department has performed well thus far, as there have been few complaints from the public concerning snow and ice removal.

So far, the roads department has spent about $562,000 on snow removal, including about $117,000 for overtime hours. Currently, there is about $312,000 left in this year's budget. Police reported that the crews were out on holidays, including Thanksgiving, Christmas, and New Year's, and that the night shift often works two or three hours overtime. The crews plowed and cindered roads for 26 days of December.

The weather this winter has been consistently cold and snowy, with windy conditions causing considerable drifting. Wintery weather began in November, and the three county garages have been open several weekends since then. A great amount of "anti-skid," or crushed gravel, has been used, and more is to be quarried when the temperatures increase slightly.

The forecast calls for continued wintery weather, as is expected on the mountaintop this time of year.

Fair Board Pres., Commissioners Discuss Plans For Exhibit Hall

A multipurpose exhibit hall is on the wish list of the Garrett County Fair Board, as reported this week to the county commissioners by Roger Glotfelty Jr., president of the board. Present for the meeting and supporting the idea were Duane Yoder, president of Community Action, and James Hinebaugh, director of the county's economic development office. Delegate George Edwards was also in attendance.

The idea has been discussed for several years, Glotfelty said, along with a number of other needed improvements at the fairgrounds in McHenry. The fair board has been successful in building new bleachers and other significant upgrades over the past several years, but renovations to the electrical, water, and sewer systems are also needed.

The proposed exhibit hall would be an enclosed building with a kitchen and bathrooms, and a large area for a wide range of uses. Farm shows, receptions, meetings, and even indoor soccer were some of the possibilities listed for the hall. It would be the primary property of the fair board, but would also be available to the county on a rental basis.

Yoder and Hinebaugh said the fair board generally works on its own without help from the county on its ventures. However, both men asserted that there are grants and other funding sources available through their respective offices and through the state.

"I feel fairly confident that if we work together on this, we could get almost all — or maybe even all — the money we need for the project," Yoder said.

Hinebaugh said he had been struck by some of the needs at the fairground when one of his children kept a horse there for the week.

"The fair board does an amazing job of keeping the grounds in shape and working with what they have, but Duane and I both felt there could be some avenues through our offices that could help fund some major improvements there," Hinebaugh said.

To get an idea of the cost of such a building, Yoder said he asked Doug Devlin to give an informal estimate. Devlin said the facility should be about 30,000 square feet in order to fulfill the various projected plans for it, and that it would most likely cost about $60 to $80 per square foot. So at an average of $70 per square foot, the hall would cost about $2.1 million.

Funding sources that could possibly be tapped for the project, mentioned by Yoder and Hinebaugh, included the Appalachian Regional Commission (ARC) and legislative bonds. However, Edwards was skeptical about pursuing a bond for it this year, as the commissioners are already asking for funds to help pay for some renovations to the courthouse.

The commissioners explained that as the new health department complex is completed, several health department offices currently in the courthouse will relocate to the new facility. Circuit Court Judge James Sherbin has requested that the state's attorney's office be moved from the newer section of the courthouse to the old, partly for convenience and partly for security reasons. Blood Drive Set; Emergency Appeal Issued For Donors

The American Red Cross Blood Services, Johnstown Region (located in Morgantown, W.Va.), is issuing an emergency appeal for blood donors. There will be a local blood drive on Friday, Jan. 5, at the American Legion, located along Memorial Drive in Oakland. The drive will be held from noon until 6 p.m.

Hospital use of blood products has increased, but the rate of donations has not kept pace, according to a Red Cross spokesperson. Collections are currently down and inventory is currently at 51%.

Garrett County Memorial Hospital receives its blood supply from the Johnstown region, the spokesperson said. All eligible repeat and first time donors are encouraged to give blood.

"Patients should never have to worry if there will be enough blood. It is the gift of life, and there is no substitute," said Bernadine Healy, president and CEO of the American Red Cross.

COUNTY NATIVE PENS BOOK — Reneida Thomas, a native of Friendsville, is the author of Loser's Three, her just-published first novel. The work brings together the lives of three people in a "bizarre triangle that created love, laughter, fun, sadness, changes in lifestyles, childish pranks, stirring emotions, jealousy, and eventually a series of tragedies that left all three losers. [The] powerful love story centers around a male character that uses a pen and paper to release his feelings and express what he needs to say to the one he loves." (From the book jacket notes.) The book is available through Wren Publishing, P.O. Box 624, Hopwood, PA 15445, and further information is available via e-mail at WRENpub@icavs.net. Thomas taught for 15 years in the Preston County, W.Va., school system, and also raised six children before focusing her energies on her literary avocation. Among the sources that have fed her creativity, the author cites the "Mom and Pop" country store her parents owned while she was growing up, where she "saw many facets of people and heard stories from all phases of life just being an observer behind the counter." Thomas now makes her home in Uniontown, Pa.

MAKING PLEA FOR BLOOD DONATIONS — The American Red Cross Blood Services, Johnstown Region (located in Morgantown, W.Va.), has issued an emergency plea for blood donors and has scheduled a blood drive on Friday, Jan. 5, at the American Legion in Oakland. The drive will be held from noon until 6 p.m. The need for blood is urgent, according to a Red Cross spokesperson, as the rate of donations has not kept pace with the required supply. Collections are currently down and inventory is at 51%. Pictured above is Suzan Clemens, left, donor resource field representative of the Greater Allegheny Region Blood Services, and Joyce Nutter, Garrett County Memorial Hospital's director of laboratory services.

The Garrett County Board of Education will hold its regular monthly meeting next Tuesday, Jan. 9, in the Board of Education meeting room. The first order of business will be the election of officers. The board will meet in closed session from 4:10 to 5:30 p.m. and reconvene in open session immediately thereafter.

The public is invited to attend. Time for public comment and participation on any topic will be at 4 p.m. and 7 p.m.

Fairmont Man Hospitalized After Mishap

Two Fairmont, W.Va., men were injured as a result of a Monday morning single-vehicle accident on Interstate 68, according to the Maryland State Police. One of the men remains hospitalized this morning at Cumberland Memorial Hospital in stable condition.

At approximately 7:27 a.m. a 2000 Chevrolet Impala drifted off westbound I-68 west of Finzel Road when the driver, Eugene Payne III, 22, apparently fell asleep at the wheel. The car went into the median strip, struck a guardrail, and rolled over several times before coming to rest on its wheels in the median. Both Payne and his passenger, Robert Antwann Jarvis, 21, were transported by the Frostburg Ambulance service to Cumberland Memorial, where Jarvis was admitted while Payne was treated for minor injuries and released.

A Thursday, Dec. 28, single-vehicle accident along Gleadale Road injured a Cumberland man, who was treated at Garrett Memorial Hospital and released that same afternoon.

David John Caporale, 29, was driving a 1994 Dodge van eastbound along Glendale Road east of Beckman's Peninsula Road when his vehicle's tires dropped off the side of the road, and the van slid on the shoulder and struck a tree with its side. The Southern Rescue Squad made the transport to the hospital, and the Deep Creek Volunteer Fire Company assisted at the scene.

Baltimore WQSR Will Broadcast From The Wisp

The Wisp Resort in McHenry will be the site of a live remote broadcast by Baltimore radio station WQSR when the Garrett County Chamber of Commerce hosts this promotional event on Saturday, Jan. 6, 1-3 p.m., taking Garrett County live to the airwaves of the greater Baltimore listening area.

WQSR personalities who will be on location at the Wisp include Steve Rouse of the morning show team "Rouse and Company," plus sportscaster Tom Davis. The broadcast will feature games such as sports trivia, with prizes and giveaways contributed by area businesses. This will be the second time that the well-known radio personalities have broadcast from the Wisp.

Chamber president Ken Wishnick said he developed the idea of inviting the radio team from Baltimore's most popular radio morning hosts to broadcast from the Wisp in order to present the festive atmosphere of an afternoon at the ski resort as part of a strategy to promote winter tourism in the county. "Last year's broadcast was very successful. During the promotion period, Garrett County was mentioned over 120 times on WQSR. The live remote broadcast really gave wide exposure to the sports and activities available to our winter visitors," he said.

The Wisp Ski Resort attracts people to Garrett County, who then learn about the many opportunities and attractions that the area has to offer, Wishnick said. "Once they are here, we use the many resources we have available at the Visitors Center to direct vacationers all around the county," he explained, adding that the Antique Guide was developed for this purpose and another specialty shopping guide is also on the planning boards.

Wishnick noted that the live broadcast will provide an opportunity for county residents to participate in the festivities of the afternoon and let the listening audience in the Baltimore area know more about Garrett County. "We hope many people from the community will stop by the broadcast for some of the activities and help us spread the word about the opportunities for vacation adventures in Garrett County this winter."

Garrett County businesses and organizations are cooperating on the arrangements for the WQSR visit to the area from Friday evening until Sunday. Railey Mountain Lake Vacations will provide accommodations and McClive's Restaurant will host dinner on Friday night; the Wisp Resort Hotel will provide a room for the broadcasters to use; the Wisp Ski Resort will provide ski passes; and the Maryland Department of Natural Resources will offer a horse-drawn sleigh ride and cross-country skiing at Herrington Manor State Park and Deep Creek Lake State Park.

Garrett County businesses were also able to purchase low-cost announcements for services and products to be aired as part of the two-week promotion package negotiated between the Chamber of Commerce and WQSR. Those businesses include Railey Mountain Lake Vacations, Coldwell Banker, A&A Resort Rentals, and Long Branch Saloon and Motel.

Job Skills Class To Be Reactivated By GCC In Feb.

After noticing a need for common skills in various workplaces in the community, the Employment Skills Training Program, which began during the Bausch and Lomb layoff of 1996, is going to be reactivated to offer training for businesses in the community.

The class will begin February 20 and will run until July 6. For eight hours a day, five days a week, individuals will learn call center customer service skills and data specialist skills.

"The class is ideal for displaced or laid-off workers," stated Julie Yoder, program director in Continuing Education.

Total cost for tuition is $1,350, and there is possible financial aid available. A workshop concerning this will be held on January 25.

Throughout the program, students will be offered internships at local businesses such as Merkle Response Services and Hobby House Press in Grantsville. The internships then could possibly turn into long-term employment.

The classes are taught by teachers from around the area and will also cover basic math and English skills. Even though it is part of the Continuing Education Program at Garrett Community College, the class is independent and has its own budget. There is a projected goal of 12 to 20 students for the class.

Registration is necessary. For more information, persons may contact Yoder at 301-387-3101.

MLP Man Flees Accident Scene; Charged By GCSO

A Mtn. Lake Park man was located at a relative's home by Garrett County sheriff's deputies after he fled the scene of an accident on Broadford Road Sunday night. He faces several charges in connection with the single-vehicle mishap, including driving while intoxicated (DWI).

John Wayne Pilkerton, 25, was traveling on Broadford Road at approximately 8 p.m. when he lost control of his 1993 Hyundai and struck a telephone pole. He walked away from his disabled car prior to deputies' arrival but was located shortly afterward at the residence of a family member along Foster Road.

Pilkerton was arrested and charged with DWI, leaving the scene of an accident, driving on a suspended license, and negligent driving. He was subsequently released from the Garrett County Detention Center on his own recognizance after appearing before a district court commissioner.

A two-vehicle collision on Oakland Drive last night resulted in charges being filed against an Oakland man.

Nathaniel Stephen Lake, 19, allegedly failed to stop at a stop sign while entering Oakland Drive from Deer Park Avenue at 8:40 p.m. His 1978 Ford Festiva struck a 1987 Plymouth van operated by Margaret Florence Kinch, 46, Mtn. Lake Park, which was traveling on Oakland Drive.

Sheriff's deputies charged Lake with failure to yield right of way, operating a vehicle without insurance, operating a vehicle without proper registration, and unlawful use of a license plate. As of this morning he remained incarcerated on a $500 bond as set by a district court commissioner.

Driver Charged By GCSO After Mishap Yesterday

An Oakland man faces charges after his car struck a stopped vehicle from behind on Route 39 early yesterday evening, slightly injuring the driver of the stopped vehicle, according to the Garrett County Sheriff's Office.

Jeffrey Allen Lewis, 18, was traveling on Route 39 east of Old Crellin Road at approximately 5:13 p.m. when his 1998 Ford Escort rear-ended another 1998 Ford Escort operated by Henry Lewis Niner, 61, that was stopped as Niner was waiting for other traffic to clear the roadway. Niner's Escort was shoved forward into the rear of the vehicle also waiting in front of him, a 2000 Ford Escape operated by Katherine Lou Harsh, 41, Oakland.

Niner was transported by the Southern Rescue Squad to Garrett Memorial Hospital, where he was treated and released. Neither Lewis nor Harsh were injured in the mishap. Lewis was deemed at fault and charged with failure to reduce speed to avoid a collision.

Assault Charge

earlier in the evening. The police report stated that Walden allegedly grabbed the woman by the hair banged her head against a wall, and made additional threats to strike her. She displayed fresh abrasion-type wounds consistent with her description of the events.

After his arrest for second degree assault, Walden was released from the Garrett County Detention Center on his own recognizance as deemed by a district court commissioner.

In other sheriff's news, a domestic dispute led to the arrest of a Crellin man on a destruction of property charge Monday. Andrew Mark Bell, 32, was taken into custody after he had allegedly broken a window, a door, and damaged the stove and kitchen cabinets of the residence that he shares with his mother, with whom he said he was angry. Bell was later released on his own recognizance.

William Harry Madigan, 40, Oakland, was arrested Saturday night for refusing to turn down loud music in his Lewis B. Naylor Drive apartment. After being processed on a charge of disturbing the peace, Madigan was released on his own recognizance.

In loving memory of
Marie Florence Parsons

Two tired eyes are sleeping,
Two willing hands are still,
For someone who suffered too long
Is resting in God's will.

In tears we saw you suffer,
We watched you fade away,
Our hearts were almost broken,
You fought so hard to stay.

But when we saw you sleeping,
So peacefully free from pain,
We couldn't wish you back
To suffer that again.

May you always walk in sunshine,
And God's love around you flow,
For the happiness you gave us
Nobody will ever know.

It broke my heart to loose you,
But you didn't go alone.
A part of me went with you
The day God called you home.

I love you and miss you very much
Your Granddaughter,

Police Arrest Man For DWI After Car Wreck

An Oakland man was arrested for driving while intoxicated (DWI) last Friday by the Oakland City Police following a one-car wreck near the Little Yough Bridge. Ronald Dewain Smith, 35, was operating a 1986 Ford truck eastbound on Rt. 39 when he apparently failed to negotiate a turn. His vehicle struck the guardrail on the right side of the road, causing the truck to overturn, according to the police report.

Smith was transported to the Garrett County Memorial Hospital, where he remains a patient in stable condition, according to a nursing supervisor. In addition to the DWI, police have also charged him with driving with a revoked license and violation of a court-imposed alcohol restriction.

Fire Sprinkler Installers Need State Licensing

As of January 1, 2000, state law required anyone who designs, installs, inspects, tests, repairs, or modifies fire sprinkler systems, in any type of building or structure, to be licensed to do so in the state of Maryland. The licensing process, which is administered by the Office of the State Fire Marshal, requires that each applicant provide information about one's professional credentials, background history, and insurance coverage.

This reminder comes one year after the effective date of the licensing requirement. The Office of the State Fire Marshal, in cooperation with local fire officials, will increase enforcement of the requirement this year. Anyone not in compliance with this law is guilty of a misdemeanor, which is punishable by a fine of $1,000, imprisonment for not more than 10 days, or both.

Licensing of fire sprinkler contractors is necessary because of the increased use of fire sprinklers in residential and commercial occupancies, as required by certain state and local laws. This requirement opened the door for new contractors to enter the largely unregulated fire sprinkler field. The State Fire Prevention Commission was mandated to adopt licensing and regulatory requirements for fire sprinkler system installation by 1997 legislation enacted by the state legislature. The commission, in turn, asked the state fire marshal to implement a licensing process and to serve as the enforcement authority in support of the law. Several local jurisdictions are authorized, by the state fire marshal, to enforce fire sprinkler and other state fire prevention laws.

For more information about fire sprinkler licensing, or for a copy of the license application and the empowering legislation, persons may contact the Northeast Regional Office of the State Fire Marshal at 410-836-4844.

ONLY A FEW SEATS REMAIN for Letters of Garrett County: Letters to the Editor, an original stage presentation based on letters to the editor of The Republican newspaper. Seven "readers" present the letters via various interpretations, all under the direction of Jane Avery. Avery "wrote" the show, or compiled it, by connecting by topic certain letters, gathered by herself and six other researchers. She also added some dialogue to segue between subjects, although most of what the audience hears has been taken directly from the pages of the county newspaper sometime in its nearly 124-year history. The show opened last weekend, and will be given again at Our Town Theatre on Jan. 5 and 6 at 8 p.m., and on Jan. 7 at 2 p.m. (Avery noted that the Jan. 6 showing is now sold out.) The program is being presented in part through a grant from Maryland Celebration 2000. Tickets to the show are $5 each. Persons may make ticket reservations by calling the theatre at 301-334-5640 and leaving a message. Pictured are the readers for the show. Discuss Plans include upgrades to the air-conditioning and sprinkler systems.

Edwards suggested that the commissioners seek funding assistance from the state's judicial system, in addition to the bond, for the courthouse project. As for the exhibit hall, the delegate felt the timing might not be right for seeking funding legislation this year. The consensus among those present was that delaying legislative action for one year will not hinder the plans for the building.

"The fair board is ready to commit to this project, no matter what," Glotfelty said, noting that the facility will enhance the fair events considerably and will eventually become self-sustaining. The money generated by the building could then be put toward renovation projects for the barns and other fair structures. It could also operate 12 months per year. "As it is right now, we can't have anything at the grounds in wintertime because we have no heat," Glotfelty said. "This building could be used year-round. We're ready to do it."

"This is the beginning of the groundwork for an overall project," Hinebaugh said, stating that the proposed facility will be a "key element in relieving the lake," which fits in with the county's efforts in developing other recreational pursuits that will take some focus away from Deep Creek Lake itself, and therefore alleviate some of the current overuse of the lake surface. "We don't want to see the enthusiasm lost for it," Hinebaugh said.

Commissioner Ernest Gregg said he did not want to see the plan falter, either, asserting that it could have a positive financial impact on the county. Commissioner Fred Holliday said he is also committed to the building project.

"Even if we don't do it this year, it will happen," Holliday said.

Glotfelty said the fair board hopes to consolidate the needs of the grounds, including the system upgrades, into the entire package that will include the new building. Yoder said Devlin is currently working on some schematic sketches of the facility and these drawings should be complete in a few weeks. The location of the new building has not been determined by the fair board.

Edwards said the board and other players in the project should prepare a more finalized proposal, with solid funding numbers.

"They're getting more strict every year with project funding," Edwards said of the General Assembly officials. "They want good numbers and detailed plans now before they will give up any funding for a project."

Holliday asked Yoder, Hinebaugh, and Glotfelty if they could continue the planning for the building, and the three said they would. He suggested that they continue the effort, and that they keep the commissioners informed as to their progress.

Spouting Off...

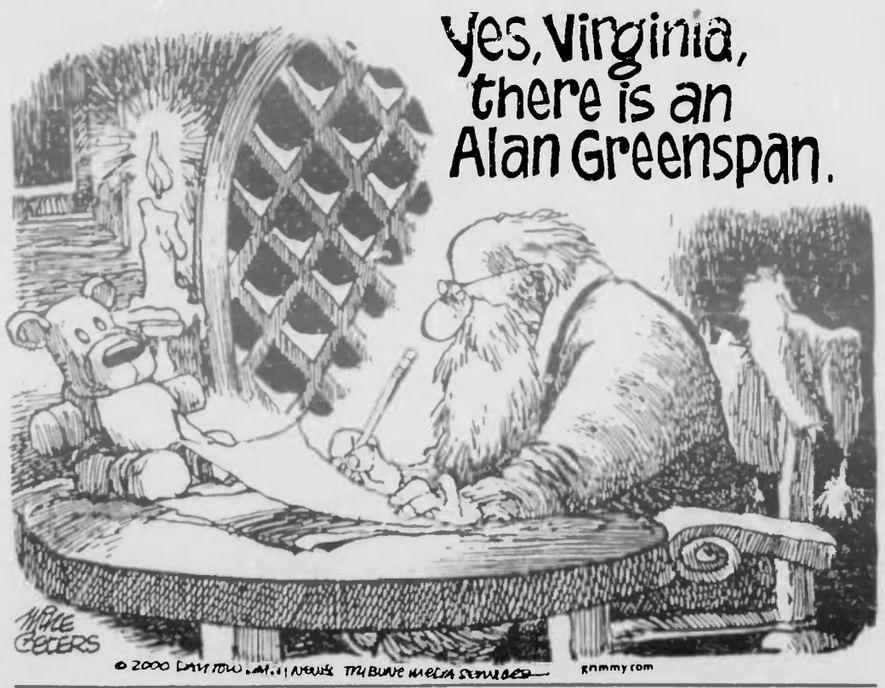
Participating in the original production of Letters to the Editor — The Letters of Garrett County at Our Town Theatre (three performances set for this weekend) has generated a myriad of thoughts and feelings for those of us in the cast and, we hope, for those who have already seen the play. In fact, several editorials could be generated from all of these realizations, brought to life through the words and opinions of scores of people over the past century and a quarter here in Garrett County, expressed via this newspaper.

We select but one of those thoughts for today, which is the realization of the extreme importance of freedom of speech, and how blessed we are to live in a nation that was founded upon such liberties. Venting one's feelings with the written or spoken word is one of the most therapeutic things one can do. Ask any counselor worth his/her salt, and learn that the expression of one's feelings is the single most important step in spiritual and mental healing. How wonderful it is that, in this country, we can vent those feelings in a public way (within libel guidelines), and not be arrested for it. If we hate the way our elected officials are governing, for example, we can say so, and in no uncertain terms. If we want to expound upon the virtues of our particular philosophies or political preferences, we can do so. We are allowed to have our own opinions, and we are allowed to express them.

It is always good to hear what others think about certain issues, as it helps us formulate our own position. But beyond that, who knows how many people have been helped by their being allowed to vent? Indeed, who knows how many lives have been saved because people in this country are allowed to spout off with words, sometimes preventing them from spouting off with clubs or guns.

And of course, there is much humor generated by many of the letters in this play, and as one letter writer on this page today so correctly states, laughter is truly a wonderful medicine.

So at the risk of possibly promoting our own product (The Republican), we urge our readers to try to get a seat at one of this weekend's performances of Letters to the Editor. (There aren't many left.) Jane Avery and several researchers have outdone themselves in compiling and connecting these marvelous pieces of local history and of who we are.



Letters to the Editor

To the Editor:

I have known Amanda Mayle all of her life. She is a very kind and caring person. She has the morals of a special young lady. She is loved deeply by all her family and friends.

Thank you,
Eric S. Sines

To the Editor:

Garrett County Habitat for Humanity's new director, Jeanne Blasher, and the Habitat board of directors offer heartfelt thanks to all Garrett County residents, organizations, and visitors who donated hundreds of volunteer hours and thousands of dollars for their projects in 2000. The support we receive is a testimony that poverty housing is unacceptable in our community and by working together we all can have decent affordable housing.

Jeanne Blasher
Executive Director
Garrett County Habitat for Humanity

To the Editor:

I can't believe last week's letter about Amanda Mayle from her father, "if that's what you call him." One thing for sure, it proved that 18 years ago Judge Thayer made a wise decision.

And the last time I looked, Amanda's last name is the same as yours. So the only other name could be Elsey. I didn't know we had that much clout in the community.

Thank you for making me realize that good people do count.

We do have good law enforcement in the county, as you probably know.

I won't lose sleep over insinuations; I'll just hire a lawyer.

Sincerely,
Rosetta Elsey

To the Editor:

I am writing in response to the letter by Mark L. Mayle. My sister is the girl who was driving the car the night that Brandy Talbot passed away. I am also one of Mark's so-called "lost daughters."

Mark wrote that he believes Judge Thayer had made the wrong decision in giving my mother custody of me and my sister. Well, I would like Garrett County to know that if it wouldn't have been for my father's alcohol abuse there would have never been a hearing for custody in the first place.

I would like to apologize to Judge Thayer for Mark's comment. I would also like to thank him for making the right decision 19 years ago. Mark had a chance to be a father to all of his daughters about six years ago and he chose his wife over all of us.

Mark also wrote that he believes justice has not been served. In my sister's case, justice has been served. Justice has not yet been served on my so-called father.

My sister has owned up to her responsibilities. I would like to say, what kind of father would do this to his child? Please do not write in our county paper saying you love us, and then put a knife in my sister's back.

The last thing I would like to write is that my sister and I are doing just fine without you.

Melissa L. Mayle

To the Editor:

I love The Republican, and nothing could be better than the editorial page, which is so marvelous. I regretfully, though, read of Peggy Santamaria's moving on. She has been so very good in all her work and especially so in our cause of the mentally ill, for which we are deeply grateful. We all wish you the very best, Peggy. I especially want to congratulate Jane Avery, producer of the Our Town Theatre production Letters to the Editor, an original production of the 124 years collection of letters to the editor of The Republican, and to all those people who played any part in the production of such a glorious presentation!

I have attended and thoroughly enjoyed live theatre productions over a span of 65 years, but never have I seen a live presentation that I enjoyed and laughed at as much as Letters to the Editor last Friday night. It was hilarious! To see what is supposed to be comedic relief today generally is sickeningly inadequate, and is instead an immoral mess, but to be able to enjoy a real comedic masterpiece as this is was glorious.

Laughter is like real medicine. If you haven't seen this play and you have a few free hours, I hope you'll go see it.

We have such real artistic talent here in our county. I hope and pray we can continue to capitalize further on some more of our original talent in the future. I am sorry I have neglected the arts in recent years due to health, but I shall try to do better.

Wouldn't it be great if we could utilize and promote our positive local capabilities and accentuate them rather than so many negative ones? Could we all try? I sure hope so!

Sincerely,
Mrs. Louise V. Harvey
Friendsville

To the Editor:

I have tried very hard not to respond to the letters in the paper this past month about my daughter, but when her so-called "loving" father wrote what he did, that was the last straw!

It doesn't take a rocket scientist to figure out that Mark was only using what happened to my daughter on his own behalf. Not once did he say anything in her defense. He just used what happened to publicly humiliate her, her family, and the court system.

There needs to be a correction on one thing Mark wrote. He has lost four daughters, not two!

This may also come as a big shock to Mark, but my daughter has the same last "name" as he does, so that didn't help her any.

As far as the "money" goes, I do believe he is referring to my parents, because my daughter and I always had to live on a low budget since he never helped with any child support.

I never did hear him or anyone else complain about what my parents had when they needed a roof over their heads, food, money, or a job!

I would like to know a few things from Mark: If you love your daughter as you wrote in the paper, then why haven't you called her or anyone in her family to see how she is doing? And where were you the whole time she was growing up?

How dare you publicly hurt my daughter like this!

My daughter is a very loving and caring person. She will have to live with what happened for the rest of her life. She never has or never will make light of what happened. There is nothing she can say or do that will change what happened. She is going through her own hell every day of her life.

So if it's justice you seek, Mark, there's some for you!

I would also like to thank Judge Thayer for making the right choice 19 years ago.

Sincerely,
Cathy Elsey Skipper
Oakland

To the Editor:

Well, "Letters to the Editor," the play at Our Town Theatre, confirmed what I have believed right along: the more things change, the more they stay the same—as far as politicians are concerned anyhow.

When Hub Swartzentruber's letter (dated March 6, 1952) was read, it struck me that most, if not all, problems in the county can be traced to politicians' actions or in this case inaction. And, of course, my statement applies to state and federal officials as well. When the current pile of politicians were running, they made all of the usual promises that would get them elected realizing that the collective memory of the electorate is very short indeed and, naturally, they broke many of those promises.

The play was very funny and I thoroughly enjoyed it, but this particular letter was for me, the most poignant; it actually brought tears to my eyes. And that feeling was quickly replaced with a sense of anger towards the politicians and ourselves for letting them get away with this kind of treatment of the people whom they are supposed to be representing. Almost 50 years later that letter still applies.

You have all heard the politicians over the years saying that there just isn't any money available for things that would directly benefit young people. At the same time they are able to find millions upon millions for people who already have more than they can possibly spend, all the while telling you that somehow it will trickle down and benefit the people. Primarily, my anger is directed at the lying politicians, but as I said before, we all share the blame for letting them get away with it.

I have some ideas on how we can hold their feet to the fire and perhaps get some action. If anyone is interested, please write to me at P.O. Box 321, McHenry, MD 21541. Complaining to your friends and neighbors won't get the job done.

George Falter, Founder Garrett County Chamber of People

P.S. If possible, I would like The Republican to re-publish Hub Swartzentruber's letter.

Mr. Swartzentruber's letter of March 6, 1952, is as follows:

Dear Editor:

As I was standing by the window the other day, I saw the State Police taking two teenage boys to the Squire's office, and a little later the Sheriff with another teenage boy, going into the Squire's. Of course, you know why they were picked up. As I saw these boys with the officers, I could not help but feel a sense of guilt. "Perhaps you would ask, "Why should you feel guilty? Was one of them your son?" No. "Or was one of them a relative of yours?" No. "Then why should you feel responsible or guilty?"

In the past year or so, we have read a great deal about developing Garrett County into a recreational area, which I think is a great idea, but I wonder if we as citizens of Oakland and the surrounding communities are not perhaps too much like the old savings, "The shoemaker's children go barefooted," or "The carpenter's wife has no chairs."

Yes, we are striving to develop our county as a recreational center for people of other cities, counties, states, but what has been done for our own teenagers? That is why I feel guilty. I firmly believe if there would have been a recreational building where these boys could have gone each evening for one or two hours, this would not have taken place. And this shall not mar my belief or faith in these boys. I still say they are good boys if given a chance and opportunity to have some wholesome recreation.

Hub Swartzentruber

THE THIRD MILLENNIUM

Welcome to the third millennium! There are folks who think that they (and we) have been living in the third millennium for a year now. They are, of course, people who cannot count. Since the first millennium began with the year of our Lord 1, by logical (not to mention arithmetical) necessity the second millennium began in the year 1001 and the third in the year 2001.

Perhaps this is an appropriate occasion to inveigh against the increasing use of C.E. and B.C.E. instead of A.D. and B.C. A.D. is the abbreviation for "anno domini" the Latin for "in the year of the Lord." B.C. stands simply for "before Christ." Those designations arise from the simple fact that the calendar we use was created by Pope St. Gregory the Great about the year 600 A.D., reckoning all of time from the date, as was supposed, of our Saviour's birth.

As it happens, the reckoning of time was sufficiently inaccurate that historians now believe the likeliest dates for the birth of Jesus are 4-6 B.C. The original error (not to be confused with original sin) is itself evidence of the need for a radical reform of the calendar. Prior to Pope St. Gregory's reform, time was reckoned in regnal years, the 15th year in the reign of King So-and-so. After thousands of So-and-sos in a hundred different countries, it is amazing that anyone was able to keep track of what year it was.

The great atheist Bertrand Russell wrote an essay on Christianity in which he said that the only contribution Christianity had ever made to the world was the creation of a uniform calendar. Now the many and not-so-great atheists want to deprive Christianity even of this meager achievement by renaming A.D. to C.E. and B.C. to B.C.E.

Even that would not be so bad if C.E. abbreviated "Christian Era," but it does not. It abbreviates "Common Era," thereby completely cutting out the Christian origins of the calendar. B.C.E. stands, naturally, for "Before the Common Era." Thus Orwellian Newspeak advances against Christianity and the civilization which Christianity produced.

Monday was New Year's Day and the Feast of the Circumcision. In one way I began the millennium in the same way I have begun every year for 15 years now. I was at home to the family of my great-grandfather and to a few other Wilson cousins with whom I share an even earlier common ancestor.

As much as I enjoy seeing the kin who turn up to these annual gatherings, the sweetest communication I had was from a cousin who did not attend. She is a young first cousin, once-removed, who is struggling to make life work. She was grateful to have been remembered, and wrote a lovely letter to me telling about her marriage and motherhood. As I read her letter, my mind was filled with the image of her as an 8-year-old girl sitting on my lap as I told her (made-up) stories about the circus animals which had escaped, and were hiding on my mother's farm.

She was much on my mind when I did something on New Year's Day which I have never done before. I left my home early evening to head for my church where I led a contemplative prayer service, which we hold on the first Monday of each month. This was the first time that the day for contemplative prayer coincided with the day for a new year. It was a fitting exercise for the first day of a new millennium.

The service consists of 29 minutes of graduated silence, interspersed with psalms, scripture, and prayers, about 50 minutes altogether. There are few experiences more powerful than a group of Christians gathered in silence which is focused on the Lord of life, you know, the guy responsible for the calendar.

I began the year, the century, the millennium, by thinking of two families of three, that one long ago with a little boy who was cut in a tender place, and the second, a modern American family, struggling to make life work.

Thus began the year of our Lord 2001.

Bus Violations

flashing school bus lights, and this public service on the part of The Republican will be an important part of that ongoing effort."

According to Maryland statute, "If a school vehicle has stopped on a roadway and is operating alternately flashing red lights . . . , the driver of any other vehicle meeting or overtaking the school vehicle shall stop at least 20 feet" from the front of a schoolbus if meeting the vehicle and the same distance from the rear if approaching from behind. Violations may be noted by school bus drivers or other motorists who witness such an incident, who are encouraged to contact a law enforcement agency as soon as possible with the following information:

- the license number and color of the vehicle involved, and any other identifying characteristics, such as vehicle type;
- a description (to the extent possible) of the driver; and
- the time and location at which the violation occurred.

The statute also contains a provision indicating that a warning statement can be issued to the registered owner of a violating vehicle if the identity of the vehicle's operator cannot be established.

The offense is considered a "serious" traffic violation by the judicial system. The maximum penalty for illegally passing a stopped schoolbus with red flashers operating is a $270 fine and two points on the driver's record.

"We've revamped a lot of our procedures to try to ensure children's safety," Refosco said. "We don't allow elementary school children to cross Garrett Highway on foot to access a bus. Children of that age too often take for granted that when a school bus is stopped with flashing red lights, then motorists will automatically stop.

"This school year also marks the first year we have taken a school bus safety program to each of the elementary schools in the county. We show a film and then discuss proper procedures and cautions with the children. It's been very well-received so far," the transportation director concluded.

MISS CONGENIALITY

Rated PG-13 - Running Time: 1:51 - Released 12/22/00

Sandra Bullock, longtime star and recent producer of fluffy, inconsequential comedies, continues unabated with the fluffy and inconsequential Miss Congeniality, written by Marc Lawrence (Forces of Nature), modeling industry exec Katie Ford, and TV writer Caryn Lucas, and directed by Donald Petrie, who has helmed comedies such as Grumpy Old Men and My Favorite Martian. Taking a potshot at the beauty pageant industry, Miss Congeniality is entertainment as light as a well-shaped hairdo, fitted out with skin-deep characterizations and a plot that has the all complexity of a G-string bikini.

Bullock plays Gracie Hart, a feminist FBI agent assigned to go undercover at the Miss United States pageant, where a crafty serial killer is expected to make his next strike. The killer has a habit of sending clue-filled riddles to the agency right before each crime, and his latest epistle implies that he (or she) is targeting the pageant, perhaps even posing as one of the contestants. Although Gracie has a history of being clumsy, unkempt, argumentative, and a pig (she even snorts when she laughs), and is appalled at the idea of associating with 49 airheads, she is chosen for the job for two reasons: 1) she is a self-defense expert, and 2) she's the only agent with a body capable of competing in the swimsuit competition.

Gracie's superior on the case, Eric (Benjamin Bratt), makes a deal with pageant coordinator and former Miss United States Kathy Morningside (Candice Bergen) to fix the pageant so "Gracie Lou Freebush," as Miss New Jersey, will make it to the top 5 but not win the contest. But in order to transform her into a believable candidate, renowned beauty consultant Victor Melling (Michael Caine) is hired to do the mother of all makeovers. While she is being beautified and taught how to walk, talk, eat, etc., and practicing dance numbers during the night, Gracie gets to know the other contestants and tries to figure out whether the killer is among their ranks. Soon, however, she finds herself making friends with many of the girls, especially the ditzy Cheryl (Heather Burns), who represents Rhode Island. By the time of the pageant, her attitude toward the exploitative pageant industry and its brainless contestants has changed.

This film is the cotton candy of the movie industry. Bullock does an adequate job, and Bergen and William Shatner, who plays the Bert Parks-type pageant emcee, are ridiculously stereotypical. Bratt is bland as Gracie's superior and the mild romance between them seems tacked on as if director Petrie thought the film wasn't complete without a drippy kiss at the end. Michael Caine is perhaps the most amusing character, generally stealing scenes throughout, but overall, the film is strictly video rental material. ★★★½

Flu Shots Can Still Be Effective For Season Peak

Persons who have not yet received an influenza vaccination should be aware that getting the shot even as late as this month could prevent the onset of a bout with the disease. Although the best time to be immunized is before the end of November, the vaccine is still effective and worthwhile getting up through January 15, according to a spokesperson for CareFirst BlueCross BlueShield. Getting vaccinated in the near future will mean that one's immunity level will peak through the height of the remaining influenza season, which generally draws to an end in April.

Locally the flu vaccination shot is available at area doctor's offices and at the Garrett County Health Department office at 2008 Maryland Highway in Mtn. Lake Park. Vaccinations will be offered from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. each Tuesday on a walk-in basis, for as long as the supply lasts. The cost of a flu shot provided by the health department is $10, and if the recipient has a Medicare card that entitity will be billed for the service.

Research studies from the National Institute for Health indicate flu vaccines reduce the risk of hospitalization by 70 percent and reduce deaths by 85 percent among high risk groups. The influenza vaccine is given as one injection in the upper arm of adults. For children under the age of 9 who are receiving the vaccine for the first time, it is given in two injections about a month apart. It takes about one to three weeks after a person has been vaccinated for the immunization to take effect.

A flu shot may save one's life, according to the American Association of Family Physicians, as nearly 200,000 people are hospitalized each year from the flu. More than half of those hospitalized are not even aware they have a life-threatening infection until serious complications, such as pneumonia, develop. Worse yet, the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention project that 20,000 people will die from complications of the flu this year alone.

"The flu is a viral infection that attacks the respiratory system," explained Daniel J. Winn, president of Potomac Physicians, P.A., a physician's practice affiliated with CareFirst BlueCross BlueShield. "It is an airborne disease, which is expelled when an infected person coughs, sneezes, talks, or has direct hand contact. Common warning signs of the flu include chills, dry cough, fatigue, fever, nasal congestion, muscle tenderness, and loss of appetite."

Three types of virus can cause the flu — influenza A, B, or C. Influenza Type A is responsible for the deadly worldwide influenza pandemic, but usually recurs every 10 to 40 years. Influenza B is responsible for more localized outbreaks which occur every 3 to 15 years. Unlike influenza Types A and B, Type C is a more stable virus. It causes mild respiratory illness, but no other symptoms. Although the flu may exhibit symptoms common to a cold, it tends to be more severe and can lead to fatal complications.

"It is important for people to be aware of how flu symptoms differ from those of a cold so that they do not infect others at risk of developing serious complications from an influenza infection," said Dr. Winn. "The highest risk groups include people 65 years or older, residents of chronic care and nursing facilities, persons with chronic disorders, suppressed immune systems, or those who are receiving long-term aspirin therapy. Others at risk are women in their second or third trimester of pregnancy during influenza season and people who have direct contact with the general public."

Most importantly, Winn asserted, persons should consult with their doctor as to whether they should receive the vaccine. "Other practical steps one can take to avoid a severe case of the flu are practicing good hygiene, such as handwashing, eating the right foods, getting an adequate amount of rest, and regularly exercising. These are the key elements to a healthy immune system," said Winn.

Tobacco-Free Coalition Will Meet Jan. 17

The Garrett County Tobacco-Free Coalition will hold a meeting concerning tobacco use and the effect that it has on individuals who use it. The meeting will take place Wednesday, Jan. 17, from noon until 1:30 p.m. at the G.W. Plaza, east of Mtn. Lake Park.

At that time a draft of the tobacco control plan for the Cigarette Restitution Funds will be presented.

Michael Gibbons of Garrett County Health Department Outreach stated, "We encourage both prevention and cessation, and can offer some helpful information for the smoker who is really ready to quit using and become 'smoke free' for one's own health as well as the well-being of one's family."

In a press release, Gibbons also provided some interesting facts for those who need some incentive to quit smoking or for those who may choose to begin smoking.

*Second-hand smoke claims the lives of 50,000 people every year.

*Over 400,000 people in the U.S. die each year due to smoking-related illness.

*A pack-a-day smoker will spend approximately $1,200 a year on cigarettes.

Glendening Wins 2000 Empty Ashtray Award

In recognition of Maryland's efforts to combat tobacco use, the Association of State and Territorial Health Officials (ASTHO) has named Maryland governor Parris N. Glendening the winner of its 2000 Empty Ashtray Award. The award is presented annually by the nation's chief public health officials in honor of the late Florida governor Lawton Chiles, who spearheaded efforts to curb tobacco use among minors.

"We congratulate Governor Glendening for the extraordinary leadership he has provided to protect public health and reduce the human and economic costs that result from tobacco use," said ASTHO executive director George E. Hardy Jr., M.D. "Governor Glendening's actions will result in a healthier Maryland and will serve as a model for the rest of the nation."

Glendening was selected for the award because of his leadership in addressing the public health problem of tobacco use, including his plan to use a significant portion of the Maryland's share of the tobacco settlement agreement to promote statewide, community-based tobacco control, cessation, and health care. The governor has promoted strong public policy to prevent the promotion and sale of tobacco products to minors and to encourage current smokers to quit. He also has led initiatives in the state of Maryland to increase tobacco excise taxes, promote smoke-free regulations, regulate the use of tobacco products, and encourage Maryland tobacco farmers to grow other crops.

"This award is a testament to the hard work and perseverance of many Marylanders who fight every day to stem the public health epidemic of tobacco use — the nation's single most preventable cause of disease, disability, and death," said the governor. "I am truly honored by this recognition and I thank the Association of State and Territorial Health Officials for this award and their efforts to eliminate tobacco and protect the health of all Americans."

This is the second year for ASTHO's Empty Ashtray Award, which was presented in 1999 to Rhea Grafton Chiles, wife of the late Florida governor Lawton Chiles. Ms. Chiles was recognized by the association for her work to involve youth in the Florida Tobacco Program and her dedication to a tobacco-free society.

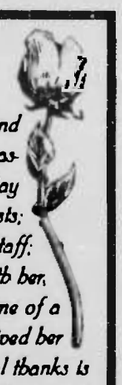
Odessa Evelyn (Frantz) DeWitt



We would like to thank the staff at Cuppett and Weeks Nursing Home for their kind and compassionate care of Evelyn DeWitt during her stay there. This includes the nurses, aides, therapists; housekeeping, dietary, activities, administrative staff; and everyone else who took time out to work with her, visit her, and help her through this most trying time of a person's life. She was a very special lady who lived her life the way a lot of us wish we could. A special thanks is given to Doctor Walter Naumann for his tireless watch over her, as he watches over all the others in his care. We would also like to express our gratitude to Pastor Joe Spiker and to the Newman Funeral Home for their dignified efforts in saying a final farewell to Mom. Now that she is at rest and has reached her final destination, we grieve at her passing, but find peace that her long struggle has ended.

Thank you again.

Cortland Homes Resident Given Stay At Wisp

A Thomas nursing home resident had the opportunity to spend a complimentary night at the Wisp Resort Hotel recently through the Second Wind Dreams Program of Cortland Acres Nursing Home. Zerline Vandergrift has had a "long held dream of spending a night in a hotel," said Lisa Roth, a spokesperson for Cortland Acres.

The Second Wind Dreams program is designed to identify the dreams of the nursing home's residents and to make them happen. Program coordinators Nila Smith and Kim Ashby described the cooperation and support from the staff and management of the Wisp and The Place at the Base of the Face as "one of their best experiences in making dreams come true," according to Roth.

"A number of very special people made this dream possible," the spokesperson noted. "The management of the Wisp most graciously provided free lodging, [and] the staff of the Wisp made all the arrangements for food prepared by The Place." Upon arriving at the Wisp, Vandergrift and the two "dream weavers" who accompanied her for the stay were greeted by Rolland Palmer and Lisa Ratliff, the Wisp's managers. The service included flowers, candles, and table arrangements set up by staffers Michael Fratz and Wendy Friend.

"Everyone and everything was wonderful," Vandergrift commented. Roth noted that even though Vandergrift was offered use of the resort's indoor pool, she chose instead to enjoy the surroundings of the room and the company of her dream weavers. "She did consent to a trip to the Garrett Cinema, where she thoroughly enjoyed The Grinch Who Stole Christmas," the spokesperson added.

So far various Second Wind Dreams participants have traveled to Pittsburgh for Pirates baseball games, gone for rides in 18-wheelers, gone snow tubing on ski slopes, and hosted old-time tea parties. A resident's wish yet to be fulfilled is for a ride in a helicopter. Persons interested in further information on the program may contact Smith or Ashby of Cortland Acres Nursing Home at 304-463-4181.

MOUNTAINEERS ENTERTAIN

The Eglon Mountaineer 4-H Club made its annual trip to Cortland Acres Nursing Home on Dec. 28 to provide a party for December birthday residents there. The club entertained with a program, followed Christmas carols and refreshments. They also took cards and gifts for "adopted" patients.

PERSONAL MENTION

Wilma Rembold, Aurora, has recently become a great-grandmother again with the Dec. 22 birth of twins to David and Dana Rembold. James David Rembold III weighed 5 pounds, and Megan Elizabeth Rembold weighed 3 pounds. Megan had to remain at the hospital while gaining two pounds before being released. But both are now reportedly doing well. The twins have five siblings. Jim and Judy Rembold are the paternal grandparents.

Friends here were notified of the Dec. 28 death of David Haddix of Elkins. He and his wife Pat, and son Levi, were former residents of Cash Valley. Death was attributed to cancer.

Charles Strawser of Rowlesburg was a Dec. 23 visitor in Eglon with Barbara Heckert.

Cecil and Kim Miller were Christmas visitors at Horse Shoe Run with their parents, David and Kathy Collins, David and Debbie, and Mary Miller.

Christmas Day guests of Carl and Cynthia Bachtel, and Adam and Mark, Horse Shoe Run, were Elda "Sue" Fike, Robert and Carolyn Harsh, Sandy Gravelle, See Gee Kisner, Brian, Trish, and Hannah Wilt, and Alan and Patty Wilt and children, Ashley, Anthony, Carrie, Amanda, Kevin, and Jeff. Keith and Delores Douglas, Aurora, went to Ohio on Dec. 26, where they visited their daughter and family, Teresa, John, and Cody Downs, at Rock Bridge. They were joined there by their other children, Darrell, Kelly, Amanda, Danielle, and Blake Douglas of New Bremen, and Lisa Douglas and friend Terry. Upon their return, the Douglas grandchildren accompanied them for a short visit, and their grandfather returned them to their Rock Bridge home on Jan. 1.

Many local families spent the holidays with family gatherings. Included is the Snyder family, children of the late Roy and Loretta Snyder, who had a Saturday New Year's dinner at the home of Jackie and Alma Snyder.

Mrs. Lois Adams returned Dec. 28 to her home at Aurora following recuperation from Dec. 22 surgery.

Those who are a part of the mission to Sucre, Bolivia, left Saturday for that community, laden with supplies for the orphanage there. Among them are Leonard Snyder of Amboy and Mark Teets of Eglon.

Mary Rembold and her sons, Shawn and Craig, are planning to move into their new mobile home temporarily located at the garage location of her brother-in-law, Bill Hauser, Stemple Ridge. This week it should be ready for occupancy.

Kevin Teets and Talissa Edwards of Cleveland were accompanied on a visit to the Horse Shoe Run home of Kevin's parents, Dec. 28-31, by Irish friends Paul Callan, Fiona Crawley, Dublin, and Roger Martin, Galway. Aaron Teets has begun a new job with Century III Engineers in Oakland.

Students from various colleges have spent the holidays at home and are now returning to their classes. Elizabeth Wotring is home from Greenville College in Illinois, and at the home of her parents, Tom and Carolyn Wotring, Aurora.

Grant Memorial Hosp. Has Surplus Of Flu Vaccine

Grant Memorial Hospital and the health departments in Grant, Hardy, and Pendleton counties have a small surplus of flu vaccine left. The four groups will be offering flu shots to all those who have not yet received their vaccination against the flu, as long as the vaccine supply lasts.

The Centers for Disease Control said that those vaccinated through January will still be protected against the flu. They recommend that everyone be vaccinated against the flu, especially the very young, those with chronic illnesses, and those 55 and older. The fees charged for the vaccinations will follow the guidelines set by the WV Department of Health and Human Resources.

Those coming to Grant Memorial Hospital for their flu shot should come to the Emergency Department waiting room and report to the registration desk. For more information about the flu or flu shots, persons may call their local health department or Grant Memorial Hospital.

ing to Jeff Murphy, lead detective on the case. Hauser's responsibilities included writing estimates for body work, and he reportedly took in extra jobs on the side that he personally repaired after regular business hours.

Hauser allegedly charged paint and materials for those side jobs to the business account, and is also suspected of charging parts for his own personal vehicle to the business account as well. In his capacity as payroll manager he also was responsible for paying employee salaries, and is suspected of having overpaid his own salary on several occasions.

Following his arrest, Hauser was released from the Garrett County Detention Center when he posted a $10,000 unsecured bond as set by a district court commissioner.

Arthritis Pain Mystery Solved

Horse Liniment is the secret!

OCALA, Fl. -- An ingredient used to treat inflammation in thoroughbred racehorse legs, is now recognized as safe and effective for human use. The ingredient has been formulated into a product called ARTH-Rx™ and comes in a strength designed for humans. Researchers are excited and say the formula can relieve arthritis pain for millions.

Developed by the Phillips Gull Corporation, ARTH-Rx is a breakthrough in the treatment of painful disorders ranging from minor aches and pains to more serious conditions such as arthritis, bursitis, rheumatism, tendonitis, backache and more.

Scientists suggest that ARTH-Rx works by intercepting the pain messenger substance that sends pain signals to the brain. Although the mechanism is not totally clear, pain is relieved in the affected area because the pain signal actually disappears.

ARTH-Rx is the only product on the market with Neurocaine and is available in a convenient, pleasant scented roll-on applicator without a prescription. According to a spokesperson for the company, ARTH-Rx is available in pharmacies, nutrition stores, and even some feed stores. ARTH-Rx can also be ordered by calling 1-800-729-8446. © 2000 PGC session, drug paraphernalia possession, and disorderly conduct were not prosecuted by the state's attorney's office.

In other district court news, an Oakland man who faced a charge of marijuana possession pleaded guilty and was convicted, but avoided further sanctions.

John Tearon Coran, 28, was arrested by sheriff's deputies following a May traffic stop along Fingerboard Road. A bag of marijuana was found during a vehicle search. No jail sentence or monetary fine was imposed by the judge.

Another Oakland man was not prosecuted on drug charges stemming from a pair of separate arrests late this past summer.

Jacob Eugene Lynch, 18, faced two charges each of possession of marijuana and drug paraphernalia. The first set of charges stemmed from his August arrest by sheriff's deputies, who located suspected marijuana and smoking pipes in a backpack he was carrying; the second set of charges came in the wake of a September arrest by Oakland police officers, who uncovered suspected marijuana and a smoking pipe in his vehicle, which they had stopped on High Street.

Clayton Philip Nolle, 18, Richmond, Va., was not prosecuted on possession of marijuana and drug paraphernalia charges filed after his August arrest by sheriff's deputies. A traffic stop on Hutton Road had led to Nolde's voluntary handover of a bag of suspected marijuana and a smoking pipe.

Bridget Ann Stansbury, 38, Accident, was not prosecuted on charges of forgery, uttering a false document, and felony theft. She had been arrested by the Garrett Bureau of Investigation in October after she allegedly forged the signature on a Social Security check and reportedly cashed it at an area bank.

David Richard Armstrong, 28, Kitzmiller, was deemed not guilty of three counts of second degree assault.

Rams Defeat Linganore And Catonsville To Win Tourney

Victories over Linganore and Catonsville gave the members of the Southern High School boys' varsity team the championship of their own annual Snowball Classic, played Friday and Saturday evenings. The Rams topped Linganore on Friday, 59-47, and whipped Catonsville in the title game on Saturday, 60-43.

Catonsville earned a spot in the championship game by defeating Frankfort on Friday, 76-59. Linganore stopped the Falcons in Saturday's consolation contest, 77-47.

It was another outstanding effort at the free throw line that led to the Rams' win over Linganore on Friday, as they converted 23 of 30 attempts, while Linganore made good on seven of 11 opportunities. The Lancers finished with a 20-18 edge in field goals.

Ricky Reams, who led the Rams in scoring with a game-high 18 points, hit six of seven free throws, plus four steals, in the final four minutes of the game to spearhead Southern's effort. As a team, the Rams connected on 12 of 14 foul shots in the final quarter.

Southern trailed by one, 15-14, at the end of the first quarter, led by one at halftime, 27-16, and was up by six points after three periods, 45-39.

Also reaching double figures for the Rams was Chad Panther with 12 points, while Josh Sharon added seven points, grabbed six rebounds, and played outstanding defense.

Leading the Lancers in scoring was John Alexander with 13 points. Matt Trammel, a 6-4 wing who will be playing at West Point next year and who was averaging 20 points per game, was held to 10 points.

In Saturday's title game, Bryan Panther netted 17 points, grabbed six rebounds, and dished out four assists to lead the Rams to victory. Ryan Ewing and Josh Sharon each finished with 10 points, and Sharon also pulled down seven rebounds. Chad Panther recorded four steals.

The Rams hit eight of their first 11 shots from the floor, with Bryan Panther and Sharon getting the lion's share in the first quarter, which ended with Southern on top, 16-12. The Rams extended their advantage to 28-18 by halftime and led 38-23 after three quarters.

The Rams again had an outstanding performance from the foul line, particularly in the final period, when they made good on 16 of 20 shots. Sharon hit four straight in that period, while Ewing converted six of eight. The Rams finished with a 20-for-26 effort for the game.

Scott Clipp had 11 points for Catonsville (4-4), and Travis Knipe recorded nine.

The Rams finished with a 23-15 advantage in rebounding.

Named to the All-Tournament team for Southern were Reams, with Sharon selected the Most Valuable Player, and Bryan Panther the Most Outstanding Player. Others named to the All-Tournament team were Mike Haynie and Clipp of Catonsville, Justin Llewellyn of Frankfort, and John Alexander of Linganore. Jeremy Alexander, also of Linganore, won the three-point shooting contest.

The Rams returned to action Tuesday night at home in a Western Maryland Interscholastic League game against Fort Hill (see other story for details).

Clutch Foul Shooting Propels Rams To Win Over Sentinels

For the third game in a row, clutch free-throw shooting late in the game led to a victory for the Southern High School boys' varsity, as the Rams topped previously unbeaten Fort Hill Tuesday evening in a Western Maryland Interscholastic League game played at Southern. It was the sixth win in seven starts for Coach Tom Bosley and the Rams, who are now 2-1 in WMIL play. It was also the 23rd consecutive WMIL victory on the Rams' home floor.

Leading the free-throw effort in the fourth quarter was Chad Panther, who connected on six of seven attempts and finished with a team-high 16 points. Bryan Panther, who hit three consecutive foul shots in the final stanza, finished with nine points, six rebounds, and three assists, while Bryson Meyers grabbed six rebounds.

The contest was a close, defensive struggle from the opening tipoff until the final two minutes when the Rams pulled away and led by as many as 10 points with less than a minute left. A two-pointer, followed by a half-court three-pointer at the buzzer, pulled the Sentinels back to within five points.

Southern led 9-8 at the end of the first quarter, was on top 20-17 at halftime, and led by the same margin, 30-27, at the end of the third period. The Sentinels held a brief two-point lead midway through the fourth quarter before the Rams took the lead for good.

The Ram surge in the fourth period was sparked by four consecutive points scored by Chad Panther. He hit the first of two foul shots, bounced the second shot off the rim, got the rebound and the put-back shot, and was fouled in the process. He then converted the extra free throw. After a Sentinel miss, Jamie Bosley hit a quick bucket underneath to give the Rams a six-point lead with about 1:30 remaining.

The Sentinels were forced to play most of the game without their leading scorer, Jeremy Snyder, who turned his ankle in the first quarter. He returned briefly in the second quarter, but was unable to play in the second half.

Chad Keller was the leading scorer for Fort Hill (4-1), as he matched Panther's total of 16 points. Joel Fradiska finished with eight.

The Southern junior varsity was also victorious in the preliminary game and upped its perfect record to 5-0, defeating the Fort Hill jayvees, 41-32. Dennis Tressler and A.J. Bender paced the Rams with 17 and 10 points, respectively, while Patrick Grove led the Sentinels with 12 points.

The Rams will play again this Friday at Victor Cullen Academy and entertain undefeated Allegany next Tuesday in another WMIL match-up.

GCC Lakers To Return To Action This Saturday

The 2000-01 basketball schedule for the Garrett Community College men's team will resume this Saturday when the Lakers travel east to play Mongtomery College-Takoma Park. They will then host Butler County CC on Monday and Prince George's CC next Wednesday, with both of those contests set to tip off at 7 p.m.

GCC will travel to Penn State-McKeesport for a game next Thursday, and then prepare for a major clash with nationally ranked Allegany College of Maryland the following Saturday.

SMC Wrestlers Earn Trophies In Waynesburg, Pa.

The Southern Mat Club began the 2000/2001 youth wrestling season this past weekend at a tournament in Waynesburg, Pa. Eight SMC team members made the trip on Sunday to compete against wrestlers from Pennsylvania, West Virginia, Maryland, and Ohio. There were nearly 300 competitors, representing 40 teams from the four-state area.

The eight SMC wrestlers brought home eight trophies for fourth place or better. Southern's only individual champion on Sunday was Jakob "Bubba" Scheffel, who captured first place in the 8-and-under age group at 55 lbs. His teammate Lex Oztas earned second place in that same division. Also earning second-place awards on Sunday were Zach McCaffrey at 11-12 years and 65 lbs. and George "Brutus" Scheffel at 9-10 years and 55 lbs. Third-place winners were Justin Ratliff, Colin McCaffrey, and "Bubba" Scheffel in a second division. "Brutus" Scheffel placed fourth in a second division also.

The Southern Mat Club consists of over 40 young athletes from southern Garrett County who compete weekly in youth wrestling tournaments throughout West Virginia, Pennsylvania, and Maryland. The SMC also hosts its own tournament in February. This weekend, SMC wrestlers will travel to Clarksburg, W.Va.

It is not too late to join the Southern Mat Club. Interested youth from kindergarten through 8th grade can still join the team for this season. If interested, persons may contact coach Dave Taylor at 301-334-3855 or club president Ed Wildesen at 301-334-8785.

Huskies Roll Past Beall; Downed By Turkeyfoot In Tourney Final

The Northern High School boys' varsity basketball squad advanced to the championship round of the Huskies' homecourt McDonald's Christmas Classic by flattening the Beall Mountaineers 61-43 Friday before dropping the tournament final to Turkeyfoot by a 68-54 margin the following evening. The Rams had advanced to the final by beating Westmar in their opening outing 88-78, before the Wildcats went on to down Beall by a score of 66-50 to take event's consolation match-up.

NHS's Greg Speicher earned the tourney's Most Outstanding Player Award as he averaged 22.5 points over two games, connecting for a total of seven successful three-pointers and dishing out 10 overall assists. Fellow Husky backcourt senior Jeremy Frazee joined Speicher on the All-Tournament team. Most Valuable Player honors went to Turkeyfoot's Andrew Wass, who poured in 35 and 31 points, respectively, as he led the Rams to the title of the annual event.

Northern manhandled Beall in its opener by jumping out to a 21-8 first quarter lead and expanding the margin to a 38-19 advantage by the half. After three quarters of play the Huskies were up by a huge 53-31 tally.

Speicher was a one-man wrecking crew against the Mounties, hitting for 28 points and dishing out four assists. When he wasn't breaking through the perimeter of Beall's defense, the senior playmaker would launch three-pointers from long distance, four of which ripped the nets for a total of 12 points.

Frazee added 15 points and five assists to the NHS offensive output, while senior forward A.J. Thomas hit for 10 points. Big junior Jensen Long used his 6-6 frame to full advantage by swatting away nine Beall shots and intimidating any opponent who strayed into the lane. Forward Aaron Mitchell, only a sophomore, snagged a game-high 13 rebounds.

Beall's Bobby Smith had seven points and 10 rebounds and teammate Darren Johnson added 12 points and four assists for the Mounties, who fell to 1-3.

What goes around sometimes comes around, however, as the following evening it was Turkeyfoot's turn to take a big lead early. Northern fell behind 16-9 in the opening quarter of the championship battle, and was forced to play catch-up the rest of the night. Turkeyfoot widened its lead to 35-22 by the half and was up 52-36 after three quarters of play.

It was another big night for Speicher, as the guard scored 17 points and handed out six assists in the losing effort. Frazee scored eight points and junior pivotman Josh Swandol pulled down nine rebounds to lead the Huskies.

The visiting Rams were led by Wass's 31 points, while Dan Lytle scored 17 points and had 13 rebounds. Noah Bungard dished out 13 assists to his Turkeyfoot teammates. The Pennsylvania program upped its record to 7-0 with the victory.

Joining Northern's Speicher and Frazee and Turkeyfoot's Wass on the All-Tourney team were the Rams' Lytle, Beall's Johnson, and James Wills and Josh Glass of Westmar.

Northern (2-6) is slated to visit Bishop Walsh tomorrow evening, then return home Wednesday to host Hyndman.

NHS Takes Turkeyfoot Tournament, Downs Hyndman, Falls To Falcons

The Mason-Dixon Line provided the backdrop early in the week as the girls' varsity basketball team of Northern High School held sway over two Pennsylvania squads in three outings, Hyndman (twice) and Turkeyfoot, while an outing to Frankfort last night ended with an NHS loss. The action gives the Huskies an even 4-4 record.

Northern opened the Turkeyfoot tournament with a 48-40 win over Hyndman last Wednesday, Dec. 27, then downed the host Rams in the title contest by a 56-47 margin. Northern faced off with Hyndman again Tuesday night in Accident and sent the visitors packing after a 45-37 triumph. Last night NHS dropped a 57-40 contest to an undefeated Frankfort squad.

NHS JV Plays In Lonaconing Hoop Tourney

Northern High School's boys' junior varsity basketball squad placed third in the four-team field of the first Eddie Rogers Junior Varsity Memorial Tournament recently. The inaugural tourney took place at Westmar High in Lonaconing, where the deceased Garrett County youth was a member of the Wildcats' JV unit at the time of his death when a derailed train struck his Bloomington home last January.

NHS fell to Beall in last Tuesday's (Dec. 26) tournament opener by a 51-26 margin, as the Mounties' Brady Engle scored 18 points and the Huskies' Andrew Frantz hit for 10 points. Host Westmar took that evening's second contest by narrowly defeating Bishop Walsh, 43-38, behind Aaron Shockey's 13 points.

The tournament concluded Friday as Beall downed Westmar in a wild 59-54 championship battle. Northern defeated BW in the consolation game, but the score and individual statistics were unavailable.

Post-tournament awards went to Beall's Mahlon Harper, who was named the tourney's Most Valuable Player, and All-Tournament team honors were bestowed upon the Huskies' Frantz, Beall's Engle and Joel Greig, and Matt Tam of Bishop Walsh. The Wildcats' Dave Cavey was recognized with the Eddie Rogers Boy Who Wouldn't Quit Award.

All proceeds from the Rogers Memorial Tournament went to a scholarship fund in Rogers' name.

SHS Girls Edged By Somerset In Finals Of Maple Classic

Within three points of a tournament championship were the members of the Southern High School girls' varsity basketball team, but that was the margin of defeat by Somerset in the finals of the annual Maple City Classic, played Thursday and Friday in Meyersdale, Pa. The Rams earned a spot in the title game by crushing host Meyersdale on Thursday, 58-23, but were edged by Somerset on Friday, 56-53. The split left Coach Don Stemple and his team with an overall record of 4-4.

Ashley Liller led four Rams in double figures against Meyersdale, as she finished with 14 points. Charlena Reeves, Becca Flanagan, and Robbin Gregg each recorded 10 points.

The Rams took control of the game in the opening minutes, posting leads of 11-4 and 24-15 at the end of the first and second quarters. They added 21 points in the third stanza while holding the Red Raiders to just four points to take a commanding 45-19 advantage into the final period.

"What pleased me the most was that we had very balanced scoring, with four of our girls finishing in double figures," Coach Stemple said. "But everyone contributed and made it a total team victory."

After trailing through most of Friday's game with Somerset, the Rams rallied late in the fourth quarter to take a brief two-point lead, but the Golden Eagles responded with an 8-3 run down the stretch, sparked by tournament MVP Jill Adder, to record the win.

Southern was down by one, 17-16, at the end of the first quarter, trailed 29-22 at halftime, and were behind 42-36 after three periods. The Rams finally took a two-point lead, 50-49, with two minutes left in the game, but a three-pointer by Adder put the Eagles on top for good. She followed with a two-point bucket to make it 53-50.

The Rams were then down by six, 56-50, before Robbin Gregg hit a three-pointer with 20 seconds remaining to conclude the scoring.

RAMS RUN DOWN FORT HILL — The always-hustling Southern High School girls' basketball team outran and outgunned Fort Hill last night in Oakland to take a convincing 50-37 win. Frosh forward Becca Flanagan (#55) is shown above working her way down the lane as fellow freshman Robbin Gregg (#15, to the left) breaks free from her defender and junior forward Jennifer Boaley (#13) boxes out her Sentinel counterpart in the paint. Senior forward Charlena Reeves (#45) is pictured at the right going up for two of her game-high 16 points, as teammates Ashley Liller (#21), and Bosley follow the action. SHS is poised for an overnight road trip to the Washington D.C. suburbs, where the Rams will take on St. Vincent Pallotti in Prince George's County tomorrow evening, and Montgomery County 3A school Wheaton on Saturday. The travel and tough competition should help the Rams get in gear for a hoped-for playoff appearance at the end of the year, head coach Don Stemple commented.

Reeves Paces Rams In Win Over Fort Hill

The varsity girls of Southern High School upped their Western Maryland Interscholastic League record to 2-1 and their overall mark to 5-4 last night by defeating visiting Fort Hill, 50-37.

For the second game in a row, senior Charlena Reeves led the Rams in scoring, as she recorded 16 points, while Jennifer Bosley netted 13 and Ashley Liller finished with 12 points and eight assists. Eight of Liller's total were recorded at the foul line.

The Rams were up by two, 12-10, at the end of the first quarter, led 23-18 at halftime, and were on top by nine, 34-25, at the end of the third period. Leading the scoring for Southern in the third stanza was Bosley, who hit three straight buckets.

It was the third loss in six starts for the Sentinels, who are also 2-1 in the Charlena Reeves paced the Southern offense with 18 points, while Gregg recorded 11 points and six assists, Ashley Liller had 10 points and five steals, and Jennifer Bosley added 10 points.

Adder ripped the nets for 31 points, while teammate Jubick also reached double figures with 13.

Liller and Gregg were among those named to the all-tournament team.

"Ashley and Robbin had two great games for us, but any one of our starters could have been named to the all-tourney team," Stemple said. "Both of them played very well the second night, so they were singled out."

Stemple said he is pleased with how his team is playing now. "We're 4-4, but in three of our losses we had a chance to win," he said. "We've rededicated ourselves to winning from here on out. We're very excited about 2001."

The Rams took the first step on that commitment last night when they defeated visiting Fort Hill (see separate story).

picture by closing the gap to a 39-34 difference at the opening of the final stanza, but the Huskies sprinted back out to a nine-point advantage by the final buzzer.

Frantz connected on eight field goals and hit five of nine free throws to lead all scorers, while senior teammate Kristiu Lander added 10 points and freshman Lyndsi Butler contributed eight. Nikki Conway paced Turkeyloot with 13 points.

Tuesday's battle with Hyndman was a hard-fought affair, as the Huskies staved off a comeback attack by the visitors. NHS held an 11-6 lead as the second quarter opened, but the Hornets buzzed back to cut the gap to one point at the half, 19-18. The Huskies held a 28-24 lead after three quarters of play and outscored the visitors by a 26-19 flurry over the course of the entire second half en route to the eight-point victory.

Frantz paced NHS with 12 points and Frazee added 10. Hyndman's Amanda Clite led all scorers with 14 points, and fellow Hornet Carla Shaffer hit for 12 points.

Northern's Karie Kamp led the Huskies' junior varsity unit to a 37-11 romp over their Hyndman counterparts by scoring 13 points and snagging 14 rebounds, both game-highs. Teammate Molly Wolf added 12 points and the Hornets' Mary Lakel tallied nine points.

In an added note, box score information became available just this week regarding NHS's first victory of the year, a 50-32 thrashing of host Hancock that took place Dec. 12. Northern wasted no time in establishing its presence by jumping out to a 17-8 lead after one quarter of play. The Huskies were up 31-13 at the half, and held a 39-29 advantage at the opening of the fourth quarter.

Junior forward Nicole Sisler paced Northern with 14 points, while Frantz added 13 points. Hancock's Alicia Darnara led all scorers with 15 points.

Last night's outing at Frankfort featured another fine performance by Frantz, but her 14 points weren't enough to overcome the undefeated (6-0) Falcons' attack. The hosts took a quick 22-8 lead after one quarter, as Frankfort's Apryl Frankland poured in 14 points in the first eight minutes of play. Northern was down by 32-21 at the half, and 41-32 as the final quarter opened.

Frankland finished with 24 points for the hosts, while Frazee was the only other Husky to join Frantz in double figures as she netted 10 points.

NHS also fell in the junior varsity contest by a 36-8 margin.

The Huskies host Beall Monday night in a 7:30 p.m. varsity match-up, which will be preceded by a 6 p.m. JV contest. Next Wednesday Northern travels to Salisbury to take on the Elks.

Jessica George and Stacey Simpson paced Fort Hill's offensive effort with 12 and 11 points, respectively.

The Southern junior varsity dominated the Fort Hill jayvees in the preliminary game, 49-18, with Justine Pagenhardt and Casey Taylor each netting 12 points for the Rams. Tori Lease led Fort Hill with six points.

The Rams will play again this Friday at St. Vincent Palotti and at Wheaton on Saturday. They will host Moorefield next Wednesday, and travel to Keyser next Thursday.

"St. Vincent plays a very tough schedule in Prince George's County, and Wheaton is a 3A school in Montgomery County, so these two games will really be a big test for us," Stemple said.

THE REPUBLICAN

Md. Arts Council Chairman Named To Nat'l Board

A. Mario Loiederman, chairman of the Maryland State Arts Council, has been named to the board of directors of the National Assembly of State Arts Agencies (NASAA). Loiederman, who was named to the board at the organization's meeting in November, will serve a three-year term. NASAA serves as the membership organization of the nation's state and jurisdictional arts agencies, providing strategic assistance in areas of leadership, planning, and decision making.

"We are fortunate to have a talented professional like Mario Loiederman lead our arts organizations in Maryland," said Governor Parris N. Glendening. "Because of his outstanding dedication to the arts in Maryland, Mario will provide unique expertise and exceptional leadership as a member of this board of directors."

"It is truly an honor for me to be able to work with such a dynamic board to promote Maryland's wonderful arts community," said Loiederman.

A graduate of Johns Hopkins University, Loiederman is currently chairman and chief executive officer of Loiederman Associates Inc., a civil engineering, land planning, and environmental sciences firm with offices in Montgomery, Prince George's, Frederick, and Charles counties. A registered professional engineer, Loiederman has led design teams for many notable projects in the suburban Maryland region, including the new Performing Arts Center in College Park, the new Montgomery County campuses of the University of Maryland and Johns Hopkins University, and the redevelopment of downtown Silver Spring. He is also active with many area organizations and foundations, serving as president of the Strathmore Hall Arts Foundation in Bethesda.

In 1999, more than 10.6 million people attended arts events in Maryland, generating an estimated $230 million in direct spending on goods and services, according to reports. During that year, the Maryland arts community generated more than $276 million to the state's economy and provided 17,330 jobs.

Dear Ruth,

I just feel that filling in [a survey] cannot show my true appreciation for Stephen Folickman. He is a great asset to your company.

I have had many agents to buy and sell land and homes in my lifetime and I could not believe how superior Mr. Folickman was to all the others I have had before. He would call us even when he had nothing new to report, just to tell us he was still working on the deal.

We called him numerous times with questions at all hours and he was always available to answer any questions we had. . .

I know Stephen will go a long way in your company and if I ever need services in your area I will know who to call.

Thank you,

Final Donation Tally For GCMH Gala Announced

The Golden Anniversary Gala for the Garrett County Memorial Hospital has been deemed a great success by organizers, who announced this week that the final tally of donations came to a total of $90,000.

Rob and Sharon Markwood, Karen Myers of Deep Creek Mountain Resort, and Bill Grant from First United Bank & Trust were recognized at the event for their financial support as the Gold, Silver, and Bronze level corporate supporters. These three corporate sponsors provided a total of $30,000 toward the success of the gala, according to the organizers.

RECOGNIZED AT GCMH GALA — The Golden Anniversary Gala for the Garrett County Memorial Hospital has been deemed a great success, with a net total of $90,000 raised to benefit the local facility. Pictured above is Wayne Johnson, left, planning committee co-chair, and H. Russell Smouse, the honorary chairman of the event, who told guests about a life-changing accident some 50 years ago, and how his life was saved at the then-new GCMH. See story.

To show support for the local hospital, over 120 area businesses and residents donated items for the live and silent auctions, sponsored various features of the event, and purchased advertisements for the program booklet.

H. Russell Smouse, a former Garrett County resident, served as the event's honorary chairman. Smouse is currently an attorney with the law offices of Peter G. Angelos in Baltimore and was instrumental in obtaining a donation of $25,000 from the Peter and Georgia Angelos Foundation.

The honorary chairman shared his memories of a life-changing event that occurred 50 years ago.

"I was distracted by some loose papers blowing around in my car, and as I turned to lay a tennis racket on the papers, I managed to pull the car I was driving into the end of a guardrail. I went down an embankment, rolled over, and sustained a number of injuries, including a crushed chest from my steering wheel impact," explained Smouse.

He was picked up by the DeWitt family and taken to Dr. Andrew Mance's office, and then on to GCMH. Noting the seriousness of his injuries, Smouse said he was certain that he would not have survived the trip to Cumberland. "So, if Garrett County Memorial Hospital had not been there, I would not be here [at the gala] tonight. I am here because that fine facility had just opened," he said. He went on to explain that the elevator to the second floor was not even in operation at that time.

"I am here because of the care and attention of the very vigilant Dr. Mance and the hospital staff. I suppose a hospital is about giving birth, saving lives, improving the quality of life, and, when life must end, providing a place of care and compassion where that event can unfold." As a token of appreciation, Smouse was presented with a fruit basket and various Garrett County items, courtesy of Green Acres in Oakland.

Also honored at the event were Wayne and Jackie Johnson, co-chairs of the planning committee. "Wayne and Jackie devoted countless hours and energy to the success of the event," a spokesperson said, adding that the gala was a success because of the efforts of those mentioned, as well as many others.

Proceeds from the gala have helped purchase the hospital's state-of-the-art dual slice CT scanner, now in operation.

Portfolio Devel. Course Offered By Garrett CC

A course in portfolio development will be offered by Garrett Community College in the spring semester for persons who have acquired learning on the job or through other experiences that could be evaluated for college credit.

Students will learn to develop a portfolio that includes various types of documentation to corroborate what they have learned. The portfolio will then be evaluated by a faculty member who will determine whether the learning required is equivalent to what the student would have learned in a specific college course.

The portfolio development course (LS 104) will be given on an arranged basis so that students can meet with the instructor at times convenient to their work schedules or other commitments. The class will not meet on a regular weekly schedule, and the instructor will contact the students about the first class meeting.

At the first class meeting students will receive instruction about the components of a portfolio, types of documentation they may need, and college courses for which they may acquire credit. They will then schedule meetings with the instructor at mutually convenient times as they develop their portfolio.

For tuition rates and further information, interested persons may call GCC's Student Assistance Center at 301-387-3044.

Tree Planting Awards Available Through SFPS

The Maryland Department of Natural Resources State Forest and Park Service (SFPS) and the Maryland Community Forest Council are now accepting applications for PLANT Community Awards, which recognize schools, neighborhood associations, and municipalities for tree stewardship and planting. PLANT stands for People Loving And Nurturing Trees.

"Neighborhood trees help protect the health of the Chesapeake Bay by reducing stormwater runoff and improving water and air quality," said Michael Galvin, supervisor of Urban and Community Forestry with DNR's Forest Service. "They also beautify our streets and improve property values."

Last year, 144 communities throughout the state were noted with PLANT Community Awards for their stewardship and beautification efforts. The application deadline is Wednesday, Jan. 31, for tree stewardship and planting projects undertaken during the year 2000. To request an application or receive more information, interested persons may contact Becky King, urban and community [illegible] for western Maryland, at 301-777-2137.

"Friends Of State Parks" Tag Available

The Maryland Department of Natural Resources State Forest and Park Service (SFPS) has announced the availability of a "Friends of MD State Parks" license plate. For each license plate sold, the non-profit Friends of Maryland State Forests and Parks organization will receive $10 to improve recreational and educational opportunities, and provide advocacy, appreciation, and support for Maryland's 47 state parks.

"This is a great opportunity for everyone who cares about Maryland's state parks to show their support," said Rick Barton, superintendent of the SFPS. "We encourage all who appreciate and enjoy the opportunities offered by our state parks to order these special plates."

Applications for the new plates, which cost $35, are available at most Maryland state parks. To order a new plate, or for further information on the Friends of Maryland State Forests and Parks group, persons may contact Janett Harris at 301-759-2830 or via e-mail at otter43@hotmail.com.

National Standards For Organic Agriculture Products Released

Agriculture Secretary Dan Glickman has announced the final national standards for the production, handling, and processing of organically grown agricultural products.

"This is the strongest and most comprehensive organic standard in the world," said Glickman. "For consumers who want to buy organic foods, the standards ensure that they can be confident in knowing what they are buying.

For farmers, these standards create clear guidelines on how to take advantage of the exploding demand for organic products. And for the organic industry, these standards provide an important marketing tool to help boost exports since trading partners will now deal with only one national standard rather than multiple state and private standards. I have said all along that we would create national organic standards that farmers, consumers and the organic industry will embrace, and I think we have done just that."

Essentially, the new organic standard offers a national definition for the term "organic." It details the methods, practices and substances that can be used in producing and handling organic crops and livestock, as well as processed products. It establishes clear organic labeling criteria, and specifically prohibits the use of genetic engineering methods, ionizing radiation, and sewage sludge for fertilization.

All agricultural products labeled organic must originate from farms or handling operations certified by a state or private agency accredited by USDA. Farms and handling operations that sell less than $5,000 worth per year of organic agricultural products are exempt from certification. Farmers and handlers have 18 months to comply with the national standards.

Glickman also announced that USDA will provide financial assistance to farmers in 15 states to help pay their costs for organic certification. The states selected are Connecticut, Delaware, Maine, Massachusetts, Maryland, New Hampshire, New Jersey, New York, Pennsylvania, Rhode Island, Vermont, West Virginia, Utah, Nevada, and Wyoming. Payments will be limited to 70 percent of an individual producer's certification costs, up to a maximum of $500.

The final standard includes several changes from the proposed rule issued in March.

- Enhancing market incentives for organic products by making product content requirements stricter before the term organic can be used on the main label, including changing the percentage of organic ingredients in products labeled "Made with Organic Ingredients" from at least 50 percent to at least 70 percent.
- Providing better information for consumers by allowing manufacturers to state the exact percentage of organic ingredients on the principal display panel.
- Providing greater flexibility for organic farmers by simplifying requirements for composting of manure and by providing new options for dairy operations converting a whole herd to organic production.
- Incorporating industry standard practices by allowing wine produced with sulfur dioxide to be labeled "made with organic grapes" and adopting 5 percent of the EPA pesticide tolerance as the pesticide residue level above which a product cannot be sold as organic.

Consumers will begin to see new organic labeling on products in their local grocery stores by the summer of 2001, with full implementation by mid-2002.

Organic farming is one of the fastest growing segments of U.S. agriculture during the 1990s. USDA estimates that the value of retail sales of organic foods in 1999 was approximately $6 billion. The number of organic farmers is increasing by about 12 percent per year and now stands at about 12,200 nationwide, most of them small-scale producers. According to a recent USDA study, certified organic cropland more than doubled from 1992 to 1997.

Two organic livestock sectors, eggs and dairy, grew even faster.

The final national organic standards rule, which takes into consideration over 300,000 public comments, was to be published in the Federal Register on Dec. 21, 2000. The rule, along with detailed fact sheets and other background information, is available on the web at http://www.ams.usda.gov/nop. 12/.

Hog Inventory Up 1% In U.S.

U.S. inventory of all hogs and pigs on Dec. 1, 2000, was 59.8 million head. According to the National Ag Statistics Service, this was 1% above Dec. 1999, but slightly below Sept. 1, 2000.

Breeding inventory, at 6.28 million head, was up 1% from Dec. 1, 1999, and up slightly from Sept. 1, 2000.

Market hog inventory, at 53.6 million head, was 1% above last year, but slightly below last quarter.

The September-November 2000 U.S. pig crop, at 25.5 million head, was 2% more than 1999, but 1% less than 1998. Sows farrowing during this period totaled 2.88 million head, 1% above last year. The sows farrowed during this quarter represented 46% of the breeding herd.

The average pigs per litter was 8.88 pigs saved per litter for the September-November period, compared to 8.78 pigs last year. Pigs saved per litter by size of operation ranged from 7.60 for operations with 1-99 hogs to 9.00 for operations with more than 5,000 hogs and pigs.

U.S. hog producers intend to have 2.91 million sows farrow during the December 2000-February 2001 quarter, 4% above the actual farrowings during the same period in 2000, and 1% above 1999.

Intended farrowings for March-May 2001, at 2.92 million sows, are 1% above the same period in 2000 but down 2% from 1999.

The number of hog operations totaled 85,760 during 2000, down 13% from last year and 25% below 1998. Places with 2,000 or more hogs on hand accounted for 8% of the operations and 72% of the inventory. This is the fifth time operations with inventories over 2,000 head have controlled over 50% of the total inventory. The number of operations with over 5,000 head of inventory, at 2,095, accounted for 50.5% of the total inventory, up from 46.5% a year ago.

The total number of hogs under contract, owned by these over 5,000 head operations but raised by contractees, accounted for 30% of the total U.S. hog inventory, down from 32% last year.

Farming In Maryland.....

National Organic Food Standards A Boost To Md. Organic Producers

Applauding the recent announcement by U.S. Secretary of Agriculture Dan Glickman of the final national standards for organically grown agricultural products, Maryland Secretary of Agriculture Henry A. Virts said the federal standards will simplify reciprocity between states as well as internationally, enhancing the market for Maryland organic producers.

"Organically grown agricultural products are rapidly growing in popularity in Maryland and nationwide, but the lack of a consistent standard for determining what is organic undermined the long-term potential of this emerging industry," Dr. Virts said. "With the release of the federal standards, we anticipate that organic will continue to emerge as a major component of Maryland agriculture, offering a profitable alternative for many farmers and helping to preserve our agricultural industry."

Maryland organic standards for animal products were published in the Maryland Register on Dec. 15 and are available for public review and comment through Jan. 31. The state's existing regulations for fruits, vegetables, grains and other crops also are in line with the federal organic standards.

"We have been working to bring Maryland's organic regulations in alignment with the new federal rule," said Valerie Frances, manager of the Organic Certification Program for the Maryland Department of Agriculture. "We should be able to apply for accreditation under the new federal rules next summer."

The federal regulations require that all agricultural products labeled organic must originate from farms or handling operations certified by a state or private agency accredited by USDA. Farms that sell less than $5,000 worth per year of organic agricultural products are exempt from certification.

So many windows, so many people with problems without solutions. Each window represents a path...often an uphill climb for the human soul. Every day we cry for meaning as one day blends into the next in a blur of confusion.

It is the Sabbath. We see another building. So many windows, so many people...also with problems, but they have found a solution. That solution is God. In these days of harsh reality God is the ideal that gives comfort and meaning to our souls and His House is the sanctuary where we find strength for our daily climb through life.

Make the climb that will make the difference as you climb the steps to your chosen House of Worship. We read in Psalm 18:6..."In my distress I called upon the Lord; to my God I cried for help. From His temple He heard my voice, and my cry to Him reached His ears." Your cry will reach God this Sabbath.

THE BIBLE SPEAKS

BY LAWRENCE W. ALTHOUSE

QUITTING WHILE HE'S AHEAD?

January 7, 2001

Background Scripture: Luke 4:14-30
Devotional Reading: Isaiah 61

It was a good sermon—up to a point. The preacher began with a stirring passage from Isaiah: "The Spirit of the Lord is upon me, because he has anointed me to preach good news to the poor" (Isaiah 61:1,2, Lk 4:18). He excited them when he proclaimed: "Today this scripture has been fulfilled in your hearing" (4:21). Imagine that—a portion of prophecy fulfilled this very day in their presence!

Had he quit at just this point, he would have been ahead because the people in the synagogue were bowled over by this native son. They were amazed at the "gracious words which proceeded out of his mouth" and they couldn't help asking, "Is not this Joseph's son?" They did not expect to hear this from one who had originated in their midst.

But he did not stop right there and, continuing onward, he instantaneously changed their admiration to fury. One moment they were praising him; the next, they wanted to lynch him. Once that point had been reached, there was no turning back.

Hometown People

So, what was that point upon which Jesus passed from warm acclamation to harsh condemnation? It was when he made it clear that the prophecy which he was fulfilling that day was not a hometown-boy-makes-good event, but a warning that as Israelites they did not have God in their pockets. Hometown people want the hometown boy or girl to make them feel pride and gratification. But Jesus' appearance in his was not to gain personal popularity, but to proclaim the radical good news of God—good news to the poor... release to the captives...liberty [to] those who are oppressed."

What they wanted was for him to speak of the resurgence of the throne of David, the restoration of the Kingdom of Israel, and the overthrow of their Roman occupiers. What they looked for was comfort for the middle class, not liberation for the underlings of their society. They wanted respectable words, not a call to change their world. They wanted him to remind them how special they were in God's eyes. Instead, he painfully reminded them that God's grace is with the very ones whom they regarded as their spiritual inferiors: the poor, the prisoners and victims of oppression.

As they saw it, this was good news to the "wrong" people. But Jesus reminded them that often that's the way it is with God. In a time of famine Elijah the prophet was sent to Zarephath, a lowly widow of Sidon. Although there were probably thousands of lepers in Israel, Elisha, was sent to cleanse the leprosy of a despised foreigner, Naaman the Syrian. What Jesus said to them seemed a deliberate effort to insult them.

Fighting Words

The teachings and preachings of Jesus, however, are never intended to insult us, to stir us to anger—although that is often what happens. An old preacher once told me that, if over the years my sermons didn't upset some of my people some of the time, then I wasn't preaching the gospel of Christ all of the time. The good news is intended, not to make us angry, but to make us humble. From time to time we all need to be humbled in Christ's presence. Beholding his absolute goodness in the scriptures and in the lives of others is meant to call us to repentance and transformation.

Secular judges sometimes speak of what they will or will not "tolerate in my courtroom," and I want to remind that judge that this is not his or her courtroom, but the court of the people. Similarly, let us not speak and act positively of "my church." The church does not belong to me because I am its minister, nor to a single family who make substantial financial contributions, nor to a group of 'old-timers' who grew up in it.

The church belongs to Christ, as we do, too. In fact, Christ does not belong to us; it is the other way round. He includes within his embrace lots of 'others' whom we would exclude. But we cannot embrace the good news of Jesus Christ without embracing as well the poor, the captives, the sick and the oppressed. Jesus never quits when and where we think he should.

Chandler joins cast of new sitcom

By Taylor Michaels
TVData Features Syndicate

Kyle Chandler

Q: I miss my favorite show, Early Edition. Do you have any idea what Kyle Chandler will be doing next? –Marcy G. in Atlanta.

A: Chandler landed on his feet after CBS canceled its subscription to Edition. The popular actor will play Joan Cusack's (In & Out) love interest in The Joan Cusack Show, an ABC midseason sitcom that is one of the year's most eagerly anticipated shows.

Q: I know that Tea Leoni is married to David Duchovny, but was she ever an ice skater? I seem to remember an ice skater of that name. –V. Dattilo, Campbell, Ohio.

A: Currently starring with Nicolas Cage in The Family Man, Leoni, 33, has never been a professional skater. I suspect you may be thinking of Tai Babilonia, a familiar performer from pairs skating with Randy Gardner.

Q: Some other 40-something co-workers and I were trying to remember the name of a cartoon dog from our childhood. He would do almost anything for a dog treat, and when he got one, he would make "Mmmm" sounds, then jump straight into the air and float back down to the ground sighing. Do you remember his name? –Ellen Weaver Schultz, Appleton, Wis.

A: Yes, that was a recurring Hanna-Barbera character named Snuffles, who appeared most frequently with Quick Draw McGraw.

Q: Is Steven Culp (JAG) related to Robert Culp? How about Will Estes (The Fugitive) and Rob Estes (Providence)? –Virginia Passeno, Pontiac, Mich.

A: None of the above are related, although Steven Culp says everyone automatically assumes he is Robert's son, for some reason.

Q: Can you fill in the blanks regarding a TV movie I once saw called, I think, Special Bulletin? It was done in the style of a newscast and focused on a nuclear threat of some kind. –R.R. in Warren, Pa.

A: This stunning 1983 thriller from Once and Again creators Edward Zwick and Marshall Herskovitz was presented on videotape in the style of a newscast concerning a group holding Charleston, S.C., hostage with a homemade nuclear bomb. Christopher Allport, David Clennon, Ed Flanders, Kathryn Walker and Roxanne Hart starred in this TV movie, which is available on home video.

Q: I am a huge fan of Craig T. Nelson (The District). What is his birth date, how tall is he, and is he married? –P.S. Crotty, Bismarck, N.D.

A: Nelson, who was born on April 4, 1946, stands a little over 6 feet 3 inches tall. He and wife Doria Cook have been married since 1987. Nelson also has three children with his first wife, Robin.

TRIVIA

Ken Burns' lone acting credit is for his role as Maj. Gen. Winfield Scott Hancock's aide in the 1993 Civil War saga Gettysburg.

Bob Newhart may have gotten top billing on his 1970s series, The Bob Newhart Show, but his character had to share a secretary.

Thomas "Fats" Waller performed in vaudeville with blues legend Bessie Smith. He later regaled audiences in many of Europe's best clubs.

Joan Cusack was a member of the Saturday Night Live cast during the 1985-86 season. She has also performed Shakespeare off-Broadway.

Antiques

The revolutionary spirit in France in the 1790s included not only the idea of freedom from royal tyranny, but also attempts to fly into the sky. Experiments with hot-air balloons made air travel a reality. By the 19th century, a balloon ascent was a popular part of civic events, like the opening of an exhibition. It was not until 1867 that the average person could have a balloon trip.

Rides in a securely anchored balloon were offered at the Paris World's Fair that year. French balloonists traveled to Germany to give shows. Paul Feller went up with his giant balloon, called Mars, in 1895. The next year, E.P. Lehmann, the German toymaker, offered a tin balloon toy for sale. It was decorated with the word "Mars." A string was attached to the ceiling of a room, and as it was pulled, the balloon slowly went up. If the string was released, the balloon would come down. A toy man in the gondola waved a flag as the balloon moved.

Clever marketing created several versions of the toy, one with the name Luna, others with flags for different countries. The toys were made until 1900. This year, a Mars balloon toy in good condition sold for almost $3,000.

Q: My husband and I are remodeling our 1926 home. In the old window frames, we found 28 metal license plates that read, "Repeal the 18th Amdt. for Prosperity." The plates are orange and black. They are as wide as modern license plates, but only about 3 1/4 inches high. Do you know what they are?

A: The 18th Amendment to the U.S. Constitution, adopted in 1919, banned the manufacture, sale or transportation of alcoholic beverages. By the end of the 1920s, many Americans saw Prohibition as a failure. In 1932, the Democratic Party platform called for the repeal of Prohibition. The political collectibles you found probably date from that year. They are called license-plate attachments and were hung on the back of autos next to or under the standard license plate.

Strange BUT TRUE

By Samantha Weaver

• Do you know anyone who throws books around, perhaps when in a rage? She is a "biblioriptos." If she rips out pages or otherwise destroys books, she's a "biblioclast." If she burns books, she's a "bibliotaphe." In any case, your friend is certainly not a "bibliolater" — one who worships books.

• The Pilgrims who settled near Cape Cod tried communism before settling on capitalism as a better system for their fledgling society.

• The Pacific Northwest has one of the highest concentrations of microbreweries in the U.S. There have been rumors in this area of a movement to revive an ancient Babylonian law. Anyone who sells bad beer is executed.

• Benjamin Franklin invented the spelling bee.

Of course I'm an angel! by Dodge the Wonder Cat

Dodge here, back after a very nice Christmas. (Except for the psychedelic collar. My owner needs to take that right back to the store!)

Normally, nothing really excites me, other than catnip. But I'm very interested in a contest that's going on this month.

The Angel Animals Foundation, a nonprofit organization located in Minneapolis, is accepting nominations for the Angel Animals Award. This very special award celebrates the spiritual connections between animals and humans, and honors pets or animals in nature who have performed exceptional acts of compassion, protection, healing or courage.

All one has to do to enter is fill out an official entry form and then describe, in 300 words or less, why they are nominating the particular animal or pet for the award.

The three human winners will each get $1,000. But get this: The animals they nominated will get Angel Award plaques and other prizes! I'd love to get more stuff! And, the winning stories will be considered for publication in one of the Angel Animals Foundation's upcoming books or publications.

Animal lovers everywhere must enter soon — entries can't be postmarked later than Jan. 31.

For the guidelines and an entry form, visit www.angelanimals.org, or write to the Angel Animals Foundation at P.O. Box 26488, Minneapolis, MN 55426.

I wrote this column hoping that my owner would see it. After all, I've performed miracles for her plenty of times — like cheering her up every night after work! I hope she enters the contest, too — and that she overlooks that little incident with the Christmas tree!

ON A PERSONAL NOTE
by Lucretia Sines

The year 2001 has arrived... a little snowy and very cold, but it has arrived safe and sound, and it's that time again for me to recap all of the "happenings" in the Friendsville area during the year 2000 (all the ones that I can remember, that is). See if this brings back any memories:

January 1, 2000, arrived with no signs of the "Millennium Bug." (Now just what did you do to prepare for the worst?) Can you believe that it was 60 degrees in Friendsville on January 2? Heat wave! We certainly did have a very mild winter last year, with our heaviest snowfall during the first week of February, but warm weather returned again with 70 degrees during the week of the Jan. 21-24.

On January 14, "Granny D," 90-year-old Doris Haddock of Pasadena, Calif., walked through Garrett County on her way to Washington, D.C., to stress the need for campaign finance reform. She stayed the night at the home of Marilyn Moors in Buffalo Run before continuing on to Grantsville.

The Friendsville Community Planning Committee was formed on January 25. The committee is being backed by the Garrett County Health Dept. and has been named the RAD Group (Residents Against Drugs). Through the year the RAD Group has sponsored such activities as the Valentine Family Fun Day, an Easter egg hunt, Back to School Bash, step aerobics, walking programs, Halloween party, and a Thanksgiving dinner for the senior citizens. They also participated in Friendsville Days and Light-Up Night. The RAD Group is doing a great job with all of their activities, and I hope that they don't get discouraged in the future.

A photographical memorial wall was made in the foyer of the Friendsville Elementary School and dedicated on January 31. Photographs of the six men from the Friendsville area who died in Vietnam are displayed on the wall, along with a picture of the Vietnam memorial in Washington, D.C. It was a very touching moment for the guests and family members who were present. If you still haven't taken the opportunity to see it, stop at the school. It is a very appropriate tribute.

Spencer Schlosnagle was elected mayor for his eighth term on February 8. Frances King, Carroll Forsyth, and James W. Heininger were all elected to another term on the town council.

The restaurant reopened on April 12 under the name of Charlie's Old Mill Restaurant. It is managed by Charles Fox, former executive chef at the Wisp.

And who could forget May 9, when we were invaded by "Millionaire Wanna-bes?" With a Maryland Lottery jackpot of $363,000,000, people traveled from all over to stand in line for hours at the Funny Farm Citgo and Friendsville Discount Liquors in the hopes of hitting the big one. I wished I had a dollar for everyone who came into S & S Market asking where they could buy lottery tickets. I mean, what did they think that long line of people was waiting for in front of the liquor store that they passed on their way in through town? ("Here's your sign!")

On May 17, the 8th annual Upper Yough River Cleanup attracted 140 paddlers to help clean the trash out of the river. Way to go guys!

The Roberts Brothers Circus came to town for two shows on May 27. Oh, what a rainy day it was!

The Riverside Cafe opened its doors in July by owner and operator Lori Gallagher.

Friendsville Days was held August 4 and 5, with a parade being held for the first time on Friday evening instead of Saturday. It was well attended, and I hope they do the same this year. The weather was also great for both days, but, oh my, how it rained on Sunday! It flooded part of Bear Creek Road, and caused flooding in the Friendsville Discount Liquor Store.

On August 22, Terry Spear was appointed to serve out the remainder of former town council member Carroll Forsyth's term.

A Friendsville Crime Watch Committee was formed on September 5.

That dreaded white stuff was flying through the air on October 8, to tell us that winter was on the way once again. Believe it!

During Autumn Glory in October, Chief Terry Spear was named Garrett County Firefighter/EMS Person of the Year. It is the second year in a row that this honor went to a member of the Friendsville squad. Way to go!

December 1 was the annual Light-Up Night. It was a great way to start the holiday season, with wonderful singing by the Western Maryland Christian Center and a visit by Santa!

On Dec. 10, Wayne Friend was named Northern Rescue Squad Member of the Month for December. Also given this honor during the year were Mary Friend and Walt Fearer. Congratulations!

The annual town decorating contest was judged on Dec. 21. The winners were: Dave and Tammy Sines, first place; Walter and Dorothy Coddington, second place; and Getty and Wilma Keefer, third place. Vision Quest Studios won for the business. A lot of residents had their homes decorated this year even though the snow came early. We were told that First Avenue toward the elementary school looked like "Whoville!"

My daughter got her wish and had a White Christmas this year! What a way to end out the year.

I hope that you enjoyed "thinking back through the year" with me. I used my own discretion in leaving some of the events out. I hope that any comments, good or bad, will be directed to me.

A whole year is ahead for us to look forward to, but as we push forward into the year 2001, let us reflect on the lives of those from the Friendsville area who have passed away in the last year and will be greatly missed by many: Leslie Garrett Guard Sr., Delora Ellen Uphold, Jennie T. Miller, Floretta June Cupp, Robert "Bob" Claude Bartholomew, Blaine Wilbur Meyers, Allen Merle Hinebaugh, Robert D. Fraley Sr., L. Lauretta VanSickle, Edgar Shelton Bartholomew, Wilbur Grey Lowdermilk Sr., Gary Edwin Friend Jr., Ruth Marie Fike, Margaret Louise "Peggy" Lytle, Clarence Stanley Lawson, William Jackson "Jack" Frantz, Alta Josephine Friend, Osbourne Dale "O.D." Mason, Emory Herbert Friend, Paul Rancler VanSickle, Ethel H. Meyers, Delbert Dale Cole, Owen Frantz, Alice Joanne Umbel, Gary Swift, Charles Thomas Baker, Gerald Edward Lampe, H. Lynne Grove, Gary Ray Friend, June Alberta Landon, Foster Samuel Sisler, Mable L. VanSickle, Charles Hamilton Dickey, James Augustine "Pappy" Ross, Carroll Aubrey "Sonny" Sliger, Paul S. Arblaster, Betty Elaine Turney, and Helen Ruth Kahl.

Memories of these friends and loved ones will be carried on in our hearts forever, and the touch that they had on our lives will be eternal.

Eight Days a Week .....

2001: AN ARTS ODYSSEY

● The Garrett County Arts Council celebrates 25 years of public service this year. Our purpose for 25 years has been "to aid, encourage, advance, and coordinate activities dedicated to the promotion of cultural arts in Garrett County." Our work promotes the preservation and development of cultural heritage and facilitates the development of cultural tourism, life-long education, and quality entertainment. We operate as the county's primary funding agency for local nonprolit arts presentations, and we've been designated the "official arts agency for the county" by the Board of Garrett County Commissioners.

In 2000, we helped fund more than 150 arts events throughout the county, including productions at Our Town Theatre, presentations of the Garrett Lakes Arts Festival, events at Spruce Forest Artisan Village, concerts at the Little Yough Summer Music Series, Garrett Choral Society presentations, the Chautauqua Arts Festival, studio tours and art exhibits, community celebrations and festivals, and many other arts activities for the benefit of county residents and visitors. We also opened a gallery last year, presented a major craft festival, published an annual literary journal, and featured some of the county's most talented performing artists at our annual Garrett Galaxy celebration.

As we enter our 25th year of service to the community, we extend warm New Year's greetings to our members and friends; to the dynamic, dedicated, and ever-growing Garrett County arts community; and to all who share an abiding interest in the arts and an appreciation of the role of the arts in our private and public lives. In 2001, arts among us become us. Happy New Year!

Clarksburg Van Theft Leads To Arrests In GC

Four 18-year-old Clarksburg, W.Va., residents face charges in connection with the alleged theft of a van from their hometown after they were apprehended in the vicinity of McHenry by Maryland State Police troopers early Sunday morning.

Joseph Buffey, Christopher Eakle, Angel Eakle, and Timothy Moore were each charged with unlawful taking of a motor vehicle and Christopher Eakle faces additional charges of possession of marijuana and drug paraphernalia, while Buffey reportedly faces an alleged misdemeanor theft charge.

The group was stopped in a 1995 Chevrolet Astro van Sunday morning that had allegedly been taken from a Clarksburg bar at approximately 11:30 p.m. the previous evening. After leaving Clarksburg the four traveled into Garrett County, where they stopped at the BFS convenience store in McHenry for gasoline. When they left without paying, police were notified and the van was later stopped. Buffey was taken into custody while the others were sent on their way.

As Buffey was being escorted to a bond hearing in Oakland at 6 a.m. Sunday, he allegedly pointed out to a trooper that his van was sitting in the District Court parking lot. Minutes later word was received from authorities that the same van had been reported stolen in Clarksburg. Buffey's companions, who were sitting in the van waiting for his possible release, were taken into custody and all four were charged in connection with the van theft. A search uncovered a smoking pipe

A MUCH QUIETER MUDDY CREEK — Muddy Creek Falls at Swallow Falls State Park is much quieter these days, as the continuously frigid temperatures have seemingly stopped it in its bed. A spectacular sight to see, for certain. Hikers should of course use great caution when traversing the frozen waters. This photograph was taken by Ken Wishnick, president of the county's chamber of commerce, who was out enjoying the mountaintop countryside over the weekend.

Session's First Day Uneventful, Edwards Reports

Other than the usual ceremony and pomp of the first day, the opening of the Maryland General Assembly yesterday was uneventful, according to Delegate George Edwards, R-Garrett County and chairman of the Western Maryland Delegation.

"We aren't going to have a lot to work with until the governor delivers his 'State of the State' address next week," Edwards said. The main issue of discussion will most likely be the budget plan and the budget surplus, the delegate has indicated. Currently the state has an excess of $400 million, according to reports, which Edwards would like to see at least partly be given back to the citizens through tax cuts, although he has stated that the chance of that is slim.

Locally, the Garrett County commissioners have asked Edwards and Senator John Hafer to seek legislation that would allow the local fiscal authority to adopt an ordinance or regulation to protect a resident's right to farm without being hampered by undue interference and over-regulation by the government. The commissioners are also seeking to be allowed to eliminate the current requirement concerning gas/mineral rights on private property. As it stands now, persons who wish to sell the development rights of their property but do not have the "go-ahead" to include the gas or mineral rights may not be able to sell the land.

The commissioners have also asked the delegation to seek a change in the position of county treasurer. The local government hopes to make the position an appointed or hired one rather than elected. The name of the position would be changed to "supervisor of tax collection."

A general obligation bond of less than $3,500,000 is being sought to complete

Board Of Education Office To Be Housed In M&T Bank Buildings

A long-awaited remedy to the Garrett County Board of Education main office dilemma has apparently been found, as the county commissioners announced this week that the educators will soon relocate to a much newer building in downtown Oakland. The current education board office has been the subject of criticism for years by the grand juries of the county, which repeatedly found the aging facility to be severely lacking. However, funding has remained a problem, with money always going first to the needs of the county's school buildings.

"This takes care of so many problems all at once," said education board member Madeleine Collins, who added that the announcement has lifted "a big burden off our shoulders." Three members of the school board and several school officials, including Dr. Wendell Teets, superintendent, were present for the formal announcement Tuesday.

Commissioner chairman Fred Holliday said the transaction is not only good for the education board staff but for the taxpayers of the county as well. "This is great news for everyone," he said, reporting that the commissioners have taken action to purchase two properties from Manufacturers and Traders Trust Company (M&T Bank) for $1 million. This will be paid over 20 years, with the net annual cost to the county to be $25,704.

"If we were to purchase property and build a building of this size somewhere else, we would spend about $4 million," Holliday said. Figures compiled by the county show that in that scenario, the county would pay over $750,000 per year.

The buildings being purchased by the county are located along Second Street and currently house the M&T Bank, formerly Keystone, formerly the Garrett National Bank. The education board staff will occupy the entire three-story building at 32 South Second Street, built in 1987, as well as the upstairs of the green brick building at 46 South Second. The basement and first floor will be utilized by M&T Bank, which will pay $8 per square foot, or $64,000 per year, to lease the space.

"This is a great place for our staff to be housed," said Teets. "And it will be good for Oakland, with 60-some people in the heart of town."

The agreement between the bank and the county was on the negotiating table for some time, as reported by Commissioner Ernest Gregg. County Administrator Monty Pagenhardt, Teets, and Gregg have worked closely, along with Michael Sines, the education board's director of facilities, and other key officials, to reach an agreement with M&T.

"The agreement surfaced much more quickly than we expected," Teets said. The superintendent reported that the board offices may relocate as early as the first of April, although no definite time table has been established. The building is already "wired" for the computer system, but the Bell Atlantic Pioneers, a volunteer organization, has offered to extend that wiring through other parts of the office if needed, Teets said.

Rodney Durst, an 11-year member of the education board, said the procurement of the building "came out of the blue," and that it is the answer to a number of needs.

"It sort of tells me that when you do things right, sometimes good things eventually happen," Durst said. "We've tried to hold the line on spending, and we've always put the schools first. Now I feel like our efforts are paying off."

Gregg said the current board office presents "a great many constraints" for the staff, and that it gives a poor impression of the education system to visitors. The new building, Gregg said, is more representative of the successful local schools. Teets concurred.

Miller Subject Of Protest Vote As General Assembly Opens In Annapolis

by Eric Kelderman
Capital News Service

ANNAPOLIS - The sound of the gavel at high noon signaled the opening of the 2001 Maryland General Assembly session Wednesday, where there was little business and much ceremony conducted.

Children sat in chambers usually reserved for their legislator parents, while political dignitaries blessed the proceedings. But the realities of political power intruded when three senators opposed and four abstained from voting to return Senate President Thomas V. Mike Miller Jr. to his long-held position.

Sen. Timothy Ferguson, R-Frederick, explained his nay vote was a protest over Miller's handling of last year's gun-control legislation. Miller abused his power as Senate president, Ferguson said, by pulling the bill ont of committee before it had completed its review.

Ferguson, a member of the National Rifle Association, said the state got a bad bill because it was pulled ont of committee without the changes it needed. The gun control bill, mandating gun locks and ballistic fingerprinting for new weapons, was Gov. Parris N. Glendening's marquee legislative piece last session.

Ferguson said he voted for Miller the past two years and would do so again next year, but decided to protest because the speaker had "trampled the right of the committee to do its work."

The effect was little more than the ripple caused by a different protest last month against Miller. Sen. Thomas L. Bromwell briefly conducted an attempt to oust Miller as president. The Baltimore County Democrat had gotten some notable support from the likes of Sen. Gloria Lawlah, D-Prince George's, but Miller's tenure as the Senate's longest serving president continued.

In the House of Delegates Wednesday, Casper R. Taylor Jr., D-Allegany, was re-elected speaker of the House, and his lieutenant, Thomas E. Dewberry, D-Baltimore County, speaker pro-tem.

Even in the House, the stately atmosphere went awry. Taylor introduced his wife, Polly, as his "helpmate," but then, oddly introduced Gov. Parris N. Glendening and his "helpmate" Lt. Gov. Kathleen

Feasiblity Study Recommends Pursuing Bi-County Highway

A feasibility study co-sponsored by four states has recommended that a proposed north/south highway corridor traverse western Maryland through portions of both Garrett and Allegany counties via a combination of U.S. Route 219 North and U.S. Route 220 South, linked east/west by existing Interstate 68. The western Maryland legislative delegation and both boards of county commissioners are already on record in support of the combined route proposal.

Co-sponsored by the state highway agencies of Maryland, Pennsylvania, West Virginia, and Virginia, the study sought the most feasible and beneficial way to connect the east/west routes of the Pennsylvania Turnpike in the north and West Virginia's Corridor H in the south, which is currently under construction. It came to the conclusion that "improvements in the combined corridor have the greatest potential for affecting job growth and contributing to an improved standard of living and quality of life, and are also consistent with long range planning for north/south highways to the north through Pennsylvania and New York."

The study's preferred combined bi-county route would begin with a northern corridor along Rt. 219 from the Pennsylvania Turnpike (I-76) commencing near Somerset, Pa., and continue south to meet I-68 east of Grantsville at or in the immediate vicinity of the current Rt. 219/I-68 interchange. From there the corridor would be routed along current I-68 (by utilizing the existing highway; no new construction required) eastward into Allegany County to meet with Maryland Route 53 just west of Cumberland, then turn south to follow Rt. 53 south for a short distance until meeting with Rt. 220, which would then take corridor traffic southward to cross the Potomac River at Keyser, W.Va. The corridor would eventually connect with Corridor H at Moorefield, W.Va.

The cost of improving Rt. 219 North from the Pennsylvania Turnpike to I-68 is estimated at $380 million by the study, while the cost of improvements to Rt. 220 South from I-68 to Corridor H in West Virginia is estimated at $400 million.

In selecting the combined bi-county route the study concluded that an unproved Rt. 219 North corridor could result in approximately 2,500 new jobs in Pennsylvania alone, a 9 percent increase from 1998 employment levels there. (Projected job creation along the Garrett County section of Rt. 219 North was not specified in the report.) An improved Rt. 220 South corridor could support a job growth of 19 percent, or 7,800-8,600 new jobs.

"These jobs represent a more significant impact to the economic health of the zone, [compared to the other proposed corridors], given the historically lower level of incomes and job opportunities" in the area of the combined bi-county corridor, the report stated.

In addition to considering potential economic development and job creation, environment, recreational, and historical factors were examined for each proposed corridor. The combined bi-county route was cited for its comparatively minimal impact to the natural environment, especially as compared to the Rt. 219/Meadow Mountain corridor, which would traverse an area composed mainly of forests and farmland that

Man Sentenced To Three Years For Assault Conviction

A Meyersdale, Pa., man was sentenced in Garrett County Circuit Court by Judge James Sherbin to three years in the Department of Corrections. Richard Lee Baughman Jr., 20, had pleaded guilty in September to two counts of second degree assault. Sherbin handed down a three-year sentence for one of the counts, and a concurrent year for the second charge.

The defendant and four others were arrested in March by officers of the Garrett Bureau of Investigation, who reportedly determined that the group had traveled from the Meyersdale area to Grantsville, entered a residence, and assaulted two men, John Stammer and Ronald Beavers. Extensive damage was done to the residence, according to a report by the state's attorney's office. Three of the defendants have already served prison terms for the incident. A trial for the remaining co-defendant is slated within

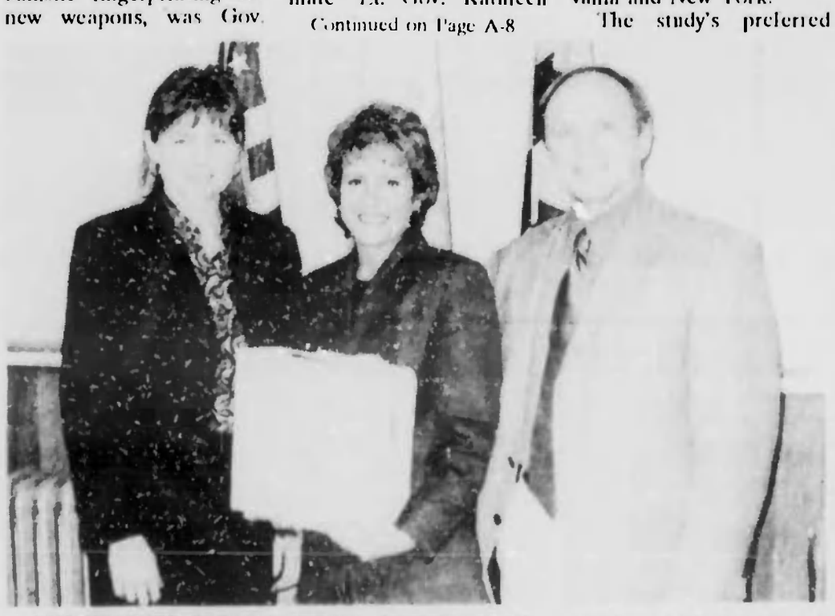
Nominations For Women's Hall Of Fame Sought

The Garrett County Commission for Women has requested nominations of local women for induction into the Garrett County Women's Hall of Fame.

"We invite organizations and individuals to nominate women for the Hall of Fame. Nominations should represent women who have made outstanding contributions to Garrett County and are examples for tomorrow's leaders," stated Sandi Flockhart, chair of the commission.

Under the guidance of the GCCW, a selection committee representing a cross section of county citizens will review the nominations and select up to three new Hall of Fame members. The Hall of Fame was established in 1995 as a permanent means to recognize the significant contributions of Garrett County's women throughout the county's history. Past inductees include: Polly J. Hanst, Wilda W. Masst, Ruth H. Ryan, Martha U. Jachowski, Dr. Alta Schrock, Edith G. Brock, Brenda J. Butscher, Jane B. Avery, Martha I. Glotfelty, Nelle Stemple, and Alice Hevner. The 2001 inductee(s) will be honored at a breakfast on Saturday, March 24.

Nomination packets with complete instructions may be obtained by calling Sandi Flockhart at 301-387-2141. In addition, packets will be [illegible] Union libraries. The deadline for filing nomination packets is February 7.



NHS TEACHER EARNS NATIONAL CERTIFICATION — Northern High School science teacher Michelle Harman is Garrett County's first teacher to earn certification through the National Board for Professional Teaching Standards (NBPTS). The rigorous certification program took nearly nine months to complete and included Harman's production of a comprehensive portfolio of her teaching practices and professional development activities, videotaping and critiquing of classroom performances, and an assessment test of 39 detailed essay questions that took nine full hours to complete. After achieving a perfect score on the NBPTS biology section and very high scores on the physics and chemistry sections, Harman said that the experience was valuable on a number of levels, especially through providing the opportunity for extensive self-examination of her own teaching practices. "This is a great honor for her and our school system," commented superintendent of schools Dr. Wendell Teets. "It is the result of a great amount of work, portfolio development, and extensive knowledge testing in her field." Harman, shown flanked by school board president Madeleine Collins and Dr. Teets, will be listed on a permanent plaque placed in the office of the Board of Education that will recognize her and all future National Board certified teachers in the county.

SKI TRAILS OPEN EVERYWHERE — The upside of the wintry weather Garrett County has been experiencing over recent weeks includes the layer of snow that has provided a good packed base for local cross-country ski trails. On the eastern end of the county, 11 miles of maintained trails are currently open at New Germany State Park, while adjacent Savage River State Forest offers adventurous skiers the opportunity to break their own trails in the quiet woods. Winter sports equipment is available through outfitters located close to those areas. Herrington Manor State Park boasts six miles of groomed and five miles of ungroomed trails, along with a rental office and concession stand. Among the upcoming special activities are a free beginners' cross-country ski clinic at New Germany State Park on Saturday, Jan. 27, from 9:30 to 11:30 a.m., and Herrington Manor State Park's annual Kick & Glide Cross Country Ski Race set for the 10 a.m. that same day. Race registration gets under way at 8 a.m., and prizes will be given in seven age groups. (Further details on those events will be published next week.) Sled riding outings are also slated every Friday night from 6 to 8:30 p.m. at Herrington Manor State Park, where a limited number of sleds are available for rent. For more information on a variety of activities and accommodations, interested persons may contact the Garrett County Chamber of Commerce at 301-387-4FUN (4386) or consult the web sites www.garrettchamber.com or www.skimaryland.com.

SINGING FOR YOUR "T" - Local residents and visitors at the Wisp Ski Resort on Saturday participated in a live remote radio broadcast by WQSR Radio, Baltimore, by singing into the microphone as an attempt to win a WQSR T-shirt. Among those winning a couple of shirts were Marne Busatto and daughter of Pittsburgh, pictured left, singing for Steve Rouse of WQSR. Above right, Rouse interviews Garrett County Chamber of Commerce president Ken Wishnick tor the "Rouse and Company" morning radio show. See story for details.

NEW OFFICERS OF GC FAMILY VIOLENCE COALITION — The new officers of the Garrett County Family Violence Coalition are shown above. From the left are secretary Phyllis Trickett, chair Jim Hovis of the Maryland State Police, and vice chair Lisa Thayer Welch, Garrett County state s attorney. The coalition meets the second Tuesday of each month at 9 a.m. in the conference room of the Department of Social Services building, located at 12578 Garrett Highway. The meetings are open to the public, and for information interested persons may contact Peggy Nelson at 301-533-3033.

Baltimore Radio Broadcasts Live From The Wisp

Baltimore radio personalities from WQSR Radio visited western Maryland last weekend at the invitation of the Garrett County Chamber of Commerce to broadcast live from the Wisp Resort. The two-hour promotional event featured testimonials from both visitors and local residents on the excellent skiing conditions and many other winter-fun activities in Garrett County.

Steve Rouse, Maynard G, and sportscaster Tom Davis, of the WQSR morning show "Rouse & Company," interacted with the many skiers taking a midday pause at the McHenry House. T-shirts and other prizes were given to those who successfully took the challenge of "singing the next line" in a stop-the-music game. Other contests included sports and trivia quizzes. At one point, Maynard G took to the slopes with a cell phone to describe skiing conditions "live" to Baltimore area listeners as he began his descent.

The event was coordinated by the Garrett County Chamber of Commerce, with the support of many chamber members and the DNR, who provided complimentary accommodations and entertainment for the visiting broadcast crew.

Chamber members were also given the opportunity to purchase WQSR radio spots at a below-market rate as part of the package negotiated by the chamber. "This is a great example of what we can achieve by working cooperatively together," said chamber president Ken Wishnick, who organized the event.

According to Wishnick, skiing is the number-one factor attracting winter visitors to Garrett County. "It is used as the primary hook to get interest in the area. Once vacationers are here, information is disseminated on the many area attractions through the Visitors Center and several other locations," he said.

Local representatives promoting their businesses on the airwaves were Railey Realty, Savage River Lodge, Railey Mountain Lake Vacations, Coldwell Banker, A&A Resort Rental, and Long Branch Saloon & Motel.

Dinner for the broadcast crew was donated by McClive's Restaurant, Railey Mountain Lake Vacations provided a seven-bedroom chalet, and the Wisp Resort Hotel assisted with two suites. In addition, Broken Bar Stables gave a horse-drawn sleigh ride, Deep Creek State Park provided snowshoe rentals, Herrington Manor offered cross-country ski rentals, and Swallow Falls presented a personal guided hike to the Frozen Muddy Creek Falls.

Snow Contributes To Three Mishaps Along Area Roads

Three accidents along snow-covered roadways Friday resulted in slight injuries to several persons, according to the Garrett County Sheriff's Office.

A Loch Lynn man was charged after a three-vehicle collision along Maryland Highway Friday morning slightly injured a passenger in one of the other two vehicles involved.

Stanley Leo Thomas, 67, was traveling west along the highway in a 1998 Ford Windstar van at approximately 9:10 a.m. when the vehicle traveling in front of him, a 1994 Ford van operated by Cheryl Bittinger, 41, Loch Lynn, attempted to make a right turn onto Youghiogheny Drive. Thomas could not stop his vehicle in time to avoid a collision, and was attempting to swerve off to the shoulder when his van struck the stopped vehicle, which belonged to the Garrett Transit Service.

Bittinger's vehicle was forced into a 1995 Chevrolet Beretta, operated by Donna J. Thoams, 42, Terra Alta, W.Va., that was stopped on Youghiogheny Drive waiting to enter Maryland Highway. During the course of the collisions a passenger in the Transit Service van, Brenda Gregory, 46, Mtn. Lake Park, was injured slightly. Gregory was transported by the Southern Rescue Squad to Garrett County Memorial Hospital, where she was treated and released.

Thomas was charged with failing to reduce speed to avoid a collision.

Less than one hour later a single vehicle accident occurred on Maryland Highway just west of Pysell Crosscut Road when the driver of a 1996 Ford pickup truck, Erin Lindsey Hoalcraft, 18, Swanton, lost control of the vehicle on the snow-covered roadway. The truck ran off the road and overturned in a ditch.

Hoalcraft and her juvenile passenger were transported by the Southern Rescue Squad to Garrett Memorial, where both were treated and released. Personnel from the Deer Park Volunteer Fire Department were summoned to the accident scene as well.

Deputies cited weather and road conditions as the cause of the mishap, and no charges were filed.

An Oakland woman was injured slightly when her pickup truck ran off Lyndale Road and into a ditch at approximately 8 p.m. Friday night.

Mary Ruth Teets, 37, was traveling north on Lyudale Road in the vicinity of Doc Bernard Road when she attempted to maneuver her 1999 Toyota Tacoma out of the way of an oncoming vehicle. The roadway was snow covered and snow was drifting across it, leaving only one usable lane. Teets's truck veered into a snow bank, and she lost control and continued into a ditch. She was transported by a private vehicle to Garrett Memorial, where she was treated and released.

No charges were filed, as the accident was attributed to weather and road conditions.

State Jobless Rate Unchanged, County's Higher

Confirming the strength of Maryland's economy, job expansion during November pushed employment figures to a record level for the month, surpassing last year's record high by 38,650 additional jobs. The gains helped to accommodate the growing number of seasonal job seekers and allowed the state's unemployment rate to remain 3.5 percent from October to November 2000.

"Sustained job growth and record high employment levels are a real testament to the strength of Maryland's economy," said Governor Parris N. Glendening. "We will continue to make prudent fiscal decisions to ensure that Maryland families keep good paying jobs, businesses continue to grow, and this record breaking prosperity lasts."

Seasonal expansion created additional job opportunities across the state, helping to raise employment in 16 local jurisdictions. Locally, unemployment rates either declined or remained the same in all but nine jurisdictions. The lowest unemployment rates included 1.7 percent in Montgomery County, 1.8 percent in Howard County, 1.9 percent in Frederick County, and 2.0 percent in Carroll County.

Garrett County's jobless rate increased from 6.3 percent in October to 7.8 percent in November. The November 1999 rate was 7.0 percent.

"Job expansion is one more sign of the resilience of Maryland's economy," said Lt. Governor Kathleen Kennedy Townsend. "We also enjoy the lowest poverty rate in the nation, the highest annual household income, and record low unemployment. It's a testament to the depth and breadth of our economic strategy and to the entrepreneurial spirit in Maryland."

Maryland's unemployment rate continues to be lower than the national level, which rose to 3.8 percent in October. Expansion in the nation's labor force added workers to the unemployment rolls, pushing unemployment up from 3.6 percent in October.

During November, the influx of 4,750 holiday job seekers pushed the labor force to a level of 2,859,866. The job market was able to absorb nearly 4,000 of these job seekers, raising employment to an all-time high for the month of 2,758,792. This relative balance helped to moderate the impact on the unemployment rolls, keeping the rate unchanged over the month.

Hiring activity during November was centered primarily in retail trade as employers began to recruit temporary workers for the holiday season. Among retailers, job gains were reported at general merchandise stores, apparel stores, and in miscellaneous retail establishments such as card, book, and jewelry stores. Elsewhere on business payrolls, jobs were added in business services, at hospitals, and in educational and social services.

CLASS RECEIVES MCDONALD'S GRANT - New computer equipment was purchased recently by a teacher at Southern Middle School, thanks to his selection for a $500 grant from the McDonald's Corporation. Bill Janoske, science teacher, used the grant to purchase PASCO science equipment, sensors, and motion detectors that are all computer-based. Pictured above using the new equipment to measure pulse rate and blood pressure are members of Janoske's eighth grade class. Pictured from left are: Greg Beckman, Brandon Carr, Aaron Helms, Adrian Martin, and Angela Sheffield. Janoske noted his appreciation to McDonald's and ssies representative Amy Bruck for this grant.

Man Jailed After Altercation At Medical Office

A Preston County, W.Va., man remains incarcerated following his arrest Monday afternoon in the wake of an altercation at an Oakland medical office located along Garrett Highway in Brodak's Plaza.

Shortly before 2 p.m. police officers with the Garrett Bureau of Investigation were summoned to Garrett Orthopedic after David Edwin Liller, 39, Corinth, W.Va., reportedly fought with three employees there. Reportedly intoxicated at the time of the incident, Liller had refused to comply with Garrett Orthopedic staffers' requests to extinguish a cigarette he was smoking inside the lobby of the medical office.

The dispute grew to an altercation, and three employees had to subdue Liller, who was arrested without incident when the police arrived. He faces charges of three counts of second degree assault and one count each of disorderly conduct and trespassing, and remains incarcerated in the Garrett County Detention Center on a $10,000 bond.

DWI Arrests

Three persons were charged with driving while intoxicated (DWI) by Garrett County sheriff's deputies this week: Frederick Allan Turner, 29, Montgomery Village, Richard Michael Harvey II, 24, Swanton; and Charlotte Mae George, 31, Oakland.

Nelson Reminds Accident Residents About Public Mtg.

The Board of Garrett County Commissioners and the Garrett County Planning Commission will conduct a public information meeting on Jan. 16 at 7 p.m. in the Accident Town Hall, as reported in last week's issue of The Republican.

John Nelson, director of the planning office, noted that the county is considering the establishment of a Rural Legacy Area in the region around Accident. This establishment would not require land owners to participate in the program. However, it would make those land owners interested in permanently preserving their land eligible to voluntarily join the program and sell their conservation easements.

The land being considered involves about 75 acres, Nelson noted. All interested citizens are encouraged to attend.

Oakland Woman Injured In Md. Highway Mishap

An Oakland woman was injured slightly when her vehicle was struck from behind last Thursday evening, Jan. 4, along Maryland Highway at the start of the eastbound climb up Backbone Mountain, according to the Maryland State Police, McHenry Barracks.

At approximately 5:1 p.m. Cynthia Seville, 20, made the turn as eastbound Maryland Highway diverted from Swanton Road when a 1989 International 2500 truck driven by Richard Liller, 44, Corinth, W.Va., attempted to pass the woman's 1997 Jeep Cherokee from behind. Seville was attempting to make a left-hand turn when Liller's truck struck her Jeep.

Seville was transported by the Southern Rescue Squad to Garrett Memorial Hospital, where she was treated and released. Personnel from the Deer Park Volunteer Fire Department assisted at the scene.

No charges were filed according to the MSP.

Being Resourceful...

• Trying to make ends meet in the financing of county government in Garrett County is always a huge challenge, primarily because we have fewer than 30,000 residents and an average per capita income that falls at or near the poverty level. Thus, those of us who live here, and particularly those charged with fiscal management of the county (the county commissioners), must by necessity work hard to be creative and resourceful when it comes to making those ends meet. It is our way of life.

• An excellent example of resourcefulness announced this week is the county's purchase of the M&T bank buildings in Oakland to be used to house the board of education administrative personnel. The current board of ed. building has served the county well, both as the board locale and, at one time, as the courthouse. But it has long been in need of major, expensive renovation, and the money has simply not been available. It is also an inefficient building, and therefore expensive to heat and to cool. The M&T buildings are far more efficient, and this will be an excellent location for the board staff.

Construction of a brand new building for the board would cost an estimated $4 million. Not only is the purchase of the M&T buildings going to cost $1 million, but because the county will lease space in the older of the two buildings back to M&T, the county will pay approximately $25,000 per year for 20 years to cover the mortgage. That's a mere pittance compared to a mortgage payment of $756,000 that would have been required to cover the cost of a new building.

• Commissioner Ernie Gregg was right when he said that throwing more money at a problem is not always the right or the best solution and, even though we in Garrett County must do without in some areas, there is a certain sense of pride in being resourceful, thrifty, and creative. There is also a greater sense of gain and accomplishment when we finally are able to finance certain projects that residents of many wealthy counties take for granted.

• So we extend congratulations and thanks to the county commissioners, to county administrator Monty Pagenhardt, to the board of education administrative staff, and to a couple of unnamed persons whose idea it was to pursue this acquisition.

Letters to the Editor

To the Editor:

I am writing about the article published last week about the local Mr. Santa (Lou Stouffer). I was appalled by what I read. I have helped collect items for Mr. Santa. This year I gave over six large boxes of never used toys. Then I bought items for the teens. I don't have much, but am always willing to help a good cause.

I was shocked to learn that uncaring and heartless people donated unusable items like old clothes, broken toys, and used furniture, which Mr. Santa had to take to the trash dump and then pay his own money to dispose of these unwanted and unused items. I hope these people are proud of themselves. Some of us support Mr. Santa and give our all.

To the Editor:

I have just finished reading an article in the Frederick News daily newspaper about how Garrett County has had a consultant tell you that you need new tourist attractions.

The reason I, my family, and many of my friends come to Garrett County each weekend most of the year is to get away from the tourist attractions and the economic development here in Frederick County.

What is refreshing about Garrett County is the natural beauty and lack of development, especially of tourist traps. Please do not ruin it for the sake of "economic development." Frederick County has been economically developed to the point of destroying the quality of life here. Please do not follow in its footsteps.

To the Editor:

How many people actually care about their friends? Well, there are a lot of people who care about a 15-year-old girl who was killed last July in an automobile accident by a drunk driver.

Sometimes I wish that I would have spent more time with her before this happened. Just think, Brandy's family and friends have to go to sleep thinking of what they lost, while other people are out drinking and driving and possibly killing themselves or other people. Maybe if one person learned his/her lesson, a few others would too.

Brandy April Talbot (Bubba) was a brave, beautiful, funny, intelligent girl. She was a great friend, and we'll never forget her, but she shouldn't have had to pay for someone else's negligence. Sometimes it's like she wasn't ever here—like a dream that later turned into a nightmare. It's really unreal how you can see a great friend in the video store, then two weeks later in a casket. We'll never forget her. She'll be in our hearts forever.

Sincerely,
Jessica Stone

To the Editor:

I just finished reading "A Christmas Story" in the December 21, 2000, edition of The Republican. What a beautiful story, I hope you will allow me a few lines to share a similar story.

This past November 10, I was seriously injured in an automobile accident. This accident was no fault of my own, as I was hit by a drunk driver. I have been in the hospital since then, and I will be here at least until April.

On December 22, my 9-year-old son, along with my beautiful, loving wife of 10 years, brought a Christmas tree here to the hospital, albeit two feet tall.

My son and I hung a few ornaments, tied a star to the top, and had my wife plug it in. Thirteen little lights adorn it, yet it is the most beautiful tree I can remember.

On Christmas Eve, the nurses allowed Anthony to spend the night with me. My little boy woke me every two hours that night, always with the same question, "Daddy, is it time to open my presents?"

Finally, Christmas morning arrived. As my little boy sat there beside me in a chair eating his breakfast, waiting for my wife to arrive, I broke down in tears, as I realized this is the best Christmas ever.

The moral of my Christmas story is simple. It's not the size of the tree, how many lights, nor how many presents. It's the love of your family, friends, and the Lord.

I trust that all of you had a happy and safe holiday season. I would love to hear from you, as the letters and cards I have received, along with the prayers, have helped so much with my recovery. So if you're a friend from my past, I hope you'll take the time to drop me a line.

With warmest regards,
Leslie Beckman

To the Editor:

Ahhhhhh! The view from my window! What was once a peaceful, quaint view of 20 or more green, healthy, beautiful, 40' pine trees, lining a small alley with children sled bike riding, and people taking walks, sometimes with their dogs — is no longer! The view from my window is now the busy, noisy intersection of Rt. 219 and Memorial Dr., plus a port-a-potty, etc. — the future site of CVS! If this was the view I had wanted, I would have bought a home right on Rt. 219.

As the pine trees were being slaughtered, I called the mayor of Oakland to make sure that the trees were indeed to be taken down. He was not available. I would not have forgiven myself if I didn't have a definite answer on this, and then found out that "Oops! Taking down the trees was a mistake!. So next I phoned a town council member whom I knew, only to find out that, yes, the trees were to be removed, as this alley will be part of the CVS delivery trucks' route. And then the council member suggested that I plant some trees or shrubs myself. I pointed out (in case they had never inspected the site of the new CVS store before making this decision) that I do have 14' shrubs in the back of my house. They can not replace 40' pine trees! For the record, residents on Second Street did oppose this new CVS location at town meetings, but to no avail!

I would like to personally thank the members of Oakland Town Council, and CVS, for allowing me to have the sights and sounds of Rt. 219 from my house, at no extra charge! I only hope that one day these council members will also be able to "help Oakland move into the new millennium with progress such as CVS," in their backyards, and have the opportunity to pay ridiculous taxes to support the town, as we do here on Second Street! Oh, but their story might have a different ending.

Sincerely,
Kathy Shaffer

To the Editor:

It is time to publicly address a condition that unfortunately continues to exist in and among Allegany/Garrett EMS companies. The problem is turf, territory, the area and boundaries to which an emergency ambulance company has responsibility to respond and the system that alerts them to do so. The process, of course, involves the patient dialing 911, after which the dispatcher notifies the responsible company of the medical condition and location. This company has a limited period to respond — 6 to 10 minutes — after which mutual aid is alerted. The problem is time. Delays during a life-threatening situation cause anxiety, but in the so-called fringe areas, far from a station, these cause more serious concern in the patients and their families as the waiting goes on and on. It becomes a question: Will someone get here and will it be in time? At this point, a seriously ill patient does not care whose name is on the ambulance or about the prestige of the company or its leadership. He or she just needs help!

When a patient is hurting, any delay seems much longer than it actually is. Most of us know the driving time from the station to our residence. It is natural that fear continues to mount as time passes and we hear the dispatcher trying to raise a crew. A personal experience during a cardiac situation is an example. The first-due company did not respond during the 6-minute period, after which the mutual-aid company was alerted, but was delayed in assembling a crew. How long was it? 15-20 minutes? It seemed like 15-20 hours to me and the patient in the life-threatening condition. Fortunately, the fire company responded with oxygen and saved the day. We are forever grateful that they were willing to lose sleep to be of service.

This is not written as a "put down" of volunteer ambulance crews and the tremendous service they perform, something for which we all need to be more grateful. It is an illustration of how important the human element should be in our thinking, so much more so than the prestige or hat size of individuals who are so jealous of territory that you — the patient, the very person for whom they exist — sometimes become secondary.

There is little doubt that there is need to examine the system, and ourselves as well. You, the subscriber, the patient, can help us find the right answers by your input. Speak up. Don't be afraid to ask the right questions. Call your company, talk to your neighbor, form committees. Volunteers need you to encourage them, but they also need to know how they can serve you better. The life you save may be your own.

To the Editor:

In the past four and a half years our family has been in this community, we have been blessed by the parents and players who have assisted us in forming the Arsenal Football (soccer) Club. During this time we have seen nearly 170 area youth on 21 teams participate in our club's year-round soccer program. From our humble beginnings of one boys' team with 14 players, we now average 6-7 teams annually for both boys and girls. And we, along with Mountaintop Soccer Association, have seen the results of our labor through the competitive edge that has been developed in the boys' and girls' high school programs.

In addition, interested persons in the Grantsville area formed the Northern Ice soccer club last year, which currently hosts two girls' teams in a year-round format. Mountaintop Soccer set a new record of 560 participants this past fall, companioned with the Casselman Valley AYSO spring program, which boasted 350 players last spring.

My reason for writing is to express my heartfelt appreciation to those involved in exploring the possibility of including an indoor soccer facility in the community event building to be constructed at the Garrett County Fairgrounds, as well as an additional facility to be considered for the Adventure Sports complex to be built in the future. We cannot tell you what this will mean to the youth of this community.

Having lived in communities which had year-round soccer programs, specifically those that had indoor facilities, the number of youth participating in the winter months was staggering. Many communities had weekly league play (both competitive and recreational), open supervised field times, developmental clinics, and tournaments, which included teams from surrounding areas. And, because of the uniqueness of soccer, it is a sport every child can play at some level. Age, size, and gender are no barriers.

Having an indoor soccer facility in Garrett County could easily provide an indoor winter activity for hundreds of youth throughout the county. It would greatly assist in our community's desire to reduce juvenile delinquency, teen drug and alcohol use, and teen pregnancy. Again, we appreciate the consideration we are being given to partner with the county to do those things to help the young people of our great county.

In closing, I'd like to express my appreciation to those soccer "pioneers" who set the stage for the future. The founders of Mountaintop Soccer Association, Casselman Valley AYSO, Northern Ice, and Arsenal, along with all the parents and players who support these organizations anu the high school soccer coaches, have all been an integral part in helping our youth have a vision that can be a part of what enables them to become all they can be. And, we thank those who are considering inclusion of an indoor soccer facility, and pray that they, too, can continue to help us carry the vision of the future.

Sincerely,
Mel Menker, President
Arsenal Football

To the Editor:

Here's an idea for the fairgrounds, one that I believe would benefit everyone.

Construct an ice-skating rink that could be easily converted to in-line skating during the warmer months. With this as the anchor, "Garrett County's Celebration of Winter," a winter program that would culminate in a weeklong series of events similar to the Autumn Glory Festival, could be developed. Besides ice skating, the season-long program could include old-time sleigh rides, ice hockey (with a new GCC team), snowmobile races at the track, ski shows, ice sculpture contests, and many other winter-related things.

Also included would be opportunities for fund-raising activities, such as the sale of food items like the best darned ham and cheese sandwiches in the world that the Kitzmiller Lions Club sells. And naturally, hot chocolate. Besides an ice hockey team, GCC could offer internships to students who want to get hands-on experience in sports-related businesses. Space could be leased/rented to manufacturers of ski and snowboard equipment to show off what's new — advertising only, not in any way competing with local businesses.

Financing for this could be accomplished by using whatever public money is available for the Adventure Sports Complex slated to be developed at Marsh Mountain. Common sense tells me that it makes more economic sense to build a rink at a flat, highly visible location, adjacent to GCC and with plenty of available parking, which the fairgrounds has, than to build it elsewhere. I believe that the Economic Development Corp. has a revolving fund (taxpayer funded) that could also be utilized. Additionally, there are many other sources for grants and loans, such as the Sunny Day Fund, ARC funding, private foundations, and many state and federal grants and loans programs. Local leaders who are aware of these sources and who are very adept at distributing money to businesses who move to Garrett County because of the generous well-fare programs could also help set up financing.

In exchange for the public financial support, seasonal passes giving free admission for all Garrett County students and preschoolers and passes giving substantial discounts for all other Garrett County residents should be part of the package. This little "bone" will not adversely affect the financial success of the venture. I have talked to a couple of financial consultants who deal with big name national corporations, and they say the idea is very workable.

So who benefits? First and foremost, the kids, who will finally have something done for them. The entire county will benefit from additional business and job opportunities. Tourism will certainly increase during those months. Hotels, motels, restaurants, and existing winter-related businesses will benefit. The state of Maryland will enhance its image of "America in Miniature." The fair board should be able to pay off any debt in very short order (depending on the extent of cooperation from the politicians). Profits realized could be used to upgrade existing buildings and, indeed, build new ones. And finally the taxpayers will benefit from seeing their hard-earned tax dollars used wisely for a change. Most of us are sick and tired of the Rocky Gap, Canal Place, and Scenic Railroad "black holes." It's time for something that will benefit the people, especially the kids.

Of People

P.S. Most of this was discussed with Jim Hinebaugh several years ago, but he wasn't even interested enough to have a town meeting to discuss the possibilities.

ENERGY

The cost of energy is in the news and is on people's minds. Those of us who are old enough to remember the 1970s hear warning bells go off in our heads. A little recession and high oil prices make for a bad scenario. The difference is that we won't see the double-digit inflation we had then. Common wisdom is that we have Alan Greenspan and computers to thank for that.

There is skepticism, of course, about the oil companies. Are they gouging us? I don't mean the foreign countries which now supply 50% of our oil (compared to 39% in the '70s). I mean the American oil companies that send out the bills.

The business of electricity is a mess. Everybody's trying to remember whose idea de-regulation was in the first place. At this point, it seems that whoever it was messed up a good thing. Here in the east we have electricity paradise — so far — compared to California. A lot of places may not have dependable electricity to run those computers which have made us all rich.

My mother told me, the other day, that Californians have been switching to wood as an alternative fuel source, thereby driving up the price of firewood to $400 a cord. Designer firewood surely costs more than that.

Some designer is working on firewood nouveau, which will look absolutely gorgeous in the fireplace, but which won't put out any heat. Someone else is working on fireplace hugger firewood, which fits so tightly in the fireplace that it splits every time somebody bends over.

Natural gas and propane are both going up in price. I wonder if by the time all the gas powered electric plants are built, the cost of gas will make them unprofitable. Things are so bad in the energy sector that the price of great northern beans may soon double.

The only thing that does not seem to change is the American appetite for absolute comfort. As a people we aren't satisfied unless we can wear jockey shorts and a T-shirt on the coldest day and still be comfortable.

Last year I heard a lady complain that, because of a power outage, the temperature in her home got down to 57°F. Was it shame or compassion that kept me from telling her that 57°F is the night time temperature at my house -- with power?

Another blanket or a second sweater are cheap heat. I am convinced that cooler temperatures are healthier for us anyway. Who wants to be a hothouse plant? Not I.

My cure from overheatedness has been a long one. As a child I slept in a room called "the old room" before it was my room. The final cure came the winter I spent in Edinburgh, Scotland. I was the last person to choose a room in the 13th century dormitory which did not have central heat. There was a beautiful airy room which no one had selected. I could not understand why.

That January I understood all too well. Every night I dressed for bed: long underwear, flannel pajamas, woolen socks, a hat, and gloves. I was cold all night. One inch from my body was literally freezing. The following summer I let myself get sunburned in an attempt to get the chill out of my bones.

Things have probably changed in Britain, with all their newfound affluence (they have computers too, so it is possible even without Alan Greenspan). In those days — the late '70s — what we call central heat, they called "background heat." They then had space heaters to raise the temperature where one was actually sitting or working or sleeping.

The easiest energy cost-saving measure is turning back the thermostat. You don't have to do what I do; just turn it back a few degrees.

Don't have an extra sweater? Give me a call. I have one with moth holes that I am still wearing. I'll be glad to share it with you.

Crazy For You To Be Presented By FSU Series

The hit musical Crazy for You will be presented Thursday, Jan. 25, at 7:30 p.m., and Friday, Jan. 26, at 8 p.m. in Frostburg State University's Performing Arts Center's Drama Theatre.

This mainstage production is part of FSU's Cultural Events Series. Loosely based on Ira and George Gershwin's Girl Crazy, the show features "unforgettable tunes, unbeatable choreography, and lots of laughs," according to an FSU spokesperson.

As the New York Times says, "The miracle that has been worked here...is to take some of the greatest songs ever written for Broadway and Hollywood and reawaken the impulse that first inspired them." Among the 19 Gershwin tunes featured are the classics "Embraceable You," "I Got Rhythm," "But Not for Me," and "Bidin' My Time."

"The choreography by Susan Stroman embodies the show's unstoppable energy, with its imaginative use of influences from earlier shows, musical and lyrical elements from the songs, a motley collection of homespun props, and a top-notch group of dancers," the spokesperson said.

The plotline is classic, zany boy-meets-girl, boy-loses girl, boy-gets girl, so popular during the '30s. Rich playboy Bobby Childs yearns to perform in "Zangler's Follies" on Broadway with his showgirl friends, despite Mother's disapproval and desire that he settle down with his fiancee Irene. So Mother dispatches her errant son to take care of family business, foreclosing on an old vaudeville theater in Deadrock, Nev. But once there, Bobby falls for the theater owner's daughter Polly and, to win her, promises to bring the Follies to Deadrock to save the theater. "Things don't quite go according to plan, and things get wild, but there is a happy ending," the spokesperson said.

The play won nine Tony awards, including "Best Musical," "Best Book," and "Best Choreography."

A dinner-theatre special in partnership with Giuseppe's Italian Restaurant will be available before each performance.

For information, reservations, and menu selection for the dinner theatre, persons may contact the Lane Center Box Office at 301-687-4411, Monday through Friday, between 10 a.m. and 2 p.m. Based on availability, tickets may also be purchased at the PAC box office one hour prior to curtain.

IN MEMORY OF
who passed away January 14, 2000

As summer turns to winter, and the blowing of the snow
We remember how you plowed the snow, not so very long ago
Your friendly face, your cheery smile
We know your efforts were worthwhile
God picked you out from all the rest
You know, he wants the very best.
I will live in Memory's Garden, Dear,
With happy thoughts, we've known through the years.
We'll walk the streets together upon the Golden Shore
And there will be no parting for now and ever more

Sadly Missed By,
Wife Irene,
Stepchildren Geri, Brenda & Earl

The Maryland Department of Natural Resources has unveiled a pair of new web sites which patrons can utilize to make state park facility reservations from home. The new system, which went on-line this week, offers easier access to cabin, camping site, and picnic shelter reservations statewide.

DNR facility reservations can be made via two Internet addresses: www.reservations.dnr.state.md.us, or www.reserveworld.com. The new Internet service accepts reservation requests weekdays from 8 a.m. to 8 p.m. For persons without Internet access, DNR's toll-free DNR Reservation Call Center number (1-888-432-2267) is available during the same hours to take reservation requests. Reservations are accepted year-round through the web site and the toll-free number, and can be made up to 12 months in advance of the date of arrival.

Maryland's state parks offer over 2,000 campsites, 120 full-service and camper cabins, and 100 picnic shelters. Facilities can be reserved for arrivals from May 1 through Sept. 30. To reserve a site from Oct. 1 through April 30, park patrons are asked to call the specific park for information regarding facility use and availability. Contact information, maps, and lists of amenities may be obtained via DNR's main webpage at www.dnr.state.md.us.

Christmas Fest Workout For Hope Garners $7,703

Students of Brenda's Body Shop presented a check for $7,703, along with food donations, to the House of Hope on December 17 following the shop's annual Workout for Hope event. The theme this year was "A Christmas Festival." The event featured various dance and gymnastic performances to classic holiday tunes.

The highlight of the workout was the production of the Nutcracker "All Jazzed Up."

The event was coordinated by Brenda Brosnihan of Brenda's Body Shop and sponsored by Mettiki Coal.

"We enjoyed preparing for the Christmas Festival and being able to raise so much money for such a worthy local charity like the House of Hope," said Brosnihan. "This is our fourth fund-raiser for the House of Hope and each year I am amazed at the hard work of my students and their families. This year we were very grateful to have Mettiki as a sponsor. That company's donation helped provide more prizes for the kids and reduce the costs of the production."

Another highlight of the day was a guest ballet group from Cumberland, under the direction of Wendy Walker. "We enjoyed our participation in the Nutcracker. The show was innovative and high energy, a very nice twist to the classic show," said Walker.

Other guest performers included Michael Fratz as Drosselmeyer, Leigh Ann Schefft as the Nutcracker Prince, and Marlana Beitzel as the Mouse Queen.

Participants solicited pledges from friends and family members. The five students who donated the most money were awarded extra prizes. The grand prize winner was Abbigale Smith, who brought in a total of $510. The first prize was won by Tara Marple, second by Patricia Sherrard, third by Courtney Swearengen, fourth by Samantha Taylor, and fifth by Sarah Stephens.

The Tuesday gymnastics class at Brenda's Body Shop earned the most money as a group and will be awarded a pizza party, Brosnihan added.

WORKOUT FOR HOPE BRINGS IN THOUSANDS — Nearly $6,000 and a collection of food was presented to the House of Hope last month, all raised and collected at Brenda's Body Shop's annual Workout for Hope. The event was the most successful yet, with a total of $7,703 raised for the local charity. See story. Brosnihan is pictured above left as she presents the check to Sister Joanna. Also pictured are some of the athletic participants, including the top six money-raisers for the event, denoted by . In the first row, from left, are Courtney Swearengen, Morgan Brosnihan, Tara Marple*, Samantha Taylor*, Patricia Sherrard*, and Kassi Smith*. In the third row, same order, are Amy Sutton, Leigh Ann Schefft, Abbi Smith*, and Sarah Stephens*.

M&T Buildings

"I think it's important to remember that our students' CTBS scores were the third highest in the state of Maryland last year," Teets said. "We came in behind the two richest counties in the state. I think that says a lot about our ability to have successful schools despite a depressed economy." Gregg said the county has "shown the rest of the state again and again that you can't just throw money at a problem to make it go away."

Holliday added that the county's use of an already-standing building falls in line with Governor Parris Glendening's Smart Growth initiative. It also meets the standards set forth by the Main Street Maryland program. Oakland is a designated Main Street town.

The board members and the superintendent expressed gratitude to the commissioners for moving forward on the transaction.

"We appreciate your foresight on this project," said board member Charlotte Sebold.

What is to be done with the present education board office is yet to be determined, according to the officials. The building is a historic structure of the county, built in 1918 and having served as the first courthouse, and then as the Oakland High School, among other functions. It also houses the county's planetarium.

Dan Doriani To Be Speaker At Annual Conference

Living for Christ Conferences, a non-denominational, non-profit organization, has announced plans for its 15th annual get-away conference, Mountaintop 2001, to be held March 2-4 at Lakeview Seanticon Resort in Morgantown, W.Va.

The featured speaker will be author Dan Doriani, who serves as dean of the faculty and professor of New Testament at Covenant Theological Seminary in St. Louis. A frequent speaker at Bible conferences and retreats, his teaching is recognized for its "clarity, wit, practicality, and soundness." He has been described as "a first-rate scholar who speaks from a pastor's heart to put a scriptural feast within reach of his audience." The conference topic for this event is "A Heart for the Gospel, Hands for the Kingdom," with five teaching sessions titled Rediscovering the Joy of the Gospel: A Walk with Peter; Faith that Works: A Story with Jesus; Certainty in the Gospel: A Walk with Thomas; Faith at Work: Taking our Convictions to the Marketplace; and Zeal for God's Honor: A Walk with David Doriani is an ordained minister in the Presbyterian Church in America and earned his Ph.D. from Westminster Theological Seminary, S.T.M. from Yale University, M.Div. from Westminster Seminary, and B.A. from Geneva College. Upon graduation from the seminary, he was pastor of Faith Presbyterian Church of Cumberland, and before moving to Covenant Seminary in 1991, he served as assistant professor of biblical studies at Geneva College.

Books by Dr. Doriani include Getting the Message: A Plan for Interpreting and Applying the Bible; Teach the Nations; and David the Anointed.

In addition to Doriani's teaching, Richard Allen Farmer, celebrated pianist and vocalist from Upland, Ind., will appear in concert at "A Festival in Celebration of the Great I Am!" Joining Farmer will be the international touring company Peculiar People.

Leading the musical worship during the weekend will be AdVance Notice — Michael Howard, Laurie Labishak, Jule Carenbauer, and Mike Hooper, all members of the praise and worship band from Vance Memorial Church in Wheeling.

Several seminars will expand the weekend: Grandparenting: Task and Glory (exploring both the joy and hard work of being a grandchild and a grandparent), presented by Richard Allen Farmer; The Jealousy of God (looking at this seldom-discussed attribute of God), led by New Martinsville, W.Va, businessman Bill Forbes; and The Sacred Romance (experiencing the fire in God's heart) by Mark Elfstrand, "Morning" Host, WMBI-FM, Chicago.

"This weekend is for those who want to leave behind today's fast-paced lifestyle of daily pressures and distractions for a time of deep renewal and refreshment," said Anne Robinson, Wheeling, co-founder of the sponsor, Living for Christ Conferences. "With Dan Doriani's engaging style and Christ-centered teaching in a pleasant atmosphere with folks from many denominations at a wonderful site, Mountaintop is the perfect place for that to happen!"

Registration fees, including all programs, two nights' lodging, and four meals, begin at $176 per person (four to a room). Registration brochures and information are available through Living for Christ Conferences, 169 East Thistle Place, New Martinsville, WV 26155; 304-455-5322; e-mail: mtntop@living4Christ.com; website:www.living4Christ.com.

FOURTH GRADERS MAKE "BABY BASKETS" — The character traits studied in November and December by students at the Kitzmiller Elementary School were caring and giving, and to help demonstrate their understanding of these traits, a fourth grade class created "baby baskets." The baskets were packed with baby items, such as rattles, diapers, bottles, baby food, bibs, and clothing, all donated by the students. They were then donated to six families expecting newborns, all related to some of the fourth grade class students. Pictured above in the front row, left to right, are William Bircher, Christopher Noble, Billy Donne, Sandy Browning, Clarissa Mead, Sam Harvey, Jimmy Elchorn, and Robbie Biser. Second row, same order: Amanda Barnhouse, Tommy Wilson, Heather Wolf, Kristi Davis, Amber Barnhouse, Demora Smith, and Winter Paugh. Back row: Katie Harvey, Jackie Noble, Tori Tichinel, Tiffany Matthews, Miranda Evans, Brittany Whitacre, and Jeremy Welch.

Edwards Reports

the new Garrett County Health Department complex in Oakland.

Finally, a "housekeeping" item is to be taken care of by the delegation concerning the makeup of the county's salary study commission. Currently the county's code states that a member of the Garrett County Parent-Teacher Association should be on the board. However, there is no PTA in the county. The replacement group is the Advisory Committee on Education (ACE). The commissioner wish to simply change the PTA member designation to an ACE member.

Governor Parris Glendening will deliver his speech next Wednesday, probably before noon, Edwards said.

DO YOU REMEMBER THE LAST TIME YOU SLEPT . . .

LIKE A BABY.

Trouble sleeping drastically diminishes your quality of life. A Gallup survey reported that one out of eight people sleep poorly at least four nights a week. Improper support to the neck, back and knees causes discomfort, which can result in fragmented sleep. Fragmented sleep can cause: loss of memory, irritability, auto accidents, slower reaction time, stress and high blood pressure contributing to loss of life.

Rest more soundly with a low-pressure Kingsdown sleep system. A Kingsdown sleep system can help you relax and go to sleep more quickly just like you did when you were a baby.

Your choice of Kingsdown sleep systems to lull you to sleep.

MORTGAGE LOAN CENTER RELOCATES — My Mortgage Loan Center, the mortgage division of First United Bank & Trust, opened its newly renovated office along Oakland's Second Street with a ribbon-cutting ceremony earlier this week. The loan center's staff will operate under the direction of First United senior vice president Phillip Frantz. "With the expertise earned by the dedicated employees in the My Mortgage Loan Center, First United is prepared to meet our customers' demands." Pictured holding the ribbon, from the left, are county commissioner Fred Holliday, Oakland mayor Asa McCain, First United president Bill Grant, county commissioner Ernie Gregg, and First United board member Bob Stuck.

Highway Study

supports recreational and agricultural interests in Garrett County.

The report also indicated that the greatest tourism benefits could be realized by routing the corridor in the direction of Cumberland, where the tourism industry relies on drawing visitors to historical sites including the C&O Canal and the Western Maryland Scenic Railroad.

The Rt. 219 corridor north of I-68 goes through several communities that would likely necessitate bypasses, according to the study. Improvements include one new interchange, 19 intersections, and six major bridge structures.

The Rt. 220 corridor south of I-68 will require "complex design and construction solutions. Cresaptown and Keyser both present significant obstacles with little room for bypasses, and some steep slopes as well as rolling terrain will complicate construction. It is anticipated that over two-thirds of any improvement would be on a new alignment," the report states. The improvements include one interchange, 29 intersections, and four major bridge structures.

Several other proposed north/south corridors were considered and eventually rejected by the study, involving these portions of western Maryland: a Rt. 219 Meadow Mountain corridor traversing the entirety of Garrett County; a Rt. 220 corridor that would traverse the entirety of Allegany County near Cumberland; a Rt. 522 corridor that would traverse the western end of Washington County near Hancock; and an I-81 corridor utilizing existing I-81 in eastern Washington County near Hagerstown.

The year-long, $625,000 feasibility study was performed by the Baltimore engineering firm of Sverdup Civil Inc. A federal grant covered $500,000 of the cost, with the remainder provided by the four states involved.

The study is an initial step in a process that could take years to complete, according to David Moe, co-chair of the transportation committee of the Western Maryland Economic Development Task Force, whose committee supports the study's recommendations. Moe said that the four states will now need to prepare an application for federal funds to assist with a preliminary engineering study, which could cost a total of $4 million or more. The states would be responsible for 25 percent of that figure.

Glendening is separated from his wife, Frances.

The Legislature will begin its real work today. The battles will be over budget priorities, and not all of them between Democrats and Republicans. Revenue forecasts are beginning to shrink the money available, and there are signs that legislators are getting nervous about how the pie will be divided.

Taylor is predicting the governor's budget — to be released next week — will have to be cut by $200 million. Only increased spending for elementary and secondary education is on both the governor's and the House Democratic list of priorities.

The governor plans to move ahead with $1.3 billion in campus construction projects for the state's colleges and universities, and with several Smart Growth initiatives to support land preservation, community redevelopment and expand mass transit.

Taylor released an agenda of 15 initiatives for the House of Delegates, including creating an office of women's health, Medicaid expansion, pharmacy assistance, job training for welfare recipients, and corporate tax restructuring.

Course In Ecotourism Set At GCC

Ecotourism (AVS 292), a new course offered by the Adventure Sports program at Garrett Community College during spring semester, will be taught by a visiting professor from Estonia. Mart Reimann, professor with Tallinn Pedagogical University's Faculty of Physical Education, will teach the three-credit course on Wednesdays from 6:30 to 9:30 p.m., beginning Wednesday, Jan. 31.

The ecotourism course will present all aspects of ecotourism including sustainable tourism, rural and farm tourism, alternative tourism, nature tourism, and their interrelations. From an economic perspective, it will address the ecotourism market and industry structure, sustainable use of resource reduction of over-consumption and waste, supporting local economies, responsible marketing, and integration of ecotourism with planning and community development. It will also provide an overview of ecotourism in Europe, Anglo and Latin America, Africa, Asia, Australia, and Antarctica. Students in the class will each complete a project on how to develop ecotourism in a particular region familiar to them.

Reimann holds a B.S. degree in geocology, which combines the disciplines of geology and ecology, from the Tallinn Pedagogical University Faculty of Mathematics and Natural Sciences. He is a lecturer on ecotourism and environmental protection with the Estonian Ministry of Environment. He has also served as specialist of the nature conservation research project "Food Web Dynamics and Community Structure on the Tundra" and is a board member of the Student Society for Environmental Protection. In addition to the outdoor activities of hiking and tour leading, he lists basketball, singing, and saxophone playing among his hobbies. The multilingual professor speaks Estonian, English, Russian, and Finnish.

Interested persons may call the Adventure Sports office at 301-387-3330 for further information. Students may register for the ecotourism course at the Student Assistance Center during business hours from 8:30 a.m. to 6:30 p.m. Mondays through Thursdays, and from 8:30 a.m. to 4 p.m. on Fridays. Registration for this course will close Wednesday, Feb. 7.

All Natural Swine Production Workshop

Is there money in pig production? Conventional swine producers have had a financially rough road to ride the last few years. Small swine producers have difficulty competing with the so called "factory swine" production. However, there is a niche market developing that can be a profitable enterprise for family farms.

There is a large segment of the population that prefers to have their food products grown without the use of chemicals, antibiotics, and confinement. The production of "all natural" products, particularly meats, is not meeting the demands of the market. This is true with the "all natural" pig production.

On the evening of January 25 starting at 7 p.m. we are having a special workshop on the production of "all natural (range hogs)" swine. The meeting will be held at Garrett Community College, Parris Glendening Advanced Technology Center (first driveway left past Panorama Motel). So that we can provide adequate space, it is necessary to make reservations by calling the Extension office at 301-334-6960.

Computer Workshops

The following computer program workshops may be of interest to you:

• Microsoft Excel Program - January 24 & 31, from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. at the Extension office. This is a "hands-on" experience in using the Excel program. You will learn how to operate the different applications, and organize and develop spreadsheets. This program can be a very important management tool.

• Quicken Program - February 7 & 8, 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. at the Extension office. The Quicken program is one of the most popular accounting programs in the country. Over 15 million people use Quicken to help manage their finances. Quicken is a powerful and flexible accounting system, yet it is low in cost. The program is very easy to learn.

Both of these workshops are for beginners. Reservations must be made by contacting the Extension office at 301-334-6960.

Hypothermia in Newborn Lambs

Hypothermia is defined as low body temperature. This condition may result from a variety of factors, including exposure, weakness, trauma, and starvation. Lambs with hypothermia appear weak, gant, and hunched up. In severe cases, the lamb may be unable to hold its head up and even be unconscious. The ears and mouth may feel cold, and the lamb may lack suckling response. The normal body temperature for lambs is 102-103 F. Lambs with temperatures below 100 F are considered hypothermic. A rectal thermometer should be used to assess body temperature. Healthy lambs are adaptable to very cold temperatures, provided the environment is dry and free of cold drafts.

In newborn lambs, true hypothermia may result from exposure. In these cases, it is necessary to get colostrum into the lamb immediately to bring body temperature up. Tube feeding is an effective means to administer this colostrum. It may also be necessary to move the lamb into a warmer environment to elevate body temperature. If wet, the lamb should be dried off and wrapped in a towel. A cardboard box can be used to confine the lamb, with jugs of warm water used as a heat source. This method is similar to the heating boxes that are sold commercially. Heat lamps may also be effective. However, heat lamps should not be used routinely in the lambing barn. They are expensive to operate, and do not supply enough heat to prevent hypothermia. As the lamb warms up, monitor body temperature as warming the lamb too quickly may cause shock.

For lambs that are older than 24 hrs., hypothermia usually is a result of starvation. Without energy from milk lambs become hypoglycemic, then hypothermic and may die. Treatment for these situations is similar to that used for the newborn, with the exception that older lambs need not receive colostrum. Milk replacer can be fed with a bottle or tube fed. As a guideline, these older lambs should receive 6-8 ozs. of warm milk.

The Maryland Cooperative Extension's programs are open to all citizens without regard to race, color, sex, disability, religion, age, or national origin.

PA Farm Show 2001 Ends In Harrisburg

About 4,000 head of farm livestock were entered in competition for this year's Pennsylvania Farm Show in Harrisburg this past week.

In addition, hundereds of FFA and 4-H members, as well as farm lifestyle exhibits, were on hand, making this the premier agriculture showcase serving to educate the public about farming as well as bringing agribusiness products and services to farmers.

The international flavor of the show also helps agricultural companies who want to get into the export business, a farm show representative reported.

Farming In Maryland.....

Farmers Union Releases Study

The National Farmers Union (NFU) has released a study commissioned by the family farmer and rancher organization detailing the implications of increasing concentration in the retail food and dairy industries.

NFU president Leland Swenson was joined by report authors Mary Hendrickson, Ph.D., and William Heffernan, Ph.D., to present the report "Consolidation in Food Retailing and Dairy: Implications for Farmers and Consumers in a Global Food System," depicting the rapid increase of consolidations in the two industries and the detrimental results for consumers, farmers and the markets that serve them.

"The findings of this report show how competition and choice are being lost every day on our farms and at our dinner tables," said Swenson. "The consolidated control of large conglomerates in the food system is diluting the power of both consumers and farmers. With the acceleration toward seed-to-plate, market-wide control seen in today's market, it is time for Congress to look at how consolidation is affecting family farmers and consumers."

The findings of the report show that vertical, horizontal and global integration in the food retail sector has rapidly increased in the past three years. Today, the top five food retail chains account for 42 percent of the retail sales. Three years ago they accounted for only 24 percent. As a result, food retailers are becoming disproportionately dominant in the food chain.

In addition to the oligopoly-like power this market concentration represents, the retail chains are exerting their control over the food system through agreements with large food processors. Such control is being done by charging slotting allowances, display fees, presentation fees, and other payments from manufacturers that make up more than half of the total net profit for the large retailers.

The report also shows that vertical integration in recent years in the dairy industry is resulting in extremely low farm prices and loss of equity for dairy farmers. The low farm prices have not been passed on to consumers, and in some instances, retail consolidation has allowed retailers to charge artificially high prices.

Farmers, Senators Decry Tyson/IBP Conglomeration

After a bidding war, Tyson Inc. will acquire IBP, the nation's largest beef processor, pending federal regulatory approval. The move has sparked negative reaction among family farmers and farmer advocates. Farm state senators Paul Well-stone, a Minnesota Democrat, and Charles Grassley, an Iowa Republican, decried the deal, saying it is harmful to family farmers.

"By allowing agribusiness conglomerates to increase their bargaining power, independent farmers have fewer buyers to choose from, and less leverage to get a good price," Wellstone said Tuesday.

Visitors in Farm Business Talk, an on-line chat room, had a similar reaction. One post read, "It sounds like a lot of this deal's success hangs on the farmer being willing to continue our present pattern of going along to get along." Another post encouraged farmers to write to their congressional leaders to block the deal.

Small Farmers, Cultivating For The Future

by Bernice Kepple, farm editor

Beekeeping has been practiced since the beginning of time (well almost!), and today there are many reasons for the small farmer or landowner to keep a couple hives of bees. Except for a percentage of the population (including members of my own family) who have extreme, possibly fatal, reactions to bee stings, everyone benefits from the activities and the production of honey bees. Beekeeping provides a variety of healthy products with a minimum of year-round upkeep, offering mild exercise or hard work according to the extent that it is undertaken.

Important for pollinating crops, fruits, legumes, and vegetables, the honey bee also produces honey, beeswax, pollen, royal jelly, and the venom used in apitherapy. Apis is Latin for bee, thus apitherapy, when used as a form of treatment, is the medical term for the use of honey bee venom. BVT, or bee venom therapy, has become popular in recent years as a treatment for multiple sclerosis and arthritis, as well as a number of other ailments. I have tried it, hopefully and religiously, and although my own experience was not positive, I would never discourage anyone else from trying it, since all individuals with MS are affected differently by any treatment, either chemical or natural.

Although BVT sounds difficult and sometimes frightening, those who feel they might be helped by the treatments have no problem overcoming the difficulties. As of yet, apitherapy (BVT) has not been endorsed by the American Medical Association or the National MS Society; however, money has been allocated for research. To get started, support is needed from friends, family, and your doctor. This is very important, as someone to help administer the stings is needed, as well as to provide a positive atmosphere and support. A bee sting kit is needed, available with a doctor's prescription, and the BVT is also given by some doctors as injections.

The next thing to find is a supply of bees. Local beekeepers or the county Extension office may be able to help. A large amount of educational material on this subject, the procedure and its possibilities, is available through the Internet, or by writing the American Apitherapy Society Inc. at P.O. Box 54, Hartland Four Corners, VT 05049, by calling 1-800-823-3460, or on the Internet at http://www.beesting.com. As I said, the BVT did not alleviate the symptoms of my MS, but it did eliminate the arthritis pain in my hands and it has never returned (knock on wood).

For those who would like to begin raising bees purely for pleasure and profit, a number of resources are available to help get started. A very helpful magazine, The American Bee Journal, has a web site at http://www.dadant.com, with articles from current issues as well as past issues and subscription information. A lot of information is available locally from the Garrett County Extension Service at 1916 Maryland Highway, Suite A, Mtn. Lake Park, or by calling 301-334-6960. That office has information on the Appalachian Beekeepers Association and copies of its newsletter, The Pollinator. Extension information is also available over the Internet at www.agnr.umd.edu/CES homegarden yard html by searching for "beekeeping." The site also includes information on how to become a member of the Maryland State Beekeeping Association.

To begin an Internet search, the easiest thing to do is to enter the word "beekeeping." That will bring up enough options to keep a person busy throughout the snowy days of winter. The search will bring up a number of educational sites, information on agencies and organizations, how to start a beehive, diseases, supplies that are necessary, and how to make your own equipment. One interesting site is the Bee Hive web site at http://www.yensel.com/users/alwine/beesite.htm, which offers an illustration of a beehive in its winter state and tells how beekeepers always leave the bees enough honey to get through the winter. Beekeeping: The Beekeeper's Home Page at http://onrworld.compuserve.com/homepage/beekeeping/right.htm tells about everything you need to know, including the "honey bee dance!" Frequently asked questions about honey bees are answered at http://www.bbka.demon.co.uk/g&a1.htm, which also explains how the bees share all the different jobs in a hive and if they hibernate during winter.

The University of Georgia College of Agriculture & Environmental Sciences at http://www.ces.uga.edu/pubed/b1045-w.html provides a number of sources for bee supplies and reference books. At one of my favorite sites, www.countrysidemag.com, the site of Countryside and Small Stock Magazine, click on books and you'll find Beekeeping — A Practical Guide and Hive Management, both by Richard E. Bonney. At amazon.com there are 92 books on beekeeping, and at www.beekeeping.com you can download a trial version of BeeKeeper 2.0, a program from Apiservices Virtual Beekeeping Gallery, which tracks hives. The program gives detailed information such as location, hive count, and breed information on queens, as well as date records. It keeps track of and prints reports on such things as supplementary feeding, treatments, testing, production and even the weather. It's advertised as an "all-in-one program."

In our area, beekeepers can experience problems caused by black bears, which can be very destructive to hives. The Maryland Department of Natural Resources in Garrett County has a pamphlet titled "Protect Your Beehive From Black Bears" which answers a lot of questions about bears and how to prevent the problems they cause.

So, if you're interested in raising honey bees, I've given you your homework assignment for the rest of the winter. There will be no test, though, and the only degree or diploma you get will be your enjoyment and success. Good luck!

Egg-Type Chicks Hatched Down By 1% In U.S.

Egg type chicks hatched during November totaled 32.6 million, down 1% from November 1999. Eggs in incubators totaled 32 million on December 1, 2000, up 7% from a year ago.

Domestic placements of egg-type pullet chicks for future hatchery supply flocks by leading breeders totaled 407,000 during November 2000, up 55% from November 1999.

BILLY ELLIOT

Rated R - Running Time: 1:50 - Released 10/13/00

Adding another jewel to the British crown of movies released in the last several years is Stephen Daldry's Billy Elliot, written by Lee Hall, which tells the story of a young man coming of age in a small, coal-mining town, who pursues a dream that is not only unusual for people of his low-income English background, but unacceptable to the sensibilities of his low-income English family members. Full of humor and yet touching and deeply meaningful, it features heartfelt performances by all its actors, especially the 14-year-old Jamie Bell who plays the title character. The first feature film by both writer Hall and director Daldry, Billy Elliott is a heartwarming tale impeccably presented.

Although Durham County coal miner and widower Jackie Elliot (Gary Lewis) and his teenage son Tony (Jamie Draven) are in the middle of a bitter miner's strike, and consequently low on funds, they scrape enough money together to send 11-year-old Billy (Bell) to boxing lessons in the town's youth center. However, Billy is not much of a boxer, and he soon discovers that his talent lies elsewhere. When the chain-smoking dance instructor, Mrs. Wilkinson (Julie Walters, OBE, Educating Rita), must hold her girls' ballet class in the same gymnasium because of renovations to the building, Billy gets interested and tries out a few steps. Mrs. Wilkinson sees immediately that he has talent, and he soon becomes her best pupil. But when his father and brother find out he's spending his boxing money on such a girlish pastime, they are incensed. Jackie forbids Billy from continuing with his dancing, but Mrs. Wilkinson arranges to teach him on the sly, free of charge, until he is ready to audition for the Royal Ballet School in London. Then, even as the union-related friction between Jackie and Tony increases, Billy must convince his dad not only to let him go, but raise 2,000 pounds to fund the trip.

While this film is not exactly bursting with new ideas (a conservative parent railing against his child's artistic or non-conformist ambitions has been seen in a million films from Amadeus to Shine to October Sky — all the way back to The Jazz Singer), it is full of interesting characters and enjoyable performances. Needless to say, the title role is quite a demanding one, and the young Bell shows great promise, executing not only the requisite emotional skills, comic timing, and delivery of dialogue, but some pretty amazing dance sequences as well. Although the scenes in the classes involve mostly classical ballet, Billy's improvised routines feature a wide variety of styles from tap to modern to some very high-impact aerobic maneuvers, and Bell and director Daldry show Billy's frustration with great energy through these sequences. Daldry uses unique angles and some interesting cinematic transitions to segue from one scene to another, and his choice of music is eclectic and interesting. Also affecting is the ever-present police force, constantly on hand in riot gear to quell the strike-related violence that plagues the area. Good performances abound from Lewis, Draven, and Walters, as well as Stuart Wells as Billy's cross-dressing school chum, Nicola Blackwell as Mrs. Wilkinson's daughter Debbie, and the elderly Jean Heywood as Billy's supportive but senile grandmother. Also making a few appearances is Janine Birkett as Billy's deceased mother, who is always on his mind.

Billy Elliot is not by any means a new story, but it is so full of likeable characters, nice relationship work, and good dancing, that it draws us in nonetheless. ★★★★½

the next few months.

In a separate case, Christopher Acheson Beitzel, 20, Oakland, was sentenced by Sherbin to one year in jail for the offense of uttering a forged document. The one-year term will run concurrently to the six-year sentence Beitzel is currently serving at the Department of Corrections.

The defendant was arrested by the GBI in July after an Oakland-area woman reported that Beitzel and a second suspect had stolen checks from her residence, forged the names of her and her husband, and cashed them. A business owner confirmed that Beitzel was the individual who cashed the check, which led to the defendant's arrest. He pleaded guilty to the charge at last week's proceedings, according to the report.

Jackson Lee DeWitt Jr., 40, was sentenced to a year in the local jail for two motor vehicle violations. The defendant pleaded guilty to charges of driving while intoxicated and driving when his privilege was revoked. He was given consecutive 6-month sentences for the charges.

DeWitt was charged by sheriff's deputies last July, who responded to the parking lot of Browning's Foodland to investigate a report of a suspected intoxicated driver. The defendant was reportedly found passed out in the driver's seat of a pickup, and persons informed the investigating officer that DeWitt had been attempting to operate the truck. The deputy checked the defendant's motor vehicle record and saw that his privilege to drive in Maryland had been revoked in 1983 because of prior alcohol-related violations, according to the report.

CHARGES DISMISSED

Charges in two cases against Galen E. Resh Jr., 55, Friendsville, were dismissed last week in circuit court, with State's Attorney Lisa Thayer Welch citing the existence of "certain problems within the cases that caused the state, at this time, to be unable to prove the cases beyond a reasonable doubt and to a moral certainty."

Resh was arrested in March by the GBI after investigators developed probable cause that he had engaged in inappropriate contact with four juveniles in the first three months of 2000.

HUSKIES RETAIN COUNTY WRESTLING TITLE - The Northern High School wrestling team has dominated the Garrett County Invitational for a number of years, and this year was no exception, as the Huskies amassed a total of 242 team points to coast past the other seven teams in the event, which was hosted by the Huskies on Saturday. The Northern grapplers also won five individual titles, while the Southern Rams, who finished in third place with 174 points, had three individual champions. Above left, Northern's Blake Huber, who is ranked first in the state of Maryland in his weight class (112), controls Lee Crowl of Francis Scott Key in the title bout. Huber ultimately pinned Crowl. Above center, undefeated reigning state champion John Hayhurst of Southern proceeds to pin Dustin Wiles, also of Francis Scott Key, in the finals of the 189-pound division. Above right is Jeremy Hayhurst of Southern, who was the champion in the 160-pound division after pinning Jason Bloom of FSK. Below left, Northern's Pete Stein, also undefeated so far this season and a reigning state champion, pins Mike Madia of Robert C. Byrd in the finals of the 119-pound class. Below center, Brandon Kamp of Northern, also a state champion, literally stands up Keith Bennett while pinning him in the finals of the 152-pound division. Below right is Southern's Nick Sines, who won the title in the 135-pound class by pinning Jordan Brenneman of Northern in the final round. At bottom left, Northern Husky Mark Wolf, a reigning state champ, works to earn first place in the 171-pound class by recording a decision over Mark Carbone of Atholton. Bottom right, Jeremiah Guard of Northern controls Southern's Jeremy Lear and ultimately defeats him on points to win the 140-pound division title. See story for details. Huskies First, Rams Third In Garrett Co. Invitational

Having captured the past several Garrett County Invitational Wrestling Tournament team championships, the Northern High Huskies continued that streak this year, by amassing 242 team points on Saturday and placing first among seven squads in the event, hosted this year by the Huskies. Northern won five individual titles, four runner-up trophies, two third places, and two fourths.

Atholton finished second as a team with 199.5 points, while the Southern Rams placed third with 174. Francis Scott Key placed fourth with 126 points, followed by Georgetown Prep with 71, Robert C. Byrd with 45, and Linganore with 35.

Southern won three individual championships, three second places, three thirds, and three fourths.

Individual champions for the Huskies included Blake Huber at 112 pounds, Pete Stein at 119, Jeremiah Guard at 140, Brandon Kamp at 152, and Mark Wolf at 171.

Huber, who was a third-place finisher in the state tournament last year, became the sixth Husky in history to win three Garrett Invitational titles when he pinned Lee Crowl of Francis Scott Key in the finals of the 112-pound division. Stein, a reigning state champion, pinned Mike Madia of Robert C. Byrd in the title bout of the 119-pound division. Brandon Kamp, another reigning state champ, recorded a major decision over Southern's Keith Bennett in the finals of the 152-pound class, and Wolf, also a state champion, recorded a 5-3 decision over Mark Carbone of Atholton to win the title in the 171-pound division.

Nick Sines, Jeremy Hayhurst, and reigning state champion John Hayhurst all captured first place in their respective divisions, with Sines pinning Jordan Brenneman of Northern in the 135-pound finale. Jeremy Hayhurst, who placed second in the state last year, pinned Francis Scott Key's Jason Bloom in just 22 seconds in the final of the 160-pound division, while John Hayhurst pinned Dustin Wiles of Francis Scott Key to win the 189-pound title. John Hayhurst became the second-ever Southern Ram to win three county titles.

Placing second for the Huskies were Dan Ganoe in the 125-pound division, Darric Kamp at 130, Jordan Brenneman at 135, and Trey Brenneman at 275. Trey Brenneman, who sustained an ankle injury early in his final bout, finished the match and was edged by Bode Ogunwole of Georgetown Prep, 3-2.

Winning their consolation rounds and being awarded third-place honors were Kris Knox (145) and Lee Yoder (160) of Northern, and Sean O'Brien (152), Garrett O'Brien (215), and Brad Palmer (275) of Southern. Fourth-place awards were won by Adam DeWitt (103) and Bill Rodeheaver (189) of Northern, and Justin Gregory (112), Chris Hayhurst (119), Jason Weeks (135), and Geoff Tressler (145) of Southern.

The undefeated Huskies, coached by Scott Stough, and the Rams, coached by Kurt Lear, will meet each other this evening in a 7:30 p.m. match at Southern. Northern will compete at North Allegheny (Pa.) on Saturday, and entertain the Rams again next Thursday. Southern's next meet after this evening will be at Northern next Thursday.

Northern is currently ranked fourth in the state.

Husky Matmen Edge Fairmont, Defeat University In Tri-Meet

The Northern High School wrestling team kept its regular meet unblemished last Thursday by winning a tri-meet hosted by Cheat Lake Middle School near Morgantown. The Huskies edged powerful Fairmont Senior, 37-34, and cruised past University High, 44-26. After placing third in the annual Garrett County Invitational on Saturday (see separate story), the Southern High School wrestling team picked up a pair of regular-season victories Tuesday night in a tri-meet hosted by Keyser High School. Also participating was Fort Hill. The Rams topped Keyser, 45-21, and then crushed the Sentinels, 60-19. Keyser also stopped Fort Hill, 42-34.

SMC Wrestlers Fare Well In Two Tourneys

The Southern Mat Club youth wrestling team competed in two highly competitive tournaments this past weekend. On Saturday, the SMC entered 30 wrestlers in the annual event at Preston High School in Kingwood. There were 36 other teams in attendance. When the day was over, the local team had earned second place, just two points behind the team champion East Fairmont. Of the 30 individual entries on Saturday, 19 earned trophies for fourth place or better.

Individualy at Kingwood, six SMC wrestlers won all their matches and were crowned champions of their division: Jakob "Bubba" Scheflel, Dillon Bennett, Coty Rasel, Justin Ratlifl, Scott Wildesen, and Coy Ozias. Placing second were Gavin Murphy, George "Brutus" Scheflel, Nicholas Brant, and Ryan Fitzwater. Third-place award winners included Jeremy Gregory, Ryan Bennett, Lex Ozias, and Marshall Thayer. Finishing the day in fourth place were Colin McCaffrey, Nick Fratz-Orr, and Scott Wildesen. Also competing on Saturday were Daniel Carr, Ryan Ratliff, Derek Fratz-Orr, Patrick Beckman, Paul Beckman, and Zach McCaffrey.

Seven SMC wrestlers traveled to Uniontown, Pa., Sunday to compete in another tournament. This event boasted nearly 40 teams from four states. For the second day in a row, Jacob "Bubba" Schellel and Justin Ratliff both won all their bouts to earn first place in their own division. Scott Wildesen and George "Brutus" Schellel won all but one match to earn third place at this event. Also competing in Uniontown were Nicholas Brant, Ryan Fitzwater, and Colin McCaffrey.

Each week during the season, the team attends tournaments throughout West Virginia, Pennsylvania, and Maryland. This Saturday, the team will travel to Clarksburg, W.Va., to compete. The Southern Mat Club will host its own event at Southern High School on February 10, and will draw athletes from Virginia, Ohio, Maryland, West Virginia, and Pennsylvania.

For more information on the local club, persons may contact Coach Taylor at 301-334-3855 or club president Ed Wildesen at 301-334-8785.

Rams Get By Victor Cullen, Mash Allegany With Defense

The varsity boys' basketball team of Southern High School is ranked the top team in the area this week, and solidified that designation by recording a 73-68 overtime victory over host Victor Cullen Academy on Friday and then crushing visiting Allegany in a Western Maryland Interscholastic League contest, 54-28, Tuesday night. The pair of victories gave the Rams and their coach, Tom Bosley, an 8-1 overall record and a 3-1 mark in the WMIL standings.

Calling the performance of his team in the second quarter against Victor Cullen "probably the worst quarter of basketball played by the Rams since I've been a coach," Bosley and his squad survived the poor effort by out-scoring their hosts in the overtime period by an 11-6 margin. The Rams led 18-13 at the end of the first quarter, fell behind 38-28 in their disastrous second period, and were still down by a 54-47 margin after three quarters.

A pair of free throws by Jamie Bosley knotted the score at 60-60 with 31 seconds to play in regulation, and a bucket by Josh Sharon gave the Rams a 62-60 lead. But Hill responded with a basket for Cullen with just 12 seconds to play to tie the score and send the contest into overtime.

A basket by Sharon in the opening moments of the overtime period, followed by a 5-for-6 effort at the free-throw line, gave the Rams the lead for good.

Bryan Panther led five Rams in double figures, as he recorded 17 points, while Bryson Meyers netted 14, Sharon and Bosley each finished with 13, and Chad Panther connected for 12. Meyers also grabbed 10 rebounds, Bryan Panther pulled down seven boards, and Sharon was credited with four assists.

Pacing Victor Cullen's offense were Hill and Collins, who each scored 17 points. Penn also reached double figures with 10.

After the weak effort Bosley witnessed in the second quarter against Victor Cullen, he enjoyed watching one of the best defensive performances ever produced by one of his teams in Tuesday's game against Allegany, as the Rams held the Campers to just seven field goals out of 36 attempts. The win was the sixth in a row and the 24th straight WMIL victory for the Rams on their own floor.

RAMS DISMANTLE CAMPERS - Victory waa sweet Tuesday evening at Southern High School, as the boys' varsity unleashed an incredible defensive performance to dominate visiting Allegany, 54-28, and hand the Campers only their second loss of the season. Above left, Southern's Bryan Panther drivea toward the lane around an Alco defender. Panther finished with 11 points. Winning a rebound in the photo at right is Ram Josh Sharon, who also finished the evening with 11 points. Also in that photo are Southern's #23 Ryan Ewing and, background right, Jamie Bosley. The win was the 24th straight Western Maryland Interscholastic League victory at home for the Rams, who are currently ranked number one in the area with an overall record of 8-1. Photos by John McEwen.

The Campers, who came into Oakland sporting a 6-1 overall record and a 2-1 mark in the league, managed to record just four points in the final quarter of play, all on foul shots, and they committed seven turnovers in that period.

The Rams have been sound defensively all season, a trademark of Tom Bosley's teams, as they have allowed an average of only 45 points in nine games, but holding Alco to 28 was exceptional even by those standards. "The depth of our team, something we often don't have, is really beginning to help us," Coach Bosley said. "We're able to use a lot of people, and every one of them is really contributing. With nine games behind us, we are also really getting a good understanding of things on the defensive end."

The Rams were, however, forced to play another game without starting guard Ricky Reams, who is nursing an injured ankle sustained last week during physical education class. But Ryan Ewing stepped into that role and played one of his best games ever, despite scoring only three points.

"Ryan did a super job," Bosley said. "He played excellent defense, he got some rebounds, and he did a great job of finding the open man."

The two teams played about evenly in the first quarter, with Southern holding a 9-8 edge at the end of that stanza. The Rams began to take command in the second quarter, though, as they out-scored the Campers by a 13-5 margin to take a 22-13 advantage into the locker room at intermission.

The Rams added to their lead in the third quarter to take a 36-24 lead into the final period, when they stepped up the intensity of their man-to-man defense another notch to completely frustrate the Campers.

Chad Panther led Southern in scoring with 12 points, and also grabbed five rebounds, while Sharon and Bryan Panther each finished with 11 points. Sharon also had four steals, and Ewing also pulled down five rebounds.

Aaron Lafley and Paul Becker each hit eight points for Allegany, while Ryan Rebuck recorded six points, nine rebounds, and four blocks.

The Rams had just a 31-30 edge in total rebounds, led in field goals by a 20-7 spread, and made good on 14 of 28 free throws, while Allegany connected on 12 of 22.

"We just missed too many shots, and our defense was embarrassing at times," stated Allegany coach Tedd Eirich. "But I give all the credit to Southern. They out-worked us, out-hustled us, and wanted it more than we did."

The Southern junior varsity upped its record to a perfect 7-0 by rolling over the Allegany jayvees in the preliminary game, 59-33, behind 19- and 18-point performances by Matt Stephens and Dennis Tressler, respectively. Garrett Snyder paced Alco with 12 points.

Ram Freshmen Sandwich Win Between Losses

The Southern High School freshmen boys' basketball team bookended a mid-week win with a pair of losses this week, as the Rams dropped a contest to Fort Hill 50-40 last Thursday, Jan. 4, bounced back to take a hard-fought 39-37 battle at Frankfort Monday evening, and fell 44-33 at Petersburg last night.

The Rams' Emmett Michael turned in a game-high 17-point performance in the 10-point loss to the Sentinels, but a balanced Fort Hill attack foiled a home-court SHS win. A trio of 12-point tallies were recorded by Fort Hill's Travis Wilson, A.J. Twigg, and Denny Hockman.

Monday's contest was a barn-burner, as a Frankfort three-point bucket brought the Falcons to within two in the closing seconds, but the Rams held on for the win. SHS mounted a balanced offense with 13 points from Derek Stefan and 11 points by Karl Hillen. Frankfort's Derek Haines's 23 points led all scorers.

Hillen tied the Vikings' Scottie Miley for game-high scoring honors with 13 points last night, but Petersburg mounted a more rounded attack to take an 11-point win. Further details were not available.

The Rams open a homestand this week by hosting the Allegany Campers in a 1 p.m. contest on the school holiday Monday, and at 7 p.m. Wednesday they square off against the Westmar Wildcats in Oakland.

The Rams will play again at home this Friday against Tucker County, and will host Bishop Walsh next Tuesday. The junior varsity games will get under way at 6 p.m., and the varsity contests will tip off at 7:30.

Southern Follows Liller's Lead To Down SVP, Wheaton, Moorefield

After struggling through a .500 start, the Southern High School girls' basketball team has won its last four outings to up its record to 8-4. This week the Rams, paced by the scoring and defensive work of junior guard Ashley Liller, downed St. Vincent Pallotti on Friday 75-50, defeated Wheaton Saturday 56-46, and were victorious over Moorefield last night by a 52-40 margin.

The Rams got off to an early lead at St. Vincent Pallotti and never looked back, going up by a 17-9 margin after one quarter and a 36-19 halftime advantage. By the time the final period opened, SHS had widened the gap to a 23-point difference, 57-34.

Liller paced the Southern squad with 20 points, six rebounds, and eight assists, while center Charlena Reeves scored 15 points and forward Jennifer Bosley netted an even dozen. Forward Kate Dugan snagged six rebounds for the Rams. SVP's Corey Silver led all scorers with 24 points.

Liller led the way again the following afternoon at Wheaton in a 10-point victory that featured a second-half Ram comeback. Although Southern held a 13-8 lead after one quarter, the hosts roared back to take a 23-21 lead at the half. SHS battled back into the lead over the third quarter, ending that stanza with a 39-34 advantage, and outscored Wheaton by a 35-23 tally over the second half on the way to victory.

Liller's team-high 18 points was supplemented by another 15-point performance by Reeves and 14 points from Bosley. A measure of Liller's effectiveness was the fact that Wheaton sent her to the foul line for 14 attempts from the free-throw line, where she connected for eight of her points. Reeves pulled down a Ram-high eight rebounds and guard Robbin Gregg dished out six assists. C. Hunsicker scored 25 points to pace Wheaton.

"We started sluggish, probably due to playing Friday and staying overnight," observed SHS coach Don Stemple. "The second half was better, and we were happy to come home with two wins."

The Southern junior varsity unit blew its Wheaton counterpart off the floor with a 45-12 triumph. Justine Pagenhardt netted 18 points for the Rams, while Wheaton's Mary Ann Metz scored six points to account for half of her team's offensive output.

Huskies Nipped By Spartans, But Crush Paw Paw, Hyndman

The Northern High School boys' basketball team took two of three contests this week to improve its record to 4-7. After opening with a hard-fought 72-66 loss Friday at Bishop Walsh, the Huskies regained the upper hand with a 65-49 victory at Paw Paw Tuesday and continued the momentum with a 70-36 throttling of Hyndman last night at the Cove.

Despite a valiant comeback effort Friday, the Huskies were downed at Bishop Walsh largely because they had dug their own grave by falling behind 20-9 in the first period. Northern actually outscored the hosts 57-52 over the remaining three quarters, chipping away at the lead to make the score 36-25 at the half and 52-45 at the opening of the final period. NHS pulled to within four points during the closing stretch but were forced to resort to fouling in an attempt to regain possession, and the Spartans' Jayme Bradley converted five of six free throws in the final minutes.

Ably taking the role as NHS's "go-to" man over recent play, guard Greg Speicher rose to the occasion yet again by scoring 22 points to lead the Huskies. The accurate outside shooter sank a trio of three-point attempts on the night, and his scoring efforts were aided by center Jensen Long and fellow guard Jeremy Frazee, each of whom netted nine points. BW's Nick George was a one-man wrecking crew, scoring 28 points and hauling down 16 rebounds for the host Spartans.

The Huskies junior varsity unit took a 48-44 overtime lead behind a game-high 20 points by Jeremy Rice. Jay Sulek scored 11 points for BW.

Speicher led Northern to victory Tuesday night at Paw Paw by leading all scorers with 19 points, sinking a trio of three-pointers for the second straight game. A.J. Thomas added 11 points and Long scored 10 points to contribute to a balanced NHS offense. Matt DeLawder's 15 points and 13 rebounds paced the hosts.

The Huskies led 15-8 after the first quarter, Paw Paw closed the gap to 34-30 at the half, then NHS exploded for a 20-7 run over the third quarter to enter the final period up 54-37.

Northern's JV took its contest 48-33 as Jason Rice and Andrew Frantz scored 14 points each. Josh Anderson had 11 points for Paw Paw.

WITH THE BIG MEN LEADING THE WAY, the Northern High Huskies rumbled to a 70-36 victory over Hyndman last night in Accident. Post man Josh Swandol (#34) shown above, nets a buckot en route to a double-double 12-point, 10-rebound performance, with Mike Fletcher (#12, left) battling for position in tho paint and A.J. Thomas (#42) following the action from the perimeter. Jensen Long (#44) is pictured below going up for two of his team-high 16 points, with Collen DuBose (#52) working to box out a Hornet defender. After winning two of three outings this week, the steadily improving Huskies are slated to travel to Fort Hill Tuesday night for one of their biggest tests so far this season.

Last night against Hyndman the Huskies used another balanced attack on both ends of the floor to swat the Hornets by 34 points. Long led the way with a team-high 16 points, Frazee netted 13 and sank a trio of three pointers, Swandol recorded a double-double with 12 points and 10 rebounds, and Denny Thorp hit for 10 points.

Northern's offensive onslaught hit hard and early as the Huskies ran out to a 24-3 lead after one quarter. The hustling NHS defense put the screws to Hyndman by holding the visitors scoreless through the second quarter to go up 36-3 at the half, and the fourth quarter opened with Northern up 46-22.

The Hornets' Jeff Wallis led all scorers with 22 points, connecting on three of Hyndman's successful three-point attempts.

Liller's Lead

night's contest in Oakland, with the squads knotted 12-all after one period and the Rams up by a slim 22-21 margin at the half. Ten first-half turnovers had hurt the Rams in the early going, but Southern regrouped over the intermission and outscored the Yellow Jackets 30-19 over the second half. SHS mounted a 36-27 lead going into the fourth quarter en route to the 12-point victory.

Liller scored a game-high 21 points, missing only one foul shot out of 10 attempts, and recorded five steals. Reeves was dead accurate from the free-throw line as well, connecting on seven of nine attempts on her way to a 13-point tally, and freshman Becca Flanagan pulled down a Ram-high seven rebounds. Katie Fisher scored 16 points for the visitors, and teammate Rachel Williams added 15 points.

Southern takes to the road this coming week, but Ram fans will be able to follow their team's progress on the airwaves for two of the outings. Tonight's 7:30 p.m. visit to Keyser will be broadcast on "The Train" at 92.3 FM. A trip to Beall is slated for Monday evening, but that contest will not be broadcast. Southern will travel to Cumberland for another radio event, as SHS takes on defending Maryland state champion Allegany in what promises to be another in a long series of hard-fought Ram-Camper showdowns.

Frazee Leads NHS To Wins Over Mountaineers, Elks

Northern High School's girls' varsity basketball team took a pair of very different wins this week, as the Huskies nipped Beall 49-47 Monday on a last-second bucket, then demolished the Salisbury Elks 52-26 last night on the road. Junior forward Bridget Frazee led the way by scoring the winning basket against Beall and dominating the rebounding department through both outings.

Monday night's home-court battle with Beall went down to the wire after NHS nearly blew leads of 12-9 after one quarter and a 26-21 halftime advantage. The Mounties came back to tie the score at 33-all by the close of the third period, and the combatants ground down to a 47-47 mark with just seconds remaining in the contest.

Frazee came up with the game-winning heroics as she snagged a clutch rebound off a teammate's missed free throw with 11 seconds remaining and sunk a jumper to put NHS up by the final two-point margin. Beall inbounded the ball with several seconds remaining, but missed a three-point attempt as the buzzer sounded.

Frazee's 14 points paced the Northern victory, and just as crucial as her scoring tally were her game-high 18 rebounds. Sophomore guard Heather Lander added 11 points and sophomore forward Amanda Frantz contributed 10 points. Beall's Cheri Simmons netted 20 points and 10 rebounds before fouling out of the contest during the stretch run.

The Huskies' junior varsity unit took a 33-28 victory as freshman Molly Wolf scored 11 points. The Mounties' Whitney Wilson scored 12 points.

Northern recorded a convincing 26-point victory last night at Salisbury, using an extremely balanced attack led by Frazee's dominating 23-rebound, four-assist, and five-steal performance, which was aided by a game-high 14-point tally by Frantz. Heather Lander and junior Christie Flockhart scored nine points apiece with Lander recording six steals to boot, and Lyndsi Butler handed out five assists and had five steals. Salisbury's J. Pole led the Elks with 10 points.

NHS was down 8-3 after one quarter, but roared back to go up 26-11 at the half. The Huskies kept on rolling to a 36-19 lead at the opening of the final period.

Northern's JV took a 31-20 win, with Andrea Green accounting for 12 points. Jess McCleary led the Elks with five points.

The 6-4 Huskies are slated to host Fort Hill Monday and Frankfort on Wednesday. Both Cove contests start at 7:30 p.m.

In Memory Of Leroy Paugh

Oh, what a special Dad he was, for all of us to know. His unique laughter set our hearts aglow. As our special family member, his love was always near, his tender heart within, made him not ashamed to shed a tear.

His jolly spirit made you very much aware that he never met a stranger when he traveled anywhere. Serving his country, community and family very well; many will have great memories of him to tell.

Now we know that God has made for him in Heaven a special place, where he will watch upon us with his smiling happy face.

Rusty Lakers Lose One Before Winning A Pair

A month off the basketball court tends to make a team somewhat rusty, as was evidenced by the performance of the Garrett Community College men's team in its return Saturday after a holiday break to face host Takoma Park. The Lakers gave up a seven-point halftime lead and went down to defeat for only the second time this season, 90-79.

But the rust was quickly removed, as the Lakers handed visiting Butler Community College an embarrassing 115-49 thumping on Monday, and then topped Prince George's Community College last night in a Maryland JUCO Conference contest, 94-84. The results left Coach Dennis Gibson and the Lakers with an overall record of 11-2.

The Lakers seemed to be in control of the game against Takoma Park (9-4) at halftime on Saturday when they held a 44-37 lead, but the home team outscored Garrett in the second half by a 53-35 margin to earn the win.

The Lakers did get a strong, all-around game from Jontae Harrington, who recorded 19 points, nine rebounds, and five steals. Also reaching double figures were Antonio Lappegard with 16 points and a blocked shot, Anthony Campbell with 12 points, and Dustin Long with 10 points. Kevin Brown finished with seven assists.

Leading Takoma Park in scoring was Bryant Hunt with 21 points. Ryan Blakney netted 16 points and David Jackson added 14 points and seven rebounds. Damaris Lindsay also reached double figures with 13 points, and he had four steals.

The Lakers were outrebounded by a 35-28 margin.

Five Lakers finished in double figures Monday in the rout of Butler CC, with Lappegard and Harrington leading the way with 21 and 20 points, respectively. Lappegard also pulled down a dozen rebounds and had seven assists.

Ladon Garrett netted 13 points, Long finished with 12, and Campbell scored 11, while Rob Hall, like Lappegard, also had seven assists.

The Lakers were in total control of the game at halftime, holding a commanding lead of 58-28, and things just got worse for the visitors when Ryan Wellman fouled out early in the second half and Butler had to play the rest of the game with just four players.

Zack Olare scored 18 points to lead Butler, while Chris Ditrich finished with 10 points and seven rebounds, and Will Speidel recorded 10 points and four assists.

The Lakers dominated in rebounding by a 61-26 margin.

Harrington had his best game of the season last night at home against Prince George's Community College, as he poured in 27 points and grabbed 11 rebounds to pace the Lakers to their 11th win. Lappegard, Rob Hall, and Lee Parris also reached double figures with 16, 14, and 12 points, respectively, and Hall also had seven assists. Ladon Garrett and Anthony Campbell each contributed nine points.

The contest was close most of the way, with the Lakers holding a 41-38 halftime edge.

The top scorer of the night was Prince George's Bryant Moore, who finished with 32 points, while teammate James Mackey netted 22 points. Nearly half of Mackey's total came at the foul line, from which he converted nine of 10 shots. Burgess Williams scored nine points and pulled down 11 rebounds.

The Lakers get little rest, as they are scheduled to travel to Penn State-McKeesport for a game this evening. Then they will go to Cumberland this Saturday for a huge game against nationally ranked Allegany College of Maryland. They will play at the Dundalk Campus of the Community College of Baltimore County next Wednesday.

Elks Free-Throw Contest Set At Southern High

The local competition for the 29th annual Elks Hoop Shoot, a national free-throw competition for youth from 8 through 13 years old, will get under way at 11:30 a.m. Saturday, Jan. 20, at Southern High School. The SHS event is open to entrants from throughout the tri-state area.

The contest is divided into three age categories of 8-9, 10-11, and 12-13. Each contestant has 25 shots at the hoop, and one boy and one girl from each age group can advance from the Jan. 20 competition to a subsequent hoop shoot in Hagerstown on Saturday, Feb. 17. Additional tiers of competition will eventually qualify finalists for the national event, slated for April in Springfield, Mass. Names of the national winners will be inscribed on the Elks National Hoop Shoot plaque, which is permanently displayed in basketball's Naismith Memorial Hall of Fame in Springfield.

Oakland's Mike Saturday Jr. and Swanton's Rich Skipper are past local winners, and both eventually advanced all the way to the national finals. Over 3 million youth competed in the nationwide contest last year.

For further information interested persons may contact Mark Grimm at 301-334-1763 or the Oakland Elks Lodge at 301-334-1119.

Mettiki, Gonder, Bosley Take Rec. League Victories

The Men's Recreational Basketball League action of this past Sunday featured victories by squads sponsored by Mettiki Coal, Gonder Insurance, and Daniel Bosley Construction.

The first game was the closest contest of the day as Mettiki downed the Barracudas 67-59 behind a 22-point performance by Mike Saturday. Kevin Liller added 16 points for the victors, while the Barracudas were paced by Doug Copeland's 22 points.

Game 2 was a blowout, as Gonder Insurance stomped Quality Machine 71-40. Bill Braithwaite led all scorers with 25 points for Gonder, while teammate Dennis Skeweris netted 18 points. Jeremy Skiles scored 11 points for Quality Machine.

Bosley Construction hammered Patterson Boat Company in the day's finale, 77-53. Paul Lewis led Bosley Construction with 21 points and teammate Tom Stem contributed 16 points. Barry Louden sank 17 points for Patterson Boat.

This Sunday's schedule leads off with a 6 p.m. match-up between Patterson Boat and Gonder Insurance. Mettiki Coal and Quality Machine square off at 7 p.m., and an 8 p.m. battle between Bosley Construction and the Barracudas will bring the action to a close.

219 Motors, DC Ready Mix Take Mt. Top Action

Mt. Top Basketball League play of this week featured two outstanding contests between evenly matched squads. A last-second shot lifted 219 Motors to an 82-81 victory over Smiley's in a nail-biter that was nearly repeated as Deep Creek Ready Mix prevailed to take a two-point win over Long Branch Saloon, 60-58.

Jeremiah Keller crashed the boards for 219 Motors to snag an offensive rebound and sink the game-winning bucket as the clock wained. Mike Fazenbaker scored 22 points for 219 Motors to lead all scorers, while Keller added 19 and Jon Hegeman scored 16.

BASKETBALL BALLET? — Athletic ability can sometimes seem to cross genres, as Garrett Community College's Rob Hall (#12) is shown above combining quickness, strength, and concentration in a manner as suited to ballet as it is to basketball. Hall recorded 14 points and seven assists during last night's 94-84 Laker victory over visiting Prince George's. Below, Garrett's Lee Parris (#32) goes skyward for two of his 12 points as teammates Jontae Harrington (#42) and Antonio Lappegard (#40) look on. The Lakers' fine teamwork resulted in a balanced performance, as Harrington's best game of the season so far, 27 points and 11 rebounds, was supplemented by 16 points from Lappegard and 12 points by Parris. GCC visits Allegany Saturday night.

Smiley's balanced scoring attack was led by Scott Shahan's 21-point performance as teammate Joe Refosco contributed 20 and Mike Harvey scored 19 points.

Deep Creek Ready Mix's single-bucket win featured another balanced offense as Joey DiSimone took team high honors with 16 points, C.H. Getson hit for 15, and Mike Browning finished with 14. Long Branch's Doug Copeland led all scorers with 24 points.

Mt. Top play resumes Sunday at Southern High as Condoerr and Long Branch square off at 1 p.m., with Skiles's players taking care of the scoring duties. At 2 p.m. Skiles takes on Mt. Top Glass with Condoerr scoring, and the finale pits Smiley's against Deep Creek Ready Mix with Mt. Top Glass scoring.

Lakers Women Resume Play With Cambria Win, Catonsville Loss

The women's basketball team of Garrett Community College came off its holiday hiatus this week to split a pair of road outings, crushing Cambria County 66-43 Saturday before dropping a hard-fought 53-49 contest at Catonsville Tuesday. The action gives the Lakers a 4-3 record heading into a week that will include a McHenry visit Tuesday from their arch-rival Allegany Trojans.

The Lakers demolished Cambria County by 23 points Saturday as sophomore forward Erica Henderson scored 11 points and pulled down 13 rebounds, and freshman guard Christi Edgell netted 11 points as well. Shawntice McLaughlin, a sophomore guard, dished out a team-high seven assists to her teammates. Cambria was paced by a game-high 14-point performance by Heather Mandel.

The lead changed hands four times in the opening 13 minutes before the Lakers claimed the lead for good, 13-11, with seven minutes remaining in the first half. Garrett was up 29-20 at the intermission. "We were a little flat due to the holiday break, but I'm pleased to get the win nonetheless," commented GCC coach Ann Wellham. A large portion of her squad's success came because of the Lakers' aggressive play under the boards, as Garrett outrebounded the hosts by a 61-37 margin.

A ragged first half doomed GCC to defeat Monday at Catonsville as the hosts jumped out to a 31-15 lead. The tale of two halves took a decidedly better turn in the second stanza as the Lakers stormed back to outscore the Cardinals 34-22, but the final buzzer cut off the comeback as Garrett cut the margin to four.

JoEllen Kitt paced GCC with 16 points, a performance that included a 10-for-13 tally from the charity stripe. McLaughlin scored eight points and Edgell added seven. LaTonya Eldridge led the hosts with 23 points.

The Lakers host Montgomery College—Rockville tomorrow night, then welcome the College of Southern Maryland the following evening; both of those games begin at 5 p.m. Garrett travels to Anne Arundel Monday night, then returns to McHenry Tuesday night for a 5 p.m. match-up with Allegany College of Maryland.

Miriam Sincell, a junior sweeper who has turned away numerous would-be goals for the Southern High School girls' varsity soccer team the past two seasons, led a group of five Rams named to the All-Area soccer team, and six named to the All-Western Maryland Interscholastic League squad, as determined by a vote of area coaches.

Sincell, who was a key player in the Ram defense that allowed an average of less than one goal per match this past season, was selected the Defensive Player of the Year in the All-Area voting, and was named the Player of the Year in balloting of the WMIL coaches. She was an All-Area selection last year, and was the Defensive Player of the Year in the WMIL last season.

Meanwhile, Sincell's freshman teammate Casey Taylor was named the Offensive Player of the Year for the All-WMIL team, and was also an All-Area selection.

Also named to the All-Area team from Coach Ron Petrella's 2000 squad was another freshman striker, Sabrina Scheffel, sophomore midfielder Brittany Naylor, and junior midfielder Megan Burner. The same five, plus goalkeeper Becky Martin, were all named to the All-WMIL team. Martin was a second team All-Area pick.

Northern High School was represented on the All-WMIL team, as junior striker Emily Rawe was named.

"Miriam Sincell is an outstanding sweeper," Coach Petrella said. "Her performance was one of the main reasons why we allowed only seven goals the entire season and had seven shutouts. Her combination of speed, acceleration, and agility makes it very difficult for attackers to penetrate, and she just gets better every year."

The Rams finished the 2000 regular season with a 12-1 record, their first All-Area title, and their second WMIL title in the past three seasons. They were eliminated from the playoffs by Williamsport, the eventual West Region champion.

Southern's defensive unit over the past two seasons has allowed only 25 goals in 25 matches.

Pacing the Ram offense, which averaged 3.2 goals per outing, were Taylor, Scheffel, and Naylor, who combined to score 23 of Southern's 45 goals. Taylor led the team in scoring and was fourth in the area with nine goals and four assists. In WMIL competition, she shared the scoring title with Rawe of Northern.

Scheffel, another rare freshman selection to the first-team All-Area squad, was the second leading scorer for the Rams, as she recorded eight goals and four assists. She was second in the WMIL scoring rankings.

"Of course, one of the nicest things about both of these girls (Taylor and Scheffel) is that they are going to be around for three more years," Petrella said.

Naylor was third on the team in scoring this season, after leading the team the previous year as a freshman striker. She scored six goals and recorded four assists this past season.

"Brittany has a lot of versatility and great ball skills, and plays very well both directions on the field," Petrella said.

The strongest foot on the Rams' field is no doubt that of Megan Burner, who handled most of the team's free kicks and corner kicks, and was an integral part of both offense and defense from her center midfielder position. She also had two goals in the Rams' big 3-1 victory over previously unbeaten Bishop Walsh.

"Megan is a strong, versatile player, who is another major key to our defense, but also in getting the ball downfield on attacks," Petrella said.

Becky Martin, a junior, led the area in save percentage during the regular season with a .921 percentage and had six shutouts, and perhaps could have had a few more had she not missed the last three matches because of injury. She also led the WMIL in save percentage with a .956 effort (22 saves, one goal), and had two shutouts in league play. She allowed a total of only 10 goals in 14 matches for the year.

"Becky is one of our team captains, and certainly one of our most talented players," Petrella said. "She would also perform very well on the field, out of the goal, at any other position."

Emily Rawe of Northern, a junior striker who shared the WMIL scoring title with Taylor of Southern, recorded four goals and one assist in five WMIL matches. She led the Huskies in scoring, finishing eighth in the area with eight goals and three assists in 16 games, to help the Huskies finish second in the league with a 4-1 mark (7-7-2 overall).

"Emily is a very aggressive player with exceptional skills," stated Northern coach Connie Meyers. "It will be great to have her back next year."

Named to the All-WMIL second team were Lyndsi Butler and Kristin Lander of Northern, while Northern's Brooke Butler received honorable mention.

Bishop Walsh also had five players named to the All-Area first team, including Area Player of the Year Shera Rowan and Offensive Player of the Year Karen Knight. Allegany, Frankfort, and Westmar each had two selections, while Beall, Fort Hill, and Keyser had one each.

AN OUTSTANDING SEASON was recorded this fall by Northern Ice, the under-14 girls' team of the Northern Garrett Soccer Club, the members of which were honored recently at their end-of-season banquet, held at the Springs (Pa.) Mennonite Church. The team, which consists of 15 girls from northern Garrett County, plus two from nearby Salisbury, Pa., not only won all 10 games this season, but gave up a total of only two goals. Coached by John Milbourne, the girls played teams from the Cumberland and Frostburg areas, as well as some teams in West Virginia. "These girls are the future of Northern High School's soccer program once they begin to play together there," Milbourne said. "Most of them have played together for the last four years, and so the level of teamwork has increased markedly." The team received donations from Dynamic Enterprises and Locker Lane Holsteins. Pictured from left above, front, are: Amy Brenneman, Laura Costa, and Tiffany Yoder (co-captain). Seated in the second row are: Amy Shaffer, Erin Brenneman, Bethani Gillum, Markell Klavuhn, and Chelsa Green. Standing, same order, are: Lindsay Schrock, Brittany Milbourne, Britta Lais (co-captain), Susan Kolb, Jackie Folk, and Stephanie Beachy. Not present for the photo were Jade Klavuhn, Megan Shaffer, and Lakin Welmer. Any girl interested in playing soccer for Northern Ice and/or obtaining more information may contact Felicia Schrock, secretary of the NGSC, at 301-895-3151.

Garrett County Outdoors

By Robert Yonke

Well, here it is, the first column of the new year, and though Garrett County is in a deep freeze (I heard that we had the coldest November and December...ever), there is some outdoor-oriented activity going on.

D & B Sport Shop in Deer Park is having its winter indoor archery league again, and proprietor Dan Milavec invites interested shooters to sign up for a one-night-a-week competition and socializing. The skills honed in the winter league must pay off somewhat, as many of the successful hunters I mention in this column are also league members.

There isn't much time left to sign up, as competition starts on the 15th of this month, but there is still room.

Bill Savage of the Swanton area bagged a nice 300-lb. plus bear hunting in West Virginia. Needless to say, Bill was tickled with his trophy, but told me of a much larger 500-pounder taken by another member of his party. This bear hunting in West Virginia isn't for the faint of heart. It seems that another friend of Doc's waded into a fracas between his dogs and a big bear, and had the bear turn on him. Got chewed up a bit and has a couple hundred stitches holding him together.

I wish I knew who the angler was, but reports here indicate that there was a 44-inch northern pike taken through the ice in the Pawn Run area of Deep Creek Lake. This "bigun" was hooked the afternoon of the last day of deer season. John Clark, who lives on 219 near Johnny's Bait House, said that there has been quite a community of ice fishermen on Deep Creek between his place and the state park. Some of these hardy souls have been staying out at night. Hope they are using marker lights, what with snowmobile traffic on the lake with the current freeze.

LATE SEASON SUCCESS

We have had a few last-minute deer trophies reported. Congratulations to Jesse Harvey, who bagged a nice eight-point near Kitzmiller. Also, congrats are in order for Terry Lucas, who nailed a seven-point buck near Sang Run. Kenny Collins had two to his credit. He got a five- and an eight-point near Boiling Springs. I'd like to mention Rick Paugh's six-pointer taken near Steyer, and Ralph "Gilbert" Livengood's spike taken in Swanton. And, we sure can't forget Melvin Secrist's 10-pointer (with an 18-inch spread) that he got around Lost Land.

My next project is going to be getting the family fishing boat in shape for spring. My problem is that our building isn't heated, and it has been a bit cold to work comfortably. But, as soon as this cold breaks...Florida, maybe.

JUNIOR DUCK STAMP COMPETITION UNDER WAY

Maryland students, from kindergarten through 12th grade, have until March 15 to submit drawings in the Maryland Junior Duck Stamp Contest, a competition sponsored by the Maryland Department of Natural Resources (DNR), Patuxent Research Refuge, Prince George's Arts Council, and the Maryland-National Capital Park and Planning Commission. The students are asked to create designs which feature any species of North American waterfowl, except for mute swans and loons.

The entries (only one per student) must be horizontal, no more than nine inches by 12 inches, and are open to all art mediums. The Prince George's Arts Council will award the "Best of Show" entry a $100 U.S. Savings Bond, and advance it to the national contest to compete for a free trip for the student, with a parent and art teacher, to Washington and a chance to win a $2,500 cash award.

Judging, by age group, will take place at the National Wildlife Visitor Center at the Patuxent Wildlife Research Center in Laurel on March 21 at 9 a.m. All first-, second-, and third-place winners, as well as honorable mentions, will receive show ribbons and participation certificates. All first-place winners will receive a $75 U.S. Savings Bond.

Maryland's 2001 winning entries will be exhibited at the Family Wildlife Festival at the Harmony Regional Center in Fort Washington, Saturday, March 24, and at the National Wildlife Visitor's Center May 1-30. A grand awards ceremony for all Marylanders will take place at the National Wildlife Visitor Center on Saturday, May 12, and the winning entries will tour the state. The sites include the Ward Museum of Waterfowl Art in Salisbury, Havre de Grace Decoy Museum, and the 2001 Waterfowl Festival in Easton. For more information and contest materials, please call 301-[illegible]

My friend Bill Savage, after relating the bear tales, took me to see several racks hanging in a tree near his home. Bill took these in Maryland and West Virginia this season. Way to go, Doc.

Arsenal Teams Competitive In WVU Tournament

This past weekend, the Arsenal Football soccer program began its winter indoor season by participating in the Soccer-In-Schools Indoor Tournament at West Virginia University. The club's U-12 boys' and girls' teams competed Friday evening. Though the boys' team was defeated in all three games, the young team played against strong competition. The girls' team fared very well, winning two of the three games, but failing to go on to the division finals by goal differential.

The U-14 boys' and girls' teams played on Saturday. The girls' team was very competitive, in spite of suffering three defeats. Goals were scored by Melissa Rohrbaugh, Brittnay Milbourne, and Susan Kolb. In the boys' division, the local team lost three matches against superior competition. Ryan Heselbach scored the lone goal for Arsenal, while Taylor Crabtree collected 16 saves in two games. Heselbach recorded five saves in the final contest.

Saturday evening saw the U-19 girls of Arsenal record a 0-0 draw against a select team from Pittsburgh. In the second match, Arsenal lost a heartbreaker by a 1-0 score. In the final match against eventual winner Blue-Gray Women's Soccer, Arsenal dropped the match 5-0 to the much stronger and older team. Goalkeeper Alasha Rush recorded 24 saves in the three matches.

The U-19 boys' division matches were held Sunday. Arsenal White played against three premier clubs and, in spite of losing three matches, were competitive. The scores were 3-0, 1-0, 2-0. Two of the three teams they faced played in the semi-final matches. Arsenal Green played later in the afternoon and, while also dropping all three matches by scores of 1-0, 8-0, 3-1, played competitively against strong competition.

Though Arsenal's record for the tournament was less than hoped for, a club spokesman expressed an optimistic tone on the results. "At tournaments such as these, we are the only club whose players play other sports. All the teams against whom we compete are solely year-round soccer players, have indoor facilities at their disposal to practice two to three times per week, usually have paid coaching staffs, and play in winter leagues, as well as the normal fall and spring outdoor seasons. The fact that we have become as competitive as we are in just four years is a testimony to the dedication of the many who are helping to make soccer a success in Garrett County. We look forward to the possibility of being included in the proposed community event building to be constructed at the county fairgrounds and the Adventure Sports complex to be constructed in the future," stated Mel Menker, Arsenal director.

The club will play at the Bridgeport Tournament this Sunday, Jan. 14.

"LITTLE RASCALS" ADOPT GRANDPARENTS — Students of the Little Rascals Early Learning Center in Oakland, prompted by an article in The Republican, decided to "adopt" some grandparents for the holiday season and beyond. The children collected money in December to purchase gifts, and then took a field trip to the Cuppett and Weeks Nursing Home in Oakland to meet "Grandpa Reaford" and "Grandma Elsie." The youngsters sang Christmas songs for their new friends and presented them with gift baskets. Debbie Shaluta, instructor at the center, said the young students are going to maintain their friendship with Reaford and Elsie, and are already planning to make another visit on Valentine's Day. Debbie Shaluta and Shelly Matthews, co-owners and teachers at the center, said they like to educate the children about giving and kindness by engaging in similar projects each year. Every year a food drive is held at the center for the House of Hope, and last year the children donated money for Warm the Children. Pictured above in the front, from left, are Wesley Spaid, Maddie Jo Pyle, Keeton Taylor, Greyson Messenger, and Brooke Sisler. In the second row, same order, are Rachel Warnick, Seth Holler, Madison Cooper, Ryan Wilburn, Rebecca Flinn, and Konzie McCauley. In the back are Will Fredlock, Lucas Ritchie, Grandpa Reaford, and Grandma Elsie.

Child Education Courses To Take Place In Oakland

Two courses for persons who plan to teach or care for young children will be offered by Garrett Community College during spring semester at the Mary Browning Senior Center in Oakland. Both courses will be taught by Dr. Gail Herman, educator and specialist in early childhood education.

Early Childhood Education I (ED 101) is scheduled for Tuesdays from 3:30 to 6:30 p.m., beginning Jan. 23. This course will present an introduction to the profession of early childhood education, its history, and the theoretical and philosophical considerations associated with this field of education. Emphasis will be placed on early childhood growth and development, curriculum in early childhood programs, and the roles of family and community. This course is required for students seeking a certificate or degree in early childhood education.

Movement Experiences with Children (ED 104) will be given on Mondays from 3:30 to 6:30 p.m., beginning Jan. 22. This course will present basic aspects of movement education and the process through which students become physically educated. Emphasis will be on movement experiences with pre-school and elementary school children.

Students may register for these courses at the Student Assistance Center weekdays during business hours. For further information, interested persons may call 301-387-3044.

CARING KIDS AT KITZMILLER — Students at the Kitzmiller Elementary School joined together this past holiday season to help one of their peers, a child suffering with a terminal illness. Each day for two weeks, the youngsters "dropped their love at noon" by donating change that was originally meant for the purchase of ice cream or Santa's workshop gifts. The change added up to $102.67, which was used to purchase toys for the little boy who is being treated at Johns Hopkins Hospital in Baltimore. The character traits studied by the students in November and December were "caring" and "giving," both of which the youngsters demonstrated well through this fund-raising effort.

Western Maryland AHEC Receives Education Grant

Thanks to a grant from the federal Institute of Museum and Library Services (IMLS), the Western Maryland Area Education Center (WMAHEC) will provide distance education, hands-on training, and resources for rural health information providers in western Maryland, West Virginia, and South Carolina to increase their ability to use and advocate for health science information technology. In turn, these skills will help information providers teach rural residents to effectively evaluate and use such health science information. Bringing Effective Skills and Technology Together (B.E.S.T.T.) is a National Leadership Grant, one of 14 selected by IMLS this year. The University of South Carolina School of Medicine Library and West Virginia Library Association are partners with WMAHEC in creating and contributing to the success of B.E.S.T.T.

"It is an honor to receive this prestigious award," acknowledged Kery Hummel, executive director of WMAHEC. "These IMLS funds will help us equip rural information providers — who often do not have the resources to attend national conferences — to be leaders in their field." A conference for rural information providers in the three states named, covering the latest technologies for health care information, is tentatively scheduled for June 2001. Follow-up training in using critical thinking tools to evaluate health care information will also be provided.

"Libraries are more important than ever in the digital information age," noted Beverly Sheppard, acting director of IMLS. "As new technologies change the way libraries do business and provide services, research is needed to develop and test potential improvements. We are proud of these forward-thinking institutions. Their projects will increase access to valuable information and expand our knowledge of our world."

IMLS is a federal grant-making agency located in Washington, D.C., that fosters leadership, innovation, and a lifetime of learning by supporting museums and libraries. For more information on B.E.S.T.T., persons may contact Mary Spalding-Edgerly at 301-777-9150, Ext. 147.

Dr. Behrens To Be Speaker For Baptist Revival

"Heaven Help the Home" is the theme of this year's family revival at the Mountain Lake Independent Baptist Church, located along Broadford Road in Oakland. The services will begin Sunday, Jan. 14, at 9:45 a.m. and will continue each evening at 7 p.m. through Friday, Jan. 19. Dr. Bill Behrens, Philadelphia, Pa., will be the speaker for the meetings.

After graduation from high school, Dr. Behrens joined the U.S. Marine Corps, serving with the III Marine Amphibious Forces in Vietnam from 1967 until 1969. He was present for the Tet offensive of 1968. From 1968 until 1969, he served as a Marine Corps drill instructor at Parris Island, S.C. He was awarded the Combat Action ribbon, the Navy Unit Commendation, and the Marine Corps Drill Instructor ribbon.

Behrens said the course of his life was changed on Nov. 9, 1969, when he "trusted Jesus Christ" as his "personal savior." For over 26 years, he has served the Fairhaven Baptist Church and College of Chesterton as assistant pastor, administrator, vice president, and executive vice president of the college. Fairhaven Baptist College enrolls approximately 200 students, with the church reportedly averaging 2,200 on Sunday mornings.

"Dr. Behrens is uniquely qualified to preach on the family," said Pastor Dennis Leatherman of the Mountain Lake Independent Baptist Church. "He has not only been happily married for more than 20 years, and not only are all his children graduates of fundamental Baptist colleges and serving in independent Baptist churches, but he has counseled with hundreds of young couples in college and around the nation on issues such as marriage, home, child rearing, and finances."

Behrens travels as an evangelist in the United States and Europe, holding revival services along with family conferences, Sunday school seminars, and Sunday school teacher training sessions.

The public is invited to attend the services. Transportation is available and a nursery will be provided for all services. For more information, persons may contact Leatherman at 301-334-3234 or 301-334-4042.

BILL O'BRIEN
January 16, 1997

In our chest of cherished memories
We've locked up thoughts of you your smiling face your tender love and the things we used to do.
And when days are sad and lonely and everything goes wrong,
We seem to hear you whisper,
"Cheer up and carry on"
Each time we see your picture You seem to smile and say,
"Don't cry I'm in God's keeping We'll meet again some day"

Treating Allergic Conjunctivitis

Allergic conjunctivitis (also called ocular allergy) frequently occurs in persons who suffer from chronic allergy problems. The white portion of the eyes becomes inflamed and may itch. The eyelids also may swell and become inflamed. Allergic conjunctivitis is caused by exposure to various allergens such as cat dander, smoke, dust, mold, fungus, ultraviolet light, or even strong sunlight. Although sufferers may complain of a burning sensation in the eye, vision usually is not affected.

Antihistamine-containing eye drops help relieve allergic symptoms. They must be administered repeatedly and sometimes may sting when applied.

Brown Awarded Audiology Board Certification

Oakland resident Jana Brown has earned board certification in audiology from the American Board of Audiology. Brown is currently Director of Audiology for RehabSolutions, formerly Allegany Hearing and Speech Associates, and has been employed with the Oakland practice since 1990.

Board certification in audiology is designed to identify and formally recognize audiologists whose knowledge base and clinical skills are consistent with the highest professionally established standards. "The willingness on the part of a busy audiologist to take this extra step in demonstrating professional excellence is to be commended," commented current board chairman Robert W. Keith, Ph.D.

Brown graduated from West Virginia University with a master of science degree in audiology in 1982, and was employed by Weirton Steel Corporation in West Virginia, then Newport News Shipbuilding in Newport News, Va., prior to coming to RehabSolutions. Brown provides complete hearing evaluations, among other services, and her specialty areas include hearing aids, balance disorders, and industrial hearing conservation.

Agency Plans To Open A Health, Fitness Center

The Garrett County Area Agency on Aging is taking the theme "It's never too late to be healthy" to heart by planning to develop a community-based health and fitness center in Accident to provide physical activity programs specifically designed for older adults.

"Older adults, both male and female, can benefit from regular physical activity," stated Ronnie Padmos, coordinator of the Older Americans Act programs. Although the risk of disease and disability increases with advancing age, according to the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention, chronic diseases are not an inevitable consequence of aging. In many cases their origins are grounded in health-damaging behaviors — including physical inactivity, poor nutrition, and tobacco use — that many people practice every day. Physical activity can help people with chronic, disabling conditions improve their stamina and muscle strength. "Staying physically active is a key to good health well into later years, yet only 1 in 4 older adults exercises regularly," reports the American Heart Association.

The Area Agency on Aging staff says it is hoping to improve on those numbers in Garrett County. The Senior Health and Fitness Center will be located at the Flowery Vale Senior Center in Accident. The center will offer fitness programs that include aerobics, flexibility, and strength and endurance training, plus regular informational classes on chronic diseases, such as osteoporosis, arthritis, high blood pressure, and diabetes mellitus. Partners in the center include the Garrett County Health Department, Extension office, Garrett County Memorial Hospital Wellness, GO PT, and the Western Maryland Area Health Education Center.

The Health and Fitness Center will need equipment such as stationary bikes, treadmills, or steppers to add to the program. Persons who have pieces of exercise equipment in good condition are asked to consider donating it to the center, which is to open in the spring. Persons desiring more information or willing to donate a piece of equipment may call 301-334-9431, ext. 140, or 888-877-8403.

Dental Health Group Welcomes T. Longest, DDS

Dr. Timothy S. Longest has joined the staff of the Dental Health Group, located along Rt. 219 north of Oakland. Dr. Longest, a native of the Baltimore area, has practiced dentistry in Cumberland for the past 12 years.

He graduated in 1984 from the University of Maryland with a bachelor of arts degree in biological sciences. He then graduated in 1988 from the University of Maryland Dental School.

Longest is a member of the Allegany-Garrett County Dental Society, the Maryland State Dental Association, and the American Dental Association. He is also a member of the Academy of General Dentistry.

The dentist taught at Allegany College for 10 years, instructing classes in the dental hygiene program. For the past three years, he has been attending the Center for Advanced Dental Education in St. Petersburg, Fla., along with Dr. William Yant, also of the Dental Health Group.

The addition of Longest brings the number of dentists at the group to three, along with one orthodontist. They are assisted by nine other staff members.

Longest, presently a resident of Cumberland, said that he and his wife Denise, as well as their two children, Nathaniel and Alexandra, are looking forward to their move to Garrett County.

$600 FOR HOSPICE - Hospice of Garrett County recently received a donation from the employees and management of Garrett Container Systems, Accident, in memory of one of their co-workers, Carol Platter, who resided near Keyser's Ridge. Employee Valerie Savage said that Ms. Platter had always organized the company gift exchange and Christmas party, and that it was the idea of another employee, Kristian Moore, this year to make a donation to Hospice in lieu of the party and gifts. The employees donated $300, and the company matched that amount. Moore is pictured above making the check presentation to Brenda Butscher, executive director of Hospice. "I learned from the employees that Ms. Platter spoke very highly of Hospice care and compassion," Butscher said. "I am impressed by the expressions of love and grief shown by the employees in this manner, and we sincerely appreciate the memorial donation."

CERVICAL HEALTH MONTH is January, as proclaimed statewide and locally this week. Staff members of the Garrett County Health Department's Community Outreach met with the commissioners Tuesday to join the observance. According to the proclamation document, approximately 300 women in Maryland will be diagnosed this year with invasive cervical cancer, and about 75% of these individuals will die from the disease. The cancer is the most preventable in women and can be found in its early stages through a pap test. In light of this fact, the health department is offering free pap tests during the month of January. To schedule a test, women may call 301-334-8111 or 301-895-3111. The health department also has a breast and cervical cancer screening program that is free to eligible women. Persons interested in these tests may contact Gail Dever at 301-334-8122 or 301-895-3113. Pictured seated are Garrett County Commissioners Fred Holliday (left) and Ernest Gregg. Standing from left are Brenda Frazee, Sharon Custer, Gail Dever, and Michael Gibbons, all outreach workers. Not present for the photo were Nancy Brady and Sandy Sutton.

Free Pap Smear Clinics Slated By Health Dept.

As part of January's Cervical Health Month observance, the Garrett County Health Department is offering free Pap smear clinics for any women in the county in need of screening for cervical cancer. Interested persons may call the health department at 301-334-8111 or 301-895-3111 for more information about the free service or to make the required appointment.

The American Cancer Society recommends annual Pap tests be performed during a pelvic exam of all women 18 and older and any others who are, or have been, sexually active. Described as a "simple and quick procedure" by the Maryland chapter of the ACS, the Pap test has "proven to be the first and most crucial step in fighting cervical cancer.

Over 300 Maryland residents were diagnosed with invasive cervical cancer this past year alone. Although there are no warning signs for cervical cancer, when the disease is detected early the treatment is fairly simple and highly effective. The best way to prevent cervical cancer is through regular Pap tests, which can detect abnormal changes in cervical cells before they become cancerous, according to the Cancer Society.

COALITION TO MEET - The Garrett County Tobacco-Free Coalition will next Wednesday, Jan. 17, from noon to 1:30 p.m. at the Garrett County Health Department building, located at G.W. Plaza, just east of Mtn. Lake Park. The purpose of the meeting is to present a draft of the local tobacco control plan that will be funded by the Cigarette Restitution Funds, which were awarded to the state by the federal courts. Pictured above in front of a Great American Smokeout display created by the coalition are Donna J. Park and Michael C. Gibbons, both of the health department's outreach program. All are invited to attend the meeting.

Alzheimer's "Safe Return" Program Available In GC

Mountain Glade Adult Day Services is now a registration site for the "Safe Return" program of the Alzheimer's Association, according to the organization's Western Maryland Chapter. Safe Return is a registration, identification, and support program of the Alzheimer's Association designed to enhance the safety of memory-impaired adults who are at risk of wandering. The nationwide program provides 24-hour assistance to families affected by Alzheimer's disease and related disorders.

"Alzheimer's disease causes millions of Americans to lose their ability to recognize familiar places and people," said Barbara Pilgrim, executive director of the Western Maryland Chapter. "Many cannot remember their own names or addresses, and become disoriented and lost even in familiar surroundings."

Participants in the Safe Return program are registered in a nationwide database which includes identifying information about each person along with a recent photograph. When a registrant is missing, that information is distributed immediately to local law enforcement officers to assist in search, rescue, and identification efforts.

When a missing program participant is located, his or her identification bracelet or necklace provides a toll-free number and a code number unique to the individual. This information enables a "good samaritan" or emergency responder to contact Safe Return, then a trained program operator will contact the family to arrange for them to be reunited with their loved one.

Western Maryland families interested in registering loved ones in the Safe Return program can obtain a registration form at Mountain Glade Adult Day Services, and return the form to the facility when completed along with the $40 registration fee and photos of the participant. Mountain Glade will submit the registration packet to the Safe Return office, while the family will be provided with both a copy of the registration form and a photo to keep in their home to assist in the event of a wandering incident.

Additional information about the Safe Return program can be obtained by calling the Western Maryland Chapter of the Alzheimer's Association at 800-696-6830. For more information about chapter services interested persons may consult the web site www.azwmd.org.

RELAY FOR LIFE CAPTAINS MEETING SET — A kickoff meeting for persons interested in serving as team captains for this year's American Cancer Society Relay for Life is slated Tuesday, Jan. 16, in Room 305 of the Continuing Education Building of Garrett Community College. "We scheduled this meeting in a central location to accommodate all interested persons from the northern end of Garrett County, as well as those from the southern end" a Relay spokesperson said. "Team captain meetings are the best means of timely communication between the planning committee and the teams, and we especially welcome any newcomers to the Relay who would like to come and learn more about fielding a team of their own." Each team captain in attendance at Tuesday's meeting will receive a gift, and if a captain is unable to attend, organizers request a team representative be sent in the captain's place. The Relay for Life is the Cancer Society's signature fund-raiser, which draws hundreds of residents from across the region who walk throughout the night. Funds raised by the event go to expanding services to local cancer patients and their families, educational programs that will reduce the risk of cancer, and to expand cancer research programs. For further information interested persons may contact Relay co-chairs Doug Riley at 301-334-8798 or Linda Fike at 301-387-3049. Some of the walkers from last years event are shown on the Southern High School track, where this year's event will take place Friday and Saturday, June 8 and 9.

Accident Visit Of Bloodmobile Nets 49 Units

An American Red Cross bloodmobile visited Zion Lutheran Church, Accident, on January 8. Forty-nine productive units of blood were obtained from 58 prospective donors.

Gallon milestones reached by donors included Albert Yoder, Larry Maxim, and Barry Frazee, two gallons, and Pam Cutler and Diane Maust, three gallons. Jack Beitzel was a first-time donor.

Volunteers serving at the blood drive were, registration, Rev. Dr. Wilfred L. Karsten; greeters, Mildred Haenftling and Arlene Georg; walkers, Earl Haenftling, Jack Parker, and Tom and Patty Hileman; and canteen, Carol Edmiston, Dortha Bowser, Linda Oester, Charlotte Scbold, Ruth Bowman, Helen Harman, and Lynette Karsten. Helping to set up were Hobert Bowser, Donald Einolf Jr., Wayne Harman, Jack Parker, Tom Hileman, and the Zion Men's Club. Sandwiches were provided by the Zion Lutheran Ladies Aid, the sponsor of the drive. Cookies were donated by Accident's Olde Flour Shoppe Bakery, and orange juice was provided by Potomac Farms.

Christmas Tree Removal Urged By Fire Marshal

Now that the holidays are over, State Fire Marshal Rocco J. Gabriele urges Marylanders to remove natural Christmas trees from their homes. Although only a few home fires involved Christmas trees this year, largely because this year's trees were fresh and healthy, Gabriele cautions residents about keeping them indoors too long. "Natural trees begin to dry out as soon as they are cut; by now most should be pretty dry," he said.

Most trees have been indoors for more than three weeks, which is the maximum amount of time that they should remain inside, he added.

Cumberland To Host Bus To PACE Reception

The Cumberland mayor and city council has announced that the city of Cumberland will be taking a 47-seat passenger bus to the annual PACE reception on January 25 in Annapolis. Acknowledging the bi-county effort this year, the bus will leave at 1 p.m. from the Grantsville Holiday Inn, stop at the Cumberland Holiday Inn to pick up additional passengers, and depart at 2 p.m. The bus will depart Annapolis from the Loews Hotel immediately following the reception.

The cost for a reservation is $20 per person. Reservations will be on a first-come, first served basis, and payment will be collected at the bus before departure. Checks should be made payable to "Mayor and City Council of Cumberland."

Those interested in riding the bus or needing further information may contact Cumberland City Hall at 301-722-2000.

Event Information May Be Added To Chamber Web Site

The Garrett County Chamber of Commeree has made it easier for local organizations to promote community happenings through its on-line "Calendar of Events." Organizations may now quickly and easily electronically submit items for inclusion at any time, according to a chamber spokesperson.

Five to ten thousand people visit the chamber's web site each month. Listing community activities helps both the group hosting the event and the overall community, the spokesperson said.

The chamber's homepage may be found at www.garrettchamber.com. Once on the page, the viewer should point to the box "Visiting Garrett County," and then click on "calendar of events" from the menu. A list of months will appear following the words "add an event." The viewer may select to add to or access the information that is currently appearing on the calendar.

To add an event, the sponsoring organization need only click on that option and an application form will appear. Once filled out and entered, the application will be subject to chamber staff review to ensure that the listing is both entertainment oriented and community appropriate. The item submitted via the Internet will be entered into the Calendar of Events database within two to three business days from the time of application.

Organizations need not be members of the Garrett County Chamber of Commerce to take advantage of this opportunity to publicize activities and events using this system, which was developed by the chamber as a public service to both residents and visitors.

Since not everyone has access to a computer, organizations are welcome to continue submitting items for the calendar by mail or fax. The mailing address is: The Garrett County Chamber of Commerce, 15 Visitors Center Drive, Mcllenry, MD 21541. The fax number for the chamber is 301-387-2080. Comments or questions may also be directed to the chamber staff at 301-387-4FUN (4386).

District Court Phone Number Now Toll Free

The District Court of Maryland in Garrett County has announced a new toll-free telephone number for its commissioners' office. Citizens can now call 1-877-519-9766 to contact the District 12 court commissioners' office without having to pay a long-distance fee.

"It will definitely be a financial relief for residents, albeit small," related Annetta Lamonica, administrative commissioner for the District Court of Maryland in Garrett County. "Residents shouldn't have to pay a long-distance fee to speak to the court commissioners."

The Garrett County office of the district court commissioners is open from 8 a.m. to 4 p.m., Monday through Friday, and on the weekends from 8 a.m. to noon. The office operates on an on-call system after hours, which permits 24-hour access by the private sector, as well as law enforcement agencies countywide.

District court commissioners are judicial officers who hold hearings in criminal and traffic cases, and determine the conditions for pre-trial release for arrested individuals. Commissioners also review applications from law enforcement agencies and private citizens for the issuance of charging documents. After reviewing for probable cause, the commissioner will issue charges based on the statement of facts in the application.

Former Local Resident Honored

Former Garrett County resident Melissa Ann (Davis) Clark was selected by Charter Communications and Romance Classics as Cumberland's recipient of a "Cool Women of America" Award.

The award recognizes women for their contributions to society, particularly (but not exclusively) within their own communities. Nominations were submitted by friends, family members, colleagues, and other members of the community. Clark was selected in part for initialing a literacy project that involves 25 schools and hundreds of students, along with her leadership in various other community groups that focus on children.

Clark received a plaque and a check for $500 to encourage her work. The award was presented to only 175 women throughout the country.

Romance Classics' Cool Women is inspired by the original signature series of the same name that airs weekly on the cable network. "The program profiles ordinary women who have planted a seed, nurtured a vision, and in some way, forever changed the world," stated a spokesperson for the organization. The series is produced by Debbie Allen, whose 20 years in the entertainment business span from her hit TV series "Fame" to the recent motion picture Amistad, which she produced in tandem with Steven Speilberg.

"We are proud to honor Ms. Clark for her inspirational qualities," said Marty von Ruden, general manager of Romance Classics. "It is our hope at Romance Classics that, by recognizing the contributions of women in communities throughout the country, we can encourage people everywhere to take positive actions which impact the lives of others around them."

Clark is a graduate of Southern High School and Frostburg State University. She resides just outside Cumberland with her husband Michael and son Cullen. She is the daughter of Ralph and Kathy Carrico, formerly of Oakland, and the granddaughter of Peg Landon and Helen Carrico, Mountain Lake Park.

Regional Math, Science Center Slated At FSU

The Regional Math/Science Center (RMSC) at Frostburg State University, funded by the U.S. Department of Education, prepares and motivates qualified high school students to pursue math and science careers at the college level.

The RMSC is currently seeking 8th, 9th, and 10th grade high school students who are interested in math and science and live in West Virginia; the Appalachian region of Pennsylvania; Maryland's Garrett, Allegany, or Washington counties; Baltimore City; or one of Maryland's Eastern Shore counties. Students must be a potential first-generation college graduate or meet income requirements established by the Dept. of Education to apply. The program is free for all participants.

For six weeks in the summer, eligible high school students attend a residential program at FSU. They work to improve their math and science skills while conducting an environmental science research project. They also participate in recreational activities and culturally stimulating field trips that are designed to promote enthusiasm and individual growth. During the school year, the RMSC staff keeps in touch with the students to provide academic support and motivation. Students who maintain a high grade point average can be rewarded with stipend money throughout the year, and are expected and encouraged to continue in the program until they graduate from high school.

Persons may call the Regional Math/Science Center at 301-687-4295 or toll free at 1-800-646-6004 for information on other eligibility requirements and an application packet. An informa tion session will be held Tuesday, Jan. 30, at 7 p.m. in the Lewis J. Ort Library Room 237 at Frostburg State University.

Garrett CC Sets Creative Writing Course For Spring

A course in Creative Writing (ENG 208) will be offered by Garrett Community College in the spring semester on Tuesdays and Thursdays from 10:10 to 11:40 a.m. beginning January 30. The course will be taught by Joan Crawford, professor of English, who first developed the course and taught it over a period of years for traditional college classes and adult populations. Crawford is a freelance writer who has written articles for various publications.

In the three credit course students will learn to express their ideas concisely and effectively as they write description, narration, short fiction, poetry, and creative non-fiction. Emphasis will be placed on sharpening sensory perceptions, developing sensitivity to the power of words, and refining style and technique. According to Crawford, the only prerequisite for the course is that a student like to write.

Class activities will consist of workshop sessions, discussion and critique of professional writing, and student-instructor conferences. No tests will be given in the course, and students will be graded on the writing they do. After trying several types of writing, students will choose one writing project to complete, such as a short story, a series of poems or non-fiction essays, or a personal memoir.

Students may register for Creative Writing at the Student Assistance Center weekdays during business hours. For further information interested persons may call 301-387-3044.

QUILT CAPTURES CUSTER FAMILY TAPESTRY — The 66-square Custer Family Quilt, 13 squares of which were created by Custer family members from Garrett County, is currently on display in the front window of the Ruth Enlow Library in Oakland. The quilt was designed and assembled by Doris Foster Custer (1922-2000) and was dedicated in her honor by the Castor Association of American (CAOA), which encompasses all the various spellings of Kuster. Last June it served as a showpiece of the ninth annual CAOA Reunion at Deep Creek Lake, and will be displayed at the upcoming reunion this June in Kansas City and each annual reunion thereafter. Most of the Custer family members in Garrett and Allegany counties are descendants of Emanuel Custer Jr. (1779-1829) and his wife, Catherine Ringer Custer, who settled in the Cresaptown area about 1799 and then near Grantsville on a tract of land known as Mt. Nebo in 1810. The couple is buried in the Custer Family Cemetery on the property where they settled. Shown above with the quilt, clockwise from the left, are Catherine Burke of Rowlesburg, W.Va., Mary Custer Bishop of Mt. Airy, and Mary Harvey of Oakland, who is holding her granddaughter, Chelsea Davis.

MSTA Proposes Legislation For 2001 Session

The quality of public education can be substantially improved with the passage of legislation designed to change the state collective bargaining law, the Maryland State Teachers Association claimed Tuesday. Using illustrations of overcrowded classrooms, limited availability of instructional materials, and a myriad of instances in which MSTA says educators are denied a voice in critical education issues, MSTA has placed the collective bargaining reform initiative as the number one priority in the 2001 legislative session.

"We are committed to changing a law that does not meet the needs of public education in this state today," said Patricia A. Foerster, president of the Maryland State Teachers Association. "With the help of 54,000 members and citizens concerned with the quality of public education, we intend to bring issues to the bargaining table that have a direct impact on student achievement."

Currently the law is interpreted to only allow salaries, benefits, and some working conditions to be brought to the bargaining table. According to Foerster, the state collective bargaining law precludes teachers across the state from negotiating a contract that includes such important issues as class size, teaching assignments, transfers, and the right to discuss school curriculum. The association contends that the definition of working condition topics deemed legal under the present law has narrowed considerably since its inception in 1968.

Another major problem in the collective bargaining law, Foerster said, is the exclusion of education support employees on the Eastern shore.

"This should be a basic human right," Foerster said. "Every day education support employees face insurmountable obstacles, never knowing from day to day if they will remain employed. All they want is to feel valued and to succeed in doing their jobs."

The proposed legislation would also require a neutral body to hear labor disputes of public school employees. Currently, the Maryland State Board of Education decides all labor disputes affecting education employees.

"This is like complaining about your spouse to your in-laws," Foerster said. "We must have a system in place where a board made up of qualified individuals experienced in bargaining and labor relations can address these pertinent cases." The State Board of Education would continue to set educational policy.

The association pledged to demonstrate to the general public how the collective bargaining law directly affects the quality of public education. "It will be up to each individual local Board of Education together with the local association to decide what school quality issues to bring to the table," Foerster concluded. "All we want to do is have the legal right to sit down with local boards of education and discuss reasonable solutions to challenges that affect the way our children are being educated. This should be the main focus of everyone involved in the public school system; that every student in the state of Maryland receives a quality public education."

Doctor's discovery may end obesity

HILTON HEAD, S.C. – A doctor believes that a natural formula containing the extract of a small Asian fruit can help cause significant weight loss.

Anthony A. Conte, M.D. reported in an American Medical Journal that the formula, now called Bio-Rex 3000®, caused patients to lose more than twice as much weight as those in a control group on the same fat reduced diet. Neither group was instructed to decrease the amount of food they ate or to increase their exercise levels. An article published in the American Journal of Clinical Nutrition says that you don't have to reduce the amount of food you eat to lose weight, provided that you limit the fat.

Dr. Conte says that animal studies suggest the mechanism behind the weight reduction is due to interruption of the "Krebs Cycle", an important step in the body's fat storage process. He says it may work the same way in humans. According to Dr. Conte, "The best part of this unique discovery is that it is not a drug, but a dietary food supplement. The Asian fruit, called garcinia, is similar to citrus fruit found in the United States with one big exception--it may help some people fight obesity! While Dr. Conte's study may be preliminary, the exclusive North American distributor, Phillips Gulf Corp., is calling the Bio-Rex 3000 supplement "Nature's Ideal Diet Aid."

A four week supply of Bio-Rex is just $19.99. Available through pharmacies and nutrition stores or call 1-800-729-8446. www.phillipsgulf.com

SMS Boys Turn Project Into Tribute To Popular Teacher

A class project that initially drew groans from the seventh grade students of Southern Middle School reading teacher Susan Hinebaugh was transformed recently into a lesson in honoring the memory of a dear friend, Jimmy Hollis. The popular student teacher was killed in a car accident Friday, Nov. 17.

Two of Hinebaugh's classes were given the assignment over the Thanksgiving holiday to make a "flour baby." The project served to preface a book titled Flour Babies written by Anne Fine that the classes, composed solely of boys, were to read in the following weeks. The assignment was simply to construct a baby out of three pounds of all-purpose flour. The boys were given the option to add human-like features to their baby such as body parts, clothes, hair, etc.

"You should have heard the boys' reaction to this assignment," Hinebaugh said. "They moaned, groaned, and complained as they told me, 'This is not an all-girls class, Mrs. Hinebaugh. What are you thinking?'

"This is where the story takes a twist," the reading teacher went on to explain. Most of the boys had Hollis as their student teacher in Jolene Scofield's science class. The weekend that the boys were working on the project was the same weekend that the popular teacher was killed in a car accident.

Upon returning from the Thanksgiving holiday with their babies in tow, the boys heard the tragic news of their teacher's death. Mixed emotions were evident that day. Though thrilled with the outcome of the "flour baby" project, Hinebaugh began sharing with her students the plans that Hollis had made for the boys' babies. Hollis had said that he couldn't wait to torment the boys about their "offspring," and had shared with other teachers the most common name he thought the boys would name their babies. That is when the boys decided that something should be done to memorialize Hollis.

After discussing it for a few days the boys decided to put their babies up for silent bids in order to raise money for the Jimmy Hollis Memorial Teachers Scholarship Fund. The babies were displayed in a showcase in the school's media center, and fellow students, parents, and staff members submitted silent bids on the babies. After a week of bidding, Hinebaugh and her students opened the bids. "The results were fantastic," Hinebaugh said. The bids ranged anywhere from $1 to $25, and a total of $109 was raised by these boys and their "offspring." This money was sent to the scholarship fund in Hollis's name.

Hinebaugh added that this was more than a classroom assignment. "It turned into a lesson on grieving, caring, empowerment, and, most importantly, compassion. I'm sure these seventh grade boys will never forget this 'awful' assignment I gave them because they'll never forget the wonderful man they had the privilege of knowing — Mr. Jimmy Hollis."

SMS PROJECT BENEFITS HOLLIS FUND — Two all-boys seventh grade reading classes at Southern Middle School made "flour babies" recently as part of a class project. When the students learned that their popular science student teacher, Jimmy Hollis, had died in a car accident over Thanksgiving weekend, they decided to auction their creations and donated the resulting proceeds of $109 to the Jimmy Hollis Memorial Teachers Scholarship Fund. Some of the proud "parents" are shown here with their "offspring." Shown above left, from the left, are James Naylor and Ivan Stutzman, with Jeremiah King in the background. Rick Wotring is pictured above to the right, and the below photo shows, in the front row, Mike Black, Nick Gregg, and Ben Knepp, while Jay Bittner and Bryan Teter are in the back row.

Potomac Council Pow Wow Slated For Cub Leaders

Cub Scout leaders and adult assistants are invited to attend Potomac Boy Scout Council's annual Cub Leader Pow Wow. It will be held January 27 at Westernport Elementary School. Registration will begin at 9 a.m. and the Pow Wow will end at 3:30 p.m.

The Pow Wow will include training sessions on National Cub Scouting 2001 themes, including character-building ceremonies, crafts, den yells and cheers, Scouting outings, Webelos activities, and Transition-to-Boy Scout plans.

A Blue and Gold luncheon and activity-packed program of opening, advancement, and closing ceremonies on the theme of "Passports to Other Lands" will be conducted at noon. Table decorations, crafts, favors, and program ideas will be shared.

Attending a Pow Wow gives leaders a chance to look through the eyes of the boys as they play the games, sing the songs, and plan activities for their dens and packs," stated a Potomac Council spokesperson. Any parent interested in learning more about what the Cub Scouting program can offer is invited to attend. Persons may register by calling Potomac Council at 301-729-1300 and sending the fee of $8 for meal and materials.

• Party bet: Ask someone in what year the first person died in a parachuting accident. He isn't likely to say 1837, when Robert Cocking of England released himself and a home-made rigid-frame parachute from a balloon. For unknown reasons, the experimental prototype failed, and he fell to his death and a place in the history books. The very first parachute jumps, by the way, may have been made as early as the late 1600s, when acrobats with umbrella-like devices leaped from towers. The earliest documented parachute jumps occurred in the late 1700s.

Antiques

by Ralph and Terry Kovel

The look of nature is in today with decorators, dress designers and collectors. The new pieces, made to resemble animal fur or growing plants and trees, are merely reflections of styles that were popular in the past.

The 19th-century home was filled with bamboo furniture, fur rugs, throws, iron benches and fences made to resemble vines and twigs. Folk artists of the early 20th century continued the tradition with carved wooden seats made of tree stumps, sewer-pipe vases that looked like logs, and canes made from branches that were forced to grow in odd, knotted shapes.

At a recent auction in Ohio, a folk-art carved "family tree," 29 inches high, sold for $3,850. It was made from a cherry log and was carved to resemble a tree trunk with a rope and anchor wrapped around the base. Initials were carved on each of the cut branches. Dates from 1840 to 1888 were also carved on the family tree. The wooden carving would not have been kept outside, so it must have been used as a table or stand in the house.

Other realistically carved wooden trees and branches were used to form chairs and tables in a style we now call "rustic." The look of nature is a returning look, not a new one.

Q: When did Watt Pottery make the mixing bowls with the apples painted on the side? My bowls are marked with an indented mark, not a printed one.

A: Watt Pottery began working in 1922 in Crooksville, Ohio. Watt started making oven-safe kitchenware in 1935, and dinnerware by the 1950s. Most of the pieces are marked with an incised mark, not a printed one. Although mixing bowls were made for many years, the Apple pattern, sometimes called "Red Apple," was not made until 1952. The company burned to the ground in 1965.

Kitty, my leg is not bread dough

Q: My cat loves to sit in my lap and be pet, but he tends to flex his claws against my leg as I do this. It's rather annoying. Is there a way to break him of this habit?

A: Possibly, though you may never completely rid him of it. Cats signal their affection in a number of ways. Kneading their paws against an owner's leg or arm while being pet shows gratification; possibly they equate this warm, fuzzy feeling with their earliest memory, that of feeding at their mother's breast. Cats who knead may also lick or suck your skin or clothing.

While most felines knead a bit, some do it to the point that it becomes annoying. Anxiety may cause excessive kneading. Kittens who are separated from their mothers too early may display this tendency in adulthood.

A deficiency in his diet could be a cause, so a checkup with the vet is a good idea.

Discourage kneading as soon as it begins by distracting your cat with a soft toy (specially made for cats), praise him when he takes interest in it. Try playing a favorite game with him instead of petting, to give him another outlet for his emotions. Sprinkling catnip on his scratching post will lure him away from your lap as well. And if all else fails, put him on the floor and go to another room as soon as the kneading starts.

Keep your cat's nails trimmed to ease the discomfort that occurs when you pet him.

If your cat sucks or licks while being pet, try giving him a baby pacifier or a bottle nipple to satisfy his craving. Slowly wean him away from the pacifier by using the distractions listed above.

Today's world is complex, the moral standard more elastic than a rubber band. Concepts of right and wrong are stretched in convenient directions until ultimately, God's truth must snap back so as to awake the soul; or worse, a soul is lost to indifference. How can we survive the whirl of conflicting philosophies as media madness spins us in a glamorized circle of revolving door values? What is the simple truth for today?

The truth for today is the very Bible that has inspired great leaders throughout history, the unchanging Book that can guide you through today and a maze of tomorrows. As you worship this week, remember God's Word, for that is the simple truth.

"We search the world for truth; we cull
The good, the pure, the beautiful,
From all old flower fields of the soul;
And, weary seekers of the best,
We come back laden from our quest,
To find that all the sages said
Is in the Book our mothers read."

-John Greenleaf Whittier

THE BIBLE SPEAKS

BY LAWRENCE W. ALTHOUSE

CAN YOU AFFORD IT?

January 14, 2001

Background Scripture: Luke 9 18-25, 57-62, 14 25-33
Devotional Reading: Matthew 10 34-39

WARNING: This scripture passage may be destructive to your peace of mind!

It's only fair for me to warn you I wish I were exaggerating, but I'm not If the background scriptures listed above do not shake you up, you are simply not paying attention to them These sayings of Jesus are not the velvet glove approach, but bare knuckles. I say this because what many of us think it means to be a Christian is not at all what Jesus is saying in the 9th and 14th chapters of Luke "Who do people say that I am?" Jesus asks his disciples and they answer, 'John the Baptist Elijah one of the old prophets" Peter is the last to answer "The Christ of God" (9 18-20). Notice that Jesus neither confirms or denies Peter's answer Instead, he goes on to say, "The Son of man must suffer many things; and be rejected by the elders and chief priests and scribes, and be killed.." Perhaps Peter may have thought that Jesus was ignoring his answer, but I believe Jesus is saying, 'Yes, Peter, but the Christ of God is not the Christ that people are expecting.' Instead of a triumphant victor over the Romans, the true "anointed" of God is a one who gives himself to be broken for others. His role is radically different from what most people expect.

"Follow Me"

So, Jesus also transforms the understanding of what it means to be his follower: "If any man would come after me, let him deny himself and take up his cross and follow me" (9:23). There are to be no membership cards, no secret handshakes, no badges—only a willingness to bear a cross. Every Sunday at our church people wishing to join the church are invited to come forward for that purpose. Bearing a cross is not one of the questions asked and I cannot help but wonder how many would come forward if it were

Jesus challenges potential disciples to count the cost of following him In 9 57-62 he lays down standards which are as radically different from common expectations as are his understanding of his own Messianic role. Following Jesus cannot be one of several loyalties it must be the very highest loyalty, higher even than any loyalties to the family (Incidentally, I do not think Jesus is refusing to let a potential disciple bury his father or forbidding another to say good-bye to his family I believe he is simply using these normal familial obligations to emphasize that following him must be an even higher responsibility) To plow a straight furrow requires the farmer's full attention So it is with the person who chooses to follow Jesus Christ

On "Loving Less"

In Luke 14 25-33 there is another possible misunderstanding when Jesus says, "If any one comes to me and does not hate his own father and mother and wife and children and brothers and sisters, yes, and even his own life, he cannot be my disciple." Does Jesus really ask his followers to "hate" the members of his own family The English word "hate" here, so say scholars, comes from an Aramaic (the language Jesus spoke) expression meaning "to love less." As much as we love our families, we must love Christ more.

So what Jesus is counseling here is that those who would be his followers should first count the cost and ascertain if they are willing to pay the price. Jesus is not asking for a pat on the back, a signature on a petition or a vote of confidence. To follow Jesus means a radical commitment that supersedes every other commitment. Our family, our job, our ideology, our nation and our politics must all be subjugated to our commitment to Christ. Ask yourself—as I am asking myself—does Jesus come first in all areas of my life? Do I really love these less than him?

"Whoever does not bear his own cross and come after me, cannot be my disciple" (14:27). Jesus came into this world to bear its crosses and we who would follow him must be willing to share in the bearing of crosses. Becoming a member of a church is one thing that we can add to our lives with a minimum of effort and dislocation. Following Jesus and bearing crosses, however, asks something almost infinitely more than that.

TV-PIPELINE

Helgenberger never wed Eastwood

By Taylor Michaels
©TVData Features Syndicate

Marg Helgenberger

Q: Please tell me about Marg Helgenberger of CSI: Crime Scene Investigation. I seem to recall she was once married to or had a child by Clint Eastwood. Where was she born and when? –Y.E.S. in Tyler, Texas.

A: Helgenberger, who won an Emmy for her work in China Beach, was born Nov. 16, 1958, in North Bend, Neb. She has been married since 1989 to actor Alan Rosenberg (Cybill) and was never involved with Eastwood.

You may be confusing Helgenberger with Frances Fisher (Titanic), another striking redhead, who has a daughter, Francesca, from a relationship a few years ago with Eastwood.

Q: When did the Robert Foxworth series Storefront Lawyers run on television? –Joseph Paulovich, Florence, Mass.

A: Lawyers, which starred Foxworth as idealistic attorney David Hansen, began its CBS run on Sept. 16, 1970. Its last episode aired Sept. 1, 1971.

Q: Where can I see an old TV movie called The Last of the Good Guys? It featured Larry Hagman, but no one else remembers it. Did I dream it? –Mrs. Mary Wiles, Roseville, Mich.

A: Your memory is fine, Mary, but like many TV movies, this 1978 project – which also starred Robert Culp and Dennis Dugan – is not available on home video, nor is it possible for me to tell you when it might turn up in your particular TV market. Sorry.

Q: Whatever became of Roberta Shore, a pretty young woman who was in the TV series The Virginian? Has she done any acting since then? What about the guy who played Bud and Sandy's dad on Flipper? –D. Salsbury, North Port, Fla.

A. The Virginian was the last acting credit I could find for Shore, now 57, who played Betsy Garth from 1962-65 on that series. A familiar face on TV in the late 1950s and early '60s, often in Walt Disney projects, she was working as a radio personality in Salt Lake City at last report (more than 10 years ago).

Brian Kelly, who played Porter Ricks on Flipper, has done little acting since a serious motorcycle accident three decades ago left him with partial paralysis and speech problems. As always, I welcome any confirmed updates from readers.

Clarification: After a recent edition of TV Pipeline had been sent to our newspaper clients, ABC modified its original plan to move Once and Again to Mondays starting last week. Instead, the network has moved the struggling Gideon's Crossing to Mondays starting Jan. 15, while Once and Again has taken over the hospital drama's Wednesday berth.

Notes from Bittinger

by Joan Sussman

Well, there is not much new to report from Bittinger. Like most of January (and November and December), every day seems the same: snow, snow, snow. We have hardly seen a break from the snow from way before Christmas, and that isn't even thinking about the wind. If you have a long lane or driveway, and if it is open in the morning, you can count this as a lucky day. If you are heading toward McHenry, and if Rock Lodge Road is open up at the arctic region better known as Jimmy Glotfelty's and not drifted shut, you can count it as a blessing. In other directions, such as the stretch of 495 in and just outside of Bittinger, the snow blows and blows. Whiteout city. Accident-Bittinger Road is usually open, but when we have ice, the hill down past Cherry Glade Church is treacherous. I don't know how Wanda Wassel (our school bus driver) has enough nerve to take the bus down there every morning. She must get good luck from all the various magnets she displays on the front of her bus. Bittinger drivers know many side roads to take if road conditions are bad on the one they are on, but most feel up to the challenge. Growing up, and as adults, many of us feel that if you can get out of Bittinger you can get anywhere you want.

Patty and Steve Diehlman find our winters just fine, but of course they last lived in Vermont. They may sing another tune as the drifts build up on Peat Bog Road. We'll check in later with them. Patty shared with me that it was sometimes easier to drive there, as many of their roads aren't paved and so you get better traction. They have especially enjoyed the cross-country skiing here. They explored a new trail last weekend, while their daughters joined my girls and their cousins for a sled-riding party Sunday afternoon. It was a perfect day for both activities, since the thermometer finally got above freezing.

The bird feeders are crowded as ever. The other day our paster, Patricia Pittsnogle, asked why I think that they have no birds around the parsonage. She guessed the wind, but that can't be it, as I think I get a lot more wind, and still have birds all year long. It seems like it has been a long winter for the birds already, so keep those feeders full. I am feeling the first signs of spring won't be 'til after Easter.

My small-figures project recently got a couple of nice boosts. First was a gift of a pair of poinsettias from Patty Diehlman, and today I received a box filled with stuff from my Aunt Betty Hummel's garden in Olympia, Wash. It included a nice big bag of dusty miller (perfect for lace), an unknown purple flower, Autumn Joy, and a bag of purple sage. An assortment of various and different autumn leaves rounded the box out. It will be nice to have other colors to work with. I have been by necessity limited to green, rhododendron leaves, pine needles, and some orange Japanese lanterns from Linda Huwitt. I have been kind of stingy with those since I have a limited supply. Someday, when my crowd of nature figures take off, I will remember these kind gifts of materials. So far I have been pretty stingy with the figures, giving them to close friends.

I recently got a surprise phone call from a fan of this column all the way from south Texas. A Lilia Carr said she believed we are related by the way of a Broadwater who married a wayback Glotfelty relative of mine. If he is Glotfelty, I am sure we are related, as there aren't a whole lot of them anywhere but here. Maybe she will pick me some Texas foliage. I really love to find or receive pods and nuts for the heads; they are sometimes hard to find.

Tonight, after the Bittinger 4-H Club meeting, my girls will go with their father to his new house in McHenry to spend themight for part of the week. I can't imagine a day without them, and I think this won't be easy for me.

In spite of some pretty lousy weather, about 25 people attended the Epiphany brunch at Emmanuel Lutheran Church. According to Sally Pholosky, the food was great. Lenny wasn't there; he went to Pennsylvania to visit his parents, Andy and Mary Salk.

Last week's column made me think that e-mail isn't any better than regular mail. My sister thought that she forwarded it from my mom's computer, but it disappeared somehow. They will try again this week, wish them luck. Stay warm!

Bittinger has been busy the last week. The week after Christmas gave us all an opportunity to visit with family and friends, far and near, and get ready to re-enter the grind that always follows New Year's.

Pam Poholsky, Murrysville, Pa., spent the Christmas holidays with Len, Sally, and Torrey Poholsky. Lenny, Sally, and Torrey were Saturday evening guests of the Pagenhardt family in Oakland, and then spent a busy New Year's Eve in LaVale, testing the fun that Cumberland and LaVale had to offer to bring in the millennium. Wow, they were busy.

Doug Steniper and son Matthew, from Berwyn Heights, spent several days last week with Verne Beachy and with Sam and Cindy Stanton and family.

Kathryn Bowser spent a week over the Christmas holidays with Hazel and Wayne Gomer in Hagerstown.

Ralph and Ethel Buckel spent the Christmas holidays with Dr. and Mrs. Ralph Buckel Jr. and family in Chestertown.

Ruth DiPaolo met her friends, Betty and Ellis Saera and Margaret Hatcher, in Charlestown, W.Va., and spent New Year's there.

Bill and Sheila Southerly and sons Landon and Tyler attended the Music City Bowl in Nashville on December 28 to cheer on their Mountaineers. West Virginia played Mississippi. They especially enjoyed the pre-game entertainment that featured Brad Paisley, a country music star, at the Wild Horse Saloon. They spent several days visiting in the Nashville area.

Harriett and Ken Buckle visited their daughter and family, Bonnie and Jay McElroy, last Thursday in Mt. Airy.

Helen Englar, Westminster, visited with Dale Glotfelty and her various nieces and nephews last week.

Pre-Christmas guests of Leora Yaste were Rich and Caroline Yaste, Maple Valley, Wash., and Kathy Glotfelty of Pittsburgh.

Hilda and Mrs. Roy Beitzel were Christmas guests of Leora Yaste. On the 27th Leora entertained Mrs. Virginia Beitzel and Hilda and Edna Beitzel at an afternoon tea.

Bob Yaste was a Monday dinner guest of Leora Yaste.

Michele Geis is getting ready to return to Virginia Tech in Blacksburg. We are so proud of Michele. She achieved a 4.0 last semester, making the dean's list yet another time. Michele is a senior and is the daughter of Ellen and Sam Housley and Ed and Dixie Geis.

The youth of Emmanuel Lutheran Church put on a fine performance during services on December 31. Youth who participated by reading lessons (without missing a beat) included Eric Maxim, Elliot and Darryl Glotfelty, and my two stars, Meredith and Caitlin Sussman. Our young musicians strutted their stuff. Karla Buckel and Carolyn Maxim played "A Rose is Growing" on their flutes. Torrey Poholsky and Darryl Glotfelty played their saxophones. Nick Maxim joined Pastor Pat on guitar for "Away in a Manger."

A major brass ensemble, which included Robbie, Darryl, Elliot, and Blakely Glotfelty, Scott Bass, and David Vagnetti, performed a rousing rendition of "Once in David's Royal City," and then accompanied the congregation during the hymn. Claire had to go solo on her clarinet on "What Child is This," as her partner, Scott Pusitari, was performing at Cherry Glade Mennonite Church with the youth group Christmas pageant there. Conrad Maust, who is now a theatre major at WVU, directed the pageant. The show got rave reviews. I am always overjoyed when I think of the talent that resides in our young people here on top of the mountain!

The Bittinger Parish will have an Epiphany service and brunch on Saturday, Jan. 6, at 10 a.m. in the Emmanuel Fellowship Room. Please bring a breakfast item to share. All are welcome.

I think New Year's Eve was pretty low-key around Bittinger. Rodney and Marci had a small gathering, which included my girls, Carol and Kevin Bass and kids, along with new neighbors Patty and Steve Deihlman and kids, and Lesa and David Whittemore, Maddy and Gregg. The biggest excitement may have been Lesa getting her jeep stuck in a drift. The girls spent a lot of time perfecting hairstyles. When the ball dropped in Times Square they tried to catch a glimpse of Leah Stanton, but no luck. Since I've grown up, I like to spend my New Year's at home. Lloyd skied in Brenneman's grove earlier in the evening. I managed to stay up till midnight, but just barely.

Lloyd and Mere are on their way to pick up Hannah and Gretchen Avis to come over and play in the snow. They saw a huge flock of wild turkeys in a field along Peat Bog Road. Mere said that her dad thought there was maybe about a hundred. Carol and Kevin Bass and kids often see large flocks in the morning when they are watching for the bus to come.

I remember during my childhood, when my partners in crime (Cindy and Sally Beachy) and I spent much of our time planning winter play. We were pretty unconcerned about how thick the ice would be on Beachy pond, although I'm sure that our parents worried. We never did break through though. Last week I saw Sally Poholsky's son Torrey had shoveled a holiday message on the pond. I imagine he has dreams of clearing the whole pond and practicing some ice hockey. I remember what a big job that was. Often if you have enough cold weather to get the ice, you also have several inches of snow. Well, you sometimes have to work hard to have a little fun.

I hope we can get our children back into the routine of schoolwork and getting to the bus on time. I still have to face the task of taking the Christmas tree down. Then comes the next major task — 4-H record books. Only two weeks 'til they are due. That means finding all the pictures and clippings in various albums or boxes or drawers. Somehow we always come up short. Then the kids have to get energized to write their stories about the past year in 4-H. They always whine that they don't have enough to write about, or that they can't remember. They remind me of some of my past students from the college ...always needing to be told to give more details. I hope that the final task, typing the story, will go easier, as the girls got a computer for Christmas. Cousins' and grandma's computers can rest, as we have one of our own now.

"Nature For Tots" Program Set At Discovery Center

The Discovery Center at Deep Creek Lake State Park is offering a new "Nature for Tots" program for children ages 2 through 5 and their parent(s). The eight-session series will commence this coming Thursday, Jan. 18, and will continue every other Thursday through April 26 from 10 to 11:30 a.m. each session.

"This program will introduce young naturalists to the natural world around them through interactive nature programs, hikes, stories, crafts, and much more," DNR naturalist Todd Metz said. Parents, who must remain with their child for the duration of each session, will be encouraged to participate in the learning activities.

As space is limited, registration is required, along with a fee. For further information and a registration form, interested persons may call Metz at the Discovery Center at 301-387-7067.

Flood-Damaged Shallmar Homes Being Bought

The Garrett County commissioners this week agreed to front money for the purchase of four flood-damaged homes in Shallmar. The bill of $230,000 will be entirely reimbursed to the county by FEMA (Federal Emergency Management Agency), which is providing 75% of the money, and with a Community Development Block Grant (CDBG) covering the remaining 25%.

According to Brad Frantz, director of Garrett County Emergency Management, the money will be given back to the county by October.

"We need to move on this. These people need to find other homes and get out of the houses," Frantz said. The heavy snowfall this year might result in more flooding this spring, he said. "And we're going to get a lot more snow yet this winter, I think."

There are six homes in the Shallmar area that have sustained major damages in floods beginning as far back as 1985. Severe flooding of the North Branch of the Potomac River occurred that year, as well as in 1993 and 1996. There are five home owners involved in the buy-out process. The appraisals of the homes were first unacceptable, Frantz said, so second appraisals were ordered. "These came in much more favorable," Frantz reported.

Three of the five owners have agreed to the compensation from FEMA. One of the three owns two houses, so four homes in all will be demolished. One owner is as yet undecided, and another has decided not to sell.

The land where the four homes are located will now belong to the county. It can be sold to adjacent landowners, but no structures may be built on it again. Frantz said the county could extend the ball field that is already in existence in that location, or they could build a park.

The buy-out process is long, Frantz said, who not-

Man To Serve Five Years For Assault Charges

A Somerset, Pa., man was ordered by Judge James Sherbin to serve a total of five years in the Department of Corrections. Daryl Kelly Ali, 27, faced Sherbin in Garrett County Circuit Court last week, entering guilty pleas to two counts of second degree assault.

Ali was charged by officers of the Garrett Bureau of Investigation in March after he was identified by victims as one of five men who entered their Grantsville-area residence and assaulted them, according to a report from State's Attorney Lisa Thayer Welch.

Ali is the last of the five defendants to appear in court, with the other four having pleaded guilty to a variety of charges ranging from destruction of property to second degree assault,

Governor Seeks Budget Backers In State of the State Address

by Eric Kelderman
Capital News Service

ANNAPOLIS — Gov. Parris N. Glendening used his State of the State Address Wednesday to push for more higher education and Smart Growth funding and an end to racial and sexual discrimination, but lawmakers gave the speech tepid reviews.

"Economically, educationally, and socially, we are enjoying the best of times," Glendening said. But he warned of "clouds on the horizon that threaten to destroy our great success and prosperity."

Even moderate Democrats are likely to have problems with some of the governor's spending plans outlined in his speech, according to Senate President Thomas V. Mike Miller, D-Prince George's.

"This was certainly not a speech from the middle of the political spectrum. It was a very progressive speech from a very progressive governor," he said.

Glendening, in his next-to-last year as governor, is spending in his budget like a man running out of time. His $21.3 billion operating budget exceeded the Legislature's recommendations, and it is not just Republicans who are eager to trim the excess.

"There's no doubt, we're going to have to cut (the budget)," said Speaker of the House Casper Taylor, D-Allegany. "What it always boils down to is a matter of degree — how much new spending goes where."

The General Assembly must cut about $235 million from the budget in order to stay under the limit set by its Spending Affordability Committee, a legislative panel that makes recommendations on state spending to the assembly and governor. That committee suggested a limited spending increase of 6.95 percent, while the governor's budget calls for increases of 7.1 percent.

In addition, the governor earmarked 39 percent of reserve funds for spending increases this year, a total amount just $168 million higher than required to maintain the state's AAA bond rating.

Even the governor's budget predicts sharp declines in the budget surplus, from $375 million this year to $25 million next year, and just $6 million and $3 million the following two years. At the top of the governor's list is increased spending for higher education and a renewed call to make tuition free at the state's colleges and universities for Maryland residents. Miller was skeptical about free tuition and said he doesn't see how that can occur without an additional revenue source. He pointed to Georgia, which uses a lottery to fund state college tuition for all students with a B average or higher.

Delegate Van Mitchell, D-Charles, said he found it "interesting" the governor was proposing expansions of so many programs in the face of falling revenues. He also said the governor's budget ignores the needs of Maryland's rural residents, particularly in transportation projects.

Delegate John Wood, D-St. Mary's, said most legislators from rural areas are concerned the $750 million dedicated to mass transit projects for the Washington metropolitan area comes at the expense of transportation projects in other parts of the state. Southern Maryland, for example, he said is one of the fastest growing parts of the state and needs more road funding. It is not just budget proposals that will have a hard time in the Legislature. Gay rights legislation, which has failed in the past, will also meet heavy opposition.

In his address, Glendening underscored this

Drug Arrests Follow Traffic Stops On I-68

Maryland State Police troopers arrested a total of six individuals this week on drug charges as a result of two separate traffic stops along Interstate 68. The arrests came after both vehicles were stopped for speeding and subsequent searches uncovered drugs including suspected marijuana and associated drug paraphernalia.

Kristin A. Kablis, 19, Flemington, N.J., and Craig B. Gagnon, 18, Finksburg, were arrested at approximately 6 p.m. this past Thursday, Jan. 11, when their 1998 Honda Civic was stopped for speeding along the westbound interstate at the Bear Creek Bridge. TFC John LeMay located a bag of suspected marijuana and a bag of prescription pain killers inside the vehicle, and charged both occupants with possession of marijuana, illegal possession of prescription medication, and possession of drug paraphernalia.

Kablis and Gagnon were both released on their own recognizance after appearing before a district court commissioner.

A Sunday afternoon traffic stop led to the arrest of four 18-year-old men after a suspected marijuana plant, a prescription pill bottle containing suspected burnt marijuana, and drug paraphernalia were found in

Planetarium To Vacate Current BOE Building

The planetarium of the Garrett County school system will have to find a new home in the future as the Board of Education prepares to move to its new location along South Second Street in Oakland. "We'll finish out the school year at our current location in the BOE building on Fourth Street," said Jim Hart, the county's planetarium resource teacher, "but by next fall other arrangements will have to be in place."

The county is considering an interim solution of purchasing a portable planetarium for use until a permanent site is found. "We'd be looking at no more than a few days at each school, so as to not disrupt the normal activities more than we have to," Hart said.

A portable planetarium could accommodate 25-35 students at a time in school classrooms, gymnasiums, and art and music areas throughout the county. The device could cost approximately $15,000, Hart said, and with a weight of just 45 pounds is designed to fold up for transport in a large duffle bag. The 10-foot high dome of nylon-reinforced fabric would occupy a 21x21 foot space when fully inflated by a box fan. The current planetarium, constructed in 1967, seats 60 students at a time.

The portable planetarium would likely serve as a bridge until a new permanent facility is constructed, according to school superintendent Dr. Wendell Teets, who said that he will make it a priority to find a permanent home for the facility as soon as possible. Teets underscored the priority that he and other county officials place on the role of a planetarium in science education when he said "the commissioners regard the planetarium as a good program. We want to look at all possible sources to keep it going. We don't want to drop it or wait until we can get money down the road.

"Our long-term goal, if we can secure the funding, is to relocate to the Hickory Environmental Education Center. We have students who go there for their nature activities now, and we could combine those trips to eliminate some of the traveling. We would need a new building that could be constructed by a combination of an outside contractor and our own staff," said Teets. It remains to be decided whether the current 33-year-old planetarium would be relocated with or without upgrading its capabilities. The purchase price of a brand-new planetarium for the permanent facility would likely be prohibitive, Teets said.

Hart, who said the current status of the equipment at his disposal limits its capabilities and makes replacement parts hard to come by, has been teaching students in the current facility since 1976. "Students are taught basic science in their home classes, then

Accident Audience Introduced To Maryland's Rural Legacy Program

Maryland's Rural Legacy Program was profiled for over 75 Accident area residents during an informational meeting at the Accident town hall Tuesday evening. Rural Legacy director Pam Bush joined Garrett County planning director John Nelson and other members of the Planning and Zoning Board to introduce the land preservation program to an audience that included the Board of County Commissioners.

"This is a very preliminary meeting," Nelson told the gathering. "All we're here to do is present the program, answer questions, and get an idea of how interested people are." Nearly a third of the persons who attended Tuesday's meeting signed an interest mailing list to receive more information on the program and be kept abreast of upcoming meetings. More informational meetings will follow between now and the Jan. 2001 deadline to apply for the next available offering of the grant program.

The Rural Legacy Program is a voluntary land preservation program designed to protect large blocks of farmland and open space from development. The Garrett County board of commissioners has the opportunity to sponsor applications from groups of interested landowners for state grant funding to purchase preservation easements from willing landowners.

The farmland around the Accident area has been selected to gauge local interest in the program. The speakers pointed out throughout the evening that participation is voluntary, and that groups of adjacent landowners are being sought in order to create large blocks of preserved areas. Land for which Rural Legacy designation is sought will be appraised, and the landowner will be offered a sum to sell a conservation easement that would bar future development not in keeping with agricultural or forestry uses.

"Many farmers in the Accident area are already familiar with this type of arrangement," Nelson said, comparing the concept with the practice of selling underground gas rights. "The potential for development is another right that can be sold for cash without infringing upon the agricultural use of the land. If you choose to enter the Rural Legacy Program you would be permanently conveying the development rights to the land to the state and county via a conservation easement." The only way a government entity could develop the land in the future would be through the right of eminent domain, used mostly in highway projects, and in that event the landowners at the time would be compensated for their land in the usual eminent domain manner.

Landowners who apply to the program may back out at any point prior to signing their development rights away for a purchase price determined through a

Virginia Smith, 88, Recalls 1928 Elopement Through Oakland Station

After 73 years, Virginia Smith of Fairmont, W.Va., recently revisited Oakland's railroad station's waiting room. She spoke of her January 21, 1928, elopement trip with her secret fiancé Earl. He was 19 years old, while she was just 15.

Oakland was a favorite destination for young couples from West Virginia to elope. A marriage license was easily obtained, and a referral was made to a minister's house for the ceremony.

It was a cold, snowy January morning when the couple left Fairmont for the eight-hour train ride through the mountains. At the train station in Oakland, Virginia sat on the bench across from the ticket office while Earl weathered the cold, walking to the courthouse to buy a marriage license.

The couple then went to a nearby minister's house for the ceremony. Afterward, they boarded the next train to Fairmont for the return trip.

A surprise was in store for the couple when they got as far as Grafton, W.Va. Virginia's unhappy father, who had gotten wind of the elopement, was waiting for them.

When her father demanded that she go home with him, Earl's answer was that they were going to his home together.

The couple were married 67 years when Earl died in 1995 at the age of 87. Nine children were born, including two sets of twins.

Virginia is now 88 years old and in good health. She leads a busy life with family and church activities, and spends the winter months in Florida.

SAME SEAT, 73 YEARS LATER Virginia Smith is seated in the same bench across from the ticket office at Oakland's historic train station, where she sat 73 years ago. She and her fiancé Earl eloped from Fairmont, W.Va., 73 years ago Sunday, January 21, 1928

Glendening's "Aggressive" Budget Raises Eyebrows In Annapolis

by Jennifer Larson
Capital News Service

ANNAPOLIS - Despite a much smaller surplus than last year, Gov. Parris Glendening presented the largest operating budget in his tenure as governor Tuesday at the Maryland State House.

The operating budget for the proposed 2002 fiscal year will total $21.3 billion, about 7 percent larger than last year's operating budget of $19.8 billion and exceeding recommended spending caps by more than $200 million.

Education and Smart Growth anti-sprawl initiatives will get the largest of the operating budget increases.

One-third of the operating budget's new funds — more than $400 million — are earmarked for education. The budget allocates $2.57 billion for elementary and secondary education, $203 million of which are new funds. The $1.75 billion allocated for higher education includes $202 million of new funds.

Glendening called education "the top priority," and said the state must invest in education to remain prosperous and competitive in the business environment.

Smart Growth will receive $228 million in new funding, including $700,000 to create the Office of Special Secretary for Smart Growth.

Calling the budget "fiscally sound" and "aggressive and progressive," Glendening acknowledged his operating budget exceeds the limit set by the Spending Affordability Committee in December.

The Spending Affordability Committee, a joint legislative committee that reviews the state's revenues and expenditures and makes recommendations to the General Assembly, recommended a 6.95 percent growth limit. That means that Glendening must cut $235 million from his operating budget to keep it under the limit.

"Yes, we are pushing the edges of the affordability limits," Glendening said.

Sen. Barbara Hoffman, D-Baltimore, co-chairwoman of the Spending Affordability Committee, said the legislature would bring the budget back to the recommended limit.

"It's doable," she said. "It's a challenge, but it's certainly doable."

Hoffman said the annual process of negotiating the budget down to the Spending Affordability Committee's limit is a "dance" with quite challenging steps.

"We may need to peel away a little bit from a lot of things" instead of large chunks of funding from a few projects, she said. Hoffman complimented the governor for reflecting the public's priorities in the budget. "It's a very nicely balanced budget," she said.

Republicans, however, are upset and want to rein in spending. House Minority Leader Robert H. Kittleman, R-Howard, said the personal income growth for Maryland is only 6.2 percent.

"We would like to hold the growth to that number," Kittleman said. He warned of "storm clouds on the economic horizon" that could endanger the state if there is a nationwide slowdown or recession. Personal income growth estimates may shrink even more by the end of the 2002 fiscal year.

"The 6.2 figure, I think, is suspect," he said.

Senate Minority Leader Martin Madden, R-Howard, wants to keep the budget's growth even lower than the Spending and Affordability Committee's limit.

"The rapid growth in the state's operating budget is increasing at an unsustainable rate," he said. He asserted that the state has a responsibility to avoid disastrous economic scenarios, like the $400 million cut from state-funded projects in 1991. Madden wants to avoid breaking financial promises to Marylanders.

Republicans like Kittleman also are concerned the budget's surplus will fall below 5 percent, the minimum requirement to keep the state's AAA bond rating.

Glendening's budget allows for a $663 million reserve fund balance by the year's end, $168 million more than the necessary $495 million.

"The budget maintains a healthy surplus," the governor said.

The operating budget's overall growth still depends on the legislature. With the estimated $100 million in deficiency appropriations to be made, the operating budget's growth would be a 7.8 percent increase over last year, according to Neil Bergsman, budget director in the Department of Budget and Management. Deficiency appropriations are expenses in the current fiscal year not covered by the existing budget.

If the deficiencies are not passed, the growth shrinks to 7.3 percent. Glendening has designated $41.6 million of the deficiency appropriations as extra funds for the state's Medicaid program and $12.5 million is designated to improve public safety technology related to the arrest-warrant system, said Bergsman.

If the deficiency funds are not included, the general fund of the operating budget also is about 7 percent larger in Glendening's new budget than last year's budget, according to David Juppe, manager for the operating budget for the Maryland Department of Legislative Services.

Without the inclusion, the general fund is 5.9 percent larger than last year's general fund. Glendening said the budget is both balanced for the next five years and reflects the needs of the residents of Maryland.

"It's very aggressive. It pushes the limits, but there are great needs out there," he said.

Glendening will present the capital budget today.

Early Education Programs To Get State Boost

By Nashiah Ahmad
Capital News Service

ANNAPOLIS — Maryland Gov. Parris N. Glendening said Thursday he will boost early education programs by $30 million, bringing increases in direct aid to classrooms to 63 percent during the Glendening-Townsend administration. The Early Education Initiative allots $11 million for pre-kindergarten education, partially for certifying child care professionals and obtaining accreditation for early childhood facilities.

The remaining $19 million will fund local priorities for kindergarten through third grade, including reduction of class sizes, all-day kindergarten, and library and resource materials, Glendening said.

Since Glendening and Lt. Gov. Kathleen Kennedy Townsend first came into office in 1995, funding for K-12 has undergone a $1 billion increase, with $2.57 billion per year provided for direct education aid.

"There is no function of government that is as important as what we do for education," Glendening said.

The initiative is supported by the Joint Committee on Children, Youth, and Families. Sen. Barbara Hoffman, D-Baltimore, a committee member, said one of its goals is for children to enter schools ready to learn.

"We now know from brain research that so much learning takes place from birth to [age] 3, then 3 to 5," she said. "Ninety percent of brain growth occurs in the first five years, but 90 percent of money is spent on kids after [they are] 5 years old."

Shelley McMahon, a second-grade teacher at Annapolis Elementary School, said she is "very excited" about Glendening's plan.

"It lets us know that there are strides every day to benefit education for children," she said. At her school, McMahon said, children often lack the necessary school supplies. Additional funding would "help [the students] have a better school day," she said.

Glendening also announced a Baltimore City Remedy Plan, which will provide $55 million in educational funds for the city for 2002, a $22 million increase from last year. The plan announcement follows a rise in test scores of students last year, said Tyson Tildon, chairman of the Baltimore Board of Education.

The effects of the funding the city receives from the state are apparent, he said. "It shows that when you use funds in a very focused manner, you can upgrade the achievement level of the kids."

From spring 1998 to spring 2000, the city's first-grade standardized reading test scores improved by 19 percent, said Betty Morgan, chief academic officer for Baltimore schools.

Part of the plan funding for 2002 will go toward summer school programs. The city was only able to provide the program, which costs $5 million for 10,000 students, for second- and fourth-grade students this past summer, but hopes to expand it to accommodate students of other grades, she said.

Another portion of Baltimore's money will be used to improve library resource and attract teachers through professional development programs, said Carmen Russo, chief executive officer of Baltimore schools. In addition, said Russo, the city wants to expand its all-day kindergarten programs.

issue with the story of his brother Bruce, who served in the Air Force for 19 years, was gay and ultimately died of AIDS. "His greatest fear was that he would be ridiculed and discharged . . . he had to live a lie every single day. Nobody should have to live like that," Glendening said.

Miller said the Roman Catholic Church and clergy in general would strenuously oppose such a measure. "We need to move forward on these issues as best we can," Miller said.

The governor got his biggest round of applause with a call to end racial profiling in the state. Racial profiling is a practice used by police to target specific groups of people for traffic stops based on their race and other distinguishing characteristics. The Prince George's and Montgomery county police departments have been investigated by the FBI for such practices. "Nobody — not African Americans, not Hispanics, not teen-aged white males — nobody should be subject to this vile practice," Glendening said.

and receiving sentences ranging from 30 days in the local jail to three years in the Department of Corrections.

In a separate case, Jason Todd Skipper, 26, Oakland, was sentenced by Sherbin to 60 days in the Garrett County Jail and fined $300 for possession of marijuana. Skipper pleaded guilty to the charge.

The defendant was indicted by the September term grand jury with distribution and possession of marijuana for an incident that occurred last March. The defendant apparently gave a small quantity of the illegal drug to a police informant at a McHenry-area business. The distribution charge was dismissed by the state's attorney when Skipper entered his plea.

I-68 Accident Injures Kentucky Woman Monday

A Kentucky woman was hospitalized overnight at Cumberland Memorial Hospital following a three-vehicle collision on Interstate 68 early Monday morning, according to the Maryland State Police.

Judith Dodh, 27, had stopped her 1989 Plymouth van in one of the traffic lanes of eastbound I-68 at Lower New Germany Road [illegible] after 2:30 a.m. when it was struck from behind by a 1994 Chevrolet truck operated by William Lee Martin, 38, Cumberland. The impact spun both vehicles into the adjacent lane where Dodh's van was struck by a 1990 U Haul truck operated by Kurtis Larry Hentgers, 29, Kalamazoo, Mich.

Dodh was transported by the Northern Garrett Rescue Squad to Cumberland Memorial, where she was admitted suffering from a head trauma. The Grantsville Volunteer Fire Department also assisted on the accident scene.

The reason Dodh's car was stopped was not specified in the police report, and no charges were filed according to sources at the McHenry Barracks.

In other accident investigations, an 8:13 a.m. single-vehicle accident in the Deep Creek Lake area yesterday injured an Accident woman, who was treated and released from Garrett County Memorial Hospital after being transported by the Southern Garrett Rescue Squad.

Joyce Paugh, 51, was traveling north on Paradise Point Road in the area of Sand Flat Road when her 1995 Ford Windstar van ran into some piled-up debris of ice, sand, and salt that had built up in the wake of snowplowing operations. She lost control of the van and it struck an embankment along the side of the road, overturned once, and came to rest on its wheels.

A Friday morning single-vehicle accident resulted in injuries to two West Virginia men when their vehicle struck a utility pole along Friendsville Road. The driver, Harold Rex Anderson, 28, Williamston, and his passenger, Reid Cross, 35, St. Mary's, were both treated and released from Garrett Memorial following the 7:22 a.m. mishap. The men were injured after their vehicle went out of control along southbound Friendsville Road at Klotz Road and struck a utility pole off the right shoulder.

The Northern Rescue Squad transported the two men to the hospital, and the Deep Creek Volunteer Fire Company assisted at the accident scene. Two nearby residences lost electricity in the wake of the mishap, and Allegany Power was summoned as well to restore utility services.

"A DAY ON, NOT A DAY OFF" was the theme of Monday's national observance of Dr. Martin Luther King Day. The service theme played out in Garrett County as the Maryland Conservation Corps (MCC) at Potomac State Forest cut and split wood and, together with volunteers from the Allegany/Garrett County Chapter of the National Coalition Building Institute (NCBI), delivered the firewood to six Garrett County families in need of heating assistance. Pictured from the left are MCC crew members Becky Wilson, Nick Glotfelty, Jamie Shiflet, and Carri Sines, all of Oakland, and Kristin Morton and Vicky Johnson, both of Frostburg. "This was an extremely rewarding day of service for everyone involved," an MCC spokesperson commented. "Recipients got a hand with heat, volunteers helped their community, and Dr. King's memory and work were highlighted at each home and in each person."

GC Emergency Officials Report Call Increases

The office of Garrett County Emergency Management Fire and Rescue Communications (Garrett Central) has reported an increase of nearly 900 calls for the year 2000 over 1999's total, with 21,641 calls logged by the center during the past year. The tally represents an increase of over 4 percent from 1999, according to Garrett Central director Brad Frantz.

There were 8,403 9-1-1 calls for assistance, of which 2,901 were EMS-related and 2,118 fire related. Total police calls, broken down by the responding agency, were: Maryland State Police—1,525 calls; Garrett County Sheriff's Office—1,128 calls; Oakland City Police—169 calls; and Natural Resources Police—103 calls.

The total number of 9-1-1 calls originating from cellular phones continued to increase significantly over the past year, with a record 2,450 (29 percent) 9-1-1 calls placed by cell phone. By comparison, the number of cell phone 9-1-1 calls was only 489 just five years ago.

Among EMS responders, the Southern Garrett Rescue Squad responded to 1,490 calls. The three stations of the Northern Garrett Rescue Squad responded to a 1,411 total calls, as the Grantsville station was called out on 755 calls, the Accident station was called out on 597 calls, and the Friendsville station was called out on 259 calls.

Garrett County's 11 volunteer fire companies recorded the following total call figures: Deep Creek—395, Oakland—376; Deer Park—269; Friendsville—216; Grantsville—183; Eastern Garrett—167, Gorman—131; Kitzmiller—116; Bittinger—113; Accident—104; and Bloomington—20.

Complete statistical information is available at the Garrett County Emergency Management web site at www.garrett.md.us/em/index.

Correction Noted To Md. Highway Accident Report

Last week's published coverage of a Thursday, Jan. 4, motor vehicle accident requires a correction to the news reporting. The order of the vehicles involved was reversed, and one driver was in fact charged by the Maryland State Police.

The 5:19 p.m. accident at the beginning of Maryland Highway's eastbound climb up Backbone Mountain (just off Route 495) occurred when a 1997 Jeep Cherokee operated by Cynthia Dawn Saville, 26, Oakland, attempted to pass a 1989 International 2500 truck which was attempting to turn left onto Swantamont Rd. Saville's Jeep struck the truck, which was operated by Maryland State Highway Administration employee Richard Allen Liller, 44, Corinth, W.Va.

Saville was transported by the Southern Garrett Rescue Squad to Garrett County Memorial Hospital, where she was treated and released. State troopers deemed her at fault in the accident and charged her with failure to give full time and attention to her driving.

Deputies Jail Two For DWI Over Weekend

Garrett County sheriff's deputies arrested two men this past weekend on charges of driving while intoxicated following a pair of separate traffic stops in the southernmost reaches of the county. An additional marijuana possession charge was filed as well.

John Bonham Hayhurst Sr., 59, Waynesburg, Pa., was charged with DWI and failure to drive right of center after a 1 a.m. traffic stop along White Church Steyer Road near Gorman Road Saturday. He was released that same night on his own recognizance.

Mark Allan Ford, 42, Oakland, posted a $1,000 bond to gain release from jail Sunday after being arrested for DWI, marijuana possession, driving on a suspended license, driving on a revoked license, driving an uninsured vehicle, and violating an alcohol restriction. Deputies made the traffic stop along George Washington Highway at approximately 2:20 a.m. after observing a vehicle pull into the parking lot of the old Stoner Video Store, which has been closed for a number of months. A search that followed the DWI arrest uncovered a small quantity of marijuana.

In other sheriff's news, a domestic altercation led to an assault charge for a Swanton man early in the week.

Kevin Edward Creegan, 40, was arrested and was charged with second degree assault after he allegedly knocked his wife down during an argument and held her on the floor. Creegan also reportedly kicked several holes in the wall of the couple's Savage River Road home during the dispute, which was attributed in part to alcohol. Creegan was released from jail after he posted a $2,500 bond.

Leslie Allan Bittinger, 35, Mtn. Lake Park, was served an arrest warrant at the Garrett County Detention Center this week. Bittinger, who is serving a previous sentence at the facility, was charged with misdemeanor theft in connection with his purchase of computer software equipment. He allegedly wrote a check on a closed account to pay for the items.

A Saturday morning traffic stop led to a civil citation for underage drinking for a Friendsville man. Michael Christopher Auvil, 19, was cited after a vehicle he was riding in was stopped along Gorman Road near Hershman's Welding shop at 4 a.m.

In Loving Memory of Debbie (Beal) Zembower

Oct. 10, 1955 - Jan. 18, 1990

A rose once grew where all could see, sheltered beside a garden wall.
And as the days passed swiftly by it spread its branches straight and tall.
One day a beam of light shone through,
a crevice that had opened wide.
The rose bent gently toward its warmth,
then passed beyond to the other side.
Now you who deeply feel its loss, be comforted. The rose blooms there.
Its beauty even greater now, nurtured
by God's own loving care.

Missed deeply every day

Buckle that Belt...

A class at Westmar High School in neighboring Allegany County lost yet another student yesterday when 15-year-old Brittany Paton was killed in an automobile accident that occurred while she was on her way to school. Her boy friend, 16-year-old Adam Dyer, was the driver of the car, and he now lies in a hospital bed in critical condition. The sting of this tragedy to the students and staff of the school, as well as the rest of their community, is greatly intensified by the fact that Brittany is the fourth member of her class to die in the past year.

There was evidently neither alcohol nor drugs involved in this accident, nor were either of the two drivers exceeding the posted speed limit. For some reason that may never be known, young Dyer's vehicle drifted across the center line and into the path of another oncoming car.

One of the most heart-wrenching truths of this tragedy, save the loss of a young girl's life, is that none of the three involved was wearing a seatbelt. If in fact Paton and Dyer had been wearing their seatbelts, there most likely would have been no loss of life, and possibly not even critical injuries to either one.

So what can we glean from this devastating loss to the friends and families of these two young people? What can be done to try to make it so Brittany's death was not totally in vain? One answer is obvious: Always wear a seatbelt when driving or riding in a vehicle. It's a directive that is beaten to death in driver's education classes, and repeated ad nauseam by law enforcement officials and scores of health and safety agencies, but one that is still not heeded by far too many people.

Parents need to do a better job at making the buckling of a seatbelt an absolutely automatic response by their children, each and every time they get into a car, whether it be to travel just two blocks or to grandma's house four hours away. All drivers should simply refuse to put their car into gear until every person in the car is properly restrained.

No doubt the idea of being involved in an accident was the farthest thing from the minds of these two young people when they left for school yesterday. But a tragedy like this, just like all of the other similar ones that occurred yesterday morning throughout the country, can happen to anyone at anytime while driving or riding in an automobile. None of us is invincible. So it just makes good sense to always utilize the safety equipment that is available, and by doing so, possibly averting the most serious consequences of such accidents.

To the Editor:

Heartening is the only word to express my feelings this morning. On my way to work I saw a Maryland State Trooper vehicle parked along Route 135 in a position to see two of the school bus stops along the highway. With so many impatient drivers on the highway, I have seen several "close calls" with our school children just in the past year. To know that perhaps some of these people will financially pay the penalty for their impatience through a traffic summons, or are forced to obey the law because of the presence of the trooper, is truly "heartening" to me.

Sincerely,
Merry L. Paugh
Swanton

To the Editor:

On December 17, the Pine Grove Church of the Brethren was privileged to have the Southern High School Chorus share a very special Christmas program during our morning services. The choir, under the direction of Richard Clever with their accompanist, Barbara Farmer, performed numerous types and styles of Christmas music. We would like to take this opportunity to thank them for an excellent performance. We also appreciated all of the parents who brought their young people.

This program made our Christmas festivities extremely special, and we offer a job well done.

Brenda Harvey

To the Editor:

A few months ago I was notified I was to come up to Social Services for a blood test, because I was being accused of fathering a baby. After missing a day of work, traveling to Garrett County and having bloodwork done, the wait began. Several weeks later I received a letter that stated there is absolutely no way I could have fathered this baby.

Now my question is, How does the law work? I was told at one time when a baby is born, the mother can name anyone she wants as the father, and it's up to the man to prove otherwise. How can this be legal? Shouldn't the mother also need some sort of proof before she points her finger? If she points the finger at the wrong guy, shouldn't legal action be filed against her?

I'm glad the test was done because now the results are in. But I feel sorry for the next unsuspecting sucker!

Tom Bowers

To the Editor:

The purpose of this letter is to thank three Garrett County men. Also, to reiterate how fortunate we are to live in Garrett County, where people really care about each other and are ready to lend a helping hand.

I was traveling on extended Rock Lodge Road going toward Bittinger at 6:15 a.m. when a snow squall made visibility impossible, and I ran off the road into a field. I teach at Allegany High School and need to be there by 7:15 a.m. I work with disabled children.

The first car that came along stopped. I did not know this gentleman and regret I failed to get his name. However, I was shaken up. Finally, two men whom I know, Mr. Buckel and Mr. Brenneman, both of whom work at the Wisp, stopped.

Finally, with all three pushing, I was back on the road within 15 minutes. I was able to make school on time and I am very grateful to these three men. Thank you!

Sincerely,
Ruth Umbel

To the Editor:

I read with interest Mike Basore's letter decrying economic development in Frederick County.

Isn't it interesting that "economic development" allows him to afford either two homes (one in Frederick, the other in Garrett) OR the wherewithal to rent a place in Garrett County each weekend?

Perhaps if the jobs in Frederick County were in Garrett, you too could decry economic opportunity. Perhaps those of us born in Frederick 40 years ago should've stopped all newcomers at the Montgomery County border? How is it that Frederick still has 90% of its acreage zoned agriculture or conservation?

Economic development does not have to mean degradation of our resources, natural or otherwise. Garrett County should proceed with care. But it's also too bad that those who enjoy the fruits of this prosperity don't understand that. If our quality of life is so poor, why are more people coming to Frederick? And why are some of those complaining so loudly staying?

David Brinkley
New Market

To the Editor:

I sent one letter to you which you would not publish. Why? I thought that was what this part of the paper was for, to say what we think!

Let me tell you, Garrett County is not fair in their law! If you are in the right clique or if you have a lot of money, you are OK here in Garrett County. But if you are just an average person, you are nothing in the eyes of the law here.

My son sits in prison, and he did not kill anyone. Yet the woman who killed sweet little Brandy Talbot is still enjoying life.

If Judge Thayer would have taken the time to know what was going on in my home when I lived in Allegany County and was going to work every day, with my 16-year-old daughter watching my younger kids while I worked, he would not have let Garrett County come over in that county and take my kids and put them in a home where, as the kids say, they went from heaven to hell. So no one needs to tell me there is justice in Garrett County. Where is justice for us common people?

Thank you kindly,
Jo-An Duckworth

To the Editor:

I write this letter to voice frustration, but most importantly to create awareness about a problem that recently occurred in Loch Lynn. There were many people involved in the development of the softball soccer fields in Loch Lynn near the town hall. There are too many to mention here. The Girls Softball League and the Mountaintop Soccer Association joined ranks for this important project to benefit

REVERIE ON MARTIN LUTHER KING DAY

As it happily happens every few years, the holiday "Martin Luther King Day" actually coincided this year with the birthday of Martin Luther King. The schools and public offices were closed. There were observations of the day and of the cause for which Martin Luther King lived and died.

Born in 1929, he was only 39 when he was assassinated. Were he alive today he would be 72, not so old in our age of increasing life expectancy. As a moderate who advocated change through non-violence, Dr. King is an acceptable hero to most Americans. Some extremists would wish for honoring a more radical African-American leader. Other extremists would wish for honoring no African-American at all.

The truth is that, as time passes, and despite efforts to the contrary, Dr. King joins the ranks of worthies like Presidents Washington and Lincoln, who are daily dwarfed in the media by the latest rock or rap or sports star. We live in a culture with corporate attention deficit syndrome.

Whatever our cultural, racial, or ethnic identity, Dr. King and his cause become like historical shoe boxes, put in the closet for long-term keeping, and dragged out once each year.

The appointment of General Colin Powell as secretary of state has provided grist for my reflections. In one way, General Powell's appointment and his certain confirmation are signs of how far we have advanced toward equal opportunity. General Powell also illustrates the view that, for all of the conservative quality of the military culture, "a man's a man for all that" — as Robert Burns put it — is true in the military in a way that is not quite so anywhere else in our society.

What has struck me more than General Powell's success in life and how he achieved that success is how his success is discounted by liberals. The Democrats challenged President-elect Bush to appoint a cabinet of diversity. As soon as General Powell and another conservative African-American, who is not a household name, were named to the Bush cabinet, the liberals said — and I heard this on National Public Radio, never known for its conservative politics — that those two did not count toward diversity because they were Republicans.

That rang a bell for me, as it should for any citizen paying attention, because it is the same kind of attitude that inspired the malicious attacks on Clarence Thomas when he was nominated for the Supreme Court. That was 10 years ago, but should be fresh in the minds of anybody over 30. Had Republicans dared to mount such a campaign against a Democratic (and African-American) nominee on the same basis they would have been charged with the coarsest racism.

I begin to get the message that the media are transmitting: 1) people can only be real African-Americans if they are Democrats and 2) only a Republican can be a racist. That is utter nonsense, of course, but it is the typical nonsense fed to us by the media on a daily basis.

The media also accuse the Republican Party of playing "the race card," meaning that Republicans appeal to latent racism in America. I was fascinated the other day while listening to Jack Germond, a liberal reporter — but an honest liberal — with the Baltimore Sun.

Germond described how Bill Clinton and his people played the same race card in 1992 by scheduling events with African-Americans at times that would never make prime-time news. He gave numerous other details of Clinton's race strategy, including that African-American members of Congress knew and assented to the strategy because they wanted a Democrat in the White House.

That is to say African-Americans, taken together, stand in the same relationship with the Democratic Party today as they did to the Republican Party before Franklin Roosevelt became president. African-Americans supported Republicans back in those days because of Abraham Lincoln. They were treated by the Republican Party at that time as pawns, as they are by the Democratic Party today.

My dream for African-Americans — and I think it was Dr. King's dream — is not that they be Republicans rather than Democrats, rather that they be Republicans OR Democrats as they choose — not because they are African-Americans but because they are people, human beings, just like everybody else. When we have achieved that, then truly we shall have begun to slay the awful legacy of slavery which continues to confound our nation even 130 years after the abolition of that hateful institution on our shores.

IMAGINE

by Mary Sincell McEwen

One of my favorite songs written by the immortal John Lennon starts out with "Imagine there's no heaven . . . ." Any Lennon fan knows that tune, all about how we direct our lives to obtain certain things, like points on our heaven scorecard or wealth or fame, when maybe it's all for naught and we really should simply aim at being kind to one another and finding the beauty in existing as humans. Of late I have pondered another question that could have just as easily been posed by Lennon: "Imagine there's no money . . . ." Think about that one. What if we were without the drive for cash? What if money and the concept of it simply did not exist? Can you imagine it? While in the original song Lennon says imagining it is "easy if you try," I think trying to picture the world without toadskins is almost impossible.

First of all, there would be no classes, or castes, of people. There would be no preconceived notions about the haves and the have-nots because those classifications would be irrelevant. All of the strange attitudes we acquire in our lives about the wealthy and the impoverished, and all those in between, would be nonexistent. That alone is tricky to picture. Even the poorest among us here in Garrett County are wealthier than some third-world people. And we all stand on whatever rung we've achieved and look down, generally, on those below us with some sense of superiority and/or pity, while looking up at those above us with perhaps a sense of envy or even embarrassment. That's quite a generalization, I know, but I think it exists more prevalently that we might wish, or might want to admit. Money is at the root of so much of what we do, what we think about, and how we perceive others. What makes a person "powerful," anyhow? Money, of course. With enough of the stuff, one can be exonerated from heinous crimes, can be elected to office, can be world famous, can treat others with arrogance, can do whatever she/he wants to do. Without it, one can be inventive and earn more of it, rely on the "system" and be a societal dependent, complain a lot, and declare that some people are lucky and some aren't.

In our society, school children are trained regularly on how to take state standardized tests. They are trained to do well on them, not just because it will help them achieve success (money), but also because if they perform well, the state officials will give us more cash. Big megastores (I'm not mentioning names here) can spring up across the country and, with little or no regard for the small business owner, can usurp 90% of the clientele through the offerings of lower prices (money). And because of a multi-billion-dollar home office, these megastores can slough off the mewling complaints of inconsequential people and basically say "up yours" to the same. Money has a loud voice and a powerful punch.

Our gas bill tripled this month. Yours probably did, too, if you get a gas bill. Somewhere along that line, someone is raking in more cash. Someone, somewhere is setting the pace and gleaning the fruits of it. My husband called the gas company to ask what on earth happened, and he was kept on the line listening to a 20-minute taped message explaining that gas prices are up and they will probably stay up for a year or so, sorry about that, have a nice day, cha-ching.

And of course there's health insurance. Despite the happy fact that my young family is relatively healthy, we shovel a pile of money out every month for insurance, joining the bigger pile paid by our company. Even that enormous stack doesn't cut it, though, as just 80% of most of our expenses are covered. We hear that our country's noble pharmaceutical companies are researching day and night to better the world's health, and that's why we have to cough up such a bunch for prescriptions. Hmmm. Who, then, is footing the bill for those lavish, long television commercials touting various prescription remedies? (I'll bet these ads drive physicians nuts, as their patients come in with a symptom or two and demand to receive some drug shown on TV in one of those homey, up-close-and-personal, gaggy commercials.) Some folks who probably have very little to do with anyone's health are banking some serious dough through all of this.

So what if there were no money? What if we were all on the same rung? And no, I'm not promoting communism or anything else that is frowned upon in society. I am simply trying to make an imaginative leap to picturing the world with nothing even resembling money. No bartering, no trading. Just living. Enjoying one another. Learning. Not obsessed with wealth or the lack of it. Not striving every single day to rise on the corporate ladder to reap more respect to earn more greenbacks. It's a wearying way of life. And we're so ensconced in it that imagining life without it is nearly impossible. What could the alternatives be?

How about this, Pollyanna: Perhaps we could earn our required necessities — food, clothing, shelter — by performing selfless deeds. Oh, I see the eyes rolling out there. But really, what if we were awarded what we needed simply by being nice? Or how about this: the human characteristic of greed is gone. No one feels the need to surpass his neighbor, no one feels left out or overlooked. Competition evaporates. It's an easy give and take, with everyone helping out. Funny. Sounds like communism again.

The human element is too prevalent to even imagine such a society. One can hardly picture an uncompetitive populace. And with so many people in any society, someone would have to organize things. And with organization comes government, and with government comes, inevitably, corruption. I atraid our humanness prevents the existence of a peaceful, moneyless society. I'm not a pessimist — generally I have a lot of faith in human beings. But priorities can surely get messed up when money is lying in wait. I believe the Bible verse from Timothy to be right on: "For the love of money [get that — it's the love of money] is the root of all evil."

Disagreements on Drunk Driving Charging System Could Kill Bill

by Laurent Thomet
Capital News Service

ANNAPOLIS — With millions in federal highway funds at stake, state legislators are scrambling to comply with federal regulation and reduce the blood-alcohol level required for the crime of driving while intoxicated (DWI) in Maryland from .10 to .08.

But a struggle over whether to end the state's two-tier drunk-driving arrest system could put the bill and $5.2 million in federal highway funds in jeopardy.

Lawmakers seem unified in trying to make Maryland's law conform to a new federal DWI standard of .08 blood-alcohol level. Maryland stands to lose the $5.2 million federal assistance for fiscal year 2004 if it doesn't change its law by 2003, according to the Maryland Department of Transportation.

Maryland also would be ineligible for an additional $2 million federal safety incentive grant if it doesn't comply with federal law by 2003, according to the Department of Transportation. But some delegates and senators want to scrap Maryland's two-part impaired driving law while meeting the federal standard.

The minimum blood-alcohol level needed to be charged with driving while intoxicated in Maryland is .10 percent. But the state also has a "driving under the influence" (DUI) charge for drivers found to have a .07 blood-alcohol level. Though a uniform standard is not on the bill, some legislators say it would make sense to add one.

"It seems ridiculous to have two limits," said Delegate Robert A. Zirkin, D-Baltimore County, adding that a uniform system "seems to be the most reasonable solution."

Delegate Joseph F. Vallario Jr., D-Prince George's, chairman of the Judiciary Committee,' said the uniform standard idea "was never discussed . . . . It's not in the bill."

But he said if a uniform standard is proposed when the committee hears the bill, it will be considered.

"I don't want to chance losing the bill, and I think that might do it," said Sen. Ida G. Ruben, D-Montgomery, who authored the senate's DWI bill. She said the bill has a better chance of passage if it only includes the DWI blood-alcohol level adjustment.

Sen. Ralph M. Hughes, D-Baltimore, who co-sponsored Ruben's bill, said a uniform system "would be the way to go. Or perhaps we should have both of them at .07. That would seem to be the logical thing to do."

Sen. Larry E. Haines, R-Carroll, disagrees. "That argument has been made to defeat the bill," Haines said of Hughes's .07 idea. "It's a weak argument."

Wendy Hamilton, a spokeswoman for Mothers Against Drunk Driving (MADD), said her main interest right now is getting .08 passed. She said Maryland should keep its two-tier system and focus on passing the .08 bill first.

State Police spokesman Rob Moroney declined to comment because he hadn't seen the bill.

Richard Lurye, a Rockville lawyer who represents drunk-driving defendants, said the new law wouldn't result in more arrests. "In terms of my practice, I don't think it will result in more clients or less clients," Lurye said.

Reducing the DWI blood-alcohol level to .08 while the DUI limit is at .07 "does not make sense," Lurye said. "It just seems that it creates more work for courts and judges."

But, getting rid of the two-tier system or not, legislators will try to pass the bill before the 90-day session ends in April and cash in on the federal money.

"This is taxpayers' money we're talking about," Hamilton said. "And our legislators are there to protect our interests. They're not doing their jobs."

"I don't think we will be looking [at the .08 bill] again, so, this is our one shot," said Delegate John A. Giannetti Jr., D-Prince George's. "I hope all parties involved will be in the spirit of compromise."

Glendening's Budget Allows For Smart Growth Program Expansion

by Paul Schuler
Capital New Service

ANNAPOLIS - Maryland's Smart Growth initiatives will get a $228 million boost under the budget Gov. Parris N. Glendening released Tuesday, with transportation and the preservation of environmentally sensitive areas garnering the largest increases.

Glendening also announced the creation of a special Smart Growth secretary to coordinate the multifaceted set of initiatives aimed at curbing sprawl and preserving open spaces. He hasn't selected anyone for the position yet, but he said the new secretary would likely be from outside the government.

The Smart Growth Areas Act, passed in 1997, generated a series of specific anti-sprawl programs. Some are the Live Near Your Work Program, which provides grants for residents who purchase homes close to their jobs, and the Rural Legacy Program, which uses state money to preserve undeveloped tracts of land. He has also used Smart Growth to halt several transportation projects that would lead to sprawl.

As part of his plan to preserve open spaces, Glendening wants to increase funding for the Rural Legacy Program by 28 percent to the $38.6 million, and add another $201 million over five years. He has also proposed a new $40 million program called GreenPrint, which will attempt to protect environmentally sensitive areas not covered by other Smart Growth programs.

"This is critical to protecting the tributaries that feed into the Chesapeake Bay," said Chesapeake Bay Foundation spokeswoman Susan O'Brien.

The GreenPrint target is to join environmentally sensitive areas into a network of hubs, or areas greater than 100 acres.

Glendening also has proposed $138 million in Smart Growth transit initiatives, and another $956 million spread over six years. Much of that money will go toward neighborhood road and sidewalk improvements.

The Chesapeake Bay Foundation applauded Glendening's proposals to rein in development and to strengthen neighborhoods through the proposed $15 million Community Legacy Program.

"The more attractive you make existing communities," O'Brien said, "the less people need to move to farmland and open areas."

Legislators To Up Restrictions On Lobbyists

by Paul Schuler
Capital News Service

ANNAPOLIS — The Maryland General Assembly, looking to save face after a delegate was indicted and lobbyist convicted in an improper relationship, debated legislation Wednesday to more strictly regulate lobbyists.

House Speaker Casper R. Taylor Jr., D-Allegany, stressed these new regulations are necessary to alter the perception of unethical behavior and aren't indicative of a "culture of corruption."

"I'd like to think that realties set our reputations, but I don't think that's true," Taylor said. "We're here to protect our reputations."

State lawmakers rushed a hearing on Senate and House ethics bills to committee that would place even greater regulations on lobbyists. Legislators, who passed a law in 1999 prohibiting lobbyists from buying meals for individual legislators, have steadily increased their regulation of lobbyists over the last several years.

The bills come less than a year after this summer's conviction of lobbyist Gerard Evans for conspiring to have Delegate Tony Fulton, D-Baltimore, propose anti-lead-poisoning legislation that he would oppose, while paint companies paid him a bonus.

Under the proposed regulations, lobbyists would be required to submit a report five days in advance for any dinner or gathering that legislators may attend. They would then be required to submit a report 14 days after the event to the State Ethics Commission detailing the costs of the gathering.

However, the new regulations create much more paperwork that could be overwhelming to the lobbyists as well as government officials who regulate them.

John O'Donnell, executive director of the State Ethics Commission, told the Senate Executive and Environmental Affairs Committee and the House Commerce and Government Matters Committee that he would not support the bill unless it was accompanied by an increase in funding of at least $186,000.

His main sticking point was the bill's mandate requiring the commission to create an electronic list of all lobbyist campaign contributions. The commission doesn't currently have the staff necessary to create the list or to enforce the other new regulations created by the bill, he said.

Some legislators also expressed concerns about the increase in red tape for lobbyists. Delegate B. Daniel Riley, D-Harford, a member of the House Commerce and Government Matters Committee, said some of the regulations, especially the report required 14 days after any event, would make "honest people dishonest people."

"The thing is, sometimes we pass legislation that turns into law that hurts people," he said. "We set up a lot of red tape, and when they don't comply, we point the finger of death at them."

Taylor and Senate President Thomas V. Mike Miller, D-Prince George's, both expressed their support of the two bills, with Taylor urging the committees to send the bills to floor as quickly as possible.

Chelsea Stuck Named Page For General Assembly

Chelsea Stuck, daughter of Robert and Deborah Stuck, Deep Creek Lake, has been selected as the Maryland General Assembly student page for Garrett County. She will be spending two non-consecutive weeks at the State House in Annapolis. Her first week is scheduled for February 19-23, and her second is April 2-7.

Stuck will be performing various duties for the Maryland House and Senate during her two weeks. Student pages are expected to keep the delegates' bill books up-to-date, as well as running errands and distributing material on the House floor.

Stuck serves on the Accreditation for Growth Committee for Southern High School, and is a member of the National Honor Society. She volunteers her time as a Junior VIVA volunteer at Garrett County Memorial Hospital, where she says she hopes to get an inside perspective of a future career — pediatrics. She has been involved in numerous plays in the community, including the most recent production of Alvia by A.R. Gurney at Our Town Theatre.

Maryland Citizens Against Lawsuit Abuse (MDCALA) has announced its sponsorship of an essay contest on the importance of personal responsibility. All Maryland high school seniors are eligible to enter the essay contest by submitting an essay of 250-300 words on the topic "The importance of personal responsibility in your daily life."

"As high school seniors graduate and take on new responsibilities, they will have many opportunities to contribute to society," said MDCALA chairman Phillip D. Bissett, a former state legislator. "We hope that this essay contest will remind these young adults of the importance of taking personal responsibilities for their own actions."

As part of MDCALA's public education efforts, the group urges citizens to become active participants in the community by voting and by serving on a jury when called.

High school seniors are encouraged to submit their entry to: High School Essay Contest, MDCALA, 214 Duke of Gloucester Street, Annapolis, MD 21401. The entries must include the student's name, address, phone number, high school, and county. Entries must be postmarked no later than March 15, 2001.

Fifteen essays will be selected from all entries in the preliminary judging. These students' essays will proceed to the final judging by a panel of community leaders. First-, second-, and third-place awards in the amounts of $1,000, $500, and $250 will be given to the top three essays in the state. Winners will be announced in early May.

For further information on the essay contest, persons may contact MDCALA executive director Nancy Hill at 410-280-3800 or 1-800-210-8222.

MDCALA is a nonprofit, grassroots legal watchdog group with 10,000 supporters across the state. MDCALA's mission is to inform consumers about the costs of lawsuit abuse and ensure the legal system is used for justice, not greed.

their vehicle.

Timothy Judge of Oreland, Pa., Justin Bronowicz of Pittsburgh, Pa., Justin Corbitt of Parkersburg, W.Va., and Alexander Camejo of Cranford, N.J., were stopped in a 1993 Pontiac Bonneville along eastbound I-68 near the 18-mile marker at approximately 1:30 p.m. A full vehicle search ensued after TFC Jesse Broadwater noticed the driver attempting to remove a prescription bottle from his pocket and the bottle was determined to contain suspected marijuana. Among the items located during the search was a small flower pot containing a small suspected marijuana plant.

Each of the four men were subsequently released on their own recognizance.

Little did we know that morning
That God was going to call your name.
In life we loved you dearly
In death we do the same

It broke our hearts to lose you, you did not go alone.
For part of us went with you the day God called you home.

You left us peaceful memories, your love is still our guide.
And though we cannot see you, you are always at our side.

Our family chain is broken, and nothing seems the same.
But as God calls us one by one, the chain will link again.

You are all sadly missed

Secretary Of Aging Challenges Maryland Seniors

Maryland State Secretary of Aging Sue Fryer Ward, has announced a New Year's 2001 fitness challenge to senior adults in Maryland. "During the winter season and especially during the holidays, we tend to increase the amount of food we eat and may not keep up the same level of physical activity," Secretary Ward said. "The combination of a lack of physical activity and poor diet are the second highest underlying cause of death in the United States. For these reasons, I challenge all of Maryland's senior adults to further begin or renew their commitment to personal fitness and well-being in the New Year."

To help get older adults started on a physical activity plan, the Department of Aging will send seniors a free copy of "Join the Active People Over 60," an easy-to-follow fitness and exercise guide produced in partnership with the Maryland Council on Physical Fitness. Requests can be made by calling the Department's Office of Public Affairs toll free at 1-800-AGE-DIAL, extension 1273, or by visiting the web site at www.mdoa.state.md.us.

Between January 1 and April 1, 2002, Secretary Ward will challenge seniors to follow a physical activity plan based upon some of the tips and techniques in "Join the Active People." Beginning in May, seniors will be invited to submit an essay on "How Joining the Active People Improved My Quality of Life." The winning essay will be published on the department's web site, and the winner will be honored during the 14th annual Senior Appreciation Day at the Maryland State Fair.

"There are a variety of physical activity and exercise classes offered through senior centers, retirement communities, college campuses, and local recreation programs," said Jennifer Drzik, M.S., R.D., program manager for Health Promotion and Disease Prevention at the department. "Classes are available in areas such as low-impact aerobics, yoga, Tai Chi, weight training, dance, seated exercise, walking programs, swimming, and more. The New Year is a great time to get moving and with so many choices available for any level of fitness, everyone should be able to find a program to suit their needs."

The department cautions individuals to check with their doctor first before beginning any new fitness or exercise program.

DCL LIONS DONATE TO HOSPITAL CAUSES — The Deep Creek Lake Lions Club made a pair of donations recently to the Garrett County Memorial Hospital Foundation and the GCMH George Loar Circle, efforts that support health care for all residents of Garrett County. The Foundation is the primary fund-raising arm of the hospital and uses donations to assist in funding equipment and capital needs for the facility, while members of the George Loar Circle support local healthcare and promote the general welfare of the hospital. The $500 check presentation to the foundation is shown above, as from the left are hospital chairman and CEO Donald Battista, GCMH Foundation chairperson Louise Conjura, and DCL Lions Club Donations Committee chairperson Carl Roberts. The $1,000 donation presentation to the George Loar Circle is shown below, as Roberts presents the check to Loar Circle chairperson William Grant while Battista looks on. "The Deep Creek Lake Lions Club has been a loyal supporter of the hospital for many years," commented Battista.

Firewood Is Another Good Fuel Choice

As winter kicks into high gear, the cost of keeping warm increases. And this year's escalating energy prices have many homeowners re-evaluating their fuel options. Among the possibilities: firewood.

"Wood is a renewable resource that when used with modern catalytic stoves can be an environmentally sound and cost-effective source of home heat," says Jonathan Kays, a natural resources specialist with Maryland Cooperative Extension, part of the University of Maryland's College of Agriculture and Natural Resources. However, the cost-effectiveness of firewood depends on several factors.

The heating value of any fuel is measured in British thermal units (Btu); one Btu is the amount of energy required to raise a pound of water 1 degree Fahrenheit. Different types of heaters burn fuel at different efficiencies. For example, the average airtight wood stove burns at an efficiency of 50 percent, an oil furnace burns at 65 percent, natural gas at 75 percent, and electricity at 100 percent.

But knowing this is not enough. Cost information is also needed.

The costs of various forms of energy are evaluated differently, which makes comparisons difficult. Such comparisons are further complicated by variations in the cost of wood. According to a recent survey of classified ads in newspapers throughout Maryland, prices for oak firewood—cut, split and delivered—range from $120 to $150 per cord. And these prices may increase as the

However, comparisons of the cost of various heating fuels can be made on the basis of their heat equivalents as expressed in dollars per million Btu ($/MBtu). A comparison of different fuel sources based on current prices (early December 2000) in the central Maryland area follows, listing the fuel source, cost, and $/MBtu, in that order:

Oak firewood, $120/cord, $10.00, $ 140/cord, $11.67; $160/cord, $13.33;

Fuel oil, $1.60/gallon, $17.84;

Electric baseboard, 8.39 cents/Kilowatt hour, $24.58;

Electric heat pump, 3.36 cents/Kilowatt hour, $9.84;

Soft coal, $135/ton, $9.00;

Liquid propane gas, $1.75/gallon, $28.95;

Natural gas, $.99/ccf, $15.23.

As the list shows, firewood—even at $140 a cord—is a competitively priced and economical source of heat, especially when compared to liquid propane, natural gas, fuel oil, and electric baseboard heat. Firewood can be used to supplement your existing high-cost heat source and provide significant savings on weekends and evenings. Before making a decision about switching from one heating method to another, however, the homeowner needs to take into consideration the cost of installing a new heater or making an existing system safe.

"If you think that firewood might be the best alternative for you," explains Kays, "you'll have to buy a wood stove or fireplace insert. In some cases, you may have to have an extra chimney installed or an old chimney repaired and cleaned.

"If you add a catalytic converter to reduce emissions, the price goes higher. So it may take years of fuel savings to pay for a new installation. However, if you already have a wood stove or fireplace insert, you may incur only the minimal costs involved in cleaning and inspecting the existing chimney and stove. And if you are in a position to legally collect your own wood, the savings will be even greater, said Kays.

our area kids. We volunteered many hours of strenuous labor to install a drainage system and to remove rocks to develop these fields, which are important to both of our programs and our communities.

No matter where you go, there is always some idiot that ruins it for everybody. This unknown person decided to take a four-wheeler onto the newly seeded and developed field for a joy ride. This obviously caused some damage to the field.

Unfortunately, we will now have to post signs and take other measures to ensure that the field does not incur further damage. Of course, this takes time, and most importantly, money. Instead of this money being directed to the kids and the community for field development, some of it must now be directed to this person. It is a shame that we have to do this, and it is also a shame that some people have not figured out the difference between right and wrong.

All we can do now is create awareness. If you live in Loch Lynn near the fields, keep an eye out for your community. If you see someone damaging the field or if you know who did the damage, please report it to the local authorities. Let's deal with the problem person rather than spread the misery to the vast majority of good people of our communities. Thanks!

Notes from Bittinger

by Joan Sussman

The only thing I truly hate about my home on the family farm on Rock Lodge Road is the winter winds. Today is a fairly nice day, with sunshine filtering through an almost complete cloud cover. But just listen to the never-ending wind howling and the rustling of the tree branches, and you know that it is not fit to be outside. I didn't mind it so much when I was young and needed to get on with my training program with my horse. I can remember some rides in weather that is only fit for Mt. Everest climbers. A few country ski trips to the wild country behind our farm was fine, as long as you were between hills, ridges, mountains, and the woods. But that last quarter of a mile between the woods and the house was brutal. You really ask yourself, "Why do I do this to myself?"

But the reason the wind is so brutal in this neck of the woods is the one reason the land was so desirable for farms. Here on this tableland between two mountains it is comparatively flat. The two mountains act like two huge snow fences with dropped snow and rain just past them. I assume that the snow cover is good protection for the grass and protects it from the sometime rigid temperatures. The wind is good for grasses because it spreads their seeds.

But that is my obsession for last week. Suddenly this weekend we got into a January thaw. It is not spring, but a few days with temperatures over the freezing mark, the crisp snow turned into a slushy mess.

Judy Kielhman is bitter about the weather, as she just hit her strides on her cross country skis. I don't blame her since she barely scratched the surface on the wonderful trails around here. It looks like on Monday we definitely have a real January thaw, with some rain showers instead of snow. However, snow is predicted again for tomorrow.

Ruth DiPaolo took a short trip to West Virginia with her buddies, Ellis and Betty Saera and Margaret Hatcher from Partlow, Va.

Bertha and son, Neil Roadamer, of Springs, Pa., were recently entertained by Bertha's brother, Raymond Klotz, as well as Wesley Klotz. The Klotzes were raised at a home on Foxtown Road. They enjoyed cake and ice cream at the Rodamer home in Springs. Also attending were Danny and Hazel Klotz from Grantsville.

Lloyd Sussman and our three daughters, Claire, Caitlin, and Meredith, spent the weekend in Silver Spring, to finish the long holiday celebration with Lloyd's parents, Allan and Ruthe, and sister Vicki Sussman, Columbia. They enjoyed the meal out and lots of present openings, but they have to face the big job for this week — 4-H record books. They made some good progress on Monday, Martin Luther King Day, with a day off from school. Thank goodness for that holiday, as it is hard to get the record books completed during school week, along with their homework.

Recent visitors of Sam and Cindy Stanton were Lea Stanton and friend Michael Pouchet, who is a student at Virginia Tech., Blacksburg, Va. Also visiting her was roommate Amy Schomberg, Jenny Wiley, and Matt Skillman. Lea also visited Bill and June Green and Ruby and Paul Orendorf of LaVale.

Linda Buckel attended a principals' institute at Maritime Institute, Lithicom, last Friday.

Linda Buckel and Ruth DiPaolo attended the Grantsville area BPW meeting in Grantsville on Monday evening. Commission Fred Holliday was the guest speaker.

Carol, Scott, and Matthew Bass were Monday night guests of Laurie and Tom Bulka in Columbia on Monday night. The boys had an appointment at Johns Hopkins Hospital on Tuesday.

Barry Glotfelty, Frederick, and Joe Vilanoski, Egypt, were weekend visitors of Barry's family over the weekend.

Big Game Night at Emmanuel Lutheran Education Building will be back again this winter, starting January 26. This is for the big kids from the parish. Bring your favorite game, snack, and beverage. Just remember the date for some fun, laughter, and snacks. If you have any questions, call Meredith Vagnetti at 301-387-2527.

In Memory of Jeremy Scott Wiles
7/31/84 - 1/24/00

It's been one year since God took you home to a safe place.

God picked a rose from Heaven one day and blessed it in a special way.

From its petals He designed a face so perfect, with a style and grace that it made the angels stop, stare and wonder: "In whose care would this child be placed?"

Then God picked a pair of matching stars and gave the face two eyes, and carved a smile from an angel's wing that brightened up the sky.

Then with fragrance from the rose He made a heart and soul and dipped them in the stream of life that turned them into gold.

Then with a smile upon His face, as though it were meant to be, He breathed into the child His love and handed the gift to me.

We miss you, Jeremy, every day.
Love,

Garrett County Life Offers Children Good Chance For Health, Happiness

By Maya Jackson
Capital News Service

ANNAPOLIS — A child growing up in Maryland has the best chance for good health and happiness in Howard County, according to results from a state survey of factors affecting a child's well-being released Tuesday. Garrett, Montgomery, Carroll, Calvert, and Frederick also collected high scores on the eight indicators surveyed for the second year by Maryland's Partnership for Children, Youth, and Families, but only Howard showed up in the top ranking on every list.

Lt. Gov. Kathleen Kennedy Townsend, at the survey's release, also announced that the state's childhood poverty rate declined for the fourth consecutive year. According to the U.S. Census Bureau, Maryland's childhood poverty rate has dropped from 16.3 percent in 1996 to 6.5 percent in 1999, and is far below the national average of 16.3 percent.

Still, Townsend said, there are some challenging issues for the state's youngest citizens. The state's average declined in the categories of low birth weights, high school program completion, high school diplomas, deaths due to injury, domestic violence, out-of-home placements, permanent placements, and homelessness among children. The categories are among those to compile a score on eight indicators — healthy babies, healthy children, children successful in school, children ready to learn, completing school, safe communities, economically stable communities, and communities supporting family life.

The percentage of students who complete high school has dropped from 58.3 percent to 57.7 percent. The number of children who are victims of domestic violence has gone up from 312 to 503 (rate per 100,000), and the percentage of children in foster care has remained the same, at 76 percent.

The findings are part of the 2001 children's well-being survey published by Maryland's Partnership for Children, Youth, and Families, which breaks down child well-being into several categories, compares the state's figures to national figures, and, for the first time, shows how local jurisdictions compare to one another.

The healthiest children, according to one indicator, live in Frederick, Montgomery, Howard, and Kent counties. Allegany, Baltimore, Caroline, and Wicomico counties have the lowest numbers in the state for healthy children.

The reports' findings were used to determine the 16 counties to get a piece of the $4.5 million need-oriented grant offered by the state.

"With focused attention and dedication, we can really make an impact," said Townsend of those 16 counties and Baltimore: Allegany, Baltimore County, Calvert, Caroline, Cecil, Charles, Dorchester, Frederick, Kent, Montgomery, Prince George's, Queen Anne's, St. Mary's, Talbot, Washington, and Wicomico.

Bonnie A. Kirkland, special secretary for children, youth, and families, said the report's data will be used "as a barometer" to track where the state invests money.

The grant will fund this year's priority programs — school-based health centers, which treat children with substance abuse problems; home visiting, which provides support to teen parents; and disruptive youth programs, which provide support for disruptive school-age children.

"This grant will afford us the opportunity to figure out how to keep Kent County students in school," said Nina Wilson, with pupil personnel in Kent County schools, which is receiving almost $200,000 from the grant. "I didn't have anything to entice students to stay in school with, but now I'm excited about the evening classes. It helps me do my job."

A RELAY FOR LIFE "THREE-PEAT" COMING? — The American Cancer Society Relay for Life team representing the Garrett County Board of Education has received trophies at each of the two relays that have taken place thus far. The team received the Top Government Team trophy and the coveted Spirit Stick at the 1999 relay, and the Top School Team trophy at last year's event. Some of the creative relay fund-raising projects BOE team members have undertaken include a parking space raffle, "gourmet" s'mores sales, and 25 cents worth of air through the use of portable fans. (Sales were especially hot during last year's relay, when the temperature hit 90-plus degrees.) "The entire staff of the Board of Education has helped with the relay either through participation or donations," a team member said. "We enjoy participating because it's a good cause, it's fun, and each of us has been touched by cancer in some way through ourselves, family, or friends." Shown in the first row, from left, are BOE team members Robin Schroyer, Bonnie Edwards, and Geri Teats; in the second row are Catherine Coddington, Mary Ann Fink, Dora White, Linda Maroney, and Lyz Lewis. The BOE team encourages all interested individuals, churches, businesses, and organizations to form teams and take part in the third annual Relay for Life, slated for Friday and Saturday, June 8-9, at the Southern High School track.

Maryland Considers Options To Combat Drug Coverage Problem

By Megan Scott
Capital News Service

ANNAPOLIS — Pearl Lewis made $32,000 last year, but spent $15,000 on prescription drugs.

While Lewis is a Medicare beneficiary, her income is above the $9,650 yearly cap on eligibility for Maryland's Pharmacy Assistance Program. She borrows money from relatives to pay for medication.

Lewis, 56, a volunteer patient advocate, is not alone in her struggle to pay for prescription drugs, an expense that keeps rising. That's why she supports Maryland's House Bill 6. The bill, filed in November, proposes establishing the Maryland Pharmacy Discount Program and the Maryland Medbank Program. Both programs would provide discounted and free medicines to those eligible.

However, Maryland state officials are considering passing price control legislation, discounting Medicaid prices for Medicare beneficiaries and expanding the state's current programs in an attempt to tackle the prescription drug coverage issue.

"The cost of drugs has gone higher and higher," said Lewis. "Even older drugs that have been on the market for a long time are going up 20-30 percent." Lewis said she knows of many patients who are admitted to the hospital, take drugs there, get better, return home and then can't afford to fill the prescriptions. They end up back in the hospital.

"The only place you get your drugs is in the hospital," she said. "It's a revolving door."

Those are the kinds of situations that legislators and state officials are trying to mitigate.

The goal, said Debbie Chang, deputy secretary of health care financing at the Department of Health and Mental Hygiene, is to develop a game plan that will keep up the state's current programs of providing prescription drug coverage at the "best price."

The department also wants to identify ways to expand prescription drug coverage to other populations.

Drug spending in the nation grew more rapidly than other health spending in the '90s, according to a 2000 report from the U.S. Department of Health and Human Services. Nationwide, 23 percent of Americans under age 65 do not have prescription drug coverage and 31 percent of Medicare recipients receive no assistance for medication.

Marylanders spent 22.2 percent more on prescription drugs in 1999, according to a report by the Maryland Healthcare Commission.

Even with coverage, Chang said, many people are underinsured for prescription drugs because some plans require premiums, deductibles, and co-payments, and prescription drug benefits are often capped.

Those providing health care agree pharmacy costs are too high.

"My client believes that these increasing costs of prescription drugs are a serious problem," said Robert Enten, a lobbyist for Maryland Association of Health Care Plans. "There aren't any fast and easy solutions. I think it's something the Legislature is going to have to take a hard look at."

The Department of Health and Mental Hygiene uses seven main methods to control rising pharmacy costs. They require prior authorization when a prescription exceeds $400 and physician justification when a patient is not allowed to use a generic alternative. Additionally, the department analyzes "brand medically necessary" prescriptions.

"We do prior authorization so there's another level of people looking at whether the drug is necessary," Chang said.

So far, Maine is the only state to have passed price control legislation. In California, Vermont, Maine, and Florida, Medicare recipients pay discounted Medicaid prices for prescriptions.

Chang told the Budget and Taxation Committee at a hearing this week that the Department of Health and Mental Hygiene is monitoring other states closely to see how effective these strategies are.

"We're going to closely watch this on the federal level," she said.

The Budget and Taxation Committee plans further discussions with the department, said Sen. Barbara Hoffman, chairwoman and a Baltimore Democrat. "We have to be innovative and figure out how to help you," she said.

Top-Ranked Rams Defeat Tucker County, Bishop Walsh

The winning continues this week for the Southern High School boys' varsity basketball team, which has kept the Rams atop the area standings. The Rams overcame a slow start to defeat visiting Tucker County last Friday evening, 60-45, and capitalized on their free throw shooting to hang on for a 49-45 victory over Bishop Walsh on Tuesday, also in Oakland.

The pair of wins gave the Rams and their coach, Tom Bosley, a 10-1 overall record and extended their current win streak to eight games. They will play their next three contests on the road.

Bryan Panther recorded 17 of his game-high total of 21 points in the second half of Friday's game against Tucker County, as the Rams led by just one at the end of the first quarter, 9-8, and found themselves down by three, 25-22, at halftime. In fact, the Mountain Lions scored the first six points of the second half to extend their lead to 31-22 before Panther and his teammates regained their poise and ultimately took charge of the contest.

It was Tucker's Justin Hamrick and Tony Cook who each drained a three-pointer in the opening moments of the third quarter to give the Lions their largest lead of the game, but the Rams responded with a 13-0 run to take the lead for good, and held Tucker to just three more points the rest of the quarter. Bryan Panther scored nine of those 13 for the Rams.

Panther, who also grabbed five rebounds, sunk eight straight points for the Rams in the first three minutes of the final period, and much of the rest of Southern's scoring was accomplished at the free-throw line. The Rams converted 20 of 31 opportunities, 13 of 17 in the fourth quarter, while the Lions made good on just four of six attempts for the game.

Joining Panther in double-figure scoring were Josh Sharon with 12 points and Chad Panther with 11. Chad Panther also pulled down six rebounds, had four steals, and dished out four assists.

Scott Hebb led the Mountain Lions in scoring with 12 points, all of which were recorded in the first half of action.

The Southern junior varsity upped its perfect record to 8-0 with a convincing 49-24 win in the preliminary game behind a 17-point performance by Dennis Tressler. Matt Stephens also reached double figures for the Ram jayvees with 11 points.

Defense was the name of the game in Tuesday's clash with Bishop Walsh, and once again it was the Rams' excellent foul shooting that ultimately won the game for them. The Spartans (8-8) finished with a 17-14 advantage in field goals, but the Rams converted 21 of 26 attempts at the charity stripe (81%), while BW made good on eight of 15 shots.

The score was knotted at 11-11 at the end of the first quarter, but the Rams outscored their visitors in the second stanza by a 15-6 margin to build a 26-17 halftime lead. Mike Saturday hit a shot for Southern at the buzzer.

The Spartans came back after intermission and scored the first eight points of the third period to cut the Rams' lead to a single point, 26-25. Bryan Panther answered with a pair of two-pointers, and the Rams took a 32-28 advantage into the final eight minutes.

Southern's lead expanded to as many as eight points when Chad Panther hit four free throws, only to have the Spartans threaten again and cut the Rams' advantage to two points, 47-45, in the final minute of the game. But the Rams held on for the win by concluding with more two successful free throws, one by Saturday and one by Ryan Ewing.

Bryan Panther was the only Ram who finished in double figures, as he recorded 10 points, and also grabbed six rebounds. Saturday added nine points and three assists, while Chad Panther and Sharon each contributed eight.

Leading Bishop Walsh offensively were Dado Papic with 14 points and Jayme Bradley with 11.

The Southern jayvees embarrassed the Bishop Walsh junior varsity in the preliminary game, 71-25. Dennis Tressler led Southern with 19 points, and Matt Stephens scored 12. Getting 10 points to lead the Spartan jayvees was Brandon Grabenstein.

The Rams will travel to Cumberland this Friday for a return game with a talented Allegany team. They will play at Keyser next Tuesday.

Rams Down Keyser, Beall, Alco; Unbeaten In WMIL

The Southern High School girls' varsity basketball team ran over its first two opponents of the week by thumping Keyser 56-31 last Thursday and crushing Beall 57-30 Monday before taking a 55-46 win at Allegany last night. The Rams are 11-4 overall and 5-0 in the WMIL, and are the sole remaining undefeated team in the league.

Ram freshman Robbin Gregg led the way to last Thursday's win over Keyser (2-5), as the young guard netted a game-high 14 points. Despite fouling out in the late going, senior center Charlena Reeves recorded a dozen points, a tally matched by junior guard Ashley Liller. Carrie Barrick led the Keyser hosts with eight points.

Southern struggled in the early going, and at the end of the first quarter only one point separated the Rams from the Golden Tornado. Coach Don Stemple's squad hit its stride in the second quarter, however, and the Rams pulled out to a 26-15 lead at the half. Southern's flurry continued through the third quarter, and at the opening of the final period SHS was up 41-22.

The Rams' junior varsity took its contest 43-37, as sophomore guard Justine Pagenhardt led all scorers with 20 points. Nicole Zacour's 10 points paced the Golden Tornado JV.

Monday's trip to Beall resulted in a 27-point rout of the Mounties, as the Rams expanded a 13-4 first quarter lead into a 32-14 halftime advantage, and went on to go up 51-20 at the start of the final period.

Liller and fellow junior Jennifer Bosley provided most of Southern's offensive fireworks, netting 19 and 13 points, respectively. Liller hit eight field goals, and had seven assists and six steals to round out her performance, while Bosley went 5-for-6 from the free-throw line. Beall (3-6) was lead by Katie Sweene's six points.

HUSKIES DOWNED BY FALCON ATTACK — A top-flight Frankfort Falcon squad defeated the Northern Huskies last night in Accident 63-41. Team-high scoring honors went to sophomore Amanda Frantz (#20) shown above working off the pick of teammate Nicole Sisler (#12) as she cuts to the hoop for two of her 10 points. Forward Bridget Frazee (#43), who led the Huskies with 11 rebounds, is pictured at the right scoring on a layup, as teammates Jolene Brenneman (#34), Nicole Sisler (#12), and Amanda Frantz (#20) follow the action. The 6-6 Huskies are idle this week until Wednesday evening, when the high-flying Southern Rams visit for a 7:30 p.m. match-up that will be broadcast countywide on 92.3 FM.

Huskies Stand At .500 After Falling To Fort Hill, Falcons

The Northern High School girls' varsity basketball team holds a 6-6 record after losses this week to a pair of powerhouses. The Huskies were downed 58-45 by 7-4 Fort Hill Monday night, then dropped a 63-41 contest last night to a 9-1 Frankfort squad.

Northern was only three buckets off Fort Hill's 13-8 lead after one quarter of play Monday night in Accident, but the Sentinels scampered out to a 30-17 lead at the half and a 42-30 advantage at the opening of the final period.

Amanda Frantz led the Huskies with 11 points, while junior Christie Flockhart and freshman Lyndsi Butler recorded nine points apiece. Junior Bridget Frazee worked the boards to garner a game-high 13 rebounds. The Sentinels' Jessica George scored 24 points.

NHS's junior varsity unit took a 32-24 victory behind freshman Kayla Kamp's 13 points, which led all scorers.

Last night in Accident, the Falcons' Stacy Mielecki put on a clinic by sinking 13 field goals and all six of her free throws to score 32 points. The Frankfort standout also pulled down a game-high 12 rebounds in pacing her team to a 22-point win.

The Falcons, ranked #8 in the state of West Virginia, jumped out to a 17-8 first-quarter lead, were up 34-21 at the half, and ran the score up to 46-31 after three quarters of play.

Northern's Frazee held her own against the visitors by pulling down a team-high 11 rebounds and scoring nine points. Fellow junior Nicole Sisler added eight points. NHS floor leader Kristin Lander, the program's only senior, was missing from the action with a minor injury.

The Huskies' junior varsity unit suffered a 55-20 defeat, although Karie Kamp had a strong showing on the boards with 13 rebounds. The freshman also scored nine points. Jo Jo Small scored 13 points for the Falcons.

Northern is off until Wednesday, when the Huskies go on the prowl for an upset against the visiting Southern Rams. Game time is 7:30 p.m., and the Cove contest will be broadcast throughout the county on 92.3-FM.

Northern's Three-Game Win Streak Snapped By Sentinels

A three-game winning streak of the Northern High School boys' varsity basketball team came to an end Tuesday in Cumberland as Fort Hill demolished the Huskies 109-63. The only action on the NHS schedule this week, the loss gives Northern a 4-8 record (0-5 WMIL) heading into tomorrow night's road trip to Hancock, which will be followed by a Monday night visit by Paw Paw.

The Sentinels took a 29-12 first-quarter lead, a 53-32 halftime advantage, and were up by an insurmountable 91-44 tally as the fourth quarter opened. Northern lost two of its big men during the course of the contest, as Jensen Long and Josh Swandol both fouled out.

Senior guard Greg Speicher had another fine game for the Huskies as he scored 20 points, including three successful three-point attempts and a 7-for-8 performance from the free-throw line. Guard Jeremy Frazee, also a senior, was hot from the outside as well, sinking a trio of three pointers himself on his way to an 18-point performance. Sophomore Aaron Mitchell contributed 10 points to the NHS effort.

Fort Hill was led by Jeremy Snyder's 30-point, seven-rebound evening. The Sentinel standout hit 10 field goals, including four three-pointers, and went 6-for-8 from the foul line. Joel Fradiska scored 15 points and dished out 10 assists, Josh Repac had 16 points, and Chad Keller had 15 points and nine rebounds.

NHS's junior varsity squad dropped a 64-25 contest, as Greg Bender led the Huskies with nine points. Randy Rice scored 20 for the Sentinels.

The high-flying Fort Hill varsity unit hit triple digits for the second time this season, and has scored 195 points over its last two games.

battle 50-40 behind 24 points from Pagenhardt. Freshman guard Sabrina Scheffel sank 16 points for SHS as well. Beall's Whitney Wilson led the Mountaineers' jayvees with 19 points.

Southern took complete control of the WMIL last night with a convincing nine-point win at Allegany. The Rams were up 14-12 after one quarter, took a 29-23 halftime lead, and widened the gap to 42-31 after three quarters of play. The closest the Campers came in the late going was four points, when Alco pulled to within four at 50-46 with 1:20 to remaining. The cool-headed Rams prevailed by sinking five foul shots the rest of the way.

Gregg and Reeves combined again to lead the way to the SHS victory. The freshman guard scored 15 points and the senior post player scored 13 points. Their performance put a spotlight on the Rams' depth, as SHS's other high-scoring regulars, Liller and Bosley, were held to a combined total of 15 points. The Campers' record fell to 5-4 (3-1 WMIL) as Teandra Smith scored 14 points in the losing effort.

Southern's jayvee unit took a 37-23 victory behind Pagenhardt's 18 point-tally. Dana Douglas scored eight points for the Campers.

The Rams have a respite for most of this week, for their next outing is not until Wednesday night when they travel to Northern to square off against the Huskies. That 7:30 p.m. contest will be broadcast on the radio airwaves at 92.3-FM.

Gonder, Mettiki, Bosley Winners In Rec. Games

Mountain Top Recreational Basketball League teams sponsored by Gonder Insurance Agency, Mettiki Coal Company, and Bosley Construction Company were all winners in games played Sunday. Gonder's defeated Patterson Boat Company, 69-49, Mettiki crushed Quality Machine, 70-46; and Bosley rolled over the Barracudas, 60-40.

Leading Gonder's in scoring were Jason Shank and Bill Braithwaite, who recorded 20 and 17 points, respectively, while Justin Liller hit a game-high 26 for Patterson.

Jon Hegeman posted 17 points and Nathaniel Panther contributed 16 to pace Mettiki to its win. Joe Refosco led Quality Machine with 11 points.

Scott Shahan was the top scorer for Bosley Construction, as he netted 14 points, while Doug Copeland recorded 13 points for the Barracudas.

Lakers Fall To Trojans, But Defeat Three Other Opponents

Although the Garrett Community College men's basketball team held the nationally ranked Trojans of Allegany College of Maryland 25 points below their season average on Saturday, the Lakers were still no match for their hosts and copped an losing only their second game of the season.

The Lakers came into the contest, however, off a convincing 81-65 victory over host Penn State-McKeesport last Thursday, then followed the loss with a crushing defeat of visiting Penn State-Fayette on Monday in a make-up game, 83-55, and finally whipping Catonsville yesterday afternoon in another Maryland JUCO Conference clash, 91-79. The 3-1 (2-2) results left the Lakers with a 14-3 overall record and a 5-3 mark in the conference.

Jontae Harrington was the scoring and rebounding leader for the Lakers in the win over Penn State-McKeesport last Thursday, as he recorded 18 points and eight boards. Also reaching double figures were Antonio Lappegard with 15 points, including nine from three-point range, and Rob Hall with 11 points.

The Lakers got off to a slow start, and trailed in the score until going ahead for good at the 15:15 mark of the first half. They were up by nine at halftime, 40-31, and led by as many as 20 points in the second half.

John Beloh finished with a game-high 25 points for McKeesport, and also pulled down six rebounds. His scoring included four three-point buckets. John Nath also reached double figures with 13 points.

The Lakers played a strong defensive game against the 15-1 AC Trojans, ranked 14th in the nation, at Trojan Square Garden on Saturday, particularly in the first half. They trailed by just six points, 38-32, at halftime, and held their two leading scorers to single digits for the game.

Ryan Randle, Allegany's 6-9 center, who came into the game averaging just over 18 points per contest, finished with just four points, while Terry Taylor, a 6-7 forward, was limited to just six points, well below his 14-point average.

The Trojans, likewise, played excellent defense against the Lakers, holding them to their lowest point production of the season. Antonio Lappegard scored 10 points and was the only Laker to reach the double-figure plateau. Jontae Harrington finished with eight points and a game-high eight rebounds, while Ladon Garrett and Anthony Campbell each scored eight points. Rob Hall was credited with five assists, and Campbell also had four steals.

Garrett was, for the fourth straight game, forced to play without its leading scorer, Kortaa Hall, who had to complete some first-semester course work before regaining his basketball eligibility. Hall went into the holiday break averaging 21 points per game for the Lakers.

The Lakers scored only five fewer field goals (24-19), but the Trojans made good on 24 of 32 free throws, while Garrett netted 10 of 24. While man-for-man the Trojans are significantly taller than the Lakers, they finished with only a 43-42 edge in rebounds. The Laker defense also forced 20 turnovers.

"Our guys played a very strong game, especially defensively," stated GCC coach Dennis Gibson. "We don't have any starters back from last year, and our leading scorer (Hall) was out of the line-up, so I think we have tremendous potential."

The 1999-2000 Laker squad lost a 69-68 heartbreaker to AC last season in the Region XX finals.

The Lakers took a quick 3-0 lead in the opening minute of the game, but the Trojans took the lead for good at about the three-minute mark. The Lakers were down 36-22 with 4:10 to play in the first half, but then went on a 10-0 run to cut the AC lead to 36-32. A pair of free throws by Terrell Ross with just two seconds left gave the Trojans their 38-32 advantage at intermission.

GRAVES, KITT LEAD GCC TO VICTORY — The women's basketball team of Garrett Community College turned in its best week of the year so far, as the Lakers took three victories in four outings to up their record to 7-4. Last night Garrett demolished the visiting Allegany Trojans 84-30, with sophomores Tameka Graves and JoEllen Kitt leading the way. Graves (#44), who scored 18 points, is shown above on the business end of a GCC fast break, about to score as teammates Christi Edgell (#23), Nikki Jackson (#44), and Gretchen Baker (#31) hustle up the floor. Kitt (#25) is shown below taking a short jumper for two of her game-high 19 points, as Erica Henderson (#34) and Donna Lyles (#40) prepare to move into rebounding position. The Lakers are slated to travel to Louisburg, N.C., this weekend to take part in the Wal-Mart Classic Tournament.

GCC Takes Record To 7-4 By Taking Three Of Four Games

Things may be starting to gel for the Garrett Community College women's basketball team, as the Lakers improved their record to 7-4 (5-4 JUCO) by defeating Montgomery-Rockville 64-59 Friday, falling to Southern Maryland 79-53 Saturday, winning over Anne Arundel 84-30 Monday, and thumping Allegany last night by a 83-34 margin.

Garrett overwhelmed Montgomery-Rockville early by jumping out to a 39-18 halftime lead Friday. Sophomore guard Shawntice McLaughlin's 12 points paced the Lakers to the victory, while fellow sophomores JoEllen Kitt, a guard, and forward Erica Henderson scored 10 points apiece. Freshman forward Donna Lyles hauled down a game-high eight rebounds and finished with six points. The Knights were led by Sherbert's game-high 19 points.

GCC went up against a powerhouse of a Southern Maryland squad Saturday, as the Hawks entered the contest averaging over 100 points per contest. The visitors appeared to be on their way to another triple-digit tally as they went up 54-25 at the half. Garrett coach Ann Wellham's locker room adjustments paid off on defense, as the Lakers cut Southern Maryland's shooting percentage from 60 percent in the first half to 34 percent over the second half, holding the Hawks to 25 points.

Laker sophomore guard Gretchen Baker led her squad by netting 18 points, including a trio of three-pointers, while Kitt contributed 10 points and gathered eight rebounds. Delayne Buckley's 22 points paced all scorers, and fellow Hawk Kristen Tucker added 15 points.

Garrett got double-digit scoring performances from four players during Monday's 54-point blowout of host Anne Arundel. The outcome seemed in hand by the half, as GCC held a huge 43-12 lead at the intermission.

Sophomore center Tameka Graves dominated the inside scoring game as she recorded a game-high 18 points, and freshman forward Nikki Jackson added 15 points. Henderson hit for 11 points and Kitt contributed 10 points. Anne Arundel's Kellie Werner had 14 points.

GCC dominated the other end of the floor as well, recording a 77-32 rebounding advantage with Lyles leading the way by pulling down 15 rebounds and Jackson hauling in 10. Lyles also nabbed four steals, while Edgell dished out five assists.

Last night Kitt scored 19 points and Graves scored 18

RAMS, HUSKIES CLASH ON THE MATS - The first dual wrestling meet of the season between the Southern High Rams and the Northern High Huskies was staged at Southern last Thursday, with the Huskies, ranked third in the state this week, emerging with a 41-25 team victory. Maintaining a grip on Southern's Joe Ashby in the photo above left is Northern's Dan Ganoe, who eventually pinned Ashby to win the 127-pound division. Above center, Northern's Jeremiah Guard controls Jeremy Lear, and ultimately defeated him on points in the 142-pound bout. Below, Husky Bill Rodeheaver prepares to pick up Southern's Sean O'Brien in the 191-pound division. Rodeheaver won that match via a pin. Above right, Nick Sines of Southern earns points against Jordan Brenneman in the 137-pound clash and wins by decision. SMC Grapplers Win Trophies At Clarksburg Event

The Southern Mat Club traveled to Clarksburg, W.Va., this past weekend to compete in another youth wrestling tournament. There were over 450 athletes in attendance, representing over 40 teams from five states. Even though only 11 of the 37 team members were competing, the SMC placed sixth as a team, bringing home individual trophies in eight of the 11 classes.

Individually, four SMC wrestlers won all their bouts to earn the top honors. Jakob "Bubba" Schelfel, George "Brutus" Schelfel, Justin Ratliff, and Jeremy Gregory were all crowned champions at Clarksburg. Lex Ozias placed second, losing only to teammate Bubba Schelfel, in the final match. Lex's younger brother, Coy Ozias, and veteran Scott Wildesen each also only lost one match to finish in third place. Gavin Murphy worked his way through a full bracket to finish the day in fourth place. Also competing on Saturday were Nicholas Brant, Jeffrey Gregory, and Ryan Fitzwater.

Jeremy Gregory entered another tournament on Sunday, this time in Fairmont, W.Va. Gregory won two of his three bouts and earned a third-place trophy.

This weekend, three team members are traveling to Tulsa, Okla., to compete in what is known as the Tulsa Nationals. It is considered by the wrestling community as the most competitive tournament in the nation. Justin Ratliff and Jakob and George Schelfel are making the trip to compete against the top wrestlers in the United States. Last season, team members Lex Ozias and Scott Wildesen made the trip, with Ozias finishing in second place.

"The fact that we can compete at the national level and be successful says a lot for the dedication of these kids and their families," stated Coach Dave Taylor. "The entire team has worked very hard since its beginning and has developed into one of the best youth wrestling programs around."

The Southern Mat Club will host its own event on February 10 at Southern High School and will draw athletes from Virginia, Ohio, Maryland, West Virginia, and Pennsylvania.

For more information on the local club, persons may contact Coach Taylor at 301-334-3855 or club president Ed Wildesen at 301-334-8785.

Lakers Fall

the second half again narrowed the Trojan lead to four points, but Allegany answered with a 12-0 run to take control of the contest.

"That was the spurt that really hurt us," Gibson said, "and there may have been some adjustments I should have made to try to counter it. But their size and strength finally became too much."

Ross finished with a game-high 22 points for Allegany, and teammate Lee Green came off the bench to score 12.

Kortaa Hall did return to the Laker lineup in Monday's game against Penn State-Fayette, but it was Jontae Harrington who again led the Lakers in both scoring and rebounding. Harrington finished with 16 points and 13 rebounds, plus three steals, while Lee Parris hit three three-pointers and scored 13 points in the easy win. It was the sixth double-double outing for Harrington.

BASKETBALL TEAM WINS FIRST PLACE — The Mt. View Christian School boys basketball team came home with a victory this past December. The team traveled to Oil City, Pa., to participate in the Christmas Basketball Tournament at Faith Christian Academy. The team played three games in the double-elimination tournament. They started their winning streak against the home team of Faith Christian and won 75-42. Next they defeated Cornerstone, 70-27. In the finals they again met Cornerstone, this time winning 61-21. As a result, they received the first place trophy. During the trophy presentation, senior Jimmy Yoder was named MVP of the tournament with an average of 22.5 points per game. Also, Patrick Yoder received recognition as one of the five players to be picked for the all-tournament team. Pictured above is the winning team. From left, front row, are Patrick Yoder and Jimmy Yoder. In the back row, also from left, are high school teacher, Kenton Yoder, Coach Dr. Terry Dornberg, Preston Yoder, Andy Yoder, Jerod Beltzel, Steve Yoder, Lee Pickrel, Joseph Martin, Dwight Yoder, and school principal Marvin Yoder.

First OTC Treatment for Fever Blisters

Infection from the herpes simplex-1 virus causes cold sores, also called fever blisters. Surprisingly, up to 80% of US adults are carriers of HSV-1. The initial infection usually occurs during childhood. Lesions can reoccur at any time during a person's life, and may be brought on by stress, other infections, sun exposure, windburn, dental work, or fever. Itching, tingling, burning, or numbness may occur around the lips just before blisters appear. Blisters usually heal within 10 to 14 days. If they don't, a visit to a physician's office is advised.

Numerous creams and ointments have been used for fever blisters. Prescription-only medicines help shorten the duration of the infection. These agents interfere with viral synthesis. The FDA recently approved Abreva, the first over-the-counter (OTC) product for treating fever blisters. Many other commonly used OTC medicines contain benzocaine and phenol for relief of fever blister pain.

"We're starting to execute better on defense," Coach Ann Wellham said, but I am mostly pleased with our defensive pressure."

Henderson finished with 11 points and a game-high 12 rebounds, while Lyles contributed eight points and 10 rebounds. Baker connected on a pair of three-pointers and finished with 10 points.

GCC takes to the road this weekend to take part in the Wal-Mart Classic Tournament in Louisburg, N.C. The Lakers are slated to open the tourney Saturday against Methodist College's junior varsity squad, and on Sunday Garrett takes on the Louisburg Community College hosts. Prince George's Community College visits McHenry Tuesday evening for a 5 p.m. match-up.

Arsenal Teams Fare Well In W.Va. Tourney

The Arsenal Football Soccer club competed at the Bridgeport Tournament in West Virginia this past weekend and came home with a number of victories. In the U-12 girls' division, Arsenal's first team won the age division championship. This is the third championship for the Arsenal program in the past year. Arsenal's U-12 girls' second team, consisting primarily of U-10 and U-11 players, also participated and played competitively in this older division.

The U-14 girls' first team, later in the day, collected the second age division championship and the fourth overall for Arsenal. Joanne Buckle, Shar Hollingsworth, Erin Rhodes, Melissa Rohrbaugh, and Jasmine Scheffel were undefeated for the day, and claimed the championship by a 4-0 score on goals by Hollingsworth (2), Rohrbaugh, and Scheffel. Goals in their other games were recorded by Hollingsworth (5), Scheffel (3), and Rohrbaugh, while Buckle, Rohrbaugh, and Scheffel each recorded one assist. Erin Rhodes and Joanne Buckle attended the goalkeeping duties, recording a combined 25 saves. The U-14 girls' second squad, a younger team playing in the older division, had an excellent start to their season by claiming a draw against a superior team in their first match before falling by scores of 3-0 and 1-0. Members of that team were Kailee Craig, Jennifer George, Julie Holloway, Priscilla McCready, and Ashley Rohrbaugh. Jenny George collected 15 saves in this squad's three games.

The U-18 girls played in the high school division, claiming victories in the first two games by 1-0 and 2-0 scores. In the semi-final round, Arsenal was upset, 5-2. Goals in the games were scored by Megan Burner (3), Bonnie Riley, and Casey Taylor. Assists were given by Casey Taylor and Miriam Sincell. Alasha Rush tended goal and collected 10 saves.

The U-12 boys' first and second teams played competitively, but dropped their games in the tournament. "The players in this group are very young and just beginning to develop. They are exciting to watch and showed improvement over the last tournament," stated Mel Menker, Arsenal director.

The U-14 boys' first team had an excellent start to the day, with back-to-back victories that propelled the team into first place. In the semi-final round, however, they were defeated by the eventual champion from Buckhannon. Members of this team were Bob Bonser, Ryan Heselbach, James Naylor, Nick Perry, and Tray Rives.

The second group suffered three defeats, but as with the other teams, this squad is younger, playing in a stronger and older division. Members of this team were Taylor Crabtree, Ben Diller, Ryan Gosnell, Chad Remley, and Brendon Stephens.

Arsenal had three teams in the U-18 boys' division. The younger team consisted of Sean Buckle, Chris Lantz, Brent McCrum, Matthew Nazelrod, and Nick Walthall.

The second group played against three strong opponents before falling in the quarter-final round. Members were Riff Browning, Brian Cathell, Clem Chauzat, Chris Menker, and Kyle Rives.

The third group of players fared best, gaining a semi-final berth, where they lost to the Northern Huskies entry in four overtimes by a final of 3-2. Arsenal's two goals were scored by Chris Remley and Dustin Slider, with Jon Neville collecting 8 saves in goal.

"The fact that the club gained two championships, one quarter-final, and three semi-final round appearances attests to the ongoing development of the players," Menker said.

Arsenal has a couple of weeks off and will then be on the road in February.

THIRTEEN DAYS

Rated PG-13 - Running Time: 2:25 - Released 12/25/00

I have mentioned the fact that Kevin Costner seems to repeat certain themes in his movies. He's done more baseball films than can be counted on one pitching hand, he's partial to overlong epics where he plays a hero who saves society from itself—it's certainly not hard to guess the man's passions. Now he adds another telling entry to his list of pet topics: John F. Kennedy. In Oliver Stone's JFK, Costner played New Orleans district attorney Jim Garrison. In Roger Donaldson's intense retelling of the 1962 Cuban missile crisis, Thirteen Days, Costner has moved up the ladder to the president's special assistant, Kenny O'Donnell. Although his performance here is not unlike that of JFK, he has exchanged Garrison's southern drawl for an exaggerated New England accent (he sounds more like Kennedy than Kennedy, or, for that matter, than Bruce Greenwood, who plays Kennedy), and while this is easily the most annoying aspect of the film, it is a minor irritation, and it doesn't take away from the thoroughly engrossing nature of the story.

Written by David Self, based on the book The Kennedy Tapes: Inside The White House During The Cuban Missile Crisis by Ernest R. May and Philip D. Zelikow, Donaldson's film suffers from a slow start which is arguably necessary to establish the numerous aides and other figures in the JFK administration, but after the first half hour or so, the ball begins rolling and doesn't stop. When a U-2 plane making a surveillance flight over Cuba detects Soviet nuclear missiles being placed there, it becomes clear that the U.S.S.R. is planning to establish a platform from which to threaten the United States. Knowing that it will only be a matter of days until the missiles are operational, the president's cabinet and joint chiefs engage in a tense argument over whether to proceed diplomatically (which would allow time for the missile sites to be completed), or launch air strikes, or invade, which would most likely force the Soviet Union to attack NATO allies in Europe, effectively placing the world's two predominant superpowers in a state of war.

Most of the film revolves around Kennedy (Greenwood), his brother Robert F. Kennedy (Steven Culp, who also played Bobby Kennedy in the 1996 TV movie Norma Jean & Marilyn), and O'Donnell (Costner), who alternate between the tense meetings in the situations room with the White House staff and the no less tense private meetings in the oval office among the three of them, trying to decide how to avoid provoking a nuclear confrontation. With preserving the peace foremost in their minds, the three men buck against the hawkish recommendations of their military advisors and attempt to come up with a diplomatic solution even though the time until the missiles are ready to fire is ticking away.

Every step along the minefield that Kennedy and his staff were forced to negotiate is presented here, interspersed with high-powered action sequences involving the increasing reconnoissance flights and ships at sea, and the various political confrontations between the U.S. and Soviet ambassadors. Donaldson does an astonnding job orchestrating the story, alternating between meetings, action, and O'Donnell's interior family moments, and between color and black & white film, with some rapid-fire sequences where orders are given, carried out, and rescinded within minutes. Costner performs admirably; the fact that he did not direct this film (he is one of its 11 co-producers) tends to keep his penchant for melodrama in check. Although the script tends to idolize the Kennedys a bit, Greenwood and Culp are truthful and charismatic, showing their fear and apprehension at dealing with this situation of whose gravity they are all too aware. The large supporting cast is greatly effective, including Dylan Baker as Defense Secretary Robert McNamara, Henry Strozier as Secretary of State Dean Rusk, and Michael Fairman as U.N. ambassador Adlai Stevenson, delivering the famous "Hell freezes over" quip. Thirteen Days is a gripping history lesson and a good character study, but also just a well-cast, well-executed film ★★★★★

FINDING FORRESTER

Rated PG-13 - Running Time: 2:13 - Released 12/19/00

A movie about being a writer offers us an interesting perspective into the mind of its author. Finding Forrester, a film about a young man whose talent brings him in contact with an unlikely mentor in the most unlikely of places, is the first feature film screenplay written by Mike Rich, an Oregon radio news director who obviously has some literary aspirations of his own. It is directed by Gus Van Sant, who received a Best Director Oscar nomination for 1997's Good Will Hunting. Rich's text and Van Sant's direction mesh very well together, bringing the author's commentary about race relations and true creativity onto the screen with an important sense of integrity in a field known for empty glittering, featuring a nice turn by Sean Connery and a surprisingly natural performance by young newcomer Robert Brown.

In a story with some similarities to Hunting (including a surprise cameo by Matt Damon) but which bears an even stronger resemblance to Curtis Hanson's Wonder Boys, a 16-year-old Bronx school kid named Jamal Wallace (Brown), who happens to be known for his talent on the basketball court, is recruited by an exclusive private prep school after he receives exceptionally high scores on a standardized test. However, Jamal soon learns the school administration's true motive: after losing several players to graduation, they are looking to restock the basketball team. Although he is a voracious reader and shows great talent in his writing, Jamal is not taken very seriously by his arrogant professor, failed novelist Henry Crawford (F. Murray Abraham).

But Jamal's life is turned around when he becomes friends with a reclusive old man living in the apartment building overlooking his neighborhood basketball court. The man turns out to be William Forrester, whose fame for his novel, Avalon Landing, is surpassed only by his fame for having produced only that one novel. Forrester is well-respected in the writing community; his book even appears among the assigned reading in Prof. Crawford's class. But Forrester, living as a recluse under an assumed name for decades in his Bronx apartment, makes Jamal promise not to reveal his identity. In return, he helps the boy hone his talent to the point where Crawford is forced to question whether Jamal is in fact writing his own material.

In this film, director Van Sant blends the streetwise style one finds in Spike Lee movies with the author-ish content of Rich's engaging story to make a pleasing experience, but one not cloying or manipulative. His choice of music, incorporating many titles by master jazzman Miles Davis and some interesting updates of "Somewhere, Over The Rainbow" (yes, you heard right), as well as original pieces by Bill Brown, add interesting texture. Lastly, there are the performances. Connery is certainly more than adequate, but such is expected from the likes of him. It is teenager Brown who stands out. His delivery is quiet, subtle, and at many times monosyllabic, and one is not sure whether this is part of his characterization or simply his own way. But occasionally he gives Jamal a warm, exquisitely human quality that betrays his ability to rise above the otherwise low-key style. Also on hand in supporting performances are rapper-turned-actor Busta Rhymes as Jamal's brother Terrell, April Grace as his strong but supportive mother, and Anna Paquin as the sweet and affectionate Claire, the symbol of the unattainable world Jamal sees through the glass of racial separation. A moving, meaningful story. ★★★★½

SAVE THE LAST DANCE

While teenage romances are usually only remotely palatable and aimed squarely at the teen market where they will not be under the harsh scrutiny faced by "grown-up" movies, occasionally there are those which show the promise of a young new talent, one who rises above the formulaic script and makes an impression. I felt this way about Julia Stiles when she starred in 10 Things I Hate About You, and I feel the same way about her in Thomas Carter's Save the Last Dance, an unlikely romance about a white girl moving to the projects and learning to fit in. With as much to say about race relations as your average episode of Welcome Back, Kotter, Save The Last Dance's script (by Duane Adler and Cheryl Edwards) isn't going to win the Nobel Prize for peace. But Stiles and co-star Sean Patrick Thomas have a large effect on the film's success.

Stiles plays Sara Johnson, an aspiring ballerina from the midwest whose dream is marred by the fact that her supportive mother is killed in a car accident. After the tragedy, Sara drops out of dance and moves to Chicago to live with her beatnik father (Terry Kinney), a jazz trumpeter who lives in a shimmy apartment in the ghetto. At her new school, Sara is one of the only white kids, but she soon finds a friend in Chenille Reynolds (Kerry Washington), who for some reason takes a liking to her. After an initially bad start, Sara also becomes friends with Chenille's brother Derek (Thomas), who seems to be the only male student in the school who cares about his studies. When Chenille invites Sara to the local dance club, Derek feels the need to teach her some hip-hop, so they begin a Dirty Dancing-style relationship, becoming ever closer, literally and figuratively. Soon they fall in love, annoying everyone from the black girl who wanted Derek for her own (Bianca Lawson) to Derek's juvenile delinquent friend (Fredro Starr) to a racist old lady on the subway. He convinces her to resurrect her dream of studying dance at Juilliard, suddenly becoming a professional dance coach.

Although this story arc is predictable, pandering, patronizing to both blacks and whites, and generally all too easy, Stiles and Thomas won me over on sheer charm. The fact that they are both fabulously attractive doesn't hurt, of course, but there is more to it than that. Stiles has an irresistible, easygoing way about her, and Thomas seems to know how to play off this quality. The two seem to click together, and their chemistry is supplemented by good performances by Washington and Starr, who, although they represent vastly different character types, adequately show the two worlds that Derek must attempt to live in at once. Indeed, the issue of blacks and whites living in different worlds is addressed several times in the text, but the script oversimplifies the race struggles to the point of insult. Still, Stiles and Thomas redeem this film over and over. And the dancing is fun to watch, too. ★★★½

ANTITRUST

As computer technology continues to become more and more a part of our everyday lives, we will see more fiction devoted to the so-called Pirates of Silicon Valley. Let's hope, however, that we see something better than AntiTrust, a computer geek thriller directed by Peter Howitt (Sliding Doors), which would be utterly undistinguished if not for the participation of Tim Robbins, the only semi-capable actor present. Unfortunately, in this film Robbins does some of his worst work to date. Ryan Phillippe's best work is about equal to Robbins's worst, and Claire Forlani, while looking great, is understandably conflicted about her very conflicted character.

Early in this film, the characters mention Bill Gates by name; this is a clever tactic by writer Howard Franklin to avoid lawsuits, since Robbins's character, Gary Winston, is so obviously patterned after Gates, right down to the hair style, glasses, and ruthlessly competitive business sense. Gary is the billionaire C.E.O. of "NURV," a software company whose ridiculously contrived acronym stands for "Never Underestimate Radical Vision." Urp. As would be expected, Gary lives like a king (and eats like a pig) in a huge mansion filled with all sorts of cool gizmos like paintings that digitally change to suit the tastes of anyone who enters the room. Like Gates, he is vilified by most working-class computer technicians, constantly fending off charges of "anti-competitive" strategies and being portrayed as Satan on various websites.

Meanwhile, in garages all over the country, young braniacs like Milo Hoffmann (Phillippe) and his friends work hard to unseat the software giant by producing some revolutionary new program or operating system, so that they can be the next ones to be hated by their colleagues. However, when Gary calls Milo on the phone personally and asks him to join his team, Milo finds it difficult to refuse. After all, Gary's company is on the cutting edge of technology, with the best people and the money to fund any kind of clever ideas. And they probably have an unlimited supply of Rubik's cubes up there. So he leaves his fledgling company to join the NURV team, but soon a suspicious murder has him poking around in the NURV complex where he uncovers evidence that Gary might really be Satan. Exactly like Bill Gates. Kidding.

Early in this film, Robbins's impersonation of Gates is cute, but as time goes on he approaches the kind of over-the-top stupidity he displayed in the last 20 minutes of Arlington Road. Phillippe, perhaps intentionally, generates no on-screen chemistry with anyone, including his girlfriend (Forlani), his new NURVy girlfriend (Rachael Leigh Cook, She's All That), or Gary himself. Franklin's script is packed full of ridiculous melodrama and cartooney characterizations, and Howitt's direction seems to revel in it. Milo makes mental leaps that would be inhuman even for a computer genius, and there are scenes where we are watching a computer screen for what seems like an eternity, seeing him uncover ever more damning evidence against Gary, as if Franklin is saying, "Do you get it? He's the bad guy! Do you understand yet?" Moreover, there are laughably non-specific scenes where people look at a screen full of code and say, "Isn't that great? Wow, that's some great code!" without explaining to us what's so interesting.

Computers are as much a part of our lives as food and water these days, but the subject doesn't translate well to the silver screen, where people are supposed to actually have personalities. Or maybe it's just Franklin, Howitt, and Phillippe who lack that component. ★½ state appraisal. The appraiser would determine the value of the land as a farm, timber site, or similar natural resource-oriented activity, and then determine the land's value as a developed area.

The state would then offer to pay the landowner the difference between the two figures, so, as Commissioner Wendell Beitzel pointed out, "you gain the money as if you've developed your farm without running the risk of losing your land." It is not a "get rich quick scheme," he did point out, as the state would be paying only for the difference between developed and undeveloped land.

Rural Legacy director Bush and Nelson told the audience that participating farmers would not be restricted in expanding their agricultural operations. For example, a dairy farmer would be able to expand his dairy herd and associated buildings if he chose to. Small, home-type businesses could operate on Rural Legacy lands providing they do not adversely affect the rural nature of the parcel, and allowances are available for farmers who may wish to retain the right to construct a house or two for the use of family members. It was repeatedly stressed that the conveyance of development rights is a permanent measure, and that future generations of farmers (even if within the same family) may not opt out of the program to develop the land.

Schlosnagles Honored On 60th

Mr. and Mrs. Raymond H. Schlosnagle were honored last fall on their 60th wedding anniversary with a dinner party given by their children. They were married on September 7, 1940, at St. John's Lutheran Church in Red House by Rev. Alvah K. Jones.

Mrs. Schlosnagle, the former Alta Nicklow, is the daughter of the late Clarence and Matilda Nicklow, Friendsville. Mr. Schlosnagle is the son of the late Howard and Maude Schlosnagle, Accident.

The couple's children include Shirley Metheny and husband Edward, Friendsville; Sandra McGraw and husband Colin, Laurel; Rebecca Vitez and husband Frank, Friendsville; and Spencer Schlosnagle, Friendsville. They have seven grandchildren and six great-grandchildren.

The children honored their parents with a dinner party at Grace Lutheran Church in Friendsville on September 10. The dinner was catered by the Grace Lutheran Church Women, and the couple was presented with a two-tier cake decorated with pink roses. A pink and white theme was carried out in the social hall decorations.

Approximately 60 guests attended, each presented at his or her place setting with a framed picture of the Schlosnagles. Special music for the celebration was provided by Daymond and Lori Schmuck. Following the dinner party, the couple's family hosted a picnic to conclude the celebration.

The altar for the Sunday service was decorated with two vases of fresh cut flower arrangements presented by their children in honor of the couple. The children also presented their mother with a pink rosebud corsage and their father with a boutonniere, and a video of the Schlosnagles life together. A display of family pictures for the guests to view was also arranged.

The Schlosnagles were the owners of the Schlosnagles' Grocery & Clothing Store, Friendsville, for 33 years.

The bride's mother, Carol Paugh, and her stepfather, Leon Paugh, were also present, as were the groom's parents, Elaine and Stephen Sines, and his, sister Stacy Sines.

The bride wore a white and purple gown from Kaufman's Wedding World with purple rosebuds in her veil and bouquet. The groom wore a tuxedo, as did Nikolai.

A reception took place at the Oakland Elks Lodge on Dec. 22. Balloons and candy kiss rosebuds were supplied by the Party House, Advantage Florists provided a three-tier, purple and white cake, and Dan Daniels supplied music. The food was prepared by the groom's family. Dan Daniels supplied the music, and the couple's first dance together was to "You are the Love of My Life" by Michael Montgomery.

The couple, along with their son Nikolai, reside in Mtn. Lake Park.

Traffic Stop Nets Two Convictions In District Court

A pair of Oakland men who had been arrested after a traffic stop by Garrett County sheriff's deputies received jail sentences after both pleaded guilty before Garrett County District Court Judge Ralph Burnett last week.

Jack Alfred Kight Jr., 23, was handed a month-long jail term after he pleaded guilty to obstructing and hindering a sheriff's deputy, while William Earl Gardner, 21, was handed a sentence that included a two-night jail stay after pleading guilty to marijuana possession and driving while intoxicated (DWI).

The two men were arrested in the wake of an October traffic stop by sheriff's deputies at the intersection of Broadford Road and Memorial Drive. Gardner, the driver, was initially charged with DWI, and an ensuing search determined that he was carrying a brass smoking pipe bearing burnt marijuana residue. Kight was one of three passengers in the vehicle, and as a deputy was attempting to secure the scene for safety purposes, he refused to comply with requests to sit down away from the roadway and was arrested on the obstruction charge.

Gardner was convicted outright on the marijuana possession charge, while the guilty plea to the DWI accusation drew a probation before judgment ruling. Gardner was also handed a 60-day sentence (all but two days of which were suspended), a $500 line, one year of supervised probation, and 40 hours of community service. Gardner had faced an additional charge of possession of drug paraphernalia which was not prosecuted by the state's attorney's office.

In other district court news, James Michael Courtwright, 33, Cameron, W.Va., was sentenced after pleading guilty to drug possession and driving while intoxicated. Additional charges of possession of drug paraphernalia and illegal possession of a prescription drug were not prosecuted.

Courtwright had been arrested by Maryland State Police troopers in July after he drove into the McHenry MSP barrack parking lot, walked into the lobby noticeably staggering. Courtwright failed sobriety tests and was arrested for DWI on the spot, and an ensuing search located a bag of marijuana in his pocket, along with a packet of rolling papers and two prescription medication pills for which he could not produce a written prescription or a prescription bottle.

Courtwright was handed a 60-day suspended sentence, fined $400, placed on one year of unsupervised probation, and ordered to complete 60 hours of community service.

Eliezer Binyomin Lefkowitz, 19, Baltimore, pleaded guilty to marijuana possession and was handed a $100 fine and placed on one day of unsupervised probation. His August arrest by sheriff's deputies came as a result of a traffic stop along Garrett Highway near Deep Creek Lake.

Although riding as a passenger in the vehicle, Lefkowitz was the registered owner. A search uncovered a bag of marijuana in the car's back seat and a pair of blunt marijuana cigarettes and a packet of rolling papers elsewhere in the vehicle. The marijuana possession charge, and a drug paraphernalia charge (which eventually went unprosecuted) were filed when Lefkowitz claimed the items as his own.

Kimberly J. Dillon, 39, Oakland, pleaded guilty to second degree assault and was handed a 30-day sentence, of which all but two days were suspended. An additional charge of disorderly conduct was not prosecuted.

Dillon's November arrest by Oakland police officers came after she was apprehended drinking in public at an Oakland convenience store. She refused to comply with requests to pour out the remainder of an alcoholic beverage she had been consuming in public, and eventually threw the drink on the officer.

Terry Lynn Ford, 38, Oakland, was not prosecuted on a fourth degree burglary charge that stemmed from his October arrest by sheriff's deputies. Ford was apprehended inside a trailer that he had allegedly broken into. He claimed he was the trailer's rightful owner, while another individual complained and had reportedly provided a title and a bill of sale.

SCHOOL PROJECT SUPPORTS HOUSE OF HOPE - Students in Sue Newton's class at Southern High School recently completed a learning project that resulted in the donation of $279.13 to the House of Hope. Those students, under the direction of Newton and teacher assistant Barb Steyer, were Chris Harvey, Tonia Baker, David Paugh, Jace Edge, and Kattie Fike, who decorated coffee cans for tho 21 classes that particlpated. For three consecutive Fridays, the students collected the cans, counted the money, kept a record of the among collected from each class, and completed a bar graph and goal poster. "I was pleased with the effort our students made," Newton said. "It was a good learning experience in regard to understanding concepts of money, charting, and graphing," Steyer added. "It made me feel good to help my community," stated Tonia Baker. Mrs. Harden's class collected the most money ($60.70), while Mrs. Taskor's class had the highest average of giving. Pictured from left above are: Tonia Baker, Sue Newton, Kattie Fike, Barb Steyer, and Pam Shaffer, also a class assistant.

LITTLE ANGELS

When God calls little children to dwell with Him above
We mortals sometimes question the wisdom of His love.
For no heartache compares with the death of one small child
Who does so much to make our world seem wonderful and mild.
Perhaps God tires of calling the aged to His fold
So He picks a rosebud before it can grow old.
God knows how much we need them, and so He takes but few
To make the land of Heaven more beautiful to view.
Believing this is difficult, still sometimes we must try
The saddest word mankind knows will always be "good-bye".
So when a little child departs, we who are left behind
Must realize God loves children – angels are hard to find.

GC Environmental Data Available Via EPA Web Site

The U.S. Environmental Protection Agency has unveiled "Window to My Environment," an Internet program that provides a broad array of environmental information regarding communities in the mid-Atlantic region. The web site currently includes environmental data specific to Garrett County and the surrounding region, and will eventually be expanded to serve the entire country.

Computer users can access the site by going to the EPA home page at www.epa.gov and selecting the "Your Community" link. Window to My Environment presents maps and environmental data for users who simply type in a postal ZIP code or the name of a town or state. "The user chooses a location and can learn about environmental issues affecting the air, water, and land in that community, as well as information on how governments are working to protect their environment," said Michael McCabe, deputy administrator for EPA.

EPA developed Window to My Environment in partnership with state environmental agencies to organize the vast amount of available environmental information. Without the program, computer users would have to search through a variety of on-line and off-line resources to learn about various aspects of their local environment.

"This pilot project is only in its early stages and eventually will become more user-friendly with greater geographic coverage," said McCabe. "We are currently moving toward a full production of the mid-Atlantic elements of the web site, and plan a region-by-region rollout of Window to My Environment over the next several years."

Debris Burning During Winter Months Advised

Landowners outside incorporated towns who are interested in burning brush or debris may want to take advantage of the winter weather that we are now experiencing, noted a DNR spokesperson recently. According to the Open Air Burning Regulations, Title 8, Department of Natural Resources (DNR), Subtitle .07, Maryland Forest Service, "burning may occur at anytime when the ground is covered with snow, if all other requirements are met."

The open air burning regulations apply to activities in woodland and within 200 feet of woodland, or to a flammable material that could carry fire to the woodland. There should be a firebreak at least 10 feet wide around the fire and adequate personnel and equipment present to control the fire. The fire should be out cold before all personnel leave the scene.

Landowners who wish to do some open air burning while the ground is covered with snow are still required to obtain a burning permit from the health department. These permits can be obtained by contacting the Garrett County Health Department Monday through Friday, 8 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. at 301-334-8980. Once this permit has been obtained, the landowner should contact Garrett Central Alarm at its non-emergency number, 301-334-1929, prior to burning. This should reduce the chances of one of the local fire companies being called out on a false alarm.

Local Student Initiated Into Honor Society

Five Frostburg State University students, including one from Garrett County, and two faculty members were initiated in the Epsilon Zeta Chapter of Phi Alpha, the national Social Work Honor Society.

The inducted students included Shonna Livengood of Accident. The two faculty members initiated were Dr. Baxter Wright and Dr. Terry Russell.

Scheduled as part of the social work department's graduate pinning ceremony, the initiation service was held on December 16 with the assistance of Dr. Kathleen Powell, the group's faculty advisor, and current Phi Alpha members Kelly Clements and Koren Winebrenner. Guest speakers were Dr. Joseph Hoffman, associate dean of the College of Liberal Arts and Sciences, and Deanna Kenney, FSU social work alumna, Phi Alpha member, and current director of the Homeless Services Program with the Allegany County Human Resources Development Commission.

To be eligible for membership in Phi Alpha, a student must have been accepted into the Social Work Program, achieved an overall grade point average of at least 3.0, and have at least a 3.25 grade point average in required social work courses.

Established in 1960 by undergraduate social work students at Michigan State University, Phi Alpha seeks to provide a closer bond among students of social work and to promote humanitarian goals and ideals. Phi Alpha fosters high standards of education for social workers and invites as members those who have attained excellence in scholarship and achievement in social work. More than 110 chapters now exist.

The Epsilon Zeta Chapter at Frostburg State was established in 1995 to coincide with the professional accreditation of the undergraduate social work program by the Council on Social Work Education. Since then, 43 FSU students have been inducted into the chapter.

Veneman Awaits Confirmation To Head USDA

The daughter of California peach farmers was chosen by president-elect George W. Bush to be the nation's 27th agriculture secretary. Ann Veneman, a lawyer who specializes in agriculture and trade issues and served as USDA's deputy secretary from 1991 to 1993 is awaiting confirmation to become the first woman to lead the department.

"Ann Veneman is widely respected by the different segments of the farm economy; she has great insight into the problems facing farmers and is an expert in international trade," said Bush.

Veneman's USDA career began back in 1986 when she was hired as the assistant to the administrator for the Foreign Agricultural Service. She was promoted to associate administrator for FAS in 1987 and held that position until 1989, when she was promoted to deputy undersecretary for international affairs and commodity programs.

From 1991 to 1993, Veneman served as deputy secretary and was the highest ranking female in USDA history.

Veneman returned to California in 1995 when she was appointed by then-Gov. Pete Wilson to be California's agriculture secretary until January 1999.

Veneman has since practiced law in Sacramento, but she maintained farm connections as a specialist in food, agriculture, environment, technology, and trade issues.

Veneman's family background involves both farming and politics. Her parents were peach growers in Stanislaus County in the San Joaquin Valley south of Sacramento. Her father, John Veneman, was a Republican state assemblyman and undersecretary of health, education, and welfare in the Nixon administration.

American Farm Bureau Federation president Bob Stallman said Veneman's previous experience has made her "an extremely knowledgeable, capable and effective advocate for all of agriculture.

"It's a real benefit that she has previous experience at USDA and service to California and American agriculture," Stallman said. "She understands how the Agriculture Department works and the range of responsibilities that she will have to oversee."

Stallman cited Veneman's experience in the international trade arena as an example of how "Bush intends to follow through on his campaign pledges to open new markets for agriculture."

California Farm Bureau president Bill Pauli said that Veneman "is an excellent choice and she will work hard for U.S. agriculture."

Veneman will face a host of new issues when she returns to her former agency: Farmers and ranchers are facing another year of low prices, the Environmental Protection Agency has proposed tighter water quality regulations on animal feeding operations, and the 2002 farm bill and agricultural concentration and consolidation will be at the forefront of legislation in the 107th Congress.

Congressional response was favorable to Veneman. House Agriculture Committee chairman Larry Combest (R-Texas) said that he looked forward to working with Veneman. "All of us will be tested as we ... strive to solve the problems ... facing agriculture ..., and her experience will be very important."

Bush and Veneman recently met with the leaders of the major U.S. agriculture and commodity groups, including AFBF president Bob Stallman. Touted as a listening session on the issues facing U.S. farmers and ranchers. Bush also discussed how his proposed agenda on ag trade, taxes and environmental regulations will help make the industry more viable.

Christine Todd Whitman, Bush's choice for EPA administrator, made a surprise appearance at the meeting. Whitman pledged more cooperation between EPA and USDA.

State's Farmers Reap Bumper Crops This Year

By Richard M. Todarn, Capital News Service

Maryland farmers posted record corn and soybean yields in 2000, with corn jumping 67 percent over drought-depressed 1999 levels and soybeans surging 34 percent, according to new U.S. Agriculture Department figures.

The figures released last week also showed sharp increases in overall production during the period, with corn up 88 percent, rising from 33.5 million bushels to 62.8 million bushels, and soybean production up 44 percent, jumping from 15.4 million to 22.1 million bushels.

Despite the good news, many farmers continue to struggle with long-term problems of high costs and low profit margins, according to several agricultural agents on the Eastern Shore.

"Clearly, it was a record-setting year because all the critical elements came together," said Don Vandrey, spokesman for the Maryland Department of Agriculture.

"We had rain when we needed it, and we had dry weather when the farmers needed to harvest the crops."

Corn yields rose from 93 bushels per acre in 1999 to 155 bushels per acre in 2000, and soybean yields rose 34 percent from 32 bushels per acre in 1999 to 43 bushels per acre in 2000, the report said. Both were records.

Vandrey said that the much higher yields meant many farmers fared better in 2000 than in 1999.

"The volume of corn and soybeans was such that most farmers were making at least some profit," he said.

But while extension agents agreed that most farmers made at least a small profit in 2000, they say that many farmers still face difficult financial conditions.

"Prices in 2000 for corn were still low," said Eddie Johnson, the Wicomico County agricultural agent for the University of Maryland's Cooperative Extension program. "Farmers made a profit, but it doesn't make up for the previous year when there was a drought."

Johnson said that corn was selling for $1.92 per bushel in 2000, compared to $3.15 per bushel in 1997. With production costs averaging $1.60 per bushel, he said the farmers in his Corn Improvement Club made only 32 cents per bushel. He added that some Wicomico farmers earned more, while others were forced to sell at a loss.

Somerset County agricultural agent Anne Meredith Webster said that her county's farmers had to rely on increased volume through higher yields to make any profits.

"The only way any farmer made any money was because of volume," Webster said.

At a 30-cent profit on every bushel, for example, a farmer producing 200 bushels of corn per acre would only earn $60 per acre.

"This still isn't a lot," Webster said. "This has to go to all his expenses — personal, payment for land, machinery, mortgages, insurance."

John Hall, who has been the Kent County Extension agent for 20 years, said that 2000 was only a "break-even" year and it follows losses through most of the 1990s.

"For corn, wheat and soybean production, our best farmers have had negative cash flow for six out of the last eight years," Hall said.

Hall estimates the break-even price was $1.91 per bushel of corn and $4.75 per bushel of soybeans.

Hall said that one long-term solution he is studying is to find ways for Maryland farmers to sell their crops for human consumption. Right now, he said, all corn and soybean crops produced in Maryland are used for poultry and livestock feed.

MASS Confirms 'Md. Farmers' High Production

Maryland Agricultural Statistics Service (MASS) of the U.S. Department of Agriculture has confirmed earlier estimates showing 2000 corn-for-grain and soybean yields that soared to all-time highs.

"All of the essential elements for grain production came together in 2000 for Maryland farmers and they reaped a bountiful harvest to make up for several lean years," said Secretary of Agriculture Henry A. Voits. "Everywhere you looked this past season the fields were bursting with grain and our producers did a great job of bringing this record yield to market."

According to the MASS survey of over 800 Maryland farmers, the 2000 corn-for-grain yield averaged 155 bushels per acre, increasing 62 bushels per acre above 1999's yield of 93 bushels per acre. This year's corn for-grain yield is the highest on record. Corn production totaled 62.8 million bushels, up 88 percent from 1999's production of 33.5 million bushels. Corn-for-gram was harvested on 405,000 acres. Corn-for-silage production was estimated at 1.4 million tons, 27 percent more than 1999. Corn-for-silage was harvested from 70,000 acres in 2000.

Soybean production is forecast at 22.9 million bushels, up 44 percent from last year and the highest production level on record. Yield is estimated at 43 bushels per acre, also a record high, up 11 bushels from 1999's final estimate of 32 bushels per acre. Soybeans were harvested from 515,000 acres, 35,000 acres more than last year.

Alfalfa hay production for 2000 is estimated at 286,000 tons, up 70 percent from 1999's production level of 1689,000 tons. Alfalfa hay yield was estimated at 4.4 tons per acre, up 1.6 tons per acre from 1999. All other hay yield averaged 2.5 tons per acre, up 0.1 ton per acre from a year ago. All other hay production totaled 425,000 tons, an increase of 18 percent from 1999.

Winter wheat planted acres for harvest in 2001 is forecast at 190,000 acres, down 30,000 from 2000 planted acres, and down 25,000 acres from 1999.

Season Passes To State Parks Now Available

The Maryland Department of Natural Resources, State Forest and Park Service, has announced the availability of the 2001 all-season pass for Maryland state parks.

Other benefits include free boat launching at most facilities, a 10% discount on all state-operated concession items and boat rentals, and "a lifetime of memories from a year of discovery." Passes may be purchased at any Maryland state park or at the State Forest and Park Service headquarters in Annapolis.

"Maryland has 47 state parks, and the all-season pass provides a considerable cost savings for families who love the outdoors and who frequently visit Maryland's parks," stated a DNR spokesperson. Antiques

Furniture from the 1950s and '60s is selling for good prices at the Modernism auctions. Famous makers like Charles Eames and George Nelson are known to many collectors, but makers who did a limited number of pieces of custom furniture have been ignored until recently.

One designer of some of the more unusual pieces of furniture is Paul Evans. He was a sculptor who made one-of-a-kind furniture from steel, bronze and wood. Evans studied metalwork and sculpture in several art schools. In the early 1950s he worked at a museum, reproducing colonial silver. In 1954 he began working at his own studio and was soon making large wooden and metal pieces of furniture, many for special orders.

In 1964, he began designing for Directional, a furniture manufacturer. A short time later, he was running the company's factory and managing almost 90 employees. By the 1970s, he was making tables and sideboards that then cost up to $6,000. He stopped working for the factory in the late 1970s, but he continued with his own workshop and designs. He died in 1987.

The unusual pieces, with massive metal doors or cubelike metal bases, are selling today for thousands of dollars. Many pieces are signed and dated. All pieces show his unique style and can be identified.

Q: How old is Irish Belleek?

A: Irish Belleek was first made in 1857 at Fermanagh, Ireland. The factory, now called Belleek Pottery Ltd., marked almost all of its wares. Collectors find it easy to date Belleek because of the changing mark. Black marks were used before 1946. Green, gold or blue was used later. Belleek is a special type of ceramic. It has a creamy-yellow glaze that appears wet. Factories in other countries also made Belleek, but the Irish product is the most well-known. It is still being made.

Too proud to beg? Not this dog

Q: How do I stop my dog from begging for food at the table?

A: Training, training, and more training. It's an unpleasant fact, but consistent obedience training is the best way to prevent undesirable behavior like begging.

Unfortunately, "Don't beg, Spot!" will not stop your dog from standing next to your chair and giving you his best sad puppy face. Giving him a bit of food will not make him go away, either. In fact, it encourages begging and reduces the effectiveness of his training.

Teach your dog to lie down and stay — these two commands can be simplified into a phrase like "down-stay." Work with him daily in a training setting — not in the kitchen at dinnertime.

First, train the dog to lie down on command. Once he does this without hesitation, work on having the dog lie down and stay ("down-stay") in one position, within an imaginary circle you draw around him. He can move his head and wag his tail, or even lie on his side or belly up; however, he cannot stand up or move out of the area you put him in.

Have your dog stay in this position for only 15 to 30 seconds at first. Once he's accomplished this, double the amount of time, double it again as he responds to the training. If he tries to walk, crawl or roll out of the circle, put him back in the center and start again.

The point of this command is to have your dog lie quietly whenever needed — at dinner, visiting with friends, in the park, and so on. Consistent training will keep him away from the table during dinner, just be sure to reward him with lots of attention — and a healthy dog treat — afterward.

THE HISTORY CHANNEL

• On Jan. 24, 1848, on the property of Johann A. Sutter near Coloma, Calif., gold is discovered by James W. Marshall, who was helping construct a sawmill for Sutter. Sutter and Marshall themselves failed to retain their gold claims as hordes of gold-seekers overran Sutter's land, and both men died in poverty.

• On Jan. 26, 1905, at the Premier mine in Pretoria, South Africa, a 3,106-carat diamond is discovered during a routine inspection by the mine's superintendent. Christened the "Cullman," it is the largest diamond crystal ever found.

• On Jan. 23, 1922, at Toronto General Hospital, 14-year-old Leonard Thompson becomes the first person to receive an insulin injection as treatment for diabetes. The diabetic teenager improved dramatically, and by 1923 insulin had become widely available, saving countless lives around the world.

• On Jan. 27, 1967, a launch-pad fire during Apollo program tests at Cape Canaveral, Fla., kills astronauts Virgil "Gus" Grissom, Edward H. White II and Roger B. Chafee. An investigation indicated that a faulty electrical wire inside the Apollo 1 command module was the probable cause of the fire.

• On Jan. 25, 1971, in Los Angeles, cult leader Charles Manson and three of his followers are convicted of the brutal 1969 murders of actress Sharon Tate and six others.

• On Jan. 22, 1973, in a historic decision, the U.S. Supreme Court rules in Roe v. Wade that women, as part of their constitutional right to privacy, can terminate a pregnancy during its first two trimesters. Although defended by the Supreme Court on several occasions, the legalization of abortion became a divisive and intensely emotional public issue.

• On Jan. 28, 1986, the Challenger space shuttle explodes in the air, leaving no survivors. A presidential commission appointed to investigate the accident later determined that the explosion was caused by faulty O-ring gaskets.

Strange BUT TRUE

By Samantha Weaver

• An up-and-coming sport in Thailand: snake boxing. Spectators pay to watch a king cobra and a snake handler battle for 10 minutes.

• A "prime" number is one that cannot be divided by any other number (except itself and 1). Examples of prime numbers are 2, 3, 5, 7, 11, 13 and 17. Despite centuries of fiddling by professional mathematicians and compulsive puzzle-solvers, no one has ever been able to figure out how many prime numbers there are or predict where they will fall in a series of numbers. Using a computer, somebody actually discovered a prime number that was 3,375 digits long.

• A publisher in Glasgow, Scotland, once attempted to issue a book that would contain no typographical errors of any kind. They went to great lengths, employing six experienced proofreaders. When the proofers were finished, each page was posted for two weeks in the hall of a university, and a reward of fifty pounds was offered to anyone who could discover an error. Finally, convinced that the manuscript was perfect, the publishers sent the book to print. Despite the pains that were taken, however, several errors were discovered after the printing — one in the first line of the first page.

• Guiseppe de Mai, a 19-century resident of Naples, had two hearts. The London Academy of Medicine offered him $15,000 to obtain his body after his death.

• Many early American settlers regularly ate snakes.

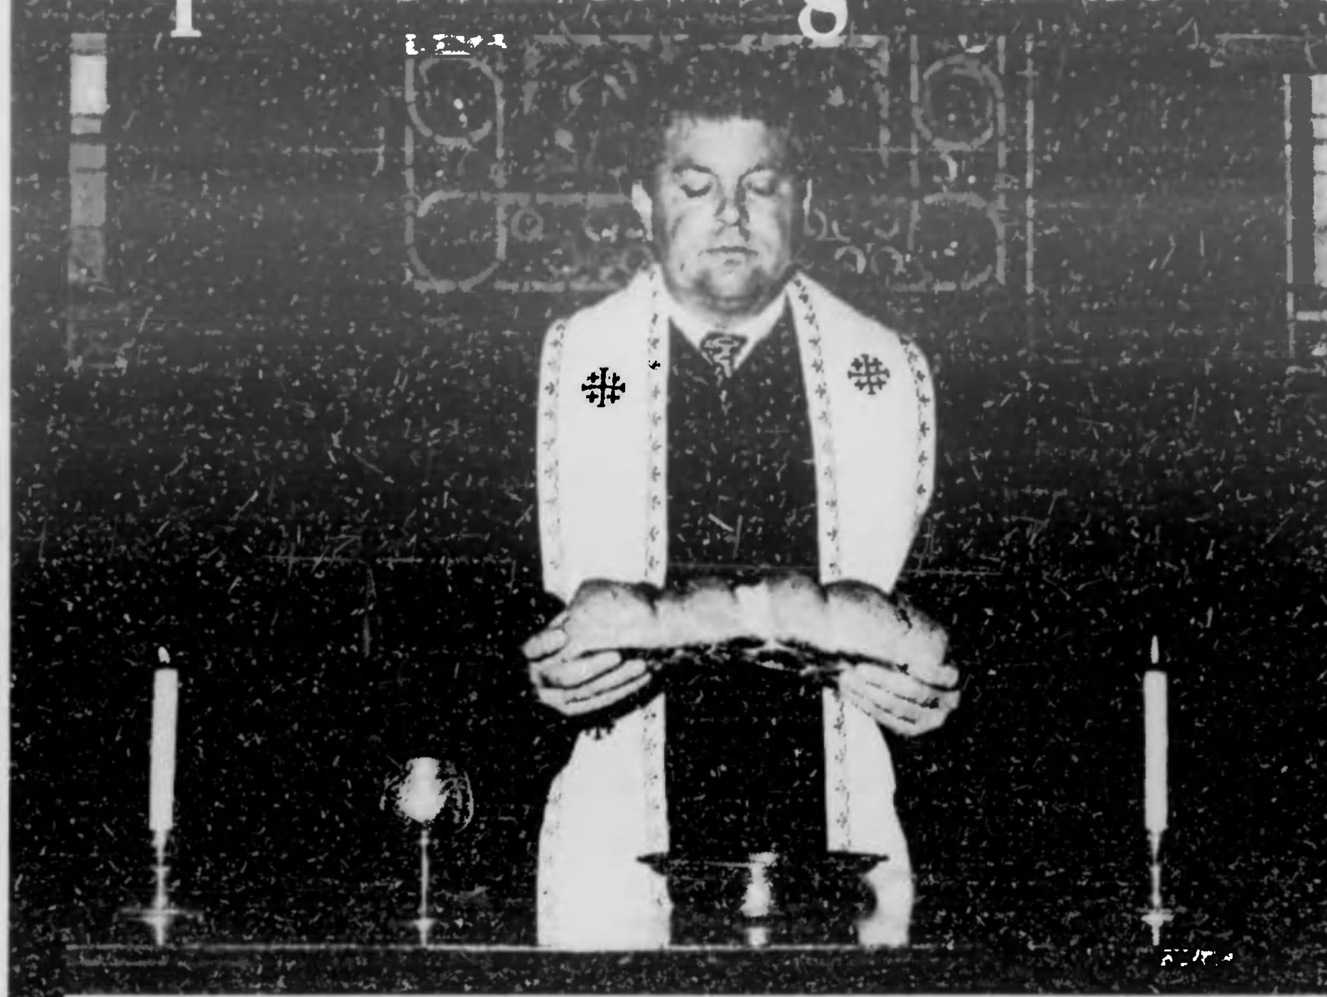
Expect Something Wonderful



One of the most delicious aromas is freshly baked bread. It brings to mind a cozy kitchen or the bakery down the street when we were children. We associate love and satisfaction with that wonderful smell. Bread is basic. Without it, even the most exquisite gourmet meal is incomplete.

In John 6:35, our Lord says, "I am the bread of life. He who comes to me shall not hunger." Many of us attempt to satisfy our appetite for happiness with possessions and position. How many of us are left wondering why we still feel that something is missing? How far will we go to fill that hungry place?

We do not have to go far...only to the doors of our local church or synagogue. There we are filled with love and satisfaction. Worship this week. Come to God as you came into that cozy kitchen as a child...expecting something wonderful. You won't be disappointed.

THE BIBLE SPEAKS

BY LAWRENCE W. ALTHOUSE

THE PRODIGAL FATHER

January 21, 2001

Background Scripture: Luke 15
Devotional Reading: Ephesians 1 15-22

No, that is not a typographical or editorial mistake in the title I really mean to think with you about the Prodigal Father, not the Prodigal Son Actually, I think this well-known parable of Jesus may well be misnamed Perhaps the key is to be found in the meaning of the word "prodigal " Apart from this parable, it is seldom used in our society today and perhaps that is why we have such a limited concept of what it means

When we call the youth in this story the "Prodigal Son," what do we mean by the term 'prodigal'? My Thesaurus suggests the following 'extravagant,' 'wasteful,' 'improvident,' 'profligate,' 'spendthrift' and 'excessive ' That is a pretty good description of this young man, isn't it? Luke says "he squandered his property in loose living" (13b).

But the adjective 'prodigal' does not have to be a negative description for my Thesaurus also suggests some positive synonyms, too 'free,' 'prodigious,' 'open-handed,' 'unselfish,' 'bountiful,' 'profuse,' and 'copious ' Applying 'prodigal,' to the love of the father for his wayward son indicates that his love was more bountiful than the failures of his son The Father was a greater forgiver than the son was a sinner Yes, the Father's love was extravagant, beyond any legal or ethical claim Another name for it is grace, God's amazing grace that makes it possible to return to the Father's house

Going Home Again

Two years ago I was invited to return to and preach at my last pastorate in Pennsylvania Naturally, though I realized that there had been changes since I left, I regarded this as a homecoming But I was unprepared for the congregation I faced that Sunday morning—here and there a familiar face or family, but, for the most part, it was hardly the congregation I remembered I was reminded of Thomas Wolfe's famous novel, You Can't Go Home Again For much of life that is certainly true you cannot go home again and find it just as you left it

Yet, this parable tells us that there is one sense in which we can always go home again No matter how much time had elapsed, how he had squandered his inheritance and how "loose" his living had been, the younger son was able, not only to head home again but was welcomed with open arms The Father had not come after him to drag him back, for the decision to return would have to be his own Luke tells us that in the midst of his degradation, the son "came to himself and said, 'How many of my father's hired servants have bread enough and to spare, but I perish here with hunger' (17)

The Jerusalem Bible, Phillips', New English Bible and Moffatt all translate 15 17 as "Then he came to his senses " Isn't it strange how, when he are caught up in an obsession with self-gratification, we behave in such a nonsensical manner so contrary to the best that we know? It is as if we become temporarily insane But, like the younger son, we can also come to our senses and realize that we can always go home again to the Father's house

Turning Around

Now we might wish Jesus had pictured the younger son as conscience-stricken and repentant Maybe he was, but Luke doesn't tell us He just says that the son at last realizes how much better off he would be in his father's house, even as a servant You might decide that he wasn't really repentant, but was smart enough to know what he had to do to get out of the hole into which he had dug himself If that is the most we can say about him, I would still have to say 'good for him' for some people don't even have enough gumption to turn away from their profligacy and begin the trip back home Instead of turning towards home, they dig in their heels and wait for the world to change instead

When I read Robert Ardrey's book, The Territorial Imperative, I remember him telling of the bird known as the Manx shearwater that was captured on Skokholm Island off the coast of Wales and flown by jet plane to Harvard University to be studied But arriving in Boston, the shearwater flew 3,050 miles across the Atlantic and, maintaining a speed of 244 miles per day, arrived back at Skokholm Island 12 and one-half days later

God has also given us the same gift of grace As John Newton wrote the familiar hymn, "Amazing Grace":

"'Tis grace that brought me safe thus far,
And grace will lead me home."

These firms invite you to a House of Worship each week

LESS WORK FOR YOUR DENTIST

The philosophy of dentists today is to make you work harder at keeping gums and teeth healthy so that there is less work to do when you come to him for your check-up. Today, your dentist takes the time to talk to you about how best to take care of your mouth, with brushing, flossing, massaging and rinsing.

We carry a great many dental health products in our pharmacy that can help to put into practice what your dentist is asking you to do. And, our personnel are trained to answer your questions about any of these products

Deadline dead after only five airings

By Taylor Michaels
©TVData Features Syndicate

Q: What on earth happened to the new NBC show Deadline? It barely premiered when it just disappeared. I enjoyed it. –J.D. Insalaco, Hephzibah, Ga.

A: So did I, but the Oliver Platt newspaper drama met the ax in October after only five episodes due to low ratings.

Oliver Platt

Q: When Andy Williams had his own show, he often was joined by a small, dark-haired French girl. I believe she became his wife, and later there was some tragedy. Can you refresh my memory? –Rich from North Port, Fla.

A: You're thinking of Claudine Longet, who had three children during her 1962-67 marriage to Williams.

In 1976, the singer-actress was charged in the shooting death of her lover, professional skier Spider Sabich. Longet maintained that a gun she was holding had accidentally discharged, mortally wounding Sabich in the stomach.

A jury found her guilty only of criminal negligence, and she served 30 days in a Colorado jail. She has since remarried and lives near Aspen.

Q: Michelle Stafford (The Young and the Restless) looks just like Marg Helgenberger. Are they sisters? –Rose Marie Wolford, Pickerington, Ohio.

A: While the pictures on Stafford's fan Website (www.mistalford.com) prove that the resemblance is indeed startling, the two actresses are not related.

Q: I remember a delightful 1950s TV series called The World of Mr. Sweeney. What can you tell me about it? –Dee Bender, Bad Axe, Mich.

A: Charlie Ruggles played general store owner Cicero P. Sweeney in this little 15-minute 1954-55 NBC sitcom, which originated on The Kate Smith Evening Hour.

In each episode, some member of the local community would come to Mr. Sweeney for advice on a problem. The cast included Helen Wagner, who went on to daytime TV fame as Nancy Hughes McCloskey on As the World Turns.

Q: As a fan of The Sherlock Holmes Mysteries, we are aware that Jeremy Brett died, but what was the cause of death? –K.E. Gribble and H.M. Hanlon, Fort Myers, Fla.

A: Brett, 61, died of a heart attack on Sept. 12, 1995.

Q: Could you please tell me the real name of the wrestler known as "Edge" and when his birthday is? –Rhea Z., Calgary, Alberta, Canada.

A: Adam Copeland was born Oct. 30, 1974, in Orangeville, Ont.

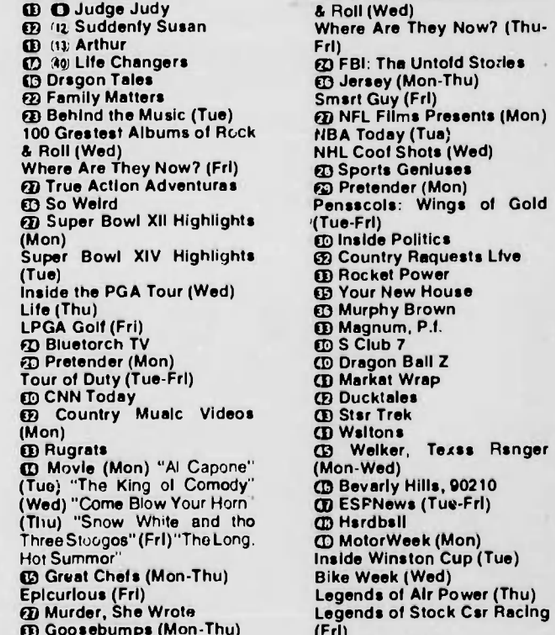
WEDNESDAY



Leo (John Spencer) must make the president see that a missile defense system is worth the expense in The West Wing, airing Wednesday on NBC.

IN FOCUS

Sandra Bullock (Miss Congeniality) stars in Hope Floats, airing Monday, Jan. 22, on ABC, as a housewife going through a difficult divorce.

Birdee Pruitt (Bullock) finds out on national television that her husband (Michael Pare) is having an affair with her best friend (Rosanna Arquette).

She and her child leave him and their home, moving in with her mother. Pruitt finds it is hard starting over, especially since old schoolmates are laughing at her woes.

Skydiving Co. Asks To Locate At GC Airport

The Pittsburgh Skydiving Center has requested permission of Garrett County government to operate a tandem skydiving business at the county's airport in McHenry. The company presented its plan to the Airport Commission, and Gary Mullich relayed the information to the county commissioners at this week's public meeting.

The airport commission, Mullich said, could not foresee any technical issues that would hinder the skydiving business from locating at the local site, but there are four conditions that the commission has recommended.

Don Bick of the Pittsburgh company met with the airport commission in December. He said he would like to enter into a formal lease agreement with the airport by Jan. 31. A letter to the General Services Department outlined Bick's wishes as well.

"We envision a standard 3- to 5-year lease with an option to renew, commencing May 1, 2001," Bick wrote. "We are interested in leasing appropriate building space at a going rate. If suitable building space is not available, we could enter into a land lease and install a mobile office. In either case, access to restrooms, water, and electric would be required."

Insurance coverage is a top concern of the county, officials said. A condition of the company's acceptance is that there should be no waiver of liability insurance requirements for the company, according to Mullich. Bick said the company carries $1,000,000 premise, or "slip and fall," insurance, $50,000 third party insurance for all licensed skydivers through the United States Parachute Association, and aircraft hull insurance. The company does not have general liability insurance.

"General liability is not available, nor is it required, at any of the 300 skydiving centers located on federally and/or state funded airports," Bick wrote in a separate letter.

The commissioners said the county will have to be held harmless in any sort of incident, and Mullich said he would relay that to the company.

Bob Railey, a member of the airport advisory committee, said skydiving would bring people to the county and would offer yet another recreation for tourists and residents. Patrons of this company, which has a successful business in Connellsville, Pa., skydive in tandem with skydiving professionals, and schedules are worked out at the airport to make sure the dives are taking place when no other planes are coming in or taking off. There have been no problems at the Connellsville site, according to reports.

In addition to the insurance issue, the three remaining issues concern the site. Mullich reported that the county does not currently have any space in the building to lease to the center, and that any area for land lease would have to be added to the airport layout plan and approved by the Federal Aviation Administration (FAA). Finally, electric and water are not currently provided to land lease tenants at the airport. They provide their own, Mullen said.

NO SENSE IN WASTING WINTER — When Mother Nature gives you snow, make snow angels. That seems to be the philosophy of the St. Mark's Christian Early Learning Center in Loch Lynn, where young students have donned their long johns and snow pants this week to take advantage of the seemingly endless supply of snow. Teacher Becky Moyer said the children have thoroughly enjoyed the outings, and have in fact been joined by a number of adults who are remembering how fun it is to slide down a hillside in winter. Missing Plane; Search Still On

A single-engine experimental airplane was reported missing Monday afternoon in the area. The West Virginia and Maryland wings of the Civil Air Patrol have been searching for the missing plane on the ground and in the air.

The Whitman Tailwind plane left Allaire Airport in Farmingdale, N.J., and was headed for the Mason County airport in Point Pleasant W.Va.

Robert Railey, a Garrett County Airport advisory committee member, said the committee members are willing to do anything they can to aid in the search.

Caroline Hill, co-manager of the Garrett County Airport, said the search continues and is concentrated in the area from Hagerstown to Taylor County. "We are willing to help out any way we can, but they (CAP) have a system and will call us when they need our help," Hill said.

The identity of the pilot is not known at the present time.

Md., Pa. Set To Begin Rt. 219 Project Planning

The Maryland State Highway Administration (MSHA) and the Pennsylvania Department of Transportation (PennDOT) have agreed to begin the formal project planning process for the 23.2-mile section of U.S. Route 219 from the Pennsylvania Turnpike (Interstate 70/76) to I-68 at Grantsville.

PennDOT has advertised for letters of interest for the preliminary study of the 8-mile section of Rt. 219 from the Meyersdale, Pa., bypass south to I-68. The study, which will get under way in July, will take from three to four years to complete. Maryland's share is currently budgeted at $413,000 and has been included in Governor Glendening's FY2002 transportation program.

"This begins the realization of the northern portion of a north-south transportation corridor in western Maryland," said Delegate George Edwards. "The Western Maryland Economic Development Task Force has recommended, and the states of Pennsylvania, Maryland, West Virginia, and Virginia have all agreed, the southern portion will be a Rt. 53/Rt. 220 connection to West Virginia's Corridor H, and West Virginia has the Corridor H project on a fast track."

A 1998 MSHA feasibility study estimated the cost of construction of Maryland's portion of Rt. 219 to the Pennsylvania state line at $47.1 million, based on a complete relocation of Rt. 219 with full access control similar to an interstate highway.

"The states [of New York, Pennsylvania, and Maryland] have begun the process of connecting the various highway segments that will form a north-south transportation corridor through mountain Maryland," commented Dave Moe, co-chairman of the transportation committee of the Western Maryland Economic Development Task Force. "They have done so utilizing special gram funding available under TEA-21, Appalachian Development Highway Funds, and congressional earmarks. If the long-term development of this corridor is going to continue, it will be dependent on those sources of funding now and in the future."

The Meyersdale to Grantsville segment would not move into the construction phase until after completion of the 15-mile Somerset to Meyersdale improvements. That segment could take 7 to 10 years to complete, according to assistant district engineer Ron Samuel of PennDOT's District 9.

NATIONAL CHAMP - Not only did Jakob "Bubba" Scheffel, Oakland, win the national title in his age/weight division at the Tulsa (Okla.) Nationals this past Saturday, but the Southern Mat Club member did so without allowing a single point to be scored against him. He shut out two opponents on points (7-0 and 14-0) and pinned a third to capture the title. The tournament draws hundreds of the most talented wrestlers from nearly every state and is regarded as the premier youth tourney in the nation. Jakob's brother, George, and Justin Ratliff also qualified for the tourney and each came home with respectable seventh-place finishes. See story on sports pages.

Manufactured House Gutted, One Injured

A manufactured house located along U.S. Rt. 219 one mile south of Accident was destroyed by fire early Friday, and the occupant of the residence sustained minor burns.

Volunteer firefighters from Accident and Deep Creek fire departments were summoned to the home of Nora Baker, located at 28888 Garrett Highway, at 4:39 a.m., and found the one-story manufactured house fully involved in flames upon their arrival. Baker had escaped the house, but sustained a minor burn to her scalp. She was treated at the scene by Northern Rescue Squad personnel.

It took an estimated 30 minutes for the approximately 45 firefighters to bring the blaze under control. According to Deputy State Fire Marshal Steve Wendling, the fire originated in the living room and was caused by a frayed extension cord behind a couch. He reported that the cord most likely caused sparks, which ignited nearby combustible materials. He estimated the loss of property to be $7,500.

The house, which was owned by Lawrence Georg, was labeled uninhabitable by Wendling. Baker has been receiving assistance from the American Red Cross.

Fire personnel remained on the scene for about two hours. Also responding was the county air cascade unit.

Glendening Proposes Maryland Capital Budget Of $1.5 Billion

by Jennifer Larson
Capital News Service

ANNAPOLIS — Gov. Parris Glendening Tuesday presented Maryland's largest capital budget, $1.5 billion for the 2002 fiscal year, just one week after issuing his largest operating budget. The budget is a 15 percent increase from last year's $1.3 billion capital budget and more than twice the $720 million budget of Glendening's first year as governor. The capital budget pays for construction projects, while the operating budget covers ongoing expenses, including salaries.

The big winners in the capital budget, education and the environment, came as no surprise after Glendening's Jan. 16 presentation of his proposed operating budget, which totaled $21.3 billion and allocated significant funds to elementary, secondary, and higher education and to Smart Growth projects.

The proposed capital budget allocates $667.1 million, or 44.5 percent, for the construction and improvement of Maryland schools. Environmental projects, including $40 million to establish the GreenPrint program to preserve open land, account for 28.2 percent of the capital budget, or $422 million.

The $1.5 billion does not include transportation, a major recipient of state funds. The governor announced Jan. 12 that he was adding $1.5 billion to the state's Capital Transportation Program, bringing it to $9.4 billion.

Two large transportation projects — construction of the Metrorail extension to Largo and replacement of the Woodrow Wilson Bridge — will get $45 million in general funds.

Glendening said the state needs funding for education, and his budget reflects that need.

"I think his priorities are in line with what Marylanders want," said Sen. Christopher Van Hollen Jr., D-Montgomery, vice chairman of the Senate Budget and Taxation Committee.

There is a great demand for school construction and modernization across the state, including his own district, Montgomery County, Van Hollen said. However, Van Hollen warned the budget cannot address all the projects in the pipeline.

"The capacity of the budget to sustain expectations is limited," he said.

Both Glendening's capital and operating budgets this year are records — a personal one for the operating budget and a state record for the capital budget.

"Obviously it's up fairly substantially," said Steve McCulloch, capital budget manager in the Department of Legislative Services. The governor has more flexibility to spend the state's surplus on one-time capital projects than on operating

COPS Grant Awarded To Garrett County

The Office of Community Oriented Policing Services (COPS) under the Universal Hiring Program (UHP) administered by the Department of Justice recently announced that the Garrett County Sheriff's Office and the Hancock Police Department have both been awarded approximately $150,000 in grant funding for the hiring of additional full-time police officers.

"These COPS grants are an important asset to both the citizens of Garrett County and the City of Hancock, because they increase the presence of community police on the streets," said Senator Paul S. Sarbanes.

"On my recent visit to Western Maryland, the Garrett County Commissioners and I worked to identify areas in the county that need federal assistance," Senator Barbara A. Mikulski said. "I will continue to fight for more money to fund the COPS program and put more cops on Maryland's streets."

The COPS program, established by the Violent Crime Control and Law Enforcement Act of 1994, has funded more than 110,000 officers through grants awarded to different law enforcement agencies

Charges Of Sex Offense, Child Abuse Dismissed

Charges related to sexual offenses and child abuse against an Oakland man were dismissed in the Circuit Court of Garrett County last Thursday, according to State's Attorney Lisa Thayer Welch. Paul Kip Burns, 30, had been arrested on the charges last summer.

"In preparing this case for trial, there were unanswered questions that required it be referred back to the investigating officers for follow-up," Welch said. Burns had been accused by a juvenile of engaging in inappropriate contact with that person about nine years ago, according to the report. According to Welch, the investigation in this case is continuing.

In other circuit court news, an Oakland man was sentenced to 18 months in the Garrett County Jail for violation of probation. Bushrod Kenneth Hardesty Jr., 20, was previously convicted of theft, burglary, and assault charges. He served jail sentences and was then placed on probation. A total of 4½ years of jail time was suspended by the judge.

According to a report from the state's attorney's office, agents with the Division of Parole and Probation filed a report with the court indicting that Hardesty had tested positive for the use of marijuana, had failed to make restitution payments as required, and had failed to remain regularly employed after leaving school. After the delendant admitted to the violations last week, Judge James Sherbin reimposed all outstanding jail time and then suspended all but 18 months. After serving this sentence, Hardesty will again be on supervised probation for one year and is required to pay in full the outstanding restitution, according to the report.

Summer Joy Stripling, 21, Mtn. Lake Park, was sentenced to one year in the local jail, with all but 60 days suspended, for the charge of distribution of "hydrocodone." After her sentence is served, she will

Salary Study Urges Raises For Some, Elimination Of Liquor Bd. Benefits

The Salary Study Commission for Garrett County presented its recommendations to the commissioners this week, following several months of work on the part of the seven-member, volunteer group. The salary study commission recommends salary levels of elected and appointed public servants every four years, as established by the county code. Any changes made upon the commission's recommendations will not go into effect until the next election.

Several members of the commission met with the commissioners at Tuesday's public meeting to report their findings. Among the recommendations are pay raises for the positions of commissioner, state's attorney, and sheriff. The commission also attempted to even out all various board members' compensations.

"We really wanted to level the playing field for all county boards and commissions," said Brooks Hamilton, who served on the commission as a representative of the Garrett County Farm Bureau. He said the group compared local salaries with many others in the state to determine their recommendations for raises.

The commission has recommended that the county commissioners receive a pay increase from the current $28,000 a year to $30,000. A pay increase for the state's attorney has also been recommended, as well as an adjustment in the county code concerning that position.

The commission recommends that the state's attorney's salary should be permanently set at 75% of the prevailing annual salary of the District Court judge (which is currently $105,000). The commission suggested that legislation be sought next year to delete the state's attorney from the salary study process. The judge's salary is set and paid by the state of Maryland.

The commissioners appeared somewhat skeptical of the plan, noting that the state could in one year give the judge a significant increase, and then the county would be bound by the legislation to raise the state's attorney's salary to 75% of that amount.

The sheriff's salary, currently $50,000, should be raised to $65,000, according to the salary study group. Hamilton said they compared a number of sheriff's salaries in the state, which range from $40,000 to $89,500. Hamilton noted that the lower end salaries are for sheriffs who generally do not additionally manage the correctional facilities. Sheriff Dick Sanders does have that responsibility.

The salaries of the county's state's attorney and sheriff have had no increase since 1994.

Another significant change recommended by the salary group is the elimination of health care benefits, insurance, and retirement plan participation currently provided to members (and their families) of the Garrett County Liquor Control Board. The county currently pays in the area of $20,000 per year to give this coverage to the three board members.

Leads Sought In Thefts From Building Sites

The Garrett Bureau of Investigation is seeking information pertaining to several thefts of construction materials from home-building sites in the Deep Creek Lake area. Daniel Bosley Construction was the victim in both instances.

One of the thefts occurred over the first weekend of this month, at a building site in the Alpine Shores development, located off Glendale Road near Garrett Highway. A table saw, two ladders, and a construction light were taken in that incident.

Another theft reported to detectives this week took place in early December, as 40 pieces of drywall and 200 pieces of 2x6 lumber were taken from a site in the 100 block of Rock Lodge Road.

Persons with information on these incidents are asked to contact the GBI at 301-334-1909 or the Garrett County Sheriff's Office at 301-334-1911.

IT'S ALMOST "SPARKLES AND SWEETS" TIME — The eighth annual "Sparkles and Sweets" silent auction will take place on Friday, Feb. 23, at 8 p.m. at the Will O' the Wisp, Deep Creek Lake. The event will feature a wide assortment of desserts donated by local restaurants, bakeries, and caterers. Local DJ Dave "Mr. Z" Zimmerman will provide musical entertainment. A framed print is being donated by Grand Central Station, owned and operated by Charles McIntire. Peggy Whitelock, manager of Grand Central Station, is pictured right as she hands over the print "Chamomile Morning" to Habitat fund-raising committee member Judy Bertsch. Other merchants will be donating a variety of goods and services ranging from gift certificates to weekend getaways. "This event demonstrates the strong sense of community that exists in Garrett County, as many merchants have donated quality items since the event's inception," said Skip Case, fundraising chairman. Tickets to the event are $10, and are available at the Book Mark'et & Antique Mezzanine, Proudfoot's Pharmacy, the Tourist Trap, the Habitat office located at 104 E. Center Street, from any board member, and at the door.

Chamber Rep Attends Major Travel Show

Garrett County's attractions and amenities were showcased last week at the Greater Philadelphia Sport, Travel, and Outdoor Show, an event billed as "the largest five-day sportsmen's show in North America." Exhibitors ranging from Canada, South America, and Australia joined U.S. destination representatives in displaying information about their vacation products. Most participants at the show were from the New Jersey, Pennsylvania, Delaware, and greater Baltimore geographic areas.

Multi-colored silk banners suspended from rafters identified the types of information available within clusters of booths below. Visitors could peruse displays of vacation destinations, outfitters, taxidermists, vehicle manufacturers, or boats sales representatives. There were learning centers for fly-fishing and pools for trout fishing.

Representing Garrett County was Deb Clatterbuck, marketing manager for the Garrett County Chamber of Commerce, who spent two days at the event. Her participation resulted in the distribution of over 600 vacation guides and brief conversations with more than 1,000 potential visitors. Of greatest interest were Deep Creek Lake adventure activities, and the relative absence of congestion and commercial development in Garrett County.

"This event is geared toward the outdoors enthusiast, so Garrett County seemed to be an easy sell with an emphasis on family-style adventure opportunities. Many people told me they have been vacationing in the Pocono Mountains or at Raystown Lake in Pennsylvania and are looking for an alternative mountain or lake get-away," she said.

Clatterbuck said she was surprised by how many individuals were either already familiar with Deep Creek Lake or had friends who had previously vacationed here. "They loved the opportunity to rent houses and hotel rooms right on the lake and that there were so many activities in such close range," she noted.

While at the show, Clatterbuck saw a demonstration by the Garden State Siberian Husky Club Inc. and talked with the club members about coming to Garrett County for dog sled demonstrations and races. "They are considering the idea and we'll continue to follow up," she said. In addition, Doug Hannon, a writer for ESPN in attendance at the show, was invited to visit Garrett County to cover world-class adventure sports activities.

Having attended many travel shows over the last several years, Clatterbuck said she enjoys meeting and talking with the people who are seeking vacation information. "Some people want you to plan their whole vacation for them. Others just want to thumb through the vacation guide. When people see the stories and the beautiful photos, they begin to ask questions about accommodations and services. Because we have the business ads in the book, many of their questions can be answered immediately. Our guide book works extremely well, and there's not a show I go to where someone doesn't come up and ask about how they can do something similar," she said.

According to chamber president Ken Wishnick, attendance at travel shows is critical to the success of tourism marketing strategies. "We not only get the opportunity to sell our area to tens of thousands of potential visitors, but we also stay fresh in our marketing by gaining first-hand feedback from those we are targeting," said Wishnick.

The chamber is planning an aggressive travel show schedule this year in five states and Washington, D.C. The Philadelphia area event kicked off the road shows, which will run through late spring.

Local Coast Guardsman Awarded Rare CG Medal For Heroism

by Catherine Kozak
The Virginian-Pilot

Even with his shoulders squared and his face military-serious, Petty Officer 3rd Class Mike Carola looks too young and too slight to have had the fortitude and the power to rescue a 250-pound man from the clutches of a vicious current.

But the desire to save lives is the reason Carola joined the Coast Guard in 1998. It didn't take long for the 20-year-old to start fulfilling his mission.

In a ceremony at Jockey's Ridge State Park last week, Carola received the rare honor of a Coast Guard medal for heroism in rescuing 82-year-old Doug Eaker from Oregon Inlet last May after a boat he was in capsized. Since 1958, only 276 such medals have been awarded nationwide, including five last year. None were given in 1999.

Although he had no training in rescue swimming, Carola didn't hesitate to jump into the turbulent 57-degree water to help Eaker, who was pinned against the barnacle-encrusted fender of the Herbert C. Bonner Bridge.

"The exhausted victim told Carola that he wouldn't make it and to let him go," Vice Adm. John E. Shkor recounted to a small audience that included Nags Head (N.C.) and Dare County emergency officials. Instead, Carola encouraged Eaker, who was suffering from exhaustion and hypothermia, to hold on.

"Seaman Carola scaled the bridge structure in an attempt to pull the victim out while the boat crew struggled to keep him above the water," the award citation said. "The boat crew was unable to pull the man to safety, and the victim was repeatedly dragged beneath the surface."

After he forced a life ring over Eaker's head, Carola directed the boat crew to pull both of them clear of the fender. The seaman was then able to swim Eaker, who was then unconscious, to the Coast Guard motor life boat.

Eaker, a retired air traffic controller, said he regretted that he could not make it to the ceremony. He is recovering from a broken hip from a fall in October.

"I'm just as sorry as I can be because I'd like to hug that young man and thank him," Eaker said from his home in Apex.

After a five-day stay at Chesapeake General Hospital, Eaker said, he fully recovered from the ordeal, which is mostly a hazy memory.

"I remember the boat crashing, and I got in the water with my life jacket on," Eaker said.

The 41-foot Hatteras-style sport fishing boat, the Little Fly Fisherman, was following another boat under the bridge when the Little Fly got caught in a strong cross-current and drifted toward the bridge pillar.

"We went under the bridge, and then boat went into the bridge," said Jerry Lucas, a Richmond physician who was in the boat ahead and watched the Little Fly sink in about 15 minutes. "It really snapped almost in half. It was an incredible thing to see that a vessel that large could go down that fast. It was very shocking."

Lucas later helped Eaker after he was pulled from the water. Carola demonstrated his strength when he helped lift Eaker into the basket.

"He's quite strong," Lucas said.

"We were in for at least 30 minutes," said James Thomas, the owner-captain of the boat. "Everybody was apprehensive, of course. But everybody's adrenaline was pumping."

It was obvious that Eaker needed help quickly. Thomas was also pinned against the fender and was holding onto the bridge and Eaker. With other Coast Guard personnel assisting nearby, Carola leaped into the water.

"He put himself at risk jumping in there," Thomas said. "I'm certainly glad they honored Carola, because I think without him we would have possibly lost Doug Eaker. "He deserves that medal."

DECORATED FOR HEROISM - Over the past 42 years, a total of only 276 Coast Guard medals for heroism have been awarded in the United States, and the most recent recipient of that honor was Petty Officer 3rd Class Mike Carola of Garrett County. Carola is pictured above right receiving a citation from Vice Admiral John E. Shkor during a ceremony last week at Jockey's Ridge State Park in North Carolina. Below, Carola is awarded his medal by Vice Adm. Shkor. Carola was honored for his rescue of an 82-year-old man from cold, turbulent waters in Oregon Inlet last May after the elderly man's boat capsized. See story for details.

But having all the Coast Guard working to save them was an impressive experience, he added. "We certainly appreciated what they did. They came out there, and we were in real trouble."

The remainder of the rescue crew, Petty Officer 2nd Class Dave Burns, Machinery Technician 2nd Class Francisco Romero Diaz, Petty Officer 3rd Class Scott O'Brien, Petty Officer 3rd Class Annie Boyd, Seaman Nick Canuel, Fireman Brandon Henderson, and Seaman Denise Bell were also commended at the ceremony.

Petty Officer Carola is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Gus Carola, Sand Flat, and a 1997 graduate of Southern High School.

DWI Charge Results From Sunday Mishap

An Accident man faces a charge of driving while intoxicated (DWI) in the wake of a Sunday morning accident along Bittinger Road, according to the Maryland State Police at McHenry.

William Scott McKenzie, 25, was traveling northbound along Bittinger Road shortly after 2 a.m. when his 1991 Ford rounded a curve near Durst Road and crossed over into the southbound lane. McKenzie's vehicle collided head-on with an oncoming 1987 International snowplow operated by William Raymond Rugg, 40, Somerset, Pa.

McKenzie and his passenger, Joe Reed (age and residence not available), were both transported by the Northern Rescue Squad to Cumberland Memorial Hospital, where they were treated and released. The Grantsville Volunteer Fire Department also assisted at the scene.

McKenzie was deemed at fault and charged with DWI, according to MSP sources.

A Friday morning accident in the New Germany area resulted in minor injury to a Salisbury, Pa., woman.

Connie T. Davis, 43, was traveling south on New Germany Road, just south of Frank Brenneman Road, at approximately 10:55 a.m. Davis's 1993 Plymouth Voyager van was following a truck of unknown make, and when that truck lost control on the slushy roadway, Davis attempted to take evasive action. She lost control of her van, which slid sideways into the northbound lane and struck an oncoming 1991 Dodge Ram 250 pickup truck operated by Guy W. Fazenbaker, 54, Oakland.

Davis was transported by Northern Rescue to Cumberland Memorial Hospital, where she was treated and released. Duncan refused medical treatment at the scene. The Bittinger VFD assisted the rescue squad and state police.

No charges were filed against either Davis or Duncan. The driver of the southbound truck was never located.

Garrett Choral Society Notes 2001 Schedule

The officers and director of the Garrett Choral Society have announced the organization's program schedule for the current year.

The first performance will be the Broadway musical Annie Get Your Gun, for which auditions will be held next month. A schedule and location for those tryouts will be announced within the next few weeks. Performances will be presented in early June at a site to be determined.

Annie Get Your Gun is "a brawling boy-meets-girl-buckshot rivalry," according to a society spokesperson, who added that "love finally triumphs when Annie proves that, yes, a woman can get a man with a gun."

John Wilson, society president, said that the production has a large cast, which includes children and a chorus. Rehearsal times will be determined following casting. Wilson added that persons do not have to be current members of the society to audition for the musical.

The second offering by the society will be its annual Christmas concert, this year titled Stained Glass Christmas. This program will combine selected choral presentations and scenes from the Christmas story. Society members should anticipate the beginning of rehearsals for this program sometime in September. Dates and times of the concert will be announced later in the year.

The Garrett Choral Society, which is open to all interested singers throughout the county and neighboring areas of West Virginia and Pennsylvania, is under the direction of Nancy Learey.

PLACES THIRD IN NATIONAL ART CONTEST — Northern Middle School student Elliot Glotfelty placed third in a national art competition this month. The theme of the competition was "The Olympic Games," and it was open to all boys and girls ages 6 to 16. The winning pieces will be sent to Lausanne, Switzerland, for the international competition. The winners in all three age categories will receive a cash prize at both the national and international levels. Elliot is the son of Marci and Rodney Glotfelty of Accident. Drug Conviction Nets Rockville Man Two Months

A Rockville man was handed two months in jail as part of his sentence for a marijuana possession conviction in Garrett County District Court last week.

Wayne Thomas Early, 31, pleaded guilty to the charge and received a six-month sentence, four months of which were suspended, and two years of supervised probation by the ruling of Judge Ralph M. Burnett. An additional charge of possession of drug paraphernalia was not prosecuted by the state's attorney's office.

Early had been arrested in September following a traffic stop by Maryland State Police troopers along Interstate 68. A computer check indicated that Early was wanted by authorities in Montgomery County, and an ensuing vehicle search uncovered a bag of marijuana and a quantity of rolling papers in his car.

In other district court news, an Oakland man was sentenced to a month in jail after pleading guilty to second degree assault.

Keith Allen Chapman, 33, was handed a six month sentence, all but one month of which was suspended, fined $300, and placed on one year of unsupervised probation. An additional charge of violation of an ex parte order was not prosecuted.

Oakland Police Department officers, with the assistance of Garrett County sheriff's deputies, arrested Chapman in November after he had entered his wife's Crellin Mine Road residence while a protective court order was in effect banning him from doing so. He grabbed and struck the woman during an ensuing altercation.

David Francis Seider, 33, Silver Spring, pleaded guilty to marijuana possession and was handed a probation before judgment (PBJ), a 30-day sentence, of which all but two days was suspended, fined $55, and placed on one year of unsupervised probation. An additional charge of drug paraphernalia possession was not prosecuted.

The June arrest by park rangers with the Department of Natural Resources came after a pipe bearing burnt marijuana residue was discovered lying on a Swallow Falls State Park picnic table amidst a group of Seider and his companions. After that discovery, Seider voluntarily produced a small quantity of marijuana and rolling papers.

Charles John Danesi, 20, Irwin, Pa., faced a fourth degree burglary charge that was stetted with a requirement that he complete 40 hours of community service. Danesi had been arrested last month after Wisp Resort security guards located him sleeping inside a B&E Recreational Industries building that he had apparently broken into. The charging statement of the Garrett County Sheriff's Office indicated that Danesi was intoxicated at the time of the incident.

Darlene Georgia Hunter, 35, Mtn. Lake Park, was handed a stet ruling with a requirement that she pay $106 in restitution to Reel Video. She had been arrested on a misdemeanor theft charge in September by sheriff's deputies after she had kept a rental movie for over three months.

Robbin James Everett, 20, Oakland, was not prosecuted on a second degree assault charge that stemmed from his September arrest by sheriff's deputies for allegedly striking his adult brother. He had claimed he was defending his mother from a perceived threat.

TRAFFIC COURT

Several hearings involving charges of driving while under the influence of alcohol and/or drugs (DUI) took place in district court last week.

Carmen Leann Johnson, 20, W.Va., pleaded guilty to DUI and was handed a PBJ. She was also fined $355, handed a 30-day suspended sentence, placed on one year of unsupervised probation, and ordered to complete 40 hours of community service.

Timothy M. Sullivan, 35, Va., pleaded guilty to DUI and was handed a PBJ, fined $355, given a 30-day suspended sentence, placed on one year of unsupervised probation, and ordered to complete 40 hours of community service.

Orval Ray Tasker, 21, Iowa, pleaded guilty to DUI and was handed a PBJ. He was also fined $300, handed a 30-day suspended sentence, placed on one year of unsupervised probation, and ordered to complete 40 hours of community service.

Several hearings occurred as well that involved violations of failure to stop for a stopped school vehicle operating alternating flashing lights.

Maryland residents Paul Warren Wise, 49, George Will Beckman, 40, and Ryan Andrew White, 19, each pleaded guilty to passing a stopped schoolbus, and each was fined $100 and ordered to complete 30 hours of community service.

Lake Policy Review Board Meeting Slated

The next regularly scheduled meeting of the Deep Creek Lake Policy and Review Board will be held Tuesday, Feb. 6, at 7 p.m. at the Deep Creek Lake Discovery Center.

The agenda for the meeting will be a continuation of the planning process for the future management of Deep Creek Lake. The process was initiated last fall, and staff from the Department of Natural Resources are working with the board to formulate the plan.

At the board's last meeting, the issue of the potential conversion of temporary recreational permit sites to a type that is transferable to other property owners was discussed. The board recommended that the department maintain the status quo and not create new eligibility criteria for this type of permit. Subsequent to that meeting, DNR and the Department of General Services concurred with the board and a change in the lake regulations will not be sought.

Board meetings are open to the public, and the board accepts input and public comment during the meeting. Further information on the meeting can be obtained by contacting Paul Durham at the Deep Creek Lake State Park office at 301-387-4111.

Driver Cited By GCSO After Tuesday Mishap

Garrett County sheriff's deputies cited one of the drivers in a Tuesday afternoon collision near Kitzmiller School that resulted in a minor injury to the other driver.

Michael Wayne Jones Sr., 36, Elk Garden, W.Va., was attempting to turn left from North Hill Road onto Shallobar Road at approximately 3 p.m. when his 1996 International logging truck struck a southbound 1988 Pontiac sedan operated by Jane Sara Gank, 24, Kitzmiller.

Gank was transported by the Elk District Ambulance Service to Garrett Memorial Hospital, where she was treated and released. Deputies charged Jones with failure to yield the right of way. The Kitzmiller Volunteer Fire Department also assisted on the scene.

No charges were filed in a single-vehicle accident that took place shortly before 9 a.m. Monday along Mt. Zion Road.

Norman Ralph Cogley, 35, Swanton, was traveling north when he lost control of his 1995 Ford truck on a snow-covered curve just south of Sharpless Mine Road. His truck left the roadway, struck a mailbox and a snowbank, then crossed back over Mt. Zion Road and overturned in a ditch along the southbound lane.

The Southern Garrett Rescue Squad transported Cogley to Garrett Memorial Hospital, where he was treated and released.

DWI Charges

Two subjects were charged with driving while intoxicated (DWI) this week by sheriff's deputies: Jason Todd McCroskey, 23, Oakland, and Donald Ray Wood, 41, Deer Park.

HOSPICE OF GARRETT COUNTY recently received a generous donation from Southern Auto Supply's "Take a Gift, Give a Gift" promotion that was held in December to benefit Hospice. Mike Davis, employee of Southern Auto Supply, explained that they want to thank their customers for the support they have received over the past six years. "Customers look forward to helping with this project. It is their way of helping to care for the terminally ill in Garrett County," Davis said. In the above photo, Davis is presenting the check to Brenda Butscher, executive director of Hospice.

Maryland Commission For Women Releases '01 Legislative Agenda

by Maya Jackson
Capital News Service

ANNAPOLIS — Women in Maryland want job training for the poor, hearing aids for kids, and relief for victims of employment discrimination, according to the Legislative Agenda for Maryland Women. The agenda, released Tuesday, is the result of eight months of forums and conferences in which members of the Maryland Commission for Women ranked legislative initiatives they will bring to the Maryland General Assembly this year.

Compassion, said commission Chairwoman Fran Tracy Mumford, is the common thread that ties the agenda together.

"If we are to have true compassion, we need our legislators to see through the eyes of others," said Mumford. "We are at a crossroads with what will be happening on a national level."

The agenda consists of about 13 initiatives falling into six categories — children's health, civil and human rights, economic self-sufficiency, education, family violence, and health and safety. And they target issues like domestic violence, child support, child abuse, sexual harassment, and the livable wage.

On behalf of the American Academy of Pediatrics, Dr. Eileen Briskon discussed two bills on the agenda to better provide children with hearing aids, which can cost as much as $2,500 each. One bill would mandate insurance companies provide hearing aids as a health benefit.

"The goal is to provide hearing aids for all children before they turn six months of age," said Briskon.

The second measure calls for the Maryland Department of Education to create hearing aid banks that will provide hearing aids for students who don't have them.

Dorothy Scott, chairwoman of the Prince George's County section of the National Council of Negro Women, talked about racial profiling. She discussed a bill, sponsored by Delegate Howard P. Rawlings, D-Baltimore, to require an individual's race be included on a driver's license and for information on traffic stops to be reported to the Attorney General.

"Maryland is not the only state that has racial profiling. . . . But we would like Maryland to be on the forefront," said Scott.

Another issue on the table is kinship care. Sen. Delores Kelley, D-Baltimore, is sponsoring a bill to provide assistance to the caregivers of children who are not the children's legal guardians and therefore don't get any aid.

This legislation is for those "lost souls who don't fit in anybody's category," said an optimistic Kelley, who noted the bill has been assigned to a "friendly committee."

Two initiatives fall under the economic self-sufficiency category. One, sponsored by the Maryland Center for Community Development, calls for banks to provide accounts for people who have low incomes. It is an issue advocates for the poor have been pushing for years.

"Every year we get close, but we lose," said Deborah Povich, a spokeswoman for the center.

The center is taking a new approach this year — a bill requiring the state to keep its money only in banks that support low-income bank accounts.

"This year we're asking the state for help," said Povich. "This is not specifically a gender issue, but women are disproportionately more among the poor."

Many of the issues are perennial ones, but one member said it doesn't matter: "We'll just keep sending it until it passes."

Blatant Abuse...

Bill Clinton will most likely go down in history as one of our more successful presidents, and perhaps rightly so, despite his immoral personal behavior. However, his final act as president, performed practically as he was walking out the Oval Office door for the last time, is one that has left a horrible taste in the mouths of many: his pardoning of billionaire fugitive Marc Rich, a man who has been on the FBI's Ten Most Wanted list for years.

This is one of the most blatant, outrageous examples of abuse of presidential power and political cronyism ever demonstrated by one of our presidents, an act which further demonstrates the egomania and lack of principles of Mr. Clinton. Rich was accused of evading $48 million in taxes (essentially money stolen from the pockets of all of us) and of doing oil business with Iran during the hostage crisis. Rich fled the country 18 years ago to avoid prosecution, and has been living a charmed life in Switzerland.

The framers of our constitution empowered the president to award pardons, but their intent was that this power would be used with great restraint, to correct an injustice or to allow a person who has paid his debt to society to be restored to full citizenship. There are some bad laws on the books, there are some bad judges, bad police officers, bad juries, and bad lawyers, any of which or a combination thereof can result in unjust or unreasonable prison sentences. A presidential pardon is a way for such an injustice to be corrected. In cases where a person is rightfully found guilty, serves his sentence, and has proven that he is ready to contribute to society in a positive way, pardons are sometimes justifiable. Of all those granted a pardon since the Carter administration in 1977, 95 percent have been to such persons who have already paid their debt to society and, for various reasons, deserve to be restored to full citizenship, to have their slate wiped clean, so to speak. Neither of these situations applies to Marc Rich, who has not even had his day in court, let alone pay a personal price if found guilty.

Clinton said that Rich's attorney, who just happens to be a former White House attorney for the Clinton administration, made "a very compelling case" for a pardon. In our opinion, what was "compelling" for Mr. Clinton was the $1 million contribution to his campaign by none other than Rich's ex-wife (who also happens to be a beautiful woman). One can only imagine what additional gifts will be received by Mr. Clinton for his pardon.

One thing we cannot imagine is the level of rage that is being felt at this moment by the FBI agents who have been assigned to Rich's case all these years, the prosecuting attorneys who worked so hard to bring him to justice, and the Americans who were held hostage in Iran, as well as their family members.

The fact that Clinton is a Democrat and this newspaper is titled The Republican has nothing to do with our decision to criticize. We would have the same reaction to this act if Clinton were a Republican. But isn't it interesting, and downright laughable, that Mr. Clinton, Mr. Gore, and many others in their party have continually labeled George W. Bush as one who caters to the rich?

Letters to the Editor

Editor's Note: The following letter is being published in this column at the request of Gary Love, director of the Garrett County Office of Solid Waste and Recycling. The letter was mailed to Love's office regarding a mistakenly disposed of garbage bag full of Christmas presents.

Dear Sir:

We would like to express our sincere thanks and appreciation for everyone's superb performance in locating the garbage bag full of Christmas presents that my husband inadvertently tossed in the dumpster at King's Run Road on Dec. 28.

Family, friends, and especially our grandchildren (who live in Glen Burnie) could not believe how everyone helped to locate this black bag. When the bag was located on Saturday, none of the gifts was damaged.

Clyde Welch, Sheridan Rishell, Bob Schrock, John Mosser, Mark Frantz, Nikki Brown, and especially Wilmer Crosco deserve to be recognized as outstanding employees. They went out of their way to help locate the bag of presents. They made us realize there are exceptional workers in Garrett County. What an outstanding job they did to locate these gifts.

Thanks to everyone at both refuse sites.

Sincerely,
Harold and Veronica Adlington

To the Editor:

It was very good to see the expanded Grantsville newsletter for the first time in last week's issue. It included a good deal of community information. I particularly appreciated learning what new books are now available at the library.

To the Editor:

I think it was a bit unfair for the editor to publish the three letters a few weeks ago from Rosetta Elsey, Cathy Elsey, and Melissa Mayle. I wrote a letter of sympathy to the Talbot family, and look what was written in the paper the following week. The letters that were written were 90 percent lies. Anyone who reads the paper knows it was lies. In their letters they wanted answers, which I provided, but my letter was never published.

To no surprise, the truth is seldom ever published. I saw no justification for the three letters to be published. My answer should have been published, because my letter was nothing but the truth!

It has really sickened me that a letter of sympathy was written and these people want to be glorified as pillars of Oakland. I was really amazed.

Mark L. Mayle

To the Editor:

You are to be commended for your editorial in the January 18 edition of The Republican. I see the same story almost daily in the newspapers here in Florida.

My wife and I owe our lives to automobile seatbelts. We were involved in a very serious car accident almost three years ago (not our fault), and EMS and police later told us the seatbelts saved our lives.

I think every newspaper editor and every journalism professor should require and teach every writer to begin an article involving an auto fatality, particularly if the passengers were not belted, "They were not wearing seatbelts."

I tell every passenger in my car that the ignition won't turn on unless all seatbelts are fastened.

To the Editor:

I am a first-time writer and getting tired of Mr. Falter's critical remarks of this county. If he is unhappy, he should go back were he came from, and that is not Garrett County.

He always finds fault with anything that happens in this county, from the major highways and bypasses to the new Wal-Mart, and if you want to go ice skating on all that water we call Deep Creek, just look out for the fisherman and snowmobiles. There is plenty of room.

We have the finest dress clothing stores like Marvin's and Rudy's, but for a working man there is nowhere in our town to buy work clothing. But I don't degrade my county.

You talk about crime. It is here and always has been, but we also have the finest local, county, and state law officers to handle this. Any employment should be welcomed to this county. Most people would love to have a job and get a pay check.

It must be great to be a founder of the Garrett County Chamber of People who can sit back and criticize everyone. We know this county is growing, and if that is not of your liking, sorry. Maybe The Republican might consider writing a story about certain loudners.

I have lived in Garrett County all my life and have seen many changes. This county has a lot of wonderful people, and friendly, too. Yes, we talk about the changes, but we also live with them.

Wal-mart is here so now you don't have to go to Cumberland or Keyser to do your shopping. Just sit back and enjoy our beautiful county and the Garrett County people in it.

P.S.: See you at Wal-Mart.

To the Editor:

The tactics that Larry Friend and his team, Ron Friend, Carolyn Corley, and Susan Parsons, used to win the Loch Lynn Town Election are shameful. The way they trashed Mayor Charles Tressler and Treasurer Robin Beckman is next to criminal. Charles Tressler has done a remarkable job for 26 years (especially with all the harassment he has had to put up with). Robin Beckman has had a lot to deal with also. She continued to be professional and thorough, especially with the trash that they have been coming up with, such as the town records being seized, and any other problems that they could provoke. Also the trash-letters they sent to some, not all, of the town residents is just that, trash.

By the way, where are our town records? The states attorney's office is finished its investigation with them, and reports that they have been returned. But where? Charles Tressler or Robin Beckman were never contacted as to what was to be done with them. Were they thrown away? Or were they turned over to someone other than Charles or Robin? No one else had the authority to receive them. What became of the records? (By the way, the state found nothing in the records to reflect any injustice or wrong-doing.)

Some of the town records were not where the town clerk thought they should be. She assumed that they were stolen. She notified Treasurer Robin Beckman, who soon afterwards notified the sheriff's office to report the missing records. She was told that the Cumberland Times-News had already contacted the sheriff's office about the lost or stolen records. How did the Cumberland Times-News get the report before our local sheriff's office was contacted? (The records were later discovered in another file cabinet.)

Larry Friend has boasted about his successful businesses. Think back! Take his electronics store. My idea of a successful business is one that serves the customers and makes a living for the owner. Not one who closes his door when the customer needs service. The Little Tikes Toy Store, the same thing, a big flop.

The day care center, Electronics Unlimited, Beitzel Corporation, WEPCO Power Station, and Little Tikes Toys. Mr. Friend's professional track record speaks for itself, and now he's running our town (this is scary!). The day care center is run by someone else, most likely why it's still in business today.

The truth is coming out, and the residents are left with a bitter taste in our mouths. What are they up to?

Larry's rules for town meetings: Residents may come to the meetings, but may not speak or ask questions, unless it's an emergency, then the resident may speak for two minutes only. What are town meetings for? One resident asked a question, and the new mayor's response was, "I don't have to answer that!" Why not?

Larry and his team felt the need to have an armed deputy baby-sit them at the town meeting (our tax dollars at work). They changed the locks on all the doors, and have covered all the windows at times of the town hall. What are they hiding?

In the election they let an old man sitting in the town hall decide which votes were counted and which ones were not. This is not the way things should be done. In a response letter dated November 29, 2000, it was stated by Larry Friend that every vote does count. If this is true, why was a vote thrown out? Absentee ballots are not to be used in special elections, but yet they were counted, even one that came in well after the poll's closing time. Where is our town going?

Now that Larry is mayor, and Ron, Carolyn, and Susan have gotten in office, I feel that they are going to go after every resident who does not bend to their every wish. Look out, Loch Lynn, we are in for some rough times!

When Larry Friend was asked about the records, his remark was, "I am in control!" When Larry was also asked about the new locks on the Loch Lynn town hall, once again his response was, "I am in control!" And when he was asked about the keys for the town hall, once again his response was, you guessed it, "I am in control!" My question is, "in control of what?"

A leader of a town should have the respect of the town people instead of ripping the town apart with deception. As for me and others in our town, I have "NO RESPECT" for a team that walks all over the town and its residents. I've raised a few questions regarding some very important issues. Residents of Loch Lynn are urged to come to the town meetings and make the new mayor and his team answer your questions.

ROBERT BURNS AND ST. PAUL

Calendar minding is a curious business. The unlikeliest chaps are birthday fellows. Two such are the bard of Scotland, Robert Burns, and St. Paul. Tonight throughout Scotland and wherever two Scots are gathered around the world, Burns will be toasted in drams of whiskey. His poems will be recited, and his songs sung. Today in Catholic churches around the world the conversion of St. Paul — another kind of birthday — is celebrated.

At first glance the poet and the apostle have little in common. Burns's poems describe fleshly joys, principally lovemaking and drinking. He lived intensely, and died in his 37th year. St. Paul, ascetic and mystic, wrote of spiritual joys. He lived intensely, and died about the age of 60.

Even in contrast the two men begin to converge. They often came up with different answers, but often by asking similar questions. Both men tried to get to the bottom of things, to figure out what is the essence of human life.

Though Burns had little time for the church, "the Scottish kirk," he never dismissed God. Strewn throughout his bawdy poems are lovely table graces which evidence a sentimental and even tender faith. In one such prayer we hear a voice of Burns to which he often reverted:

O Thou, who kindly dost provide
For ev'ry creature's want!
We bless thee, God of Nature wide,
For all thy goodness lent!

And if it please thee, heav'nly Guide,
May never worse be sent;
But whether granted or denied,
Lord, bless us with content!

However much he detested the institution of the church, it is amazing how many of its doctrines he absorbed, and recast in his lyrics. If St. Paul could read those lines he would recognize many of the themes of his own writing: thanksgiving, providence, creation, the almightiness and all goodness of God, human obedience to the divine will.

One of the great principles that St. Paul formulated, perhaps for the first time in the history of the world, is that of fundamental human equality. St. Paul wrote to the Galatians: "There is neither Jew nor Greek, there is neither bond nor free, there is neither male nor female: for ye are all one in Christ Jesus" (3:23). Burns took that truth out of the context of Christ's redemption, but he expressed the principle of equality well and often. "Then let us pray that come it may..../ That man to man the world o'er/ Shall brithers be for a' that."

I doubt very much that St. Paul shall be much invoked at the Burns's dinners this evening, or that priests have been using the poems of Robert Burns in their homilies. The exception might be in Scottish parishes of the Catholic Church. One can only go so far in comparing the two.

St. Paul was one of the great geniuses of human history, probably among the 20 most influential people ever to have lived. Burns was a lesser genius in the great scheme of things. Having made all those disclaimers, why do I admire Burns and feel a warmth of appreciation for him?

Robert Burns expressed some of the human experience better than anyone else I have ever read. He knew and expressed that it is not only life's sorrows that cause our hearts to ache, but life's joys, too. We experience the phenomenon of pain in the love between a man and a woman and the camaraderie among men. That pain he put into words in such a way that when I read or sing or hear those words, I feel the joy and the pain again.

Take your pick of love or camaraderie.

That's newly sprung in June.
O, my luve's like the melodic,
That's sweetly played in tune.

Or

Scots, wha hae wi' Wallace bled,
Scots, wham Bruce has often led,
Welcome to your gory bed,
Or to glorious victory.

And if you don't understand the second quotation, rent the film Braveheart and, I think, you will.

For my part, I shall remember both men today, the apostle and the poet. I shall exercise my spirit with the one and lift my glass with the other, but I shall pray with them now, as, I hope, they are now doing together.

Salary Study

"No other board has this kind of coverage," Hamilton said. "It seems very unfair."

The county has already passed a code change that would disallow coverage for new members of the liquor control board, but standing members continue to receive it. The salary study group recommends that all coverage be discontinued as of July 1, 2001.

Other recommendations include the elimination of the current mileage expense cap of $500 for Garrett County Board of Education members. It is recommended that all expenses incurred by members of the education board be consistent with policy, and that the education board should determine what is appropriate.

The salaries of the county board of election supervisors president and member should stay the same, the members recommend, with the president receiving $2,800 per year and the member $2,500. An increase for the alternate to $2,200 is recommended, as well as the addition of mileage coverage for all meetings.

The salary study commission did not recommend any sort of pay change for the county treasurer, as the group is in support of the commissioners' proposal to change the position from an elected post to an appointed one.

The commissioners said they will review the recommendations and that they encourage the county's citizenry to offer comments and suggestions. The record will remain open for 45 days, according to Chairman Fred Holliday, after which the commissioners will act.

Besides Hamilton, the salary study commission members and what organization each represented were as follows: Wayne Gillespie, Garrett County Advisory Committee on Education; Leonard Eiswert, Chamber of Commerce; Henrietta Lease, League of Women Voters of Garrett County; Thomas Bratton, Democratic Central Committee; Brenda Butscher, Republican Central Committee; and Mike Phillippi, Garrett County Volunteer Firemen's Association.

The members of the study commission are volunteers, receiving no monetary compensation for their work. They did note, however, that they were each given a T-shirt as a complimentary gift.

Comptroller Grills Glendening On Budget At Public Works Meeting

by Paul Schuler
Capital News Service

ANNAPOLIS — The year's first Public Works Committee opened with Comptroller William Donald Schaefer admonishing Gov. Parris N. Glendening for his spending in this year's budget.

Glendening smiled as Schaefer grilled the governor's staff about the possibility that the state would run a $356 million deficit in the coming year because the economy is expected to slow down — a number provided by the Department of Legislative Services.

Glendening's staff persisted in projecting a $6 million surplus over the next five years.

"Yon are one big spender," Schaefer said to Glendening. He called the $6 million dollar figure "propaganda."

Schaefer and Glendening, with State Treasurer Richard Dixon, comprise the board. There's little love lost between Schaefer, who preceeded Glendening as governor, and Glendening, and previous public works meetings have been marred by their acrimony.

After Schaefer finished his comments Glendening asked with a smile, "Anything else?"

There was. The tension continued when debate began on a $2.5 million project to demolish Memorial Stadium in Baltimore. The plan did not do enough to preserve the World War II memorials or create new housing, according to Schaefer. The motion to demolish the landmark passed 2-1, with Schaefer opposed.

Dixon said the stadium had been there for too long and it was time to do something about it.

"I can't believe that two intelligent people . . . would vote on this," Schaefer said. Calling Glendening intelligent was about the only nice word Schaefer had for Glendening during the committee hearing.

However, he didn't save all his animadverts for the governor. As Dixon applauded Glendening for his work in helping fund schools in his home Carroll County, Schaefer blew mock kisses in the treasurer's direction implying that he was kissing up to the governor.

Schaefer quieted during the second half of the meeting, when the board heard appeals from school districts for a part of the $266.7 million set aside in the capital budget for public school construction. Several counties, including Howard and Montgomery, said they needed extra funds to keep pace with their growing populations.

"I thought maybe Smart Growth would stop the growth of these counties," Schaefer said, continuing the day's mood. It was one of several opportunities he took to jab at Smart Growth, Glendening's signature initiative to reduce sprawl in Maryland.

Schaefer used the Montgomery delegation's presentation as an opportunity to blame Glendening's cancellation of the proposed inter-county connector, which would connect I-270 and I-95, for causing automobile accidents on narrow roads. Sen. Ida Ruben, D-Montgomery, defended the governor by saying many of her constituents also opposed the road.

"It's not because of the governor," Ruben said. "We've been behind the eight-ball because many of residents say, 'Not in my back yard.'"

A few delegates appealed on behalf of their counties' school districts by reminding the governor of their support on his previous budget requests. Sen. Larry Haines, D-Carroll, told the governor he'd voted "green" on most of Glendening's budgets, to which Schaefer replied, "I never forced anyone to vote for my budgets."

The Harford County delegation tried another tactic to impress the board. The members gave Dixon, Schaefer and Glendening Ravens T-shirts and dolls.

"I think your proposal is looking better by the moment," Glendening said with a smile.

The board finally worked through all the school jurisdiction requests, from Anne Arundel to Worcester counties. Delegate Bennett Bozman, D-Worcester, complained about the alphabetical order of proposals, saying his county always wound up getting the scraps. Worcester County has been trying to get $3.8 million for three years, but has yet to see the money.

"If you're always the last to ask, you're going to get cut out of the money," Bozman said.

Boznian wasn't the only one upset by the proceedings. When a member of the St. Mary's County delegation asked if the board was having a good day, Glendening and Dixon politely nodded while Schaefer muttered, "I'm not."

Firefighters Seeking Hike In Motor Vehicle Registration Fees

by Eric Kelderman
Capital News Service

ANNAPOLIS - Maryland's fire and rescue personnel are pushing the General Assembly for a $6 increase in the biennial $70 motor vehicle registration fee to bolster state funding for emergency services. The money for the fund comes primarily from auto license fees. Fire and rescue's $16 share of the fee has not increased since 1992.

"We have no other place to go (for money) unless we have another carnival, another dinner, another bingo," said Charles Mattingly, vice president of the Maryland State Firemen's Association.

The emergency fund will get more than $35 million from license fees this year, but it will expend about $45 million for services and equipment. Some of the difference will be offset by other sources, but the fund is projecting a $5.6 million shortfall at the end of fiscal 2002.

A provision in this year's budget could mean an even greater financial problem. If the fee is not increased, according to the budget contingency, fire and rescue loses another $13 million.

The fee increase would raise $12.7 million next year and would keep the fund in the black until 2013.

The Emergency Medical System Operations Fund dispenses money to six programs: helicopter transport, a shock trauma center in Baltimore, statewide coordination and training of rescue personnel, county rescue equipment purchases, and a low-interest loan for county fire and rescue companies.

Members of four state associations of fire and rescue personnel pleaded their case to Southern Maryland legislators Friday morning. Assembly members were sympathetic, but had some concerns.

"It's difficult to justify raising fees when the state has a surplus," said Delegate Anthony O'Donnell, R-Calvert. Legislators also were perplexed the governor did not use some of the $375 million surplus to boost emergency medical funding.

Mark Wasserman from the University of Maryland Medical System said surplus funds depend too much on the fortunes of the economy. Wasserman asked the legislators for a more consistent source of money to maintain the widespread and high quality services that are provided in Maryland.

He served as a member of the Garrett County Board of Management for six years, serving most recently as its president. ALL THE PRETTY HORSES

I get the impression that every once in a while every actor (and perhaps every director) feels the need to add an old-style western film to his or her list of projects. Matt Damon, who has risen to the pinnacle of stardom in such decidedly non-western movies as Good Will Hunting, Saving Private Ryan, and The Talented Mr. Ripley, puts the requisite notch in his belt with All The Pretty Horses, a romantic tale set in 1949 about a man who seeks the rugged life of a cowboy and finds heartache and hardship to be his most constant companions. The same belt-notching action is evident by co-star Henry Thomas, director Billy Bob Thornton (Sling Blade) and writer Ted Tally (Silence Of The Lambs), none of whom has done a great deal of work west of the Mississippi so far.

What emerges from this team of greenhorns is a perfectly serviceable piece of cinema, but one not particularly astounding in any way, most likely because the heart and soul of the novel by Cormac McCarthy had to be excised for the sake of brevity. The sweeping nature of the production and the life-changing effect of events on the main character betrays a much richer story, but in order to fit it into the necessary 2-hour time slot, some major slicing must have taken place. The result is somehow frustrating, unfulfilling . . . one is unable to reconcile the gravity of the plot with the glossed-over quality of its presentation.

Damon plays John Grady Cole, a young Texas rancher whose divorced father has just passed away, leaving his entire estate to his ex-wife who intends to sell the huge parcel of land to an oil company. With no ties binding him, John decides to seek work as a cowboy in Mexico, where (at least in 1949) "it isn't all fenced in and marked off." Joined by his best friend, Lacey Rawlins (Thomas), the two men steal a pair of horses from what used to be John's property and head south. Soon after they cross the border, they land a job on the expansive ranch of the wealthy and prominent Don Hector Rocha y Villareal (Ruben Blades), and impress everyone with their ability to break 16 horses in 4 days. I think my kid did that once when we gave him a cowboy toy set for his birthday.

Rocha invites John to assist him in some horse-breeding decisions; however, when John starts getting romantically involved with Rocha's beautiful daughter Alejandra (Penelope Cruz), he gets in trouble with her protective aunt (Miriam Colon). Before long, thanks to their previous association with an outlaw named Jimmy Blevins (Lucas Black), John and Lacey find themselves in a Mexican prison, fighting for their lives against not only the abusive guards, but the other prisoners.

This film has all the hallmarks of a good western (horses, gunfights, Mexican senioritas, tortilla chips), and it seems well-researched for the period. Damon and his supporting cast all display good work. It is full of sweeping, beautiful vistas and music that reminds me of an old Marlboro commercial (you know, from back when they were allowed on TV). But the story seems rushed, and therefore somehow unappealing. We are not given enough time to fall in love with Alejandra along with John, so we can't see why he's so willing to put his life on the line for her. We don't know the history of the relationship between John and Lacey, so we don't know why they're so attached. And young Lucas Black, who played opposite director Thornton in Sling Blade, spends just enough time on the screen to get us interested before he disappears. As its childlike title suggests, All The Pretty Horses is pleasing to the eye, but it lacks the character(s) to make it memorable. ★★★½

DOUBLE TAKE

I think Double Take would have worked much better as a simple buddy comedy, without trying to have the plot of a serious thriller. While its stars, Orlando Jones and Eddie Griffin, work well together, the overly complex story line and huge cast tend to muddle the effect. This is compounded by writer/director George Gallo's attempt to cram all these elements into a 1½-hour time period — more evidence that he intended the film to be a comedy. I remember feeling the same way about the 1997 Bill Murray film The Man Who Knew Too Little: forget the intricate subplots, just let the comic do his thing.

In this extremely elaborate script by director Gallo, based on the 1957 screenplay Across the Bridge by Guy Elmes and Denis Freeman (which was itself based on the story by novelist Graham Greene), Wall Street banker Daryl Chase (Jones) finds himself caught up in an elaborate international FBI sting operation. Just after one of Chase's Mexican banking clients (Shawn Elliott) has made a questionably large deposit in his account, he meets Freddy Tiffany (Griffin), a fast-talking street hustler whom he takes as a common thief. Before long, thanks to an apparent triple murder in which Daryl is implicated, he and Freddy are on the run from the law. At Freddy's suggestion, they switch clothes (and identies) in order to allow Daryl to get on a train to Mexico, where he will be beyond the jurisdiction of the American FBI, until the situation can be worked out. This includes some amusing hits with Freddy instructing Daryl how to speak, eat, and act like he's "from the projects" instead of a wealthy, cultured banking executive.

As the story progresses, Freddy turns out to be himself an FBI agent (or so he says), assigned to protect Daryl from the bad guys. But CIA agent McCready (Gary Gruhbs) tells him that Freddy is a villain, and Freddy tells him that McCready is the villain, and as Daryl makes his way to Mexico, disguised as Freddy, he begins to wonder whom he can trust. And indeed, it becomes increasingly questionable who is the villain here. Is it Freddy? Is it McCready? Is it director Gallo? Or Touchstone Pictures?

This film reminded me somewhat of the 1976 Gene Wilder/Richard Pryor film Silver Streak, which included Pryor teaching Wilder how to "act black," and which took place in large part on a train. However, that film successfully blended comedy and murder/thriller elements by not overcomplicating itself with the "who's the bad guy" scenario. There are so many double- and triple-agents in this film, one loses track. It seems as if there is an internal conflict between Gallo the writer and Gallo the director, or perhaps he just wants to have his cake and eat it too. His scenes in "thriller mode" act at cross purposes to the buddy comedy situation, causing both elements to suffer. Double Take is fun but frustrating: yet another perfect example of January fare. ★★★

Capital Budget

items, which are subject to the joint Spending and Affordability Committee's recommended limits, McCulloch said.

The committee's limits would require a $208.6 million reduction in the governor's operating budget, according to the Office of Policy Analysis in the Department of Legislative Services.

The state's dwindling surplus also concerns legislators worried about the unprecedented spending. The state surplus was nearly $1 billion last year and is expected to be $375 million this year. Glendening plans to add this year's surplus to $557 million in reserve funds to create a $932-million pool for one-time projects.

Although Republican lawmakers would prefer to reduce spending, the increase in capital spending does not worry them as much as the increase in the governor's proposed operating budget. Senate Minority Leader Martin G. Madden, R-Howard, said Republicans would rather see money spent on one-time capital projects than on projects requiring years of funding.

"Our preference as a caucus . . . is to keep it in our reserve fund," he said. "We should be adding to our reserve fund, not depleting it."

Glendening's budget would leave a reserve fund balance of $663 million at the end of the 2002 fiscal year, $168 million more than necessary to maintain the state's AAA bond rating.

Cash is the largest source of revenue for the capital budget, said Glendening. His budget allocates about $604 million from pay-as-you-go funds for capital projects for the 2002 fiscal year; 40 percent of the budget would come from those funds. The 2001 budget used $594.5 million in pay-as-you-go funds, while the 2000 fiscal year budget had $306.5 million in cash general funds.

"I believe this is what we should be using the surplus for," said the governor, adding that cash payments save the state the cost of interest payments.

The general fund for capital projects is projected to decrease significantly for the 2003 fiscal year — from $603.7 million to about $109 million, McCulloch said. However, he said, that's not a dire prediction for the state's future.

"It's going to decrease to more normal levels," he said. "We've had an unusual amount of construction funding in the last few years."

Using cash payments from the general fund prevents the state from incurring more debt. The state's outstanding debt stands at nearly $3.6 billion, according to David Juppe, manager for the operating budget in the Department of Legislative Services, and it is not projected to increase significantly.

Four Marylanders Included In Clinton's Flurry Of Pardons

by Robert F. Patrick
Capital News Service

WASHINGTON - Four Maryland men were included in the flurry of pardons and commutations that President Clinton signed on his last day of office, the Department of Justice reported. Three men were pardoned, including one who was convicted of selling classified photographs of a Soviet aircraft carrier to a defense publication, and a fourth had his nearly 20-year sentence for drug charges commuted to the eight years he had served.

Justice Department documents do not list the reasons for the pardons and commutations or the groups that may have lobbied the Oval Office in support of them. But an attorney for one of the pardoned men said the pardon process is meant for people like his client.

"There was an aberrant moment in the otherwise exemplary life of a hard-working family man," Steven A. Allen said of his client, Vinson Stewart Poling Jr. of Baldwin. Poling pleaded guilty to making a false bank entry and was fined and sentenced in 1980 to two years' probation. Poling was not available for comment.

"Vince is very grateful that his many years of hard work have been recognized and resulted in the pardon," Allen said. "Vince earned this. Not a single political string was pulled."

Allen said the pardon process involves an application, an FBI investigation, and a long wait. He said the pardon essentially washes a conviction clean. All civil rights are restored, and the men can now say that they have not been convicted of a felony.

Also pardoned was Richard Anthony De Labio of Baltimore, who was fined and sentenced to two year's probation on a mail fraud charge. He could not be reached and a family member declined to comment, but Donald Bollhorst, who testified at De Labio's trial, said the case involved "a problem with trucking companies and truck drivers that he represented."

The highest-profile Maryland pardon was the case of Samuel Loring Morison, convicted in 1985 of selling classified photographs to Jane's Defence Weekly, a defense industry publication.

Morison was a Navy intelligence analyst and an editor of "Jane's Fighting Ships," a reference book on naval vessels, at the time of his arrest. The Washington Post reported in 1985 that Morison supplied information and photographs of U.S. and foreign vessels for years in his role as editor, which the Navy allowed as long as the information had been published or was generally publicly available.

Morison was charged with theft and espionage, one of the first times the espionage statute was used to prosecute someone who gave information to the media rather than a foreign power. He served two years in prison and is currently a free-lance journalist and historian who writes for Navy-oriented publications. He lives in Crofton but could not be reached for comment Wednesday.

Derrick Curry had his sentence commuted by Clinton to time served since his 1993 sentencing on charges of conspiring to distribute crack cocaine. He still has five years of supervised release, including drug testing, ahead of him.

Curry has been held up as a symbol of the injustice of mandatory minimum sentences and the discrepancy between sentences for crack and powder cocaine. His name was on the short lists of groups that were lobbying for pardons for those convicted of low-level drug offenses.

Grant For State's Disabled Is Not Sufficient, Advocates Say

by Maya Jackson
Capital News Service

ANNAPOLIS — Single, adult Marylanders with disabilities will get $53 more each month, thanks to Gov. Parris N. Glendening's budget proposal announced Tuesday, but advocates for the disabled are saying thanks, but that's hardly enough.

The 40 percent grant increase for the Transitional Emergency Medical and Housing Assistance program is part of the governor's Marylanders in Need initiative.

"We want to give them a helping hand. Advocates have requested the funding and there is a great need for it," said Raquel Guillory, a spokeswoman for the governor.

But many advocates for the disabled still remember the governor's attempt to eliminate the cash assistance program five years ago, and the grant is the first 'substantial' increase for this population in 11 years, they said.

"In past years, the governor hasn't been very understanding of sick, needy adults," said Kevin Lindamood, community relations coordinator for Health Care for the Homeless.

After eliminating the cash assistance program for single, disabled individuals in 1995, the governor only reinstated the program after intense public pressure, Lindamood said.

"About 15 activists took over the governor's office and refused to leave. Four were arrested," Lindamood recalled of the backlash.

Since then, the governor has increased the grant for single, disabled individuals, but, as Laura Howell, public policy director for the Center for Poverty Solutions, said his increases have been in "very small increments." Many advocates for the disabled say a single, disabled person should be treated as a one- person family under the Temporary Cash Assistance program. By their calculations, such a family would receive $284 per month.

In fact, organizations including Health Care for the Homeless and the Center for Poverty Solutions formed the ACCESS Coalition to advocate specifically for single, disabled individuals, whom they say legislators often overlook.

Their monthly stipend is $132, or about $4.40 a day. If approved by legislators, the new grant would be $185 per month, about $100 less than the advocates' goal. The stipend goes to more than 11,500 recipients statewide, most of whom reside in Baltimore.

"Is $185 enough?" Lindamood asked. "Certainly not. Just the cost of a one-bedroom apartment is much more than that."

Still, advocates for the disabled must focus on urging supportive legislators to keep the $53 increase in the budget. Legislators, including Sen. Thomas M. Middleton, D-Charles, seem to be optimistic.

"I'm going to be very supportive of it," Middleton said. "The state is still enjoying good economic times and the less fortunate need a little care, too."

Terra Alta July 4 Event To Be Meeting Topic

A community-wide forum on the Terra Alta July 4th Celebration, plus a discussion of what items should be included in the soon-to-be-developed Terra Alta Internet web site, are the two principal topics for the next general membership meeting of the Terra Alta Economic Development Corporation, set for 7 p.m. Tuesday, Feb. 13, at the Terra Alta Volunteer Fire Department building. Representatives of the Terra Alta VFD will be present to participate in the forum.

According to a spokesperson for the TAEDC, all interested persons, whether members or not, are encouraged to attend this meeting and get involved. TAEDC, a new organization begun in early December, already has a paid membership exceeding 40 persons. Membership is open to any and all residents of the Terra Alta region.

This will be the first meeting of the general membership of this new organization since election of officers in December. Those officers are: Chas Minor (Homes for All Seasons), president; Debbie McKee, secretary; Rich Hopkins (Pioneer Press), secretary; and Charles Thomas, treasurer. Other board members are Kiley Royce (Get 'n Go), Ken Frankhouser (Terra Alta Bank), and Mary Jo Gregg (Gregg's Pharmacy).

Ideas are being solicited on how to improve the July 4th celebration, and to include additional activities and the involvement of more individuals and organizations in the planning processes. The TAEDC is seeking input on how it can best support the event, and lend assistance to the TAVFD in its ongoing management of the celebration.

A second and equally important topic for this meeting is a discussion of subject matter for the planned Terra Alta Internet web site. How the site will be set up and managed, and what should and should not be included will be discussed.

In that regard, the TAEDC board is seeking applications from individuals with the requisite skills for developing such a web site. This work is envisioned as an ongoing part-time effort, and TAEDC does anticipate the need to pay for these services. Interested web site developers are encouraged to send a resume to the TAEDC, P.O. Box 263, Terra Alta, WV 26764. It should arrive on or before Feb. 8 for consideration by the board. Though local residency is not mandatory, the TAEDC board has stated that it will give preferential consideration to individuals living in the Terra Alta region, providing they can demonstrate the requisite skills.

AURORA PIONEERS

The Aurora Pioneers 4-H Club held its January meeting at the home of leader Stacy Fint. The club members decided to continue their "Yard of the Month" community project in March because of the winter weather and snow-covered yards. Scott Fields presented a report on the Christmas tree-lighting ceremony that club members participated in. Project books for the coming year were distributed. Stacy Fint spoke about the importance of sending thank-you notes.

The February meeting of the Aurora Pioneers 4-H Club will include a Valentine's Day bake-off.

Adorable Adoptables

ALMOST LIFE SIZE — These photos may be small, like the subjects, but the adoptables shown here are big in heart. The 8-week-old kitten at the left is a male who has a sibling that is also seeking a home, while the young adult female terrier mix at the right is named Molly. The black dog has unique coloring, as she sports a white goatee and one white paw. Kitty and Molly are both available for adoption through the Garrett County Animal Shelter, which may be reached for more information at 301-334-3553.

A GOLDEN-EYED BROWNIE — Brownie is a 9-month-old mixed breed with golden eyes who is available for adoption through the Garrett County Humane Society. His milk chocolate brown-colored upper body melts into a honey-colored underside accented by a splash of creamy white on his chest. (Sounds delicious - more like a doughnut than a dog.) Any readers interested in providing a home for this snow-loving pup are asked to contact the humane society at 301-334-2699.

Pianist Richard Farmer Returning To Mountaintop

Mountaintop 2001 will once again headline award-winning vocalist and pianist Richard Allen Farmer in concert at "A Festival in Celebration of The Great I Am." This 15th annual getaway conference for men and women will be held March 2-4 at Lakeview Scanticon Resort in Morgantown, W.Va.

Dr. Farmer is dean of the chapel at Taylor University in Upland, Ind. Prior to this appointment, he resided in Dallas, and was in full-time ministry as a Bible expositor and concert artist. He formerly served as pastor of Bethany Baptist Church in Pittsburgh and dean of the chapel at Gordon College in Wenham, Mass.

Having ministered to congregations on every continent but Antarctica, Farmer continues to travel throughout the world with the goal of "making the Scriptures and Christian music come alive for audiences." Several recordings of his music have been produced, and he has written a hands-on-approach book on creativity, It Won't Fly If You Don't Try.

In addition to the concert, Dr. Farmer will lead a seminar, "Grandparenting: Task or Glory," in which he'll explore the nature of this special intergenerational relationship by looking at both the joy and the hard work of being a grandchild and a grandparent.

"Since our first conference in 1987, Richard Allen Farmer has played a prominent role in each of the Mountaintop weekends. Attendees look forward to his concerts with great anticipation because he is not only a gifted musician, but he has a wonderful sense of humor and is an inspirational communicator. It's an added bonus that he'll be leading a seminar!" said Anne Robinson, co-founder of Living for Christ Conferences, the nonprofit sponsor.

The featured speaker for this conference is Dan Doriani, professor of New Testament at Covenant Theological Seminary in St. Louis. An author and highly sought-after speaker, Dr. Doriani will speak at five sessions during the weekend on the topic "A Heart for the Gospel, Hands for the Kingdom."

"Mountaintop is one of only a handful of similar events in the country, in that it's not affiliated with any church and is for both men and women of all ages," said Robinson. "Our goal is to provide an atmosphere away from the rush and strain of life, where folks can be challenged to grow spiritually." Nearly 3,000 people have participated in this event since its founding. It has been described as the "spiritual highlight of my year" and "life-changing" by former attendees.

Conference rates, including all programs, four meals, and two nights' lodging, begin at $176 per person (four to a room). For more information or to register, Living for Christ Conferences may be contacted at 304-455-5322 or visited on its web site at living4Christ.com.

"Bubba" Scheffel Wins Title At Nationals In Oklahoma

An individual national championship at the Tulsa (Okla.) Nationals, widely considered the "toughest youth wrestling tournaments in the world," was the highlight of the week, and the season thus far, of the Southern Mat Club, as 7-year-old Jakob "Bubba" Scheffel had a perfect day on the mats and won the gold medal in his division.

Scheffel, a son of George and Antta Scheffel, Oakland, did not have a single point scored against him in his three matches, as his wins included a 7-0 shutout, a pin against a wrestler from Iowa, and a 14-0 thrashing of his opponent from Oklahoma in the title bout.

"Winning first place at Tulsa is quite a feat," stated SMC coach Dave Taylor. "The wrestling community considers Tulsa Nationals champions to be the best of the best," adding that wrestlers from nearly every state in the country participate in this event, which is held every January.

Also representing the SMC were Jakob's brother, George "Brutus" Scheffel, and Justin Ratliff, both of whom finished an impressive seventh place in their respective divisions. Each won six matches and lost two by close margins.

"The experience was great, and the kids performed as well or better than we expected," stated George Scheffel, parent and assistant coach. "The losses by these two boys could have easily gone the other way, and they both beat some top quality athletes.

"Everyone needs to know that these boys did not reach their level of success in Tulsa by themselves," Scheffel continued. "They have great teammates to practice with and great coaches to train them. Without the rest of the team to push them toward the top, Bubba would not have won first place and Brutus and Justin would not have placed as high as seventh. It's that simple."

Coach Taylor added, "Bubba now has a bull's eye on his back, though. Every kid he wrestles from here on out will work extra hard to beat the Tulsa champ. I know Bubba will rise to the occasion, though."

Members of the Southern Mat Club competed in two other tournaments over the weekend, as four youth wrestled in Mt. Pleasant, Pa., on Saturday, three competed in Waynesburg, Pa., on Saturday, and two wrestled in Waynesburg on Sunday.

Scott Wildesen, Jeremy Gregory, Gavin Murphy, and Coty Rasel competed in Mt. Pleasant, Pa., on Saturday, and Gregory, Murphy, and Rasel each won all of their individual bouts to earn first-place trophies. Wildesen made it to the final round before dropping the championship match and finishing in second place.

Dillon Bennett, Ryan Bennett, and Ryan Fitzwater competed in Waynesburg on Saturday. Both Bennett boys defeated all of their competitors to claim first-place honors. Dillon Bennett had a very tough bracket, and his wins included a come-from-behind 8-7 victory in the finals. Fitzwater was entered in two separate groups and placed second in both.

On Sunday, Jeremy Gregory and Scott Wildesen traveled through the snow to Waynesburg for yet another competition. Gregory pinned all of his opponents to win his second championship trophy of the weekend, while Wildesen won two of four bouts to finish the day in fourth place.

"It was an incredible weekend," commented Coach Taylor. "The successes of those who competed this weekend are shared by their team members, who practice together day in and day out. One kid does not reach this level alone. It takes teamwork, and I am proud to say that is the Southern Mat Club's strongest asset."

This weekend, the team will travel together as a group to Buckhannon, W.Va., for more tournament action. The team will host its own tournament at Southern High School on February 10. The season continues through March.

For more information on the SMC, persons may contact Coach Taylor at 301-334-3855 or club president Ed Wildesen at 301-334-8785.

'Cudas, Mettiki, Quality Machine All Rec. Winners

Two of the three Recreation Basketball League contests of this weekend went down to the wire, as the Barracudas edged Gonder Insurance in a high-scoring 78-77 battle and Mettiki bested Bosley Construction by a bucket, 48-46. Patterson Boat Company's 58-45 victory over Quality Machine rounded out the action.

The Barracudas' one-point triumph over Gonder Insurance featured high scoring on both sides of the court. Mike Browning netted 31 points for the victors and teammate Richie DeWitt contributed 17 points, while Jason Shank and Denny Skeweris had 37 and 18 points, respectively, for Gonder Insurance.

Mike Saturday's 17 points led Mettiki to its win over Bosley Construction. Gary Newcomb added a dozen points for the winners, while Danny Bosley scored 11 points for Bosley Construction.

Patterson Boat Company relied on 15 points by Bill Franklin and 14 points by Max Hill to net its 13-point win over Quality Machine, which was paced by Stan Eggleston's 21-point performance.

Game times for Recreation League action of this Sunday will depart from the norm because of the evening kickoff of the Super Bowl. Patterson Boat Company will go up against Mettiki at 3 p.m., at 4 p.m. Bosley Construction and Gonder Insurance will square off, and at 5 p.m. the Barracudas will take on Quality Machine.

Elks Hoop Shoot Results Noted

The first round of the national Elks Hoop Shoot competition took place at Southern High School last weekend. Twenty-eight area youngsters from the ages of 8 through 13 took part in the event, which draws over 3 million participants nationwide each year. The winners of last weekend's competition will advance to an upcoming regional competition in Hagerstown.

Michael Hardesty placed first in the boys' 8-9-year-old competition, with Benjamin Myers placing second and Ryan Sweitzer placing third. Receiving the first-place trophy for the girls was Anna Marie Keefer.

The 10-11 boys' category ended with Timothy Reams finishing first, Zachary Keefer second, and Tyler Ewing third. Emma Ringer placed first for the girls', with Juliana Sheets second and Brittany Scheffel third.

The 12-13 boys' competition saw first-place winner Matt Skidmore sinking a contest-high 9 out of 25 free throws. Rounding out the category were runner-up Jason Wakefield and third-place finisher Joseph Albert. Girls' competition in the category featured a winning performance by Jasmine Scheffel, while Bridget Collins finished second and Felisha Collins came in third.

From the millions of youngsters who participate, six national champions will eventually emerge, one boy and one girl in each of the three age categories. Those winners will each receive a trophy, and their names will be inscribed at the Naismith Memorial Basketball Hall of Fame, located in Springfield, Mass.

The first Elks Hoop Shoot took place in 1946 as a local Elks activity in Corvallis, Ore. It was first established as a national contest in 1971, with boys from 19 states participating. Two years later 750,000 boys from 42 states participated. In 1974 girls were invited to take part. At this point all 50 states and the District of Columbia are now represented.

The "Elks Hoop Shoot has been endorsed by numerous coaches, educators, and parents. "The Shoot teaches a person how to win in good grace and how to accept the moment of defeat without bitterness," one parent wrote to the organizers. The national free-throw contest is largest of the many youth activities sponsored by Elks lodges throughout the country.

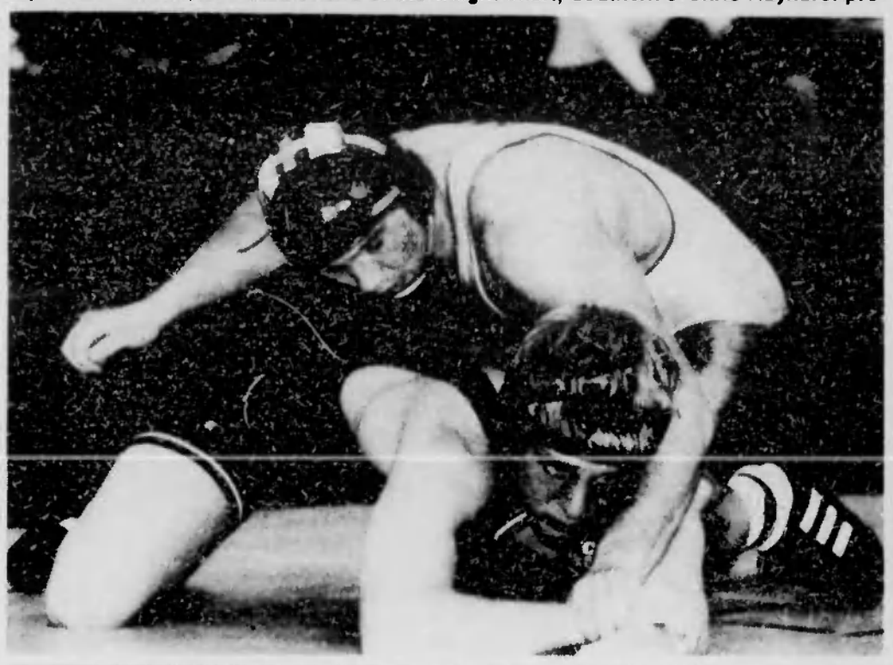
IT WAS DOWN TO THE WIRE in last Thursday's second wrestling clash of the season between the Northern Huskies and the Southern Rams, as the heavily favored Huskies held just a 29-26 lead going into the final bout of the evening. Southern's heavyweight Brad Palmer provided an outstanding effort against Northern's Trey Brenneman in that clash, but Brenneman held on for a 3-2 win to secure the team victory for the Huskies, who are ranked the fourth best team (all size high schools) in the state. The photo above left is one of the Palmer-Brenneman bout, with Brenneman on top. Above center, at the other end of the weight chart, Southern's Chris Hayhurst proceeds to pin Adam DeWitt in the 103-pound division. Above right, undefeated Blake Huber of Northern, currently tied for first in the entire state in his division, controls Southern's Justin Gregory in the 119-pound match-up. Below left, Northern's Mark Wolf, also unbeaten on the year and ranked second in the state, does battle with Andrew Grant of Southern in the 171-pound class. Wolf defeated Grant, but not via a pin, which gave Southern another shot at the team victory. Below right, Jeremy Lear of Southern has his way with Northern's Kris Knox in the 145-pound contest. See story for details. Photos courtesy of Doi Carpenter.



Husky-Ram Wrestling Meet Comes Down To Last Bout

The wrestling team of Northern High School, reigning state 1A/2A champions and currently ranked fourth in the state among schools of all sizes, had all it could handle last Thursday night with cross-county rival Southern, as the outcome of the match came down to the final bout of the evening. That final bout was won by Trey Brenneman by a single point to give the Huskies a 32-26 team victory.

The Rams were defeated by the Huskies just seven days earlier in Oakland by a 41-25 margin, but Southern coach Kurt Lear changed his strategy by moving some of his heavier wrestlers to other divisions, and it nearly earned the Rams the upset. Also helping the Southern effort was the fact that some of the Rams' wins were by pins rather than decisions, and some of their losses were by decisions rather than pins, unlike the previous week. The Huskies, however, were also hampered by influenza, as several members of the team were battling various stages of a viral condition.

Recording the only pins of the evening for the Huskies were Blake Huber in the 112-pound division and Pete Stem in the 119-pound clash, while Southern's Chris Hayhurst (103), Jeremy Hayhurst (160), and John Hayhurst (189) each earned pins for the Rams.

Getting decisions for Northern were Dan Ganoe (125), Darric Kamp (130), Jeremiah Guard (140), Brandon Kamp (152), Mark Wolf (171), and in the deciding match, Brenneman with a narrow 3-2 win over Southern's Brad Palmer in the heavyweight bout.

A significant "victory" for the Rams was Andrew Grant's ability to not be pinned by Mark Wolf, ranked second in the state this week in the 171-pound division. A pin by Wolf would have sealed the team win at that point.

The score was 29-26 in favor of Northern when Palmer and Brenneman squared off in the heavyweight clash, meaning that Palmer would have had to record either a major decision, technical fall, or pin to give his team the victory. A simple decision would have tied the score at 29-29, but the Huskies would have been declared the team winner since they would have still led in matches won (7-6).

Rams recording decisions were Nick Sines (135) and Jeremy Lear (145).

It was the 10th win in 11 dual matches for the Huskies, while Southern dropped to 5-4.

Still ranked in first place in the state this week in their respective weight divisions are Huskies Blake Huber (two-way tie), and Southern's Jeremy and John Hayhurst. Wolf is ranked second, as is Pete Stein of Northern, while Huskies Guard and Brenneman are listed among the honorable mentions.

The Huskies went on to defeat Meyersdale last night (see other story), will compete in the annual Bedford Tournament this Friday and Saturday, and will host Westmar next Wednesday. The Rams were scheduled to entertain Beall this evening, but they will instead compete in a quadrangular match with Beall, Musselman, and Warren County at Musselman. They will host Beall next Wednesday.

NORTHERN (32)
SOUTHERN (26)

103 - Chris Hayhurst (S) pinned Adam DeWitt 3:33.
112 - Blake Huber (N) pinned Justin Gregory 3:19.
119 - Pete Stein (N) pinned Mike Steyer 3.23.
125 - Dan Ganoe (N) dec. Joe Ashby 5-2.
130 - Darric Kamp (N) dec. Jason Weeks 16-0 (tech fall).
135 - Nick Sines (S) dec. Jordan Brenneman 11-3.

In Loving Memory of Wife and Mother
Rose Willielm
on her birthday
Jan. 26, 1919 - Sept. 30, 2000

A birthday is a special day
For those whom we love.
So God, take this loving birthday
Wish to the heavens above.
And tell our mom we love her
And miss her more each day
If we could change one single thing.
We would bring her home to stay
Our nights and days are lonely.
And life is so hard to bear
Because we always had the feeling
Our mother would always be there
To dry our tears and make us smile
And make our life so worthwhile.
We look into the heavens
And see your shining star.
And know that you're watching over us.
No matter where we are.
You're in our thoughts...
And our minds
Each second of the day
Our love will always be with you.
Even though you're far away
